HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE

Rhodes Center, Atlanta's first modern shopping center geared towards the automobile, was constructed from September 1937 to June 1938. Increasing suburbanization coupled with rising automobile use made the location of Rhodes Center seem ideal. Due to traffic congestion and restrictions, businesses that relied upon regular easy access migrated towards the suburbs and their clientele. Built on land obtained from the A. G. Rhodes estate the shopping center initially contained the following businesses: Angelo's Restaurant, Anderson & Meggee Beauty Salon, A & P Grocery Store, Custom Dress Shop, Waldrip & Griffin Druggist, Rhodes Center Theater, French Pastry Shop, Yellow Lantern Library, Ann Hagan Shop, Georgia Milk Producers Confederation, Powell Cleaners, Rhodes Center Florist, and the Oasis Liquor Store. By 1945, the Rhodes $.05 to $1 Store - a tenant after 1938- , the dress shops and the A & P store had moved. The pharmacy, restaurant, liquor store, barber and beauty shops remained in the center for the next twenty-five years. The close proximity of larger and more convenient retail areas led to the decline of Rhodes Center. Rhodes Theater closed in 1985 and Perkins Pharmacy, the last neighborhood-oriented tenant, moved to a new location in 1987. (See Appendix A for Atlanta City Directory information and Sanborn Maps)

The three building complex was designed by the Atlanta architectural firm of Ivey &

Crook. The partnership was established in 1923 by Ernest Daniel Ivey (1887-1966) and Lewis Edmund Crook (1898-1967), both graduates of the Georgia Institute of Technology. The team designed some of Atlanta's and the Southeast's finest residential, sacred and commercial buildings. Their partnership lasted until their deaths in the winter of 1966-1967. Ivey & Crook's "Classical Traditional" style is exemplified by the design of Rhodes Center. (See Appendix B for bibliographic information on Lewis Edmund Crook, Jr.)

Description
BUILDING CONDITIONS

Rhodes Center maintains much of its original architectural integrity, and consists of three separate units: north, south and west buildings. The main facades are white Georgia [and Tennessee marble] accented with black marble and separated by large plate glass windows. There are vent openings in the black marble below the windows. Burgundy and gray Carrara glass decorates the upper facade of the West building. The wooden doors, which are original, are trimmed with galvanized metal. Some doors have a wood framing piece over the metal and there are transoms above each door in varying sizes. Several period canvas awnings are still in place. Units seven through ten have aluminum awnings. On the west facades of the North and West buildings are original fire hose connections and alarms (probably inoperable). A concrete block addition has been built on to the rear of the West building, ;

otherwise, the buildings retain their original exterior dimensions. (See Appendix C for scaled drawings of the complex and Appendix D for photographs.)

The shopping center is bounded on the east by Peachtree Street (formerly West Peachtree Street) and on the west by Spring Street (a four-lane one-way street running south). North Rhodes Center is separated from the Rhodes Hall property by a diagonal parking lot that connects Peachtree Street to Spring Street. South Rhodes Center is separated from the Rhodes Hall property by South Rhodes Street (a one-way street connecting Spring Street to Peachtree Street running east). The intersections of Spring Street and South Rhodes Street and South Rhodes Street and Peachtree Street are controlled by traffic lights. There are eighteen diagonal parking spaces in front of the North building, this is the only designated parking for Rhodes Center. There are curb sidewalks along the front facades of each building. The sidewalks are in generally good condition; however, they are not handicap accessible. Large concrete planters (approximately 3' high and 5' in diameter) are placed along the sidewalk of the North building.

CURRENT STATUS or Conditions

The Rhodes Center property is owned by Scott Hudgens Company. There are currently five tenants: an interior decorating/antique shop, a balloon shop, "Youth at owner is the problem

Risk," a framing shop, and an artist's studio. Whether the leasing difficulty is a product of the owner or the location/condition of the buildings is unknown. (See Appendix E for the chain of ownership.)

The three buildings are generally in fair condition. Major structural defects are not apparent. One area of concern is the rear basement wall of the North building. The base of the wall is fifteen to twenty feet below the current grade of the parking lot adjacent to North Rhodes Center. A metal grate covers a five feet wide by fifteen to twenty feet deep trough that runs the length of the building. There is rising damp evident throughout most of the wall, extending from the ground upward to approximately ten feet. Due to the inaccessibility of this area a close inspection was not possible. However, visual inspection from a distance revealed large cracks, chunks of brick and concrete breaking free, and exposed rebar. In many areas there is spalling of the thin stucco coating on the brick. Botanical growth is evident at the base of the wall, a ten feet tree - midway along the building - and other vegetation is growing in the trough.

There is evidence that there is a problem with the roof. The roof was not investigated due to inaccessibility. Spalling plaster and stains were observed inside several of the buildings. There was not enough damage to be a critical problem, but the roofs of all three buildings are a major concern. The roofs are flat with an interior drainage system and the roofing material is not known. The roof on the addition to West Rhodes Center is also flat and has a rusted-out gutter and downspout system that needs to be replaced. The downspout empties at the foundation so that water flows onto the masonry.

yes, but, real problem is moisture penetration due to failure to maintain protective coating

The facades of all three buildings illustrate the effects of ultra-violet rays. The wood frames and sills around the interior of the windows have been damaged by the sunlight, as apparent from the peeling paint and deteriorated caulk.

ie. poor maintenance

The interiors have had partition walls added to divide the spaces into various configurations. The ceilings maintain their original height. Most have had acoustical tiles applied; however, units number three and seventeen retain the plaster ceilings.

might this have been original?

There are metal vents in the center of the ceilings. These vents were used in association with the vents placed in the black marble under the windows. They provided flow-through ventilation for the space. A turbine mounted on the roof helped the flow of air, pulling the hot air up and the cool air into the building.

The floor coverings throughout the units are of varying types and condition. For example unit eight has three layers of tile, while unit six has a finished hardwood floor. The majority of the units have wall-to-wall carpeting.

Parking currently is not a problem because there are so few businesses located in the complex. In addition, the complex is not handicapped accessible. To utilize the space in any way these problems will need to be addressed in the planning stage.

PLANNING OPTIONS

The first option for the property is to demolish the three buildings. This is not believed to be a viable planning option. Rhodes Center is an important historic resource and its condition is too good for demolition to be warranted.

The second option is to revitalize the buildings as a retail complex. Rhodes Center has never been successful as a neighborhood shopping center. There is a possibility that reasonable success could be realized if an integrated approach were adopted. All of the retail concerns would need to cater to the large office buildings located within walking distance of Rhodes Center and specialize in delivery and/or pick up services. Examples of these kinds of businesses are meal delivery, shoe repair, photo processing, airline ticket pick up, express mail, florist, and dry cleaning/laundry. It must be stressed that although this is an option, it is not likely to be successful or a recommended course of action.

Why?

Why not both?

The third option is to adaptively use the space as a health care complex. An integrated approach such as this would be likely to succeed because of its close proximity to three major hospitals: Georgia Baptist, Piedmont and Crawford Long.

The type of practitioners the complex should be marketed towards are those health care professionals that do not have seriously ill clientele. The West building could be used as a physical and occupational therapy center. In order for this project to be feasible, parking needs should be addressed. One parking solution would be to obtain the lot across Spring Street and safe crossing should be secured. A second solution would be to obtain the parking lot behind the North building, making it a paid hourly lot. The diagonal spaces in front of the North building should all be designated as handicapped parking.

How many spaces would this obtain.
How many are needed?

STABILIZATION

If the complex is not demolished and future use is planned for the facility deficiencies must be addressed to prevent further deterioration. Repair of all roof problems should precede any other work. Most importantly, the drainage system must be thoroughly checked for blockage, leaks, and backsplash.

The moisture problems in the north wall of North Rhodes Center needs to be eliminated. The vegetation, mold, and fungus must be removed so the extent of drainage problems can be assessed. There is a drain under the parking lot which may be blocked keeping water in the trough. The condition of the mortar at the base of the wall needs to be evaluated. The structural condition of the wall is probably sound; however, a structural engineer should be consulted prior to any work. It is recommended that a vapor barrier be placed between the foundation and the brick wall. All mortar joints will require repointing using mortar mixed to match the hardness of the brick. Broken bricks should be replaced to blend with the existing material. Monitoring of major cracks will be necessary to determine movement or growth. Active changes may be indicative of settling or poor drainage.

is this practical

All of the facades will need to be cleaned. Given the porous nature of marble, chemicals, harsh abrasive cleaning techniques, or high water pressure should be avoided. A low pressure water system with a mild detergent should adequately clean the surface. There is a small section of marble that has recently been spray-painted with black paint. This area should be cleaned with the most gentle means possible. The technique used to clean this area will be more detrimental to the marble than the rest of the cleaning process. Therefore, a small test area should be chosen for the harsher method to determine the effects on the marble.

To eliminate the public safety hazard the Carrara glass poses will require a thorough analysis of the mastic compound. Damaged panels should be repaired and, if possible, replacement panels located, marked and installed.

Exterior details such as the awnings and lighting should be restored using materials and mechanisms to match the few surviving examples. Holes in the metal frames around the doors and windows should be filled with an epoxy compound and sanded prior to priming and painting. The metal vents in the black marble below the plate glass windows should have the existing paint removed before priming and repainting.

The turbine ventilation system should be fully operable in all of the units. The historic ventilation system would be available to allow the tenants an alternative during the cooler months or if the air conditioning fails. The heating, ventilation, and air conditioning system (HVAC) should be mounted on the roofs of the buildings (North Rhodes Center could utilize the basement space for this purpose). All ducts for existing HVAC units should be removed from the interior and the systems upgraded. Some of the units appear to be heated by local space heaters; these need to be removed. Window air conditioners in South Rhodes Center should also be removed. The consolidation of all HVAC into one system will be more efficient, less space consuming, and more aesthetically pleasing.

The electrical system will need to be upgraded to accommodate the HVAC and other new systems (i.e., appliances, computers, office machines, etc.). There appears to be many non-functioning electric lines throughout the buildings that need to be removed. Lighting should be improved in the buildings, around the entrances, emergency exits, paths of egress, and stairways. New lighting should be efficient yet sensitive to the historic character of the buildings. A fire and intrusion security system must be installed to provide adequate security for the complex.

Only one bathroom was observed during the assessment of the property. Assuming it is a representative sample of the plumbing system there will need to be a major upgrade. The original bathroom fixtures need to be identified and preserved while augmenting all spaces to accommodate handicapped individuals. This will eliminate the need for one large public restroom. The pipes may need to be replaced. Several exterior pipes were viewed and one piece of PVC pipe at the end of North Rhodes Center had completely shattered. All pipes should be placed inside to prevent freezing.

PERPETUAL CARE

Continuing maintenance of the interior spaces will depend upon its use. If the medical facility is the chosen option the majority of the interiors will have modern, non-absorbent materials covering the historic fabric. This will facilitate frequent cleaning with strong disinfectants.

All outside surfaces should be cyclically cleaned to prevent deterioration and damaging buildups of dirt. Metal surfaces should regularly be checked for rusting. If it is found the surface should be wirebrushed, primed, and repainted. All painted surfaces need to be checked periodically for cracking, peeling, and chalking. Deteriorated paint should be carefully assessed to determine the causes of failure. Appropriate steps should be taken to rectify the underlying problem before repainting. All exterior seams, joints, and cracks should be caulked to prevent moisture and dirt from the entering the wall cavity. As caulk hardens and deteriorates it should be removed and fresh caulk applied. The roof drainage and downspout system needs to be kept clear of all debris. These areas should be cleaned two to four times a year. Replacement of damaged gutters and/or downspouts is a necessity to prevent moisture intrusion to the building fabric. (See Appendix F for Cyclical Maintenance for Historic Buildings.)

APPENDIX A
Atlanta City Directory
and
Sanborn Maps

The following information was obtained from the Atlanta City Directories. The information is listed in the manner that it was listed in the directories - no punctuation, abbreviations and misspellings. We have included the page numbers for easy reference.

The information indicates a shopping area that was constantly changing. The initial plan for a local shopping area apparently did not succeed. The businesses geared toward the neighborhood were soon replaced by offices. Most tenants stayed only a few years in the location.

The most notable exceptions were the drug store, beauty salon, liquor store and theatre. The drug store, although under three names, was in operation in Store #11 from 1939 to 1987. Store #2 contained a beauty salon from 1939 until 1985. A liquor store operated in Store #17 from 1939 until 1972. A second liquor store was in operation from 1939 until 1966 in Store #3a. The movie theatre was in operation for 47 years, from 1939 until 1986.

The center apparently suffered from the lack of parking and later the change in the traffic flow. The change in the neighborhood from houses and apartments to office buildings also affected the types of businesses needed in the center.

1937 - A.G. Rhodes & Son (A.G. Rhodes Estate, then A.G. Rhodes Enterprises) owned property. Gathered from variuos parcels from 1905 to 1937.

APPENDIX F
Cyclical Maintenance for Historic Buildings

APPENDIX A: WORK FREQUENCIES

This appendix provides suggested frequencies for performing maintenance activities. It must be modified, of course, to fit the requirements of each property. Similar charts should be incorporated in the maintenance guide.

The letters "A" through "J" indicate the relative frequency of the treatment. There is a certain amount of local adjustment which is required because of the local circumstances of producing soil. The lower in the alphabet generally the less frequent the treatment. A "B" frequency would be repeated many more times than a "D" treatment.

Each box on the chart contains a letter and a number. The letter indicates the type and frequency of maintenance treatment. The number indicates the page in this handbook on which the appropriate treatment is discussed; locally developed charts should indicate the page in the local maintenance guide which discusses the specific treatment required. Boxes which contain a dash rather than a number indicate treatments which are beyond the scope of this text, either because they require treatment by a conservator or because they are standard contemporary maintenance techniques.

"A" Policing as Required: Policing is a high frequency task which is performed during and immediately after the use of the building by large numbers of people, removing conspicuous soil and trash so that it will not have a chance to become permanently embedded in the finish surfaces. The amount of policing will depend upon weather conditions and the building use. Each historic property will have different priorities and different problems.

"B" Routine Housekeeping and Maintenance: This is a dry type maintenance, covering all reachable surfaces so that accumulations do not become permanently embedded due to their oily content. The frequency could be daily, twice a week, or weekly. It may vary for different locations in the building and with the season because of peak visitor periods, or it may vary because of seasonal weather conditions or seasonal air quality.

"C" Periodic Maintenance may be a dry, damp or in some instances a wet treatment which cleanses surfaces removing those accumulations not generally removed by the more frequent methods. If wet, it removes portions of the finish itself which has become chemically changed due to exposure, thereby renewing to a certain extent the surface. The frequency ranges from weekly to monthly.

"D" Periodic Maintenance: The frequency is monthly, bimonthly or quarterly.

"E" Periodic Maintenance: The frequency is quarterly or semi-annually.

"F" Periodic Maintenance: The frequency is semi-annual or annual. Perhaps by a contractor.

"G" Periodic Maintenance: The frequency is annual or biennial. Perhaps by a contractor.

"H" Maintenance: The treatment is prescribed by a conservator. It may be both routine and periodic at a frequency which would best protect the item. The conservator should suggest means of protection as well as treatment.

"I" Maintenance: The treatment should be done by a conservator or an outside specialist.

"J" Maintenance: Irregular frequency; use past experience as a guide; consider outside contractor.

Second-run cinemas like Lefont's Plaza shoot for first class

Second-run movie theaters get no respect.

Not compared with art and revival houses, at least. Which everyone makes a fuss over, even if they never go near one.

But George Lefont is changing all that. Slowly but surely, he's establishing his Plaza Theatre on Ponce de Leon Avenue as a thriving second-run house with — gasp — an artsy tint. Consider some of the films he's played on his two screens there in just the past two months: "Barton Fink," "The Commitments," "Paris Is Burning" and "My Own Private Idaho."

Quite simply, Lefont has a good eye for what has passed through town too quickly. His attitude, basically, is this: Here's something you should see.

"Some movies come and are gone before you know it," he says. "They need another chance."

There's another side to his booking pattern, too. Call it instinct, honed over a decade-plus of catering to Atlanta's more adventurous moviegoers.

"These are films I would've played first-run at the Tara or the Midtown,"

John Turturro
in "Barton Fink"

he explains, referring to theaters he sold to Hoyt's Cinemas in 1990. "I'm also trying to play to my perception of the neighborhood."

He's also playing to his perception of an interesting

change in mood and economy regarding second-run theaters. Just a few years ago, second-runs, like revival houses, seemed to be an endangered species, done in by the explosion in cable and video rental. But while classic repertory still struggles — Cinefest manager Michael Williams reports his program of Sunday classics at Georgia State ("All About Eve," "The Seven Year Itch") hasn't drawn well — there has been an unexpected second-run resurgence.

Most second-run spots operate as bargain theaters, charging $1 to $1.50 (Lefont found that reducing his admission from $2.50 to $1.50 helped as much as changing his programming). More interestingly, as a reflection of the times, many of them are being built as multiplexes — the 12-screen Northeast Plaza is a perfect example.

No matter what the current feature — "City of Hope" or "Curly Sue" — the proliferation of second-run houses is a healthy sign. It suggests that people are still hooked on the Big Screen Experience. That they still want to go out to see a movie, even though they know it may already be on cable or will be available in the video stores any moment.

But Lefont, as usual, has put his particular spin on a profitable phenomenon. Not that he isn't above showing crowd-pleasing schlock — "The Addams Family" is at the Plaza this week — but overall, the theater gives a second chance to many movies that didn't get a fair shake the first time around.

If nothing else, the Plaza offers movie lovers more choices. Not only about what they can see, but when they can see it. If you were too busy getting the kids ready for school in September and missed "The Commitments," you could see it at the Plaza in December. If you were in the mountains watching the leaves change during the week or so that "Barton Fink" played first-run, you could catch it the second time around in January.

And one more thing. Given the recent announcement regarding the fate of the dear, doomed Rhodes Theater (two — count 'em! — two restaurants), it's nice to hear Lefont swear on a stack of movie posters that he has no plans whatsoever to change the Garden Hills, his charming neighborhood theater on the outskirts of Buckhead, into a pizza parlor. When he wanted to have his own restaurant, he went out and bought one — The Coach and Six.

It makes a difference.
