MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF TEACHERS OF ENGLISH
FALL CONFERENCE 2003

CONNECTIONS MAKE A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 2003

8:30-4:00

LANSING CENTER, LANSING, MI

Keynote Speaker:

Christopher Paul Curtis

Author of Newbery Award winning The Watsons go to Birmingham, 1963 and Bud, Not Buddy

It's all about connections! Everything we do inside and outside our classrooms involves them. The connections we make that both inspire and support us in our journeys have lasting and far-reaching effects. We do this without acknowledging it—even to ourselves. It's time to pause, recognize, and celebrate the interconnectedness of learning.

Consider our own personal connections—with our students, each other, ourselves with the profession, with our reading and writing, with pedagogy and research.

Connections we help our students form—with literature, with writing, with their peers, with mentors with other classrooms, with the world outside of the classroom.

Tell us how connections serve you and/or your classroom. We invite proposals that look at the many ways we can form connections and how those connections nurture and invigorate our teaching.

Presentations will be fifty minutes long and may involve varying modes: lecture/discussion, demonstration, or workshop. If you would like to propose a conference session, please fill out and return the proposal form on the reverse side of this page to

Dr. Susan Steffel

4521 Oakwood Drive

Okemos, MI 48864.

MCTE does not provide honoraria or expenses. All presenters must register for the conference.

LANGUAGE ARTS JOURNAL OF MICHIGAN

THE SCHOLARLY JOURNAL OF THE
MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF TEACHERS OF ENGLISH

CALL FOR MANUSCRIPTS

FALL/WINTER 2003

CELEBRATING TEACHING IN MICHIGAN

We intend to make this issue a celebration of the voices of English language arts in Michigan. We encourage teachers of all levels to share their stories of teaching. We are particularly interested in stories and articles that contextualize teaching within our state as well as those that encourage discussion about Michigan culture, literature, and writing.

We also, however, encourage articles that exemplify strong teaching of English language arts within Michigan -- practices of teaching literature, writing, and language that deserve celebration.

Deadline: July 15, 2003

SPRING/SUMMER 2004

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

How do we best prepare new teachers of English language arts? And how do we best support those teachers once they are teaching? How can experienced teachers continue to develop their careers and teaching knowledge? What effect have federal and state mandates had on our profession as teachers of English language? And how can we best lobby for effective support from local, state, and federal agencies and organizations?

These are just a few of the questions we seek to consider in this issue. We are particularly interested in learning about school or district projects that support teaching. Discussions about technology, reading, testing, or other key issues in contemporary teaching are encouraged. We also encourage narratives from experienced teachers describing their own means of staying 'on top' of our field.

Deadline: January 15, 2004
