Serving Limited English Proficient Clients

Abstract

When serving walk-ins, the goal is to provide the same services, information and referrals as we would provide to the English-speaking public. This is true whether the walk-in ultimately turns out to be eligible for our services or not. When in doubt, ask yourself what services, information or referrals you would provide to an English speaking person in the same situation. Then make sure the Limited English Proficient person gets that same service, information or referrals.

Serving Limited English Proficient People who walk-in for services

When serving walk-ins, the goal is to provide the same services, information and referrals as we would provide to the English-speaking public. This is true whether the walk-in ultimately turns out to be eligible for our services or not. When in doubt, ask yourself what services, information or referrals you would provide to an English speaking person in the same situation. Then make sure the Limited English Proficient person gets that same service, information or referrals.

PROCEDURE FOR SERVING LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENT WALK-INS:

- Determine whether the person is limited English proficient. If a person speaks English less than very well, consider him or her limited English proficient. Even if the person knows some English, this does not mean he or she can understand enough to receive the full benefit of our services, information or referrals without help from an interpreter. If the person is limited English proficient, go to Step 2.
- 2. Identify the person's language. The limited English proficient person may be able to tell you the name of his or her language. If not, take the limited English proficient person over to the "Language Identification" center that is posted in the office's reception area. Have the person look through the language charts posted, and see if he or she is able to point to his or her language. If the person cannot find his or her language on the list, or cannot read, contact the Office Manager (see Appendix G). The Office manager will ask a member of the secretarial staff to call our telephone interpreting service; the Language Line at 1-877-245-0386. Provide the representative with the 6-digit Client ID# 702844, the company name (NLS), and the Buffalo Office Code #1. If you are calling from the Niagara Falls office, use Code #2 and if you are calling from the Batavia office, use Code #3. Then enter your personal code, which is your 3 digit telephone extension number. (See "Appendix C" for more detailed instructions for use of the Language Line).

Provide the representative with the language needed, or the operator will help you determine what the person's language is. Brief the Interpreter and then add the limited English speaker to the line. Although no prior authorization is needed, each time you utilize the language line, provide Administration with the "Language Line Form" for billing purposes (See "Appendix D").

In addition, there are several "apps" that can help with translation for initial screening only. For instance, Google Translate can provide both oral and written translation in many languages for which we may or may not have in-house expertise. If you do not have a smart phone, contact the LEP liaisons for assistance (See "Appendix G").

If the walk-in is deaf, you may write a note explaining that we do not have sign interpreters in the office and ask why they are at our office. Remember that the Deaf do not speak English, but rather use American Sign Language. If you need assistance you can contact the Disability Liaison. (See "Appendix G")

- 3. Provide in-house or telephone interpreting services immediately to determine why the person has visited the office. If there is an in-house receptionist who is a language speaker for the person's language, make use of that speaker in-person or by telephone. If the bilingual receptionist is unavailable, the front desk receptionist will contact bilingual staff for availability for walk-ins (See "Appendix B"). If bilingual staff is unavailable, contact the Office Manager will access secretarial staff to call the Language Line. When one uses the telephone, make sure that the client's privacy is adequately protected by going into an office and closing the door if necessary. Use the Language Line at 1-877-245-0386. Provide the representative with the 6-digit Client ID# 702844, the company name (NLS), and the Office Code number. Then enter your personal code, which is your 3 digit telephone extension number. You will be connected with an interpreter within a few minutes. Put the interpreter on speakerphone.
- 4. Using the interpreter, determine what level of services, information or referrals we can provide. If we cannot accept the client's case because of LSC restrictions, office priorities or any other reason, explain this to the client using the interpreter. Use the interpreter to provide the client with the same information or referrals that you would provide to an English-speaking walk-in.
- 5. If the person is accepted for services, use the interpreter to help the client fill out the intake information form and schedule a follow-up appointment with a unit screener or an advocate. If the client will receive an in-person appointment with an advocate, schedule an appointment with the appropriate inhouse staff, or if unavailable, an approved local interpreting service to schedule an interpreter to be present at the appointment (See list of in-house availability and community interpreters in "Appendix B"). If the client needs emergency services, use the telephone interpreter to help you provide the services.
- 6. Some clients may speak a rare language for which no approved interpreters are available in the community. If this is the case, the advocate should use the telephone interpreting service at the appointment, putting the interpreter on speakerphone.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Untrained interpreters, such as family members, friends and caseworkers, should not be used. If the client insists on using the untrained interpreter, note this in the client's file. Under no circumstances may a person under age 18 serve as an interpreter, even if the client insists (unless it is for something as routine as scheduling an appointment). Inform the client that for liability purposes, it is our agency policy not to use child interpreters. Interpreters not on the approved list must submit credentials and training background to the Executive Director and receive approval before being used.

Serving limited English proficient people who call-in for services (Screening)

When serving call-ins, the goal is to provide the same services, information and referrals as we would provide to the English-speaking public, in the same amount of time if at all possible. This is true whether the call-in ultimately turns out to be eligible for our services or not. When in doubt, ask yourself what services, information or referrals you would provide to an English-speaking person in the same situation. Then make sure the Limited English Proficient person gets that same service, information or referrals.

PROCEDURE FOR SERVING LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENT CALL-INS:

- 1. Determine whether the person is limited English proficient. If a person speaks English less than very well, consider him or her limited English proficient. Even if the person knows some English, this does not mean he or she can understand enough to receive the full benefit of our services, information or referrals without help from an interpreter. Do not tell the limited English Proficient person to call back at a later time. If the person is Limited English Proficient, go to Step 2.
- 2. Identify the person's language. The limited English proficient person may be able to tell you the name of his or her language. If not, ask the caller to hold for an interpreter. Try to get a callback number first in case you lose the call. Put the caller on hold and access the Office Manager. The Office Manager will access the secretarial staff who will call our telephone interpreting service; the Language Line at 1-877-245-0386, enter our access code, 702844, your office code, and your three digit telephone extension. If you are away from your desk when you use the Language Line, enter your own extension, not the extension of the telephone you are using.
  - If your client is deaf, you can use our TTY number or utilize a Relay call. The TTY number is (716) 847-1322
- 3. Conference the client back in using the conference feature on your phone. The operator will help you determine what the person's language is.
  - Provide telephone interpreting services immediately to determine why the person has called the office. If there is an in-house receptionist who is a language speaker for the person's language, make use of that speaker by telephone. If the bilingual receptionist is currently unavailable, and the caller speaks Spanish, leave a message in the bilingual receptionist's voice mail at extension 211. If the bilingual receptionist is not going to be available that same day, then the front desk receptionist will contact the Office Manager who will access a member of the secretarial staff to use the Language Line. If the Office Manager is not available, contact a member of the Back-Up support staff. (See "Appendix G")
- 4. Using the interpreter, determine what level of services, information or referrals we can provide. If we cannot accept the client's case because of LSC restrictions, office priorities, or any other reason, explain this to the client using the interpreter. Use the interpreter to provide the client with the same information or referrals that you would provide to an English-speaking walk-in. If you mail out brochures, make sure they are in the person's language (if available). If not, English brochures should be accompanied by a multilingual insert explaining the right to have the brochure read to the person in his or her native language (See "Appendix F").

- 5. If the person is accepted for services, use the interpreter to help the client fill out the intake information form and schedule a follow-up appointment with a screener or an advocate. If the client is screened and is to be called back, the secretarial staff will send the referral to the unit screener or advocate. If the client will receive an in-person appointment with an advocate, the advocate will schedule an appointment with the appropriate in-house interpreter or approved local interpreting service to schedule an interpreter to be present at the appointment (See list of in-house and community interpreters and their availability in "Appendix B"). If the client needs emergency services, use the telephone interpreter to help you provide the services.
- 6. Some clients may speak a rare language for which no approved interpreters are available in the community. If this is the case, the advocate should use the telephone interpreting service at the appointment.

GUIDELINES FOR ADVOCATES

Verbal Communications with Clients

Limited English proficient clients need approved interpreters at initial appointments, follow-up appointments, hearing preps, and any other point at which they communicate verbally with an advocate. The goal is to ensure that a limited English proficient client can understand every aspect of the representation, just as an English-speaking client would.

VERBAL COMMUNICATION PROCEDURES:

- 1. Face-to-face appointments are best, if at all possible. Make sure an approved interpreter is available to the client at all appointments. Always try to use the bilingual speaker in your unit before accessing other in-house bilingual staff or approved outside interpreters. If no one in your unit is available, access the list of bilingual staff in "Appendix B". If no bilingual staff is available, or there is no in-house expertise, contact an outside vendor for interpretation services. All interpreters other than in-house staff must sign a confidentiality agreement and clients must sign a waiver form (See "Appendix E"). Keep both the signed copies in the client's file. No prior approval is necessary. Make sure you use the language line/interpreter form found in "Appendix D" for billing purposes.
- 2. Some clients may speak a rare language for which no approved interpreters are available in the community. If this is the case, the advocate should use the telephone interpreting service (Language Line) at the appointment, putting the interpreter on speakerphone.
  - It may be less expensive for advocates in offices with fewer local interpreting resources (e.g., Niagara Falls and Batavia) to meet face-to-face with the client. If possible, have one of the approved local interpreters in the Buffalo office interpret over speakerphone or translate a letter if your in-house translator is unavailable.
- 3. For short telephone contacts with a client, such as to schedule an appointment or to give advice and counsel only, call one of our in-house interpreters or if one is not available, call our telephone interpreting service.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Untrained interpreters, such as family members, friends and caseworkers, may not be used. If the client insists on using the untrained interpreter, note this in the client's file. Under no circumstances may a person under age 18 serve as an interpreter, even if the client insists (unless it is for a routine matter such as scheduling an appointment). Inform the client that for liability purposes, it is our agency policy not to use child interpreters.

Interpreters not on the approved list must submit credentials and training background to the Executive Director and receive approval before being used.

WRITTEN COMMUNICATION WITH CLIENTS

As with verbal communications with clients, it is important to ensure that limited English proficient clients understand all information contained in our written correspondence. We cannot send limited English proficient clients' letters in English and expect them to get help translating them on their own.

PROCEDURES FOR CORRESPONDING WITH LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENT CLIENTS IN WRITING:

- 1. Contact your unit secretary to have correspondence translated into your client's language. If there is bilingual staff available in your unit to translate the document, the unit secretary should email the document to be translated in "Word" to available unit bilingual staff (See "Appendix B"). After the bilingual staff member translates the document, s/he should email a copy of both the English and the translated document in "Word" to the list of approved proofreaders (See "Appendix B").
- 2. If there is no bilingual unit staff member available, refer to "Appendix B" for a comprehensive list of bilingual staff and their availability. If no in-house bilingual staff is available or there is no expertise inhouse to translate a document, the unit secretary should email a copy of the correspondence to an approved outside translation service (See "Appendix B"). In addition, forward the request to the Office Manager in the Buffalo office for payment (See "Appendix D"). No prior approval is necessary. Remember to retain and include a copy of the English and translated version of the document in the client's file.
- 3. If the language in question has no written form, or if the letter will be very detailed and/or case specific, you may want to meet with the client face-to-face or over the phone rather than sending a letter. Make sure to document the content of the meeting in the client's file. If you have any doubts about how to proceed, contact your Supervising Attorney and/or the LEP Contact Person (See "Appendix G" for list of NLS/LEP liaisons).

IMPORTANT NOTE: Do not send limited English proficient clients questionnaires (e.g., DAP Questionnaires, Divorce Questionnaires) to complete on their own. Instead, help the client complete the questionnaire at a face-to-face appointment with an approved interpreter, or over the phone using the telephone interpreting service.

Tips for Working with an Interpreter

- 1. BRIEF THE INTERPRETER Identify the name of your organization to the interpreter, provide specific instructions of what needs to be done or obtained, and let him/her know whether you need help with placing the call. If you need the interpreter to help you place a call to the Limited English Proficient (LEP) client, you may ask the interpreter for a dial-out. There is a limited amount of time allotted for placing a dial-out once the interpreter is on the phone. Therefore, it is important that you provide a brief introduction and specific instructions to the interpreter in a timely manner.
- SPEAK DIRECTLY TO THE CLIENT You and your client can communicate directly with each other as if the interpreter were not there. The interpreter will relay the information and then communicate the client's response directly back to you.
- 3. SPEAK NATURALLY, NOT LOUDER Speak at your normal pace, not slower.
  - a. SEGMENTS Speak in one sentence or two short ones at a time. Try to avoid breaking up a thought. Your interpreter is trying to understand the meaning of what you're saying, so express the whole thought if possible. Interpreters will ask you to slow down or repeat if necessary. You should pause to make sure you give the interpreter time to deliver your message.
  - b. CLARIFICATIONS If something is unclear, or if the interpreter is given a long statement, the interpreter will ask you for a complete or partial repetition of what was said, or clarify what the statement meant.
- 4. ASK IF THE LEP UNDERSTANDS Don't assume that the LEP client understands you. In some cultures a person may say "yes" as you explain something, not meaning they understand but rather they want you to keep talking because they are trying to follow the conversation. Keep in mind that a lack of English does not necessarily indicate a lack of education.
- 5. DO NOT ASK FOR THE INTERPRETER OPINION The interpreter's job is to convey the meaning of the source language and under no circumstances may he or she allow personal opinion to color the interpretation. Also, do not hold the interpreter responsible for what the client does or does not say. For example, when the client does not answer your question.
- 6. EVERYTHING YOU SAY WILL BE INTERPRETED Avoid private conversations. Whatever the interpreter hears will be interpreted. If you feel that the interpreter has not interpreted everything, ask the interpreter to do so. Avoid interrupting the interpreter while he/she is interpreting.
- AVOID JARGON OR TECHNICAL TERMS Don't use jargon, slang, idioms, acronyms, or technical medical terms. Clarify unique vocabulary, and provide examples if they are needed to explain a term.

- 8. LENGTH OF INTERRETATION SESSION When you're working with an interpreter, the conversation can often take twice as long compared with one in English. Many concepts you express have no equivalent in other languages, so the interpreter may have to describe or paraphrase many terms you use. Interpreters will often use more words to interpret what the original speak says simply because of the grammar and syntax of the target language.
- 9. READING SCRIPTS People often take more quickly when reading a script. When you are reading a script, prepared text, or a disclosure, slow down to give the interpreter a change to say up with you.
- 10. CULTURE Professional interpreters are familiar with the culture and customs of the LEP client. During the conversation, the interpreter may identify and clarify a cultural issue they may not think you are aware of. If the interpreter feels that a particular question is culturally inappropriate, he or she might ask you to either rephrase the question or ask the interpreter to help you in getting the information in a more appropriate way.
- 11. CLOSING OF THE CALL The interpreter will wait for you to initiate the closing of the call. When appropriate, the interpreter will offer further assistance and will be the last to disconnect from the call. Remember to thank the interpreter for his or her efforts at the end of the session.
