Now, after four years, after the lectures and labs that were etched endlessly into our syllabi, after the nights we woke, with the textbook creased in our cheeks, after the multiple choice tests sharpened shades of grey into neat packages, after the white coat molded to our Maxwell's and became uniquely ours, after we served as trusted advisor and partner in health,
after we delivered the child, both pink and blue,
after we held the hands of the sick and the dying with compassion, after we found our hearts' true calling in our chosen fields, we stand, forever changed, by what it means to be...

Doctor

Thank you to my peers for taking this journey with me. Because of you, I have learned more and challenged myself further. Thank you to the faculty and residents, Lab Table 13, Tiby and Sam in the LRC, the med student lounge couches, and my many study buddies. A special thanks to the Friday night ladies for painting, cooking, walking Guy, sipping red wine, venting, and laughing with me. I feel so blessed to have you and you will always be dear to me.

Thank you Mom and Dad for your unconditional support and for teaching me what medicine is really all about. Most of all, thank you, Steve. I would not be here without your love and support. Here's to what lies ahead!

Sometimes there's a man... I won't say a hero, 'cause, what's a hero? Sometimes, there's a man... well, he's the man for his time and place. He fits right in there. And that's the Dude... Sometimes there's a man, sometimes, there's a man. Well, I lost my train of thought here. But... aw, heck. I've done introduced it enough. (the Stranger in the Big Lebowski)

"Welcome, O life! I go encounter for the millionth time the reality of experience and to forge in the smithy of my soul the uncreated conscience of my race."

(James Joyce in The Portrait of an Artist as a Young Man)

Four years of medical school is a climb up the perilous mountain that is the hero quest, the quest for knowledge to heal and make whole. We disintegrate ego, re-imagine selfhood and space, connect and hope to transcend and now we stand on a tall cliff. I look back and see my angelic Missy, my Mom and Dad, Carol and Fred, my family and friends who without which I would not find the strength to continue. Turning around, the base of the peak menaces the sky. We are not done, but we will trudge forward, with the same love and support that has allowed us to come so far.

Sooner or later we all discover that the important moments in life are not the advertised ones, not the birthdays, the graduations, the weddings, not the great goals achieved. The real milestones are less prepossessing. They come to the door of memory unannounced, stray dogs that amble in, sniff around a bit and simply never leave. Our lives are measured by these.

With my family present
 A white coat was donned
 With hope and excitement
 My medical career was spawned
 The weeks became months
 The months became years
 Some vacations were planned
 To alleviate my fears
 The knowledge was added
 That coat became worn
 My life became rattled
 A beautiful girl was born
 Thanks to my supporters
 Especially my wife
 A shoulder to cry on
 She's the love of my life
 Excitement lies ahead
 A career to create
 Many friends have been added
 My Jefferson years were just great

“If ever there is tomorrow when we're not together, there is something you must always remember. You are braver than you believe, stronger than you seem, and smarter than you think. But the most important thing is, even if we're apart, I'll always be with you.” -Pooh

“Whatever we learn has a purpose and whatever we do affects everything and everyone else, if even in the tiniest way. Why, when a housefly flaps his wings, a breeze goes round the world; when a speck of dust falls to the ground, the entire planet weighs a little more; and when you stamp your foot, the earth moves slightly off its course. Whenever you laugh, gladness spreads like the ripples in a pond; and whenever you're sad, no one anywhere can be really happy. And it's much the same thing with knowledge, for whenever you learn something new, the whole world becomes that much richer.”

To my dear friends and colleagues, thank you so very much for the generosity and friendship I have had since transferring in at the start of 3rd year - it's always a little difficult being the new kid on the block! I shall treasure these couple of years; especially of the solidarity amongst medical students! Good luck wherever your path takes you!

First, to my parents, thank you for your unconditional love and support. I love you and think of you always. Nothing seems impossible after seeing everything you have accomplished together. And Mom, for the record, I am so proud of you for fulfilling your dream to become a Reverend. Liz, you epitomize a true friend. I love our conversations, and know I can trust you with anything. You will be a wonderful psychiatrist! Becky, I am so blessed to have you as both a neighbor and a friend. Your friendship means so much to me, and I look forward to all the fun times we will share in the future. Jesus, you are my Lord and Savior. Thank you for all of my blessings, including bringing such wonderful people into my life. Finally, to the entire class of 2010, Congratulations! We did it!

The cold Chicago air in the morning felt refreshing. Although I was drinking stale coffee from yesterday, I was content. Today I realized just how lucky I am. I have now gone through one of the most unique experiences anyone can imagine, a dream that would have been impossible if I didn't have:

My family,

so supportive, in every possible way.

My friends, old, new, all quirky,

but nonetheless awesome.

And Rebecca, your love and friendship has fueled me for the past eight years and sustained me even from three time-zones away, and even when I didn't deserve it. You lift me up to blissful oblivion, yet miraculously keep me grounded with your ever expanding love, kindness, and warmth.

It is so true that you may run by yourself, but you never run alone.

Thank you for everything.

Becoming a physician has been a dream of mine for many years and it certainly has not always been smooth sailing. I could not have made it through those stormy nights without the love and support of many people. First and foremost, I would like to thank God for blessing me with this opportunity. In addition, I would like to thank my family (including the Alfaros) for their encouragement. I would especially like to thank my wonderful wife Kristina for her love and sacrifice that has allowed me to be here today.

Jefferson Gets Involved.....

When you throw together the endless opportunities of a city like Philadelphia with the interests and energy of 244 talented and devoted medical students, big things happen. The following pages detail just a few of the many organizations that JMC students have started and gotten involved in over the last four years. Continuing in the Jefferson tradition of excellence and service, the Class of 2010 proudly made their mark on the world, and if the past four years are any indicator, you can expect more big things to come from these new MDs.

Carrying on the Jefferson tradition requires recruiting and accepting the best for our medical college. These four dynamite people devoted themselves to that purpose.

PROFESSIONALISM AND CONDUCT COMMITTEE

These four students were elected to serve for three years as representatives of our class. By demonstrating a dedication to the ideals of professionalism and serving as advocates for its education and practice, they helped to maintain one of Jefferson's most important traditions.

Clerkship and Course Liaisons

Through a little dedication, a lot of hard work, and a pinch of masochism, these students took it upon themselves to represent their classmates to "the powers that be" for each course and clerkship. Through their efforts, exams were challenged, feedback was collected, lectures were recorded, concerns were addressed, and changes were made.

Below are the names of the students who not only made their education a priority, but yours as well.

HOBART AMORY HARE

The Hobart Amory Hare Society has been a part of Jefferson since 1891. It is a medical honor society, which includes students who excelled in both their 2nd year Foundation of Clinical Medicine Course and their 3rd year Internal Medicine Clerkship. The Society holds numerous meetings and lectures to help facilitate a deeper understanding of the field of Internal Medicine. Examples include the annual Clinical Pathology Conference, the always entertaining Raft Debate, a series of review sessions given to the 2nd year class, and monthly Journal Clubs hosted by various Jefferson physicians.

JeffHOPE Facts

JeffHOPE is the largest and most active student organization at Jefferson, involving over 700 medical, nursing, and pharmacy students and over 50 faculty members.

JeffHOPE is the largest student run free clinic in the whole country! Our clinics are responsible for over 2,000 patient-visits per year.

JeffHOPE was formed in 1991 by a group of medical students who saw a need in the homeless community for proper medical care and also saw the potential opportunities for health professionals to reach out to this population.

JeffHOPE currently operates five clinics at homeless shelters and one clinic in conjunction with Prevention Point Philadelphia, a nonprofit syringe exchange program. A free medical clinic is held at each of these six sites once a week.

The Jefferson Chapter of AOA, Pennsylvania Alpha, was founded in 1903. It was the fifth to be chartered and the first to be established on the East Coast. The Jefferson AOA Chapter strives to foster excellence in medicine by sponsoring over twenty on-going educational and service projects at Jefferson and in the community. In recent years, this chapter has remained among the most productive in the nation.

Favorite In-class Memories

- Watching certain students follow Dr. Shea around the anatomy lab.
- When a student stood up during a Dr. Kocher lecture and loudly shouted, "EXCUSE ME, DR. KOCHLER. WE BELIEVE THE MICROPHONE IS OFF!"
- When Brian Moore asked how many bananas you would have to eat to die from potassium toxicity. (It's 32, by the way)
- During a presentation with the screen down in Brent Auditorium in 2nd year, when a 4th year student climbed on the table in the front of the room and walked behind the screen. The table started to tip over and we all thought he was going to die.
- Every time Dr. Schmidt made fun of Drexel med students.
- When Ed Silver cursed during an announcement about personal training.
- Sorry, I never went to class.

PRESENTATION OF THE PORTRAIT OF
DR. STEVEN K. HERRINE
BY THE JMC CLASS OF 2010

Portrait Presentation Ceremony

March 17, 2010

Jefferson's time honored tradition of selecting a faculty member to be painted began with the Jefferson Medical College Class of 1861. This class chose Charles Meigs, MD, Professor of Obstetrics, for the occasion of his retirement. The portrait was a gift to Dr. Meigs and a copy of the portrait was donated to Jefferson Medical College by his son, John Forsyth Meigs, MD, in 1880. The highest honor that faculty members can receive is to be chosen by the Jefferson Medical College senior class to have their portrait painted. The Portrait is then presented to Thomas Jefferson University during a presentation ceremony. It was the wish of Samuel D. Gross, MD (painted by Thomas Eakins in The Gross Clinic) to have faculty members honored in this manner. The graduating class bestows this honor onto a faculty member who has demonstrated outstanding contributions to their class and the medical college.

“He is incredibly gifted at conveying important clinical knowledge in a way that students of all levels are able to build upon and utilize long after. I aspire to one day have the impact on medical students that Dr. Herrine has had on me.”

“He reminds us to not just learn but to question what we learn.”

“Dr. Herrine cares greatly about his students' education. His kindness, varied interests, and unique path to medicine make him an ideal teacher; the kind you strive to emulate and hope to make proud.”

“Whenever I present a case, I think of Dr. Herrine. He taught us that a presentation was so much more than a recitation of facts. It is the telling of a story with the meter and detail of a poet. How appropriate to dedicate a work of art to a clinician who emphasizes the true art of medicine.”

Dr. Herrine's Words of Advice to the Class of 2010:

1. It's all about the patient.
2. There is always time to be polite.
3. Cultivate your sense of wonder.
4. Teach somebody something.
5. Eat well.

Match Day

2010

JMC Match

> The 2010 US Match had over 30,000 applicants who have been vying for about 3,500 specialty programs.

> The specialties receiving the highest number of matches this year by JMC students are Internal Medicine (50), Family Medicine (24), Emergency Medicine (18), and Pediatrics (17).

> 38% of JMC students chose a primary care residency (Internal Medicine, Family Medicine, Pediatrics, or Medicine-Pediatrics), though many may still choose to subspecialize.

> 42% of JMC students accepted residencies at a hospital in Pennsylvania (33% are staying at Jefferson or an affiliate) this coming year.

The third Thursday of March is just another day for most people, but for U.S. medical students, it's a tradition, a right of passage, and the pinnacle moment of their medical school careers. Match day is the day that every medical student works, worries, and waits for during their four years of medical school. On March 18th, 2010, the JMC senior class gathered in Connelly Auditorium and anxiously awaited noon, when we were handed an envelope and, along with our colleagues across the country, found out where we were headed to embark on the next step of our medical training. At 12:05, we applauded our dean, grabbed our envelopes, gathered with friends, and discovered our residency positions. Congratulations to all!

Comedic Editor

Congratulations to the Class of 2010. It has been an amazing four years and I am so grateful to have been a part of this phenomenal class. Best of luck in all that you do in the future.

"When you consider what those of us here have been given--in talent, privilege, and opportunity--there is almost no limit to what the world has a right to expect from us. I hope you will judge yourselves not on your professional accomplishments alone, but also on how well you have addressed the world's deepest inequities...on how well you treated people in a world away who have nothing in common with you but their humanity. Be activists. Take on the big inequities. Reducing inequity is the highest human achievement. It will be one of the great experiences of your lives." -Bill Gates

Thank you class of 2010 for the good times and unforgettable memories...

2010.

I want to thank all of you for four memorable and fun years. A special shout out to my boys DeGroat, Feduska, B Moore, Dave Reisner, Mod, Old Man Hanley, and Savino. I never thought I would find such great friends and drinking buddies in med school, but you proved me wrong time and time again. Always remember: RULES ARE RULES and IT'S FUN TO DO BAD THINGS. I wish everyone the best of luck in residency and in your future careers. Keep your Jefferson pride and show the world what Jeff is all about. Work hard...play harder. Good talk, see you out there.

I Love You,
'Zon Sean

Residency Pearls

1. If a 1st year med student asks you if there is anything to do...asks them if they are lost.
2. If a 2nd year med student asks you if there is anything to do...ask them why they are in the hospital and what it's like being a gunner.
3. If a 3rd year med student asks you if there is anything to do...NEVER say, "Oh, you can go read until something comes up." DON'T BE THAT GUY.
4. If a 4th year med student asks you if there is anything to do in the months of November thru May, shame on you for not sending them home already.

Class of 2010, I must start off by saying congratulations. Congratulations on slaving through the first two years to survive rotations to make it to this day. I am honored to be part of your class and to have been able to put together a detailed yearbook chronicling our four years at Jefferson. All the annoying, persisting, never-ending emails I sent in the fall and winter have allowed us to compile a fantastic collection of memories.

There are many, many people to thank. I could not have even begun to work on this book without the guidance and support of the Office of Student Affairs, particularly Dr. Charlie Pohl and Susanne Friedman. This project would have crumbled without Susanne. Huge thanks to her for her relentless organization and constant communication. I must also thank the people at Herff Jones for helping us put this together, particularly Brian Regenye for guiding us and repeatedly allowing us to extend our publishing deadlines.

Of course, I am forever grateful to the Yearbook Staff. There is absolutely no way I could have done this job alone and these people worked incredibly hard right up until our last publishing deadline, which just so happened to be right after Match Day. The last thing a couple of recently-Matched fourth year students want to do is work on yearbook pages, but these guys really stepped up and we turned out our book on time and with style. Kyle Meehan never slowed down and repeatedly took on additional projects. Her creativity, originality, and compassion were poured into this book. And trust me, if you need something done around this campus, you want Kyle on your side. She knows everyone. Komal Soin's photography skills and spatial reasoning are abilities which I have never possessed and I'm incredibly thankful and grateful to have had her on board. She designed 95% of the color pages at the beginning of the book and created every collage you see. And what can I say about Sean Devitt? Well, without him, this book might not have been published until July. Sean spearheaded and put together all the superlatives, which I think are the best categories ever invented. He also chugged through the Match Day pages right up until our deadline. Sean's flair for the comedic makes this book particularly unique. I also owe a huge thank you to Doug Corwin for doing the bulk of our fundraising to ensure that YOUR yearbooks remain FREE for all students. We realize that the best way to make this book (or anything) available is to make it free. Doug's persistence, while possibly annoying to faculty and staff, has allowed us to reach our goal. This project was massive and lengthy, but, with a combined effort, it was incredibly successful and fun.

There are many other people who helped make this book possible. Erin Meschter and Kristen Reese stepped in to help with some pages when Kyle was in New Mexico on an Indian Reservation with no internet and Komal was in Ecuador. Thank you to every student who sent in group pictures and, in particular, the numerous individuals who provided tons of requested pictures (Trisha Juliano, Corinne O'Brien, Michael Quartuccio, Julie Herman, and Alex Otto). I'd also like to thank the dozens of supporters around campus, the faculty, the departments, alumni, and parents for your contributions.

Most of all, thank you to my classmates. This book is truly our book, composed of four years of hard work and deserved celebration. As we enter this most distinct profession, remember those who stood beside you on that first day of Anatomy in JAH 533, listened with you in Connelly as we heard pleural friction rubs, prayed for you the first time you sutured semi-correctly on Surgery, and nervously paced around you as you waited to be handed that envelope on March 18th, 2010. These are your colleagues, your friends, your team members, your friendly competitors. And now, they are your fellow physicians.

CONGRATULATIONS, DOCTORS!

JONATHAN T. DEGROAT, MD

Congratulations, Jonathan, on your achievement in fulfilling your dreams of becoming a doctor. Your wonderful success is due to your sensitivity, compassion and knowledge of medicine. You were not deterred by the separation from your family nor the very cold but beautiful winters at school, missing the fun and sunshine at home. The financial and academic commitments did not hinder you from becoming a doctor. You married a wonderful woman, made new friends and enjoyed many intramural sports. We are so overwhelmingly proud of you and are honored to call you

Congratulations, Thenu! We are so very proud of you! It feels like just yesterday, we carried you home on a 30 hour train ride as a 30-day old baby, and here you are now, all grown-up into a very handsome and accomplished young man, having traveled more countries than anyone in our family.

It feels like just yesterday, we walked you over to your Pre-School and Kindergarten with that great smile pasted across your face, and here you are now, graduating one of the most challenging programs in medicine! It feels like just yesterday, you were practicing running around our block, trying to break your own running record, and here you are now, all grown-up and strong, participating in charity 10K runs!

Today, we realize that you are no longer just "Thenu," but "Dr. T. Chandrasekar!" You are hard working, sincere, funny, affectionate and dependable and have brought so much happiness and joy into our lives. As you move into this new and exciting stage in your life, know that we are always here to love and support you.

Congratulations on your striking achievements!
On this memorable twenty-fourth day of May.
Numerous are good wishes and great compliments.
Gradually, you have set your goals and found your way.
Resolve, determination you must acknowledge.
Apply your skills with compassion and honesty!
True confidence is based on training and knowledge.
Understand illnesses and apply remedy!
Let not the same difficulties trip you up twice!
A learning experience you can always widen.
Train, work hard and your reward will be beyond price.
In all undertaking may your future brighten!
One never put to the proof knows very little.
Never lord it over the sick and the needy!
Strive to be your best, and, your knowledge, rekindle!

God-given talents, use them with humility!
Entrust your healing power to the Almighty!
Give and you will surely receive abundantly.
Endeavor, heal, and serve humanity truly!

The day you were born, the student nurses came Christmas caroling through the halls of the hospital. When they stopped in the room and saw us, they began singing, "What Child Is This?" and I began to cry. Today, there are tears once again of immeasurable joy! You are God's child first and always. You are our beloved daughter and sister, and now wife to Thomas. You are a young woman with a persevering spirit and amazing compassion. Those qualities will serve you and your patients well. What child is this? It's our Sarah...Dr. Sarah, in whom we are incredibly proud!

Love, Mom, Dad, Laura, Mike and Tom

Abhik, You started medical school as an intellectually curious student; today, you have graduated as a confident young doctor. You certainly have a promising future in medicine, and we are all proud of this. What gives us greater pride, however, is that you have grown to be such a caring brother, a loving son, and most importantly, a good man.

Congratulations, and best of luck on the road ahead.
