Letter of Congratulations and Introduction

On behalf of the University, I want to congratulate the McNair Scholars on the research and hard work that is reflected in this, the first Grand Valley State University McNair Scholars Journal. The hard work and vision represented have created a standard that is representative of the University.

We owe our success first and foremost to you the students as the first scholars. The student research abstracts reflect all your commitment and ours to producing scholars who will benefit their respective communities as well as society. As a McNair Scholar, you represent the very best that academia has to offer and your work promises a bright future for our country. We look forward to seeing each of the undergraduate researchers become the leaders, professors, and scholars of tomorrow.

We also warmly thank all the faculty who have provided many hours serving as mentors and assisting you in your research effort.
