WHEN in its December 1944 number College and Research Libraries adopted a type-page similar to that of the A.L.A. Bulletin, the thought was to issue three ninety-six-page numbers and one sixty-four-page number per year and thus to reduce paper consumption while presenting annually the customary amount of printed matter. Pressure for space, however, has rendered a deviation from this plan desirable for Volume VI. The present ninety-six-page number, taking the place of an expected sixty-four-page issue, has become possible through the action of the A.C.R.L. Board of Directors in authorizing an additional appropriation.

Maurice F. Tauber and Byron C. Hopkins are continuing to give assistance in the editorial conduct of College and Research Libraries.
