ISC: International Festival will occur

By Fernando Felui-Moggi
Staff Writer

The resignation of several staff members of the International Student Council at the end of the fall semester will not affect the International Festival scheduled for February. M. Ali Firouzi, president of the International Student Council, said.

Several staff members resigned after a November meeting of the council, when Firouzi vetoed a motion allowing Teck Hong "Robin" Tan to continue as one of the vice presidents of the organization.

Tan's grade point average had fallen below the required 2.0 needed to serve in the executive committee of ISC, but the council had voted to retain him as vice president.

Firouzi's veto was seen by some ISC staff members as an abuse of power, and they circulated a letter condemning the president's attitude. The letter was signed by 26 staff members.

Firouzi said the letter didn't represent the international community because it was signed by only 26 people.

Those who had signed the letter stopped participating in ISC activities.

The presidents of the various International Student Associations met with Firouzi Tuesday to present their ideas about the festival to the council. ISC showed a video of last year's festival, presented the schedule for this year's and offered economic support for various activities.

Firouzi said he had begun organizing the festival before Christmas break by mailing brochures to the various International Student Associations.

He said the organization of the festival had not been influenced by the absence of any staff members because the staff consists of all students willing to help and give ideas for the festival.

"Anyone can become a member of the staff, all they have to do is sign up," he said.

"It is very hard to make all the people work together, but if just because there's a disagreement people start walking out on us instead of trying to solve the problem as a team, we won't get very far," Firouzi said.

Maria Freitas, president of the European Student Association, said ISC had done a good job organizing the

Search on for vacant VP post

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The search is on for a new associate vice president for academic affairs, Benjamin A. Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs and research planning, announced Wednesday.

The position was held by Shepherd prior to July 1, 1987, when he took over as acting vice president. He officially was named the vice president May 15, 1988.

The vacant position has been filled by Mary Lou Higginson, as acting associate vice president.

The associate vice president works with the vice president in creating and implementing academic planning methods and reviewing collegiate and departmental programs, along with undergraduate programs and curriculum, Shepherd said.

The associate vice president administers programs of academic support areas, including the Army Military Science (Army ROTC), Aerospace Studies (Air Force ROTC), the Clinical Center and Undergraduate Academic Services.

Shepherd issued a campus-wide memo to start the search. Candidates nominated for the position must currently be tenured associate or full professors within the University. Experience with academic administration is desirable, he said.

The nominee should be prepared for involvement in such matters as academic

Cutting judged legal in bat's habitat

Area residents, environmentalists way of change

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

A clearcutting operation in the Shawnee National Forest was judged not to be illegal by officials at a meeting Wednesday morning, although the operation may have destroyed the habitat of the endangered Indiana bat.

Local citizens have filed a complaint against the federal government for violating its own standards in respect to the 1987 tree cutting in the Bear Creek area. After meeting with concerned citizens Wednesday morning, officials from Fish and Wildlife Service and the Forest Service said they were not at fault.

Bruce Stebbings, of the Fish and Wildlife Service, said he is in favor of the service's standards and guidelines. "Guidelines are something the service can use at its discretion," he said.

The controversy began in 1983 when the U.S. Department of Conservation's Forest Service announced plans to cut down some of the trees in the national forest a few miles from Pomona. Nearby residents were aware that the Indiana bat lived in the area.

Research done by Dr. J.O. Whitaker, professor of biology at Indiana State University, said the one and one half inch-long bats sometimes roost in Shagbark Hickory trees.

Dr. Whitaker said, "If Shag and Shalebark trees were not cut down during the bats' maternity season, May 1 through Aug. 31, and if a 100-foot wide foraging area was left on either side of nearby creeks, the biological assessment will not affect the Indiana bat."

David Nadolski and Joe Cloar, residents of the area, sent this information to the Forest Service in 1985. The Service's 1986 contract for cutting down trees in the Mud Run and Bear Creek area included the guidelines outlined by Dr. Whitaker, and extended the "no-cut" period to April 1 through Sept. 15.

But in July, October and November of 1987, the Mud Run and part of the Bear Creek area was clearcut, extending in some places all the way to the creek, and including some Shagbark trees.

Larry Burkhardt, of the Forest Service, described the contract's guidelines as a goal, and "a goal is something you try to achieve."

Stebbins admits that this is a borderline case, but feels that nothing has been done that would jeopardize the continued existence of the Indiana bat.

Thompson puts off tax increase push

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Gov. James R. Thompson's announcement that he would not push for a tax increase will not be official until March 1, when his budget is announced, James Bray, a spokesman for the governor, said.

"The governor is still strongly in favor of a modest income tax increase," Bray said. But unless Democratic House Speaker Michael Madigan, who strongly opposes an increase, and other Democrats change their minds, the governor will not pursue the increase, he said.

"We'll do the best we can with what we have," Bray said. "The state will live within its means."

Thompson has been unsuccessful in raising taxes in each of the last two legislative sessions.

"The governor has not provided an affidavit stating he will not pursue a tax increase, a lot will depend on the budget proposal and the projection of state revenues," Steve Brown, a spokesman for Madigan, said.

Brown said the majority of people in Illinois as well as Illinois legislators seem to feel there is no need for increases in taxes. This is clearly indicated by last year's elections. Madigan and opponents of the increase will have to wait

Police do not intervene as protestors rally again

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Thousands of protestors, many chanting "We want to live as humans," rallied in Wenceslas Square for the fourth straight day Wednesday but for the first time police did not intervene, witnesses said. The witnesses said as many as 3,000 people, mostly youths, had converged on the square by nightfall and began chanting slogans, including, "We are not those elements" — an allusion to articles in Communist Party newspapers that branded protestors as anti-state elements.

Israeli settlers gather to chart Jewish state

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Scores of right-wing Israeli settlers gathered Wednesday to prepare the framework for a Jewish state in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, a move they hope will pressure the Israeli government to annex the territories. While the move to form a second Jewish state appeared to have little support among settlers, it came at a time when settlers are increasingly worried that Israel will be pressured to trade land for peace to end the Middle East conflict.

Mexican oil union boss faces murder charge

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A federal judge ordered the boss of Mexico's scandal-ridden oil union to face murder and weapons charges and denied bail, effectively removing him from the political scene during a trial that could last years. The government cracked down without warning last week against 46 leaders and gunmen of the Revolutionary Union of Mexican Oil Workers, arresting its behind-the-scenes leader, Joaquin Hernandez Galicia, known as La Quina, and its secretary-general, Salvador Barragan Camacho.

Jaruzelski offers resignation during meeting

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski offered his own resignation and those of three top government ministers during a stormy Communist Party meeting in which members passed a resolution on re-legalizing Solidarity trade union, the official news agency PAP said Wednesday. The nearly 200-member Central Committee rejected Jaruzelski's offer and instead gave him a nearly unanimous endorsement, with only four abstentions, PAP said.

Trade deficit widens to largest gap in months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. merchandise trade deficit widened to $12.5 billion in November, the largest gap since June, as exports dropped and Americans kept buying foreign goods, the Commerce Department said Wednesday. The deficit was much larger than the $11.3 billion most analysts had expected and hits a level that may alarm world financial markets hoping for gradual improvement in the huge U.S. deficit.

Baker sees Soviet human rights improvements

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State-designate James Baker told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday he is impressed with changes in Mikhail Gorbachev's Soviet Union but said further progress in human rights is needed. During his second day of friendly hearings before the committee, which will vote Thursday on his nomination, Baker said the Soviets know they must improve their human rights record as a condition of U.S. participation in the 1991 meeting sponsored by the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

Eastern jet encounters cabin pressure loss

ATLANTA (UPI) — A loss of cabin pressure forced an Eastern Airlines DC-9 loaded with 63 passengers and five crew members to descend 26,000 feet over northeast Georgia Wednesday. The plane, en route to Atlanta from Cleveland, landed safely at Hartsfield International Airport at 8:53 a.m., nearly two hours after takeoff. None of the 68 people aboard was injured, an Eastern spokeswoman said.

Governor rejects delay in Bundy execution

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez refused Wednesday to delay serial killer Theodore Bundy's Jan. 24 execution date so he could talk to police in other states about unsolved murders and other cases in which he is the prime suspect.

City Fair Days' future in committee's hands

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

The Halloween Core Committee will announce Feb. 28 whether City Fair Days should be continued for 1989's October celebration.

The City Council and the Citizens' Advisory Board are both waiting for the Core Committee's recommendation.

President John C. Guyon's recent denouncement of Halloween activities has rekindled doubts as to whether the annual event should receive city sponsorship, and the Core Committee will be holding weekly sessions to beat the February deadline. The committee tentatively decided upon the deadline at its meeting Wednesday.

"We need to get our recommendation in to the relevant parties. If we're going to shut down, we should make our decision early," Carbondale police chief Ed Hogan stated, after proposing the target date and weekly meetings.

The committee also approved Hogan's suggestion that ensuing meetings should focus on only the future of Carbondale Halloween. Discussions of Halloween 1988 and the expansion of the committee will be disallowed until a decision is reached to continue City Fair Days.

The purpose of the next committee meetings will be to pool ideas on Halloween 1989 and to structure agendas for examining all aspects of City Fair Days: safety, finance, entertainment, etc.

Interim city manager Jeff Doherty issued the city's annual Halloween report, which stated that Carbondale paid $17,892 (net cost) to stage the 1988 Fair Days. Halloween 1987 cost $19,022, 6 percent more.

Chief Hogan's arrest report tallied the number of criminal offenses committed last Halloween weekend at 193, including DUI's, aggravated battery and underage drinking. Hogan's report also reflected, "1988 Halloween weekend proved to be more dangerous than in past years."

James Prowell, the committee's Chamber of Commerce delegate, estimated the city's total income from holiday-weekend parties to be near $4.5 million.

Prowell also estimated that approximately 10,000 out-of-towners spent $1.5 million in Carbondale in under three days. His report tallied Halloween 1988 attendance at 30,000, down 13,000 from 1987's total of 43,000.

"We've done a poor job with safety, sanitation and special events. We've failed and must face up to that," Prowell stated of the committee, noting that the committee has failed to live up to its promise six years ago of involving Carbondale's citizens in controlling Halloween activities.

Prowell stressed the need to garner funds and support from area businesses other than just the ones on the strip.

Reported burglaries over break increased by 2

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

While many students went home during the semester break to participate in the holiday spirit of giving and receiving, some students returned to Carbondale to find they had been taken.

Neal Jacobson, public information officer for the Carbondale police, said the number of reported burglaries during the semester break increased by two compared to last year's figures.

Since Dec. 1, 59 burglaries have been reported, Jacobson said. During the period of Dec. 1, 1987 to Jan. 25, 1988, 57 burglaries were reported.

David Lapaso, junior in psychology, said burglars broke into his home at 803. W.

Schwartz sometime over the holidays and stole a Zenith color television, a jacket and change. Police estimated the value of the stolen items at $439.

BAS not compatible with GE curriculum

A CONSULTANT'S report on the Black American Studies program that was filed in August has finally been released by Seymour Bryson, assistant to the president for affirmative action.

The report makes common sense recommendations that the University should follow if it wishes to pay more than just lip service to the study of blacks history and culture. Some recommendations include shifting the program to the College of Liberal Arts, and most importantly, putting the program on a more scholarly footing by hiring faculty that will measure up to the standards of a major research University.

But the most significant aspect of the report is the part that was left out — whether a BAS course should be reinstated in the general education curriculum.

The Black American Student Association and Luke Tripp, a BAS faculty member who was denied tenure, have demanded that these courses be reinstated. Tripp was quoted last spring saying, "A lily-white group of faculty members were appointed to prune down the number of general education courses." Whether it was lily-white or jet black, the committee's decision was the right one. Tripp's attack suggests that only blacks are qualified to decide whether the University would be served by BAS courses in the GE curriculum. It is an attitude as latent with racism as that which he is supposedly fighting.

THE CONTENTION of Tripp and proponents of ethnic studies generally is that courses taught in Western civilization and American history ignore the contributions made by blacks and other ethnic groups, often treating them simply as victims of Western Europeans. This is probably an accurate assessment. With a few notable exceptions American History texts shed little light on the role played by American ethnic groups that were alienated from the political and social mainstream — i.e., white society.

The stereotypical Chinese drove spikes on the railroad and the stereotypical black was subject to slavery, then oppressive discrimination. These are the oversimplified images we are fed by our history texts, but these oversimplifications will not be righted by offering BAS courses as general education.

AS BENJAMIN Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs, said, the answer is to strengthen the core history and culture courses so that they include a more realistic examination of ethnic contributions.

Inserting a class like the history of African civilization would be fine if our University were in Africa. But the fact is that students living in the United States, whose only formal history course may be what they take when fulfilling their GE requirement, will be better served by Western and American history than by such specialized courses.

IF THE COMMITTEE that reviewed the GE requirements made a mistake, it was in eliminating the BAS courses and leaving a specialized course such as East Asian Civilization.

Though the administration should reinstate a BAS course in the GE curriculum this is no leave for it to shortchange the program. Consultant Jan K. Carew, a Northwestern University educator, did not mention including BAS courses in the GE curriculum, but he did say that the program needs professors, not such a harsh recommendation for an academic program.

ON THIS POINT, administrators have done what administrators do best — nothing. After assigning the problem of the future of BAS to a task force in April, Bryson promised to bring faculty to the program in fall 1988, then in spring 1989, yet what remains is Luke Tripp, a single outgoing faculty member.

Though adjunct professors from other departments also teach BAS courses, the administration must provide full-time faculty if the program is to be a viable curriculum, providing quality instruction at a level appropriate for specialized courses.

Reagan goes with good image; Bush has a hard act to follow

By Thomas Sowell
Scripps Howard News Service

One of the many blessings that we foolishly take for granted in this country is the peaceful transfer of power, such as we will witness on Friday.

In the days of the Roman Empire, it was not uncommon for thousands of men to lose their lives in the struggle to determine who the next emperor would be. Even today, in many parts of the world, if you want to replace the leader of the country, you had better show up with lots of troops — and probably tanks and air cover as well.

One thing that Bush and Reagan have in common is that both have been sold short by the media and by intellectuals.

Yet we confidently expect that Ronald Reagan will quietly turn the White House over to George Bush, simply because that is what the people indicated they wanted last November. What does this changing of the guard mean? Will President Bush represent a continuation to the Reagan Revolution, or will it be more like the second coming of the Ford administration, as some of his Cabinet nominations might suggest?

ONE THING THAT Bush and Reagan clearly have in common is that both have been sold short by the media and by intellectuals. It was only six months ago that Bush was written off as having no chance to be elected — written off by some conservatives, as well as by the liberals.

Reagan arrived in Washington eight years ago with the local sophisticates seeing him as a bumpkin out of the West who would be taught a lesson in politics by the pros in Congress and the bureaucracies. Yet the Reagan Revolution in tax policies, foreign policy, deregulation and military defense were all accomplished with only a slim Republican majority in the Senate and against overwhelming Democratic majorities in the House of Representatives. All the while, the deep thinkers kept sneering at the president's intelligence as he repeatedly beat the old Washington hands at their own game and emerged from bitter controversies still popular with the American people.

IMAGINE WHAT he could have done if he were smart!

As it was, Reagan's economic policies turned the American economy around so dramatically that parts of the free market philosophy were adopted by left-wing governments in Australia and New Zealand — and even by some socialist and Communist governments in Europe and Asia. During the difficult adjustment periods, early in the first Reagan administration, the media blamed all sorts of hardships on "Reaganomics." But they stopped calling it Reaganomics when the policy paid off and led to the longest economic expansion on record. Perhaps the most enduring legacy of the Reagan administration will be its Supreme Court appointments. Previous conservative administrations — Eisenhower, Nixon and Ford — made incredibly slipshod appointments of men who later radicalized the very meaning of law itself: Warren, Brennan, Blackmun and Stevens. The Reagan appointees, especially Justice Antonin Scalia, provide the first real hope that the rule of law can be restored as something that even judges must respect.

DESPITE SETBACKS when his nominations of Bork and Ginzburg both failed to get through, the successful nomination of Anthony Kennedy — and Justice Kennedy's votes on the high court — make it clear that while Reagan lost the battles, he won the war. Nothing will tell us more about the character of the Bush administration than the kind of people President Bush nominates to replace the ancient justices who have held on all these years to prevent Reagan from naming their successors.

It is considered impolite to offer people advice that they have not asked for. However, the one exception we make is advice to the leaders of a democratic country. Here is some advice to the new president of the United States.

IF BUSH WANTS to make a lasting contribution to the dignity and effectiveness of the office of president of the United States, he can do so by consistently refusing to reply to questions shouted at him by reporters wherever he goes. Whether he smiles or frowns, he doesn't have to answer. Occasionally, perhaps at a televised news conference, he might give the reporters a little civic lesson by pointing out that the taxpayers are paying him to carry out some pretty serious duties — not to engage in repartee, where a careless word can send tremors through Wall Street or, more important, through our allies around the world.

MOST IMPORTANT of all, the new president should remember that the media have sold the American people short, just as they have sold short both Bush and Reagan. But the people can understand many things, if the president explains them in plain words. The American people supported President John F. Kennedy when he told them that he was taking them to the brink of nuclear war over Soviet missiles in Cuba. Bush will probably never have to tell them anything so grim.

Finally, the president should remember that his greatest political assets are three little words: "No new taxes."

Gorbachev announces cuts, withdrawal of Soviet military

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev said Wednesday the Kremlin is cutting the country's defense budget by a hefty 14.2 percent and slashing the production of military hardware and armaments by 19.5 percent.

Gorbachev also gave further details of the cuts in military personnel he announced at his United Nations speech Dec. 7, saying that out of the 500,000 men to be demobilized almost half or 240,000 will come from the European part of the country — the forces lined up against the Western NATO alliance.

Another 200,000 will come from the east and the remainder or 60,000 from southern republics.

He said the 500,000 represented 12 percent of the entire Soviet armed forces. The Soviet leader also promised that of the 10,000 tanks he promised to chop from the military, 5,300 of them will be "the most advanced" in the Soviet arsenal, thus rebutting Western charges that the Soviets would simply withdraw tanks that were more than 20 years old and ready for the scrapheap anyway.

Gorbachev's figures indicate the size of the Soviet armed forces is 4.16 million men or about 1 million men smaller than accepted Western estimates.

He said half of the 10,000 tanks will be physically destroyed and the remainder transferred into civilian use as earth movers or left with the military as training simulators.

Concerning the cuts in the Soviet Far East, Gorbachev said 75 percent of all Soviet troops in Mongolia will be withdrawn along with Soviet air force units there.

The Soviet troop presence in Mongolia was a major sticking point in attempts to normalize relations with China. The hefty cuts in Mongolia, an independent nation closely allied with Moscow, could go a long way in improving relations with China and create a friendly atmosphere for a Sino-Soviet summit expected later this year.

"We are reducing the armed forces. The cuts will amount to 12 percent of their strength. The G-fense budget will be reduced by 14.2 percent, the production of armaments and military hardware by 19.5 percent. Out of 500,000 men to be reduced by the army and navy, 240,000 will come from the European part of the country, 200,000 from the eastern part and 60,000 from the southern part," Gorbachev was quoted as saying by the official Tass news agency.

festival. "Now is the Associations' time to decide in what activities they will participate," she said.

Freitas said she thought the conflicts in the Council were a thing of the past, especially because everyone is trying and likes to work for the international community.

Some ex-members of the staff said they had left the organization not because they supported one side or the other, but because communication problems on both sides kept the council from working as a team. These ex-staff members also said they were worried about the organization of the festival.

Marcelo Cecim, who was vice president of ISC and resigned after the November incidents, said he thought the lack of staff could affect the festival.

"They (the ISC) had very few people to reorganize the staff and the organization of the festival was being postponed," he said.

Tahir A. Ali, a former staff member, said he had been in the council for two years and things were not running as smoothly under Firouzi's presidency as they had been in the past. "We didn't get information about meetings and old members were not being consulted about the organization of events. Staff didn't get a chance to discuss Ali Firouzi's ideas," Ali said.

"My record is there. I have worked very hard for ISC. If anybody has doubts, my record is there to prove it," Firouzi said.

"The constitution is clear. If you don't meet your academic requirements you can't be part of the executive committee," Firouzi said.

He said that many people left ISC in solidarity with Tan, but Tan is now in Australia and to ISC the story is old news.

"There are too many things to deal with at ISC, but education is first. If you are doing good and have time for extracurricular activities, then great. If not, too bad," Firouzi said.

Firouzi said he has always tried to do what is best for the international students. "The meetings are open. I accept criticism and discussion. I am not the only one who makes decisions," he said.

until after the budget is proposed before claiming victory for stopping an increase, Brown said.

Brown said in the current fiscal year Illinois is spending $22 billion, $700 million of which is new revenue. One-third of the total money spent is for education.

Bray said that plans for education will be announced along with the budget March 1.

"Clearly education needs more money than we are currently providing for it," Bray said.

planning, faculty development and budgeting.

Applicants should send a letter of application, curriculum vita and three letters of recommendation to: Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Research, Anthony Hall. Deadline to apply is Feb. 15. The position will be available on July 1.

It is unclear what affect a failure to raise taxes will have on the University, SIU-C President John C. Guyon, said.

"The University is not in a position to say very much until the governor presents his final budget request," Guyon said.

Without a tax increase there will have to be some realignment in the current system in order to get all the necessary money for education, Kim Knauer, a spokeswoman for the State Board of Education, said.

Shepherd said he was unsure of how many nominations have been received so far, but at least two have been submitted.

The nominations will be discussed at a Jan. 24 meeting of the search committee.

The committee is made up of nine members drawn from various parts of the University.

Task force to examine racial jokes

President John C. Guyon is putting together a task force of staff and students to investigate the source of offensive racial jokes found on a computer printout by a kindergarten student.

"We are obviously taking this very seriously," Guyon said. "We are pushing hard to find the origin of the racial jokes."

The printout was discovered by a parent of a Carbondale kindergarten student when it was brought home from school. Because the University donates its extra computer paper to the school for use as scratch paper, the offender is believed to be connected to the University.

The task force's mission is to determine who made the printout, if the jokes did indeed come from SIU-C and whether the jokes are still in the computer, Guyon said.

Clarifications

In Tuesday's Daily Egyptian the appropriations recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education for SIU-C and SIU-E were less than the total amount recommended for the SIU System because funds for central administration were not included. Funds for central administration were not included in the SIU System's budget requests for fiscal year 1990 nor were the funds for central administration included with appropriations for fiscal year 1989.

Former USG Sen. Juliana Taylor has withdrawn from the University for reasons unknown. She was removed from the senate last semester for failure to meet academic requirements. This was omitted from Wednesday's USG story.

Bush vows to help improve education

President-elect promises success, rewards from start

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect George Bush renewed a campaign commitment to education at the first event on his inaugural schedule, telling a teachers forum, "Education will be on my desk and on my mind right from the start."

Kicking off two days of official events preceding his inauguration, Bush appeared with Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos before about 250 specially chosen teachers who cheered loudly when he entered the National Museum of Women in the Arts.

The vice president promptly renewed his campaign pledge to be "the education president," vowing to create and strengthen programs "that reward excellence, raise standards, expand choice, publicize success and keep the attention and effort of Americans concentrated on education reform and further improvement."

"This is my very first event of the inaugural calendar, and that's the way I wanted it," Bush reminded the group assembled through the official American Bicentennial Presidential Inaugural Committee.

"Education will be on my desk and on my mind right from the start every day," he promised. "We're going to be thinking about it. We're going to be talking it. And most of all, we're going to work to make sure that the nation does what needs to be done for our schools."

Four killed in auto accident

GURNEE, Ill. (UPI) — A tractor-trailer truck rammed into the rear of a car parked on the shoulder of Interstate 94 early Wednesday, smashing the car into a wall where it burst into flames and killed all four people inside, police said.

The four victims from the Madison, Wis., area were in the car, State Police Sgt. Bill Schmitt said. "Both the truck and car were engulfed in flames," said Schmitt.

Identities of the victims were being withheld until relatives were notified.

Police said the car was parked on the shoulder of the northbound lanes of the interstate near the small Lake County community when it was hit in the rear. It was "dragged across all three lanes into the median wall" where it and the truck caught fire, police said.

The driver of the truck belonging to Chief Express Inc. of Lake Station, Ind., received minor injuries, police said. Its load of steel reinforcement bars — rods of steel used to give concrete added strength — were spread across all six lanes of traffic.

Lake County authorities were considering whether to bring charges against the truck driver.

-CORRECTION-

The Guzall's ad that ran in the Wednesday, Jan. 18 edition of the Daily Egyptian incorrectly stated men's and women's apparel as 50% off. The ad should have ran as 25-50% OFF.

Tip leads police to body

BLOOMINGTON (UPI) — Bloomington police and Logan County authorities Wednesday sought clues in the apparent murder of a young man reported missing two days ago.

The body of Steven Becicka, 21, Bloomington, was found Tuesday night along a rural road in neighboring Logan County. Bloomington is in McLean County.

A spokesman for the Logan County coroner's office said the victim — who had one gunshot wound to the back of the head — had been dead for at least two days.

Police said the victim's parents reported him missing on Monday. At that time, the police said they did not suspect foul play and considered it a routine missing person investigation.

Bloomington police said they received a tip yesterday that the victim's body could be found in Logan County.

Derailment cleaned up after 2 days

SALEM (UPI) — Clean-up operations have been completed in the wake of the derailment of nine cars of a Chessie System freight train on the east side, officials said Wednesday.

One empty tank car and eight others carrying new vehicles left the rails Monday night on a siding between Chessie System and Union Pacific tracks. There were no injuries and the cause of the derailment has not been determined.

Officials said the clean-up work was completed Tuesday afternoon and went smoothly despite muddy conditions at the site.

Basketball official dies during game

OLNEY, Ill. (UPI) — An autopsy indicates a basketball official who collapsed during a tournament game at Newton died of an acute coronary thrombosis, Richland County Coroner Randy Kistler said Wednesday.

Don Price, 52, Grayville, was stricken while officiating during the last quarter of a game Monday night between Vandalia and Teutopolis. He was pronounced dead at 7:53 p.m. at Richland Memorial Hospital in Olney.

Kistler said Price was a smoker but had no history of heart trouble. He said Price apparently was in good shape and of thin build.

Runway plans at Scott AFB may stop due to expenses

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Federal budget constraints are more likely to ground a plan for commercial aviation at Scott Air Force Base than an upcoming, non-binding referendum, an Illinois Department of Transportation official said Wednesday.

The two-year study by a consulting firm, working for the IDOT, has recommended a new 10,000-foot runway, control tower, airline terminal, and an extension to Scott's present 7,000-foot runway. The cost is estimated at about $180 million — 90 percent of which would be paid for by the federal government.

Scott is located about 25 miles east of St. Louis and five miles east of Belleville.

Voters in three townships near the Air Force base will vote April 4 on the plan.

Hugh Enyard, who helped lead the petition drive for the referendum, said people living in the townships near Scott are against the plan.

"Everybody seems to be in favor except those people who live by Scott and are most affected," said Enyard, who said he's neutral on the issue. "This will send a signal to the Air Force and the county — at least from the people who live nearby."

Garred Jones, IDOT project manager for the joint-use study, said the final draft of the study will be completed this week and will be published in two weeks. An environmental impact study by the Air Force, which will take about a year to complete, is the next hurdle, Jones said.

Jones said about 15 joint military-commercial facilities are now operating in the country.

"Barring a major financial squeeze at the federal level, chances are excellent that this will be developed," Jones said.

"The trouble with the referendum is it's not countywide and you only get a fraction of the people (to vote)."

Trial begins for woman charged with fatally shooting her husband

DANVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — A Hoopston woman who admitted fatally shooting her husband last April told relatives she planned to "get rid of" him hours before the shooting, a prosecutor said at the start of her trial Wednesday.

Vermilion County Assistant State's Attorney Larry Mills said 52-year-old Charlene

Johnson went to the Hoopston police station at about midnight on April 7, 1988, and confessed to shooting Carl Johnson, 59, earlier in the day as he lay on their bed.

Johnson, who is free on bond, has been charged with first-degree murder and obstruction of justice. But defense attorney Richard Doyle of Hoopston was expected to argue that the killing was in self defense and motivated by repeated beatings from her husband.

"There's no doubt Carl Johnson is dead," Mills told the jury in the courtroom of Vermilion County Judge John O'Rourke Wednesday morning. "What's in doubt here is whether he was the victim of first-degree murder."

Pentagon seeks to rebuild chemical defenses

WASHINGTON (SHNS) — While U.S. diplomats are trying to stop the spread of chemical weapons, the U.S. military is quietly improving its ability to wage chemical war.

The U.S. chemical war program was practically in limbo for 18 years until 1987, when the Army won approval from the Reagan administration to begin rebuilding its stocks of chemical weapons and resume research.

The Pentagon budget for fiscal year 1990, which begins Oct. 1, asks for $646.4 million for new programs related to chemical weapons. Most of that amount — $555 million — is to protect U.S. troops with new gas masks, protective suits and warning alarms that sound when toxic chemicals are detected, according to Maj. Richard Bridges, an Army spokesman.

ON THE OFFENSIVE side, the Army is preparing to spend $286.5 million in fiscal 1990 to destroy aging stocks of chemical weapons stored at eight different locations. The chemical shells are so old they are essentially unusable, although the chemicals they contain remain lethal. Between 1972 and 1986 a total of 14,632,700 pounds of chemical weapons were destroyed, the Army said.

For every round of the old weapons now destroyed, the Army is allowed to produce another "binary" shell, which contains two chemicals that are harmless until mixed shortly before they reach their targets.

MOST U.S. chemical weapons are stored in the continental United States, although 6 percent of the stock is on Johnston Island in the Pacific and in West Germany. The Army will not disclose the total amount of U.S. chemical weapons.

U.S. chemical stocks will be removed from Europe, reportedly by 1992, and won't be replaced under current plans. If U.S. forces there need chemical weapons, they would have to be supplied from the United States, Pentagon officials said.

"You are talking about unilateral disarmament of chemical weapons in Europe," said Matthew Bunn, a researcher at the Arms Control Association.

FOR THE United States to use chemical weapons in combat, the decision would have to be made by the president, following the same procedure for using nuclear weapons. The United States promised in 1969 that it would not use chemical weapons first and would never use biological weapons, which are regarded as more dangerous because living organisms are difficult to control.

There are three types of binary chemical weapons being developed by the military: an artillery shell, rockets fired from a special launcher and a bomb dropped from an airplane:

■The simplest weapon is a 155-millimeter howitzer shell with a 18-mile range. The Army has been developing these shells since December 1987 at the Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas.

Congress has imposed such tight safety restrictions on the program that the two chemicals used in the shell must be produced and stored not only in separate facilities but in separate states. When mixed together, the chemicals form GB2, or sarin, a nerve agent that remains dangerous for only a few hours after release. Two separate canisters are placed in the shell. The force of firing ruptures the two canisters, and the chemicals mix in flight. The shell explodes on impact, spreading the nerve gas.

A tiny bit of the gas disrupts the nervous system and prevents the body from working. It makes the victim lose control of bodily functions and causes breathing to stop and the heart to fail.

■Still in the research stage is a nerve gas rocket designed to be fired from a Multiple Launch Rocket System, a tank-like vehicle with 12 rocket tubes that can blanket an area from 19 miles.

■The largest quantity of chemicals would be delivered by the "Bigeye" bomb, which is really just a can of chemicals dropped from a plane. Just before it is to be used, the bomb is made poisonous by inserting a sulphur bar that begins a chemical reaction to create the nerve gas VX.

Of the chemical weapons, the Bigeye has received the most resistance from Congress and the General Accounting Office.

Republicans plan to reach minority vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee, ratifying George Bush's choice to lead the party's structure, Wednesday elected Lee Atwater as GOP chairman and the former Bush campaign strategist quickly promised to reach out to minority voters, a traditional Democratic stronghold.

Bush, who has been actively trying to build relationships with a wide range of minority groups, immediately promoted Atwater's strategy, telling the GOP leaders, "I like the concept that our party needs to have a broader base, a stronger participation from all groups, all across our country."

He promised that Atwater, 37, who helped mastermind Bush's primary and general election campaigns, would be his "political eyes and ears."

"Nobody's going to outthrustle him, nobody's going to work harder," Bush said.

Atwater, outlining a plan for making the GOP a majority party in the nation, vowed to engineer a grass-roots movement in the Republican Party to build support among blacks, Hispanics and other voter groups normally considered safe Democratic blocs.

In an acceptance speech after being elected unanimously, Atwater told the nation's top GOP leaders that an essential part of the strategy was to reach "into communities where the Republican message has not yet found a home."

He stressed that Republicans have been "fighting with one arm tied behind our back because the Democrats have succeeded in virtually cornering the votes of whole segments of American society."

However, Atwater theorized that the GOP now had a unique chance to make inroads among blacks and other minorities because those groups "are now beginning to realize that they have won very little in return for their allegiance" to the Democrats.

"We must invite these Americans in to our party's councils," Atwater said. "We must recruit them to run on the Republican ticket."

Old names become members of hall of fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rolling Stones, Stevie Wonder, Dion DiMucci, the Temptations and Otis Redding were among those honored Wednesday as new members of the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame.

The winners were invited to the fourth annual induction dinner at the Waldorf Astoria, which traditionally ends with an all-star jam session featuring some of the biggest names in rock history.

Industry insiders have been saying for weeks that the Rolling Stones would use the occasion to settle the two-year feud that has kept the band off the road and out of the recording studio while various members pursued solo projects.

Stones leaders Mick Jagger and Keith Richards were both expected to show up to collect their awards. Stevie Wonder, Dion and the Temptations also planned to attend. Redding's award is posthumous.

The Hall of Fame also will induct blues singer Bessie Smith, the vocal quartet the Ink Spots and the gospel group the Soul Stirrers as early influences on rock 'n' roll, while producer Phil Spector is being inducted in the non-performing music industry professional category.

So far the Hall of Fame attendance has been limited to those who can afford to pay for a spot at the benefit dinners. The Rock Hall will be open to the public when its permanent home, scheduled for 1992 completion, opens in Cleveland.

2 Carbondale bars add variety to town

Caribbean, Europe featured

By Nora Bentley
Staff Writer

Spring semester 1989 will see a change in Carbondale's bar scene with the addition of a Caribbean style restaurant-bar and a European flavored dance club.

On Dec. 27 Frankie's Bar and Grill, 240 W. College St., opened its doors and sometime in February Checkers will open in the building that was an IGA foodliner, 605 E. Grand Ave., behind Pinch Penny Pub.

Frankie's Bar and Grill, owned by Frank Westwood, offers in addition to drinks, food for its patrons. From 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. patrons can order from a menu that includes burgers, seafood, steaks, super salads and numerous other items, Westwood said. On Friday and Saturday food will be served until 11 p.m. Tropical drinks like Pina Colodas and Bahama Mamas add to the Caribbean atmosphere that Westwood is trying to create.

Although patrons must be 19 to enter after 10 p.m., Westwood said this isn't meant to discourage the younger crowd from coming in and enjoying the food. The main emphasis is on the restaurant, he said.

He said he decided to open in Carbondale because he is originally from Southern Illinois. He now resides in Carbondale and his fiancée attends SIU.

Before opening Frankie's, Westwood owned two bars in Florida called Sally's Shrimboat for eight years.

Checkers, the other new bar to open in Carbondale is 15,000 sq. feet and will have a capacity of 750 to 800 people, Jeff Allsop, one of four managers, said.

Allsop said the best way to describe Checkers is as a dance emporium with a modern motif. "We're going to cater towards everybody and try to bring in a little bit of European and California dance clubs."

The dance floor will be 1500 sq. ft. and multi-level and disc jockeys will play a variety of music.

Videos on big screens and slide shows of customers dancing will be shown. Dance contests also will be part of Checkers' entertainment.

"The main goal of the place is entertainment. We have an ideal location and we're going to bring a different atmosphere to Carbondale," he said.

Checkers will have a couple of lounges that will be separated from the main area with plexiglas so people can sit and talk, Allsop said. The main area will have sofas and standing rails around the dance floor. More tables and chairs will be added if needed later, but right now circulation and ventilation is more of a concern, he said.

The bar will open at 5 p.m. and patrons must be 18 to enter.

"The city is going to be tough on us so we're going to be tough," he said. There will be plenty of unalcoholic drinks available and a fruit and juice bar could be added.

Allsop said, hiring has already began and that 30 to 40 people will be hired overall.

An added feature of Checkers will be an escort service to give unescorted women a ride home or anyone who has had too much to drink. The details haven't been worked out, but the service will be free, Allsop said.

New bars forewarned about serving minors

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

New bar owner Frank Westwood met no problems in obtaining a liquor license for his Carbondale bar, Frankie's, 204 W. College St.

"The (City) Council was very nice and cool with it," he said.

Jeff Allsop, new owner of Checkers, 605 E. Grand, had his license approved Dec. 20 and it will be received as soon as "a few minor items are taken care of."

Allsop added that the only item left is meeting the health codes, which will be met after the remodeling of the building is finished.

"Then I expect them to hand us over our license," Allsop said.

But Councilman Keith

Tuxhorn doesn't want the licenses to go without warning.

"New people need to be reminded of the penalties for serving minors before it becomes a habit," Tuxhorn said.

Councilman John Yow said the new bars should "comply with the law to the letter of the law."

Tuxhorn said the bar owners who ignore the present penalties for serving underage drinkers need stiffer penalties and the council should consider this option.

Councilmen Richard Morris and Yow agree the present liquor codes are adequate.

"We have good codes now, but the bar owners could be more responsive to those codes," Morris said.

Three whites named to jury to try Noah Robinson's case

GREENVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — Three additional white jurors were seated Wednesday for the trial of Jesse Jackson's half-brother Noah Robinson, charged in an alleged pay-for-slay scheme involving members of a Chicago street gang.

Eleven of the required 14 jurors were chosen by Wednesday afternoon and it appeared Robinson, one of the nation's wealthiest black businessmen, could face an all-white jury in his fight against murder and conspiracy charges.

Robinson could face the electric chair if convicted of murder and conspiracy in the January 1986 slaying of Leroy "Hambone" Barber, a paroled armed robber gunned down in Greenville at a building owned by Robinson.

Authorities say Robinson, 46, solicited members of Chicago's El Rukn street gang to carry out the killing, but Robinson has denied involvement in any criminal activity.

He also has been charged with arranging a knife attack on a woman who said she witnessed the killing. Janice Denise Rosemond retracted her story after recovering from the stabbing incident in her Greenville apartment.

Jury selection began on Monday, Martin Luther King Day.

Robinson and Jackson have had no public contact since Robinson's legal troubles arose last summer when Jackson was seeking the Democratic presidential nomination. He has refused comment on his half-brother's case.

Through Tuesday, the second day of the jury selection process, only one black was considered for the jury panel, and she was rejected by 13th Circuit prosecutor Joe Watson.

Marcos' attorney seeks dismissal of accusations against sick client

NEW YORK (UPI) — Deposed Philippine president Ferdinand Marcos, charged with his wife of looting their homeland and defrauding U.S. banks, is dying and charges against him should be dropped, his attorney said Wednesday.

At a hearing before U.S. District Judge John Keenan, Richard Hibe, attorney for Marcos, 71, requested the charges be dismissed because of his "rapidly deteriorating physical condition."

Keenan made no decision during the brief proceedings and scheduled another hearing for Thursday.

Marcos is listed in guarded condition at St. Francis

Medical Center in Honolulu. He was admitted Sunday for what the hospital said was treatment for pneumonia in his left lung and bronchial asthma. He initially was placed in intensive care and then moved to regular accommodations.

Hibe first requested arraignment for Marcos in Hawaii, where he lives in exile, because of his physical condition.

Government attorneys, who previously objected to Marcos's arraignment in Honolulu, Wednesday acceded to it, but Hibe objected to any hearing, asking instead the charges be dropped against Marcos.

"We have been advised by the last doctor who examined president Marcos that he is dying," said Hibe.

"I hold the personal view — and my colleagues agree on this — that president Marcos is in mortal danger," Hibe said in the letter.

"Our position is that, under the circumstances, arraignment anywhere, or participation in any respect in this case is medically impossible at this time," Hibe said in the letter.

"Indeed I have no reason to believe that he will ever be able to participate in this case. We respectfully request that the court reach this larger issue at Thursday's hearing rather than defer it."

Miami police vow arrests to stop rioting, looting

MIAMI (UPI) — Police counted on more than 300 arrests to quell further racial violence Wednesday while officials pressed three separate investigations into the fatal shooting of an unarmed black motorcyclist by a white policeman that sparked two nights of rioting.

The Miami City Commission empaneled an independent review board comprised of black residents of the troubled Overtown section and police, while the Dade County State Attorney's Office and the Justice Department conducted their own probes.

Clement Lloyd, 23, was shot Monday as he and passenger Allen Blanchard, 24, led police on a high-speed chase. Blanchard died the next day of head injuries suffered when Lloyd was killed and the motorcycle smashed into another vehicle.

Officer William Lozano, a member of the department for nearly four years who fired the shot that killed Lloyd, was suspended with pay pending the city's investigation. The investigators could not explain why Lozano opened fire and said he had not given authorities a statement.

The violence began Monday after Lloyd's death and continued Tuesday night after Blanchard died.

The Justice Department began a civil rights investigation into the incident as did the Dade County State Attorney's Office.

Gunfire killed one man and hit eight others Tuesday — just five days before the city plays host to Super Bowl XXIII. Police, paramedics and firefighters were fired upon.

Officer Al Carbollosa said Troy Robinson, 17, was killed in a dispute with Terry Scippio, 38, over a checkwriting machine one of them had stolen from an unknown business. Carbollosa said Scippio left the street corner in the middle of the argument, returned with a handgun and shot Robinson at point-blank range. Scippio was arrested moments later.

The only police officer hit was Eric Butler, who was shot once in the chest but was saved by his bullet-proof vest and was not injured. His assailant was arrested, police said.

Seven other people suffered gunshot wounds and were either recovering in hospitals or were treated and released. Two of those wounded were shot by police in the leg and later apprehended.

Several buildings in the disturbance areas had burned down or were badly damaged, but fire officials did not yet have a count. Fire Capt. Jim Tolbert several fire calls went unanswered because of gunfire.

About 650 police from two departments made 310 arrests in the Overtown, Liberty City and Coconut Grove sections of Dade County. Carbollosa said.

Most of the looters was set Wednesday at $250 and many were freed. Bond for those arrested in occupied buildings and those who had been on probation was set at $3,000 or more, and authorities were worried about crowded conditions at the Dade County jail.

Police hoped the arrests would take some of the troublemakers off the streets and allow police to regain control of black neighborhoods Wednesday.

The police presence was heavy in both neighborhoods, and officers vowed to continue using special field-force units consisting of about 40 men in about a dozen vehicles to swoop in on trouble spots.

"We hope, we really do hope they got the message last night — we're going to put them in jail," said John Roper, another spokesman.

Eggs aid dieting shoppers

National Supermarkets has introduced cholesterol-monitored eggs for diets requiring low cholesterol consumption.

Cholesterol-monitored eggs have the same taste, shape, size and color as a regular egg, yet have 34 percent less cholesterol than the average large eggs.

Through advances in genetic breeding and the use of superior quality natural chicken feed, these eggs have been reduced to 180 milligrams of cholesterol per egg.

The egg has long been known as a source of protein as well as other important nutrients, however, recent attention has been on its high cholesterol content.

A high blood cholesterol level is one of several risk factors associated with coronary heart disease.

The National Institute of Health recommends a reduction of cholesterol intake to less than 300 milligrams per day. Such dietary changes may help lower blood cholesterol and reduce the overall risk of heart disease.

For details on healthy eating, write: Sally Bruns, director of consumer information, National Supermarkets, 6050 North Lindergh, St. Louis, Mo. 63042.

Inauguration of Bush entails a five-day commemoration

(UPI) — George Bush's plunged into a five-day extravaganza of inaugural celebrations Wednesday with a promise to strike out on issues of his own while building on the "proud record" of an eight-year Reagan presidency.

The formal opening ceremonies for the bicentennial inauguration were scheduled for the Lincoln Memorial, where organizers arranged a massive fireworks display, a flyover by Navy jets and — to dramatize Bush's campaign theme of a "thousand points of light" — distributed small flashlights to the public.

The formal twilight ceremony with celebrity entertainment was open to the public at no charge, in stark contrast to the most expensive event of the five-day period — a $1,500-a-head dinner at three locations Wednesday night.

Bush will take the oath of office in a brief ceremony at the Capitol at noon Friday, out the numerous official and unofficial inaugural parties,

Inaugural aired on WSIU-FM

WSIU-FM, 91.9, and National Public Radio will provide live coverage of the inauguration of George Bush as the nation's 41st president Friday.

Coverage, scheduled from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., will take place from the west front of the Capitol in Washington, D.C.

WSIU-FM will preempt Karl Haas' "Adventures in Good Music," normally heard at 11 a.m.

galas, balls and prayer services were scheduled to last through Sunday.

Much to the relief of organizers, forecasts called for Washington's weather to range from balmy to moderate. Four years ago, bitter cold forced Ronald Reagan's second oath-taking ceremony indoors and the massive inaugural parade was canceled.

At the GOP gathering, Bush praised Reagan's tenure in the Oval Office, noting "it won't be easy" to say goodbye to the president this week.

"I don't believe I'd be standing here as president-elect of the United States if it weren't for the way he treated me as the vice president and rolled up his sleeves and went to work for me" in the campaign, Bush said.

Speaking to the teachers, Bush renewed his campaign pledge to be "the education president," vowing to create and strengthen programs "that reward excellence, raise standards, expand choice, publicize success and keep the Americans concentrated on education reform and further improvement."

The five days of official celebrations, which also mark the 20th anniversary of the presidency, are estimated to cost about $25 million.

Republican National Committee realizes a need to appeal to minorities in society

WASHINGTON (SHNS) — President-elect Bush, his chief of staff and the new Republican Party chairman all told party leaders Wednesday that it's time they got serious about appealing to black voters.

Bush spoke to the Republican National Committee, which rubber-stamped his choice of his campaign manager, Lee Atwater, 37, to be party chairman.

"Our party needs to have a broader base with stronger participation from all groups," Bush said.

Earlier, Bush's chief of staff, John Sununu, told the PNC that Bush was determined to rebuild GOP ties to black voters, who in recent years have given the party only 10-15 percent of their votes.

"George Bush is committed to reaching out," Sununu said.

Gunman's dress, actions show milita hangup

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — The young gunman who sprayed an elementary school playground with automatic weapon fire, killed five pupils and wounded 30 others before committing suicide once attended the same school but his record showed normal behavior, police said Wednesday.

Patrick Purdy, 26, attended the Cleveland Elementary School from Sept. 2, 1969, through Nov. 15, 1973 and "was promoted through the grades, had all his shots and his health appeared to be good and normal," Police Capt. Dennis Perry, the chief investigator for Tuesday's massacre, told a news conference.

PURDY, WEARING black work boots, jeans and a camouflage shirt over a flack jacket, used a Chinese-made AK-47 to cut down the youngsters before taking out a 9mm pistol and firing a fatal shot into his left temple.

Perry said he could offer no definite explanation for what triggered Purdy's murderous attack but said "he obviously had a military hangup of some type."

Perry explained that a search of Purdy's motel discovered he had 100 plastic, green toy soldiers, Jeeps and tanks "spread all over the room, shower and in the freezer." They, he added, appeared "to be in some order."

HIS CAMOUFLAGE shirt was lettered with "P.L.O.," "Libya," "Earthman" on the front and on the back "Freedom" and "Death to the Great Satan (sic)," Perry said, adding he probably meant "Satan."

A camouflage cloth was also found in the room, the captain said, and it was lettered with "V for Victory" and "F for Freedom." There was also a six-pointed star with a darkened circle in the middle, he said.

And, as Perry's team of detectives sought explanations for the tragedy, Cleveland Elementary resumed operation. However, only about 250 to 300 of the 970 enrolled students showed up for class. On hand were 30 grief counselors prepared to meet individually or in groups with the terrorized pupils and parents.

FIVE BIG yellow school buses pulled up at the school, and there were only three or four youngsters in each. They stared in bewilderment at the police lines and crowd of newsmen on hand.

Stockton Unified School District officials said about 70 percent of the students at Cleveland Elementary were Southeast Asian.

"Right now I don't let my children go back to school until things settle down," Samchit Koy, a Cambodian mother of three, said. She added that many parents believe Asians were Purdy's "deliberate targets."

AND ONE mother not afraid to send her 6-year-old son Brian back to school despite having another son wounded in the slaughter said the younger boy was only one of three third-grade students to return because 6-year-old classmate Sakhim An was one of the mortally wounded.

Janet Taylor, wife of a California Highway

Patrolman, said Brian would not talk about the attack upon his return home Tuesday afternoon. "He asked his dad to buy him a bullet-proof vest," the mother said.

"He was so frightened he wouldn't let me out of his sight, he wouldn't go to the bathroom without me," she said. One-on-one counseling in the morning enabled him to conquer his fears and resume classes, she said.

Capt. Perry said Purdy expended as many as 106 bullets in firing his AK-47. He said the killer used a rotary magazine and a banana clip. He had a box containing three additional banana clips.

THE CLIP found in the rifle had "SSA" on it, Perry said but could offer no explanation. On the stock, the officer said, was the word "Hezbollah" believed a reference to the Palestinian terrorist group, Perry said.

Juvenile confronted by police

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Authorities charged a 16-year-old boy with two counts of attempted murder for firing at officials at Kennedy High School after a chase through the school.

Erroll Hall surrendered Tuesday in the boy's gym where officers with drawn guns cornered him, police said. No one was hurt in the 20-minute chase.

The student at Gregory Junior High School was booked on juvenile charges of two counts of attempted murder, two counts of aggravated assault and carrying a concealed weapon — a .38-caliber revolver with a 4-inch barrel.

Police said they had no motive for the youth's actions and did not know why he was carrying a gun.

The incident began shortly after noon when security guard Virgil Sorina saw the youth heading toward the school. Sorina said he knew the boy did not belong on the campus.

"I turned my vehicle and when I got abreast of him, he ducked behind a tree and pulled out a large revolver and pointed it at me," Sorina said.

The youth then jumped a fence and ran toward the school building. Witnesses said he dashed through the hallways and climbed out onto the roof, waving his pistol.

Teachers and coaches ordered their students to duck and get out of the way, and police were alerted.

"The young man jumped from the second floor onto the first floor and ran with the gun and disappeared out of nowhere, and the next thing I seen police and security guards running around after him," student Hilton LaSalle said.

Police joined Sorina and several school officials in the chase. Sorina said the youth suddenly ran toward Bayou St. John, which courses alongside the campus, jumped in the water and fired at them.

"He jumped into the bayou fully clothed, with the gun in his hand. At this time, he pointed the weapon at me again and he pointed it at the assistant principal and at the security counselor."

Lawsuits filed against doctor for 'love surgery'

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — A gynecologist accused of performing unorthodox surgery on women's genitals has offered to surrender his license, but officials likely will reject his proposal unless it is unconditional, a State Medical Board spokeswoman said Wednesday.

The board has charged Dr. James Burt, 67, of Dayton with "gross immorality" for 41 offenses, most stemming from his self-described "love surgery" to alter women's genitals, supposedly to increase their sexual responsiveness.

At least 11 lawsuits have been filed against Burt from women alleging the surgery caused sexual dysfunction, infections, chronic pain, incontinence and the need for corrective surgery.

Burt's lawyer, Earl Moore, said his client would agree to surrender his license on the condition it does not constitute an admission of guilt, and if the board cancels a Jan. 30 hearing into its charges against him.

Moore said he submitted a written offer Tuesday in Columbus at the state attorney general's office, which will present the board's case against Burt, who retired Friday, closing his Centerville office.

"This agreement shall constitute a final and permanent surrender of James C. Burt's certificate to practice medicine and surgery," Moore said.

Press corp blasted by Ford, Carter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford said Wednesday, the Washington press corps has done a "lousy job" covering the deficit and reporting on what he labeled the "terrible" way Congress has handled the nation's $1.1 trillion budget.

Former President Jimmy Carter, in a joint press conference at Columbia University after a symposium on the media, nodded in agreement when Ford said:

"The press has let both the White House and Congress fuzzle over the deficit. The press has done a lousy job of writing about the deficit and President Carter and I call the deficit the No. 1 priority."

Asked how the press could do a better job, the Republican Ford replied:

"In the first place, I don't think the press had done an adequate job of reporting on the implications of the deficit. And I think Congress has done a terrible job of handling a $1.1 trillion budget. There is no system. It is a shambles."

"I do not believe the press has done an adequate job reporting on that either. This is a complex, non-sexy issue that does involve our future. The press should show the economic complexities of the deficit."

"At some point we both agree it could become a very critical issue."

Ford and Carter met with reporters after speaking informally during the symposium, titled "The Press, the President and the First Hundred Days."

The symposium focused on presidential dealings with the press and gave Carter and Ford a chance to predict how George Bush will deal with the media after his inauguration as president.

"The first days of a new presidency are pivotal in deciding the issues of national concern for the next four years," said Everette E. Dennis, executive director of the Gannett Center for Media Studies, which sponsored the symposium.

"The scope of public discussion and debate is shaped by the symbiotic agenda-setting of the president and the press, each making its own choices in determining what is newsworthy."

Carter and Ford said Bush shouldn't count on continuing what they called the press honeymoon enjoyed by President Reagan. Carter and Ford said they deplored media use of reports based on anonymous sources during Reagan's administration and the administrations of other presidents.

The Democrat Carter applauded the "USA Today" newspaper for a policy that bars reports quoting unidentified sources. He recommended such a policy to all media.

Tax scheme foiled by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court struck down Wednesday a West Virginia property tax scheme requiring recent purchasers of real estate to pay dramatically higher property taxes than long-time residents who own land of comparable value.

The court said the system used by tax assessors in Webster County, W.Va., discriminated against coal mining companies and other newcomers in violation of the constitution's Equal Protection Clause.

The court's decision, though written narrowly to focus on large tax rate disparities in Webster County, could encourage lawsuits by other property owners around the country who pay higher taxes than their neighbors.

At issue are property tax policies that base the amount of tax on the actual price paid for the land — which means that new property owners frequently pay higher rates than neighbors for land of about the same worth.

In invalidating the Webster County system, the justices said they saw no constitutional defects in West Virginia law, which requires that property be assessed at 50 percent of the price paid in recent transactions.

The problem arises, the court said, when local assessors fail to adjust the value of adjacent land that has not changed hands.

"Viewed in isolation, the assessments for (the newcomers') property may fully comply with West Virginia law," the court said. "But the fairness of one's allocable share of the total property tax burden can only be meaningfully evaluated by comparison with the share of others similarly situated relative to their property holdings."

"The relative undervaluation of comparable property in Webster County over time therefore denies petitioner the equal protection of law," the court said.

Webster County Assessor Dana Lynch predicted the ruling will have serious economic consequences for the county.

"In the long-term, I see this county either going into a bankrupt stage or something near it, or a large increase in excess levies on property owners to pay these coal companies," he said.

E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., who represented the coal companies, said the ruling "stopped in its tracks" a growing trend of burdening new residents with higher property tax rates.

Student wins top internship

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

A University student is one of 49 students selected nationally to receive a $1,000 scholarship and an editing internship this summer.

Loria Roberson, junior in journalism, was notified in December that she had been chosen for the program this summer.

"I found out the Thursday of finals week, so I had a little bit extra to celebrate," she said.

The award is comprised of the scholarship, a required two-week preparatory seminar at Virginia Commonwealth University and a paid internship at The Palm Beach Post in Palm Beach, Fla.

"The program begins May 21. I will go straight from finals into this," she said.

Roberson submitted an application to the program, the 1989 Newspaper Editing Intern Program for College Juniors, in late October.

She then was required to take an hour-long, supervised test consisting of story writing and editing, current events and grammar.

Although designed with minorities in mind, the program does not exclude other students interested in a career in journalism.

"A lot of people said that it was really competitive, so I didn't know what to expect," she said.

After being notified of the award, Roberson had to reapply directly to The Post as a new employee, submitting a resume and a cover letter explaining her intentions for her new position.

"I expect that it will be really good experience. I'm sure I'll make mistakes but I think I'll adapt quickly," she said.

"I will be working closely with someone experienced in the field. Since I am new at this, I expect that they will be a little more lenient with me, but that they will want quality work," she added.

The award covers all costs involved with the program except housing during the internship.

"They will pay for all of my travel expenses as well as the seminar," she said.

The recent works of artist William H. Thielen are now on display at the Associated Artists Gallery, 213 S. Illinois Ave.

The collection includes Thielen's painted sculptures and drawings, which will be on exhibit until Feb. 4.

Law claimed constitutional; convicts get stiff penalties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the constitutionality of congressionally enacted sentencing guidelines that increase prison terms for many federal crimes.

The court, in an 8-1 ruling by Justice Harry Blackmun, upheld the wide ranging sentencing rules that, as of early September, had been found unconstitutional by some 150 federal judges and upheld by some 110 judges. The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals also struck down the rules.

Those opposed to the guidelines argued the makeup of the Sentencing Commission that drew up the rules violated the separation of powers doctrine of the Constitution by placing the commission under the judicial instead of executive branch of government, that Congress delegated excessive authority to the commission and that the guidelines unconstitutionally interfere with a trial judge's sentencing discretion.

The court, however, rejected those views. While calling the commission an "unusual hybrid in structure and authority," Blackmun said Congress did not delegate excessive legislative power or upset the constitutionally specified balance of powers.

Attorney General Dick Thornburgh said he was pleased by the court's ruling, which he said increased "the probability of a safer future."

According to the U.S. Sentencing Commission, the guidelines are expected to cause a 10 percent increase in the federal prison population over the next decade.

White firefighters claim discrimination exists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White firefighters in Birmingham, Ala., trying to overturn an affirmative action plan they say discriminates against them, told the Supreme Court Wednesday they deserve a chance to argue the case in court.

In arguments before the justices, lawyers for the city and black firefighters countered that the whites already had their chance when the plan was drawn up and claimed the latest attack represents just another chapter in their long-running opposition to repairing the city's "egregious history" of racism.

In the 1950s the city advertised municipal jobs such as firefighter with a "white only designation."

The city did not hire a black firefighter until 1968. In July 1981, despite the non-government workforce in the city being nearly 50 percent black, only 42 of 453 firefighters were black and there were no blacks among the 140 lieutenants, captains and battalion chiefs.

defeats," Albeck said. "It is tremendously important that this is a home game."

Herrin said the Salukis success is as much as a surprise to him as anyone, but the cat is forever out of the bag.

"There is no way I thought we would be 13-3," Herrin said. "We have won on the road (7-

"I am just very cautious. I think we've got a chance to get Bradley, but that is a tough place to play and they have a good team. I think we can beat anyone left on our schedule, but they can also beat us."

that or where it came from," House said. "I played inside my first two years, and had to push people around. It might have come from there. You get out of the game what you put into it."

This season, House has been moved out to the wing, a position he said is more comfortable for him, especially since he has had to adapt to a leadership role.

"Early in the year, my dad told me I was not playing with as much emotion as I had," House said. "With a lot of young players, the older ones have to push and be leaders."

"I would be the first to praise someone when they get something right, but also the first to get on them when they do something wrong. That is just something that has to be done. Here, we are at 13-3, and to get better we have to make things happen."

House came to SIU-C in 1985 after graduating from Benton. Oddly enough, it was the same year House's high school coach, Rich Herrin, was hired to coach the Salukis. House said the move bothered him at first.

"I had mixed feelings," House said. "He is a great coach, and would do anything for you. I knew what to expect, but it was harder for me because he knows what I do. The way it turned out though, I would not change it."

Herrin said the fact that House came to SIU-C the same year he did helped out.

"It made the transition easier for me," Herrin said. "He is a class young man and I will truly miss him. He can play all five positions, and has been a dedicated basketball player, better than I ever thought he would be because of dedication."

House said he did receive other offers, among them San Diego State, but he had no desire to leave Southern Illinois.

"Before Kai (Nurnberger) came here it had been 20 some years before a Southern Illinois boy played at Southern Illinois. I was just trying to break some tradition."

"I would like to spend the rest of my life in Southern Illinois. Economic times are bad everywhere, so I'd like to stay close to my family and friends."

House said having a chance to play in front of his family was a big part of coming to SIU-C. The senior said he also has a chance to spend time with maybe his biggest fan, his girlfriend Tara Munday, also of Benton, who he has dated for almost five years.

"I feel like I'm married," House said with a smile.

As for the future, the business major said it will take one more year to finish up his degree.

"There is no question about getting my degree," House said. "There is no doubt I'll stick it out."

A future including basketball is rather doubtful, House said.

"It would be nice to play basketball, but I have to keep things in perspective," House said. "I'm 6-foot-4, white, can't run, can't jump and can shoot on occasion."

But as the light of his college basketball career begins to dim, House said the bottom line will be catching up on the things he missed while dedicating himself to the Salukis' program.

"I just want to sit back and enjoy life," House said. "There were a lot of things I put off for basketball. I did not have to do it, but I can cherish those things now."

"I can give more attention to my girlfriend, my family and my studies. I want to try and settle down and be a normal student for a change."

But the events of the week were impossible to ignore.

"You can see what is going on out there is life," Esiason said. "My motto about football is that it really doesn't matter."

Evansville fine without Simmons

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — The legacy of Marty Simmons no longer shadows the University of Evansville basketball team. The Aces have proven they can win without him.

Simmons, a 6-foot-6 forward, was sixth in NCAA scoring last year with 25.9 points a game. He graduated after leading the Aces to a 21-8 record, but nine lettermen returned this season and Evansville has jumped to an 11-2 start, with a win streak now at nine games.

"Everything centered around Marty in the past. He was a leader on and off the court and no single player can replace him," Evansville coach Jim Crews said. "Players who had specific roles on the team in the past have had to change and become primary players instead of background players."

Evansville has won eight straight home games and the Aces are 28-1 at Roberts Stadium.

Heat to play Chicago despite Miami turmoil

MIAMI (UPI) — Thursday night's game between the Miami Heat and Chicago Bulls will be played unless inner city riots near the Miami Arena jeopardize the safety of fans and players, Heat Managing Partner Lewis Schaffel said Wednesday.

Schaffel spoke outside of the arena one day after the NBA canceled a game between the expansion Heat and Phoenix Suns because of racial disturbances in the Overtown area of Miami. He said he fully expected the streets to be safe Thursday night.

The violence erupted Monday night when a black man riding a motorcycle was shot and killed by a white police officer. The disturbance escalated Tuesday night after a passerby on the motorcycle died of injuries suffered when the motorcycle collided with a car. More than 300 arrests have been made.

The Bulls feature guard Michael Jordan, the league's leading scorer and one of its top gate attractions. This is the only trip to Miami scheduled for the Bulls.

"It is our belief that this game will be played and that the streets around the arena will be safe," Schaffel said. "I really believe that everybody is working hard to accomplish that."

'A Season Inside' lacks controversy

Content of Feinstein book too familiar

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The idea was to explain the culture and personalities of college basketball, as if it were a phenomenon misunderstood by those who cherish it.

Thus John Feinstein, the former Washington Post reporter who spent "A Season on the Brink" with Indiana coach Bob Knight, crisscrossed the country in 1987-88 watching 104 basketball games and writing about the often nonsensical sport in his characteristic no-nonsense style.

Book Review

The result was "A Season Inside: One Year in College Basketball" (Villard Books, $18.95), which is as enlightening as it is disappointing. Most of all, though, it lacks the controversial material that made his first effort, "A Season on the Brink," a best-seller.

Standing on its own, "A Season Inside" is a strong work, complete with revelations about recruiting, the aspirations of players and the ambitions and headaches of coaches. Little-known gymnasiums and personalities that have been lost in the shuffle over the years are reintroduced.

Unfortunately, the subject just doesn't appeal to those who aren't fans, and it is too familiar to those who are. Unlike Bob Knight, whose popularity is nationwide because almost everyone has an opinion about him, the whole game of college basketball is a different animal.

Feinstein even addresses the problem in the introduction by quoting American University coach Ed Tapscott: "Basketball is a culture. If you don't grow up with it or come to understand it completely, you can never really appreciate it. But if you do, no one can ever say anything that will change the way you feel about it."

So the reader is left with too many play-by-play recaps of games that were seen on television by millions. However, this is the book's only weak point.

The remainder of the work is filled with tremendous insight:

■Zany Louisiana State coach Dale Brown on his arch-nemesis Knight, "a truly evil, cunning and sick person."

■North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano on the annual recruiting wars, "If you are a decent human being on any level, you must hate what we do in recruiting."

■Kansas superstar Danny Manning on his first impression of Coach Larry

Brown, "A little man with a big mouth."

The brunt of the book deals with the courageous battles of Arizona guard Steve Kerr, whose father was assassinated. Kerr had played only days after his father's death, breaking into tears during a moment of silence prior to the game, then winning the nation's heart by playing sensationally.

Since that moment, Kerr had been portrayed as an All-American boy. Feinstein says the image is true, undistorted by the media's adoration for Kerr. Yet, Kerr does not see himself like that.

"If I hear or read one more time that I'm Huck Finn or Tom Sawyer, I'll throw up. I'm like any other guy my age. I like to have fun. I like to drink a few beers, and there are times when I'm an asshole. When my family reads all this stuff about how great I am they think it's funny."

Hundreds of such stories are told. Rick Barnes proves himself in his first head coaching job at George Mason. A destructive feud develops between Pittsburgh coach Paul Evans and Villanova coach Rollie Massimino, who is coping with a drug scandal that threatens his career. Tennessee coach Don DeVoe hangs on to his job by his fingernails. Recruit Jerrod

The subject just doesn't appeal to those who aren't fans, and is too familiar to those who are.

Mustaf forces colleges to look at the opportunities for blacks at their own schools.

The best service Feinstein does is devote a whole chapter to the referees, where they are seen as a fraternal brotherhood of men dedicated to the game. He follows one of the best, Joe Forte, for a week and relates the adventures referees have.

The men in the black and white shirts have their own jargon, with slang like freight-training, pop the whistle, spraying, phantoms, no-calls, U-boat, rubber-banding and straight-lining. An official's greatest fear, the reader learns, is not making an incorrect call, but being so pumped up after calling a technical foul that he administers the free throws at the wrong foul line.

The tidbits like that are the gems of the book. If only Feinstein had concentrated more on such things instead of relating the obvious, another sports classic would have been in the works.

academically ineligible athletes. Many athletes now attend school on scholarship but lose their first year of eligibility.

"It's an absolutely stupid rule created by people who don't understand college athletics," said Indiana coach Bob Knight.

DeNoon's track team ready to repeat as league champs

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

A combination of familiar faces and talented newcomers should guide the Saluki women's track team to its third straight indoor Gateway Conference crown and a fourth consecutive outdoor title.

"We can only beat ourselves," coach Don DeNoon said. "If we keep healthy and keep our goals high, we will do fine."

The women will open their season Friday afternoon at the Purdue Invitational in West Lafayette, Ind.

Coach DeNoon's arsenal is led by a deep corps of distance runners. Veterans Jane Schumacher and Lisa Judisack will spearhead this experienced group.

Schumacher, the 1988 most valuable cross country runner, placed fourth in the 1500-meter at the 1988 outdoor GCAC championships.

Judisack, who sat out the 1988 cross country season with an injury, took first in the 10,000-meters and second in the 5,000-meters at last year's GCAC championships.

"Lisa is healthy and ready to go," DeNoon said. "She should give us some good performances."

Rosanne Vincent will spread her talent by running in races ranging in distance from 400 to 1,500 meters. Vincent won the 800-meter Gateway title in 1988 and holds both indoor and outdoor 800-meter records at SIU-C.

With returnees Pam Quarengi (1,500), Cathy Brown (10,000), Dona Griffin (10,000), and newcomers Amy Padgett and Tracy Guerrin, the distance events seem to be in capable hands.

The Salukis will pose a threat in the triple jump and long jump with the tandem of seniors Christiana Philippou and Carmen Robbins.

Philippou is the two-time defending GCAC indoor and outdoor champion in the triple jump.

Robbins will be looking for her third straight Gateway heptathlon title in addition to jumping.

"I think both Christina and Carmen have excellent chances to get to the NCAA Championships," DeNoon said.

Junior Dora Kyriacou, GCAC champion in the 200-meter is the key to the Saluki sprinters.

"She just blew everyone away in our last meet (at Illinois State)," DeNoon said. "She's ill lately, though. She won't run Friday. Dora is another one who could go to the NCAA's."

The hurdling events will be run by the best tandem of hurdlers in the conference, seniors Kathy Raske and Robbins, who specialize in the 100-meter hurdles. Returnee Michelle Sciano was an asset as a freshman for the Salukis, taking second in the Gateway 400-meter championships.

"We have load of talent," DeNoon said.

Professional golfer focuses sights on third straight win

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Steve Jones, the only man to win a Professional Golfers Association Tour event this year, returns home in his bid to become the first player in more than a decade to win three consecutive tournaments.

Jones, who earned $315,000 as winner of the Tournament of Champions and the Bob Hope Classic, said he is not feeling any pressure for the $700,000 Phoenix Open beginning Thursday at the Tournament Players Club of Scottsdale, a short distance from his home.

"I feel I have nothing to lose," said Jones, 31.

Women athletic directors' ranks still elite group despite growth

By Tom Wheatley
St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Cindy Jones is a member of an exclusive but growing sorority. As athletic director at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, she is one of the few women charged with running both men's and women's sports at an NCAA-member school.

The last NCAA survey is more than a year old, but in October 1987, only 51 women athletic directors were working at member schools. The NCAA listed one woman AD in Division I (at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh), 16 in Division II and 34 at the non-scholarship Division III schools. The total does not include the 41-year-old Jones. SIUE, a Division II school, promoted her from assistant athletic director July 20. She succeeded Lynn Lashbrook.

Scott concerned about offensive inconsistency

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Lately, Coach Cindy Scott has done nothing but praise the defensive efforts of her women's basketball team.

When it came to mention of the offense, though, she can only shake her head.

The Salukis, second in the Gateway at 5-1 and 7-6 overall, play the Southwest Missouri Lady Bears (5-9 overall, 3-2 Gateway) tonight at the Arena.

Scott wonders which version of the Salukis' offense will emerge after the 7:30 p.m. tipoff. Will it be the Salukis that shot 50 percent from the field and scored a season-high 74 points against Bradley on Friday? Or will it be the team that scored just 47 points and committed 27 turnovers against Western Illinois on Saturday?

"We are scary offensively," Scott said. "It's a fun team to coach defensively, but we are so inconsistent on offense. I like this team a great deal and I'm really trying to coach them to their fullest potential."

One player who has made great strides to contribute in the past two weeks is 6-4 senior center Cathy Kampwerth. Her shooting percentage has risen from 37.3 to 43.5 since the conference season began.

As Kampwerth sees it, persistence on the offensive end will pay dividends.

"Western pressured us, and we let them get to us," Kampwerth said. "We didn't work the ball like we should have. We need to run our offense with more patience."

"Overall we need to go to the offensive boards more. When you are more patient, we are usually in a better position to rebound anyhow."

The Salukis have been outrebounded 162 to 157 on the offensive boards this season.

However, they have still won five straight and seven of the last nine after starting out 0-4.

Although Southwest Missouri has not beaten SIU-C in 14 tries, the Lady Bears have Scott worried.

"Everyone thinks because we are on a roll and playing at home, we can breeze through this weekend's games," Scott said. "But it's just not that way. Southwest is a team that plays hard, and is capable of playing with us."

Despite struggling in the early going — Southwest Missouri opened the schedule with four losses — Coach Cheryl Burnett's team has beaten three conference opponents, including Wichita State 71-66 on Saturday.

Led by sophomore Patty Porter, the only returning starter from last season's 9-17 team, the Lady Bears shot 59.3 percent from the field and scored 45 second-half points to beat Wichita State.

Porter, whose 16.5 points per game ranks seventh on the Gateway scoring ladder, can catch fire at any time. She had

Dedication is House's foundation

As the halftime clock slowly winds down and the Salukis take to the court in preparation for the second half of battle, one unformed player sits comfortably on the bench.

While his teammates try to put the ball in the hole one last time, senior Randy House plays his own kind of game in the comfort of his courtside chair.

"It's just something I've always done," said House about his halftime habit. "Even in high school, I would come out and plop myself down. It's all a mental game. I sit over there and try to get myself in the right frame of mind."

It would seem the time alone is paying off. House scored the 1,000th point of his Saluki career against Drake Jan. 14, and is closing in on possibly the most coveted records in SIU-C's history — playing in more games than any previous Saluki.

House has played in 95 college contests for SIU-C, 13 short of the record of 108 held by Darnall Jones, who played from 1980-83. The 21-year-old House said setting a new record would mean a lot to him.

"That is a big accomplishment," House said. "I have to stay healthy enough and contribute enough. When I hurt my ankle I did not think I could get it unless we went to the NCAA (tournament)."

For his characteristic hard-nosed play on the court, House has picked up the nickname "Rambo" somewhere along the way.

Salukis to test Albeck's team

Herrin's luck poor in Peoria

It is not exactly the way Bradley coach Stan Albeck wanted to follow up a Missouri Valley championship season. Not at all.

The Braves have fought to 5-6, trying desperately to shrug off the loss of All-American Hersey Hawkins, who lead Bradley to a 26-5 finish last season. The transition has not been easy.

Bradley has been everywhere from a narrow 87-86 loss to MVC favorite Wichita State at Wichita, to a dismal thumping by New Orleans, 91-63.

Bradley's latest outing, a 91-83 loss to 6-10 Illinois State, has Albeck searching for answers.

"Illinois State simply outplayed and outthrust us in many departments," Albeck said. "We played more aggressive in the second half, but two big deficiencies that really glare out are offensive rebounding and the inability to convert on the free throw line."

The Braves hit just 18 of 33 free throws Sunday night.

Albeck said the Salukis, who invade Carver Arena in Peoria tonight at 8 p.m., will provide a stiff opponent for his Braves.

"When they beat Wichita, they have got to be considered a contender and maybe the favorite," Albeck said.

"Especially the win over Villanova. That did more for our confidence than any single game this season."

As a team, Bradley leads the league in offense with over 85 points per contest, but is last in the MVC in defense, allowing nearly 90 points per game.

Despite the upset by the Redbirds, Albeck said Bradley will be ready for the Salukis. "The boys have a great ability to bounce back off

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS AT BRADLEY

Tipoff: Carver Arena (10:47), Peoria, 8 p.m.
Records: Southern Illinois (13-3, 2-0), Bradley (5-6, 1-2)
What to watch: The Salukis take the court where they have won only once in six games. Bradley will look to get back on track after a disappointing loss at Illinois State.
Last meeting: Bradley 113, Southern Illinois 102, Feb. 29 at Carbondale.
Series: Bradley leads 20-7.
On the air: WFBQ-FM (99.9), Carbondale. WMBD-AM (147.0), Peoria.

"Southern is supposed to have surprised a lot of people, but I have been a big fan of Rich (Herrin) since he came into the league (1986). He deserves a hand for going out and getting the people he has got."

The Braves are paced by the 20-plus points per game by the MVC's leading scorer, senior Anthony Manuel. Manuel also leads the league in assists, steals and three-point percentage.

As a team, Bradley leads the league in offense with over 85 points per contest, but is last in the MVC in defense, allowing nearly 90 points per game.

Despite the upset by the Redbirds, Albeck said Bradley will be ready for the Salukis.

Miami riots keep Super Bowl teams restrained

MIAMI (UPI) — Police escorted the Cincinnati Bengals and San Francisco 49ers to and from their Super Bowl workout Wednesday, isolating players from the violence that has intruded itself on the NFL's annual party.

Except for practice time and the hour spent with writers and broadcasters Wednesday, most players stayed close to their hotels following two nights of shooting, arson and looting that made up the fourth outbreak of racial violence to hit Miami in the 1980s.

"I didn't go out at all last night," said Cincinnati quarterback Boomer Esiason. "I was afraid I might make a wrong turn somewhere."

Miami police arrested 250 people Tuesday night on the second night of rioting, originally sparked by the shooting of a black motorcyclist by a policeman.

Despite the unrest, Super Bowl Host Committee chairman Dick Anderson said he expected his city would bid for the game again at the earliest available opportunity and that he thought the NFL would return the event to Miami. He said no Super Bowl related activities had been cancelled and that he did not expect any to be.

The top football related news of the day came from the 49ers camp, where 13-year veteran offensive lineman Randy Cross announced he would retire following Sunday's game.

"I can't think of a better time to do it," Cross said.

And San Francisco coach Bill Walsh only fueled further speculation that this would be his final game when he said:

"We will meet Monday or Tuesday to decide what the future holds."

Franchise owner Edward DeBartolo, Jr., has said all week he expects Walsh to end his coaching career with Sunday's game.

As the already long week
