

ABSTRACT:

The demand for rapid data integration is getting higher as more and more information sources appear in modern enterprises. Extensible Mark-up Language (XML) is fast becoming the new standard for data representation and exchange on the World Wide Web, e.g., in B2B e-commerce, making it necessary for data analysis tools to handle XML data as well as traditional data formats.