

2017

Shapeless

Christopher W. Larrimore

Nova Southeastern University College of Osteopathic Medicine, cl1398@nova.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/bestill>

 Part of the Bioethics and Medical Ethics Commons, Creative Writing Commons, Fine Arts Commons, and the Medical Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

Larrimore, Christopher W. (2017) "Shapeless," be Still: Vol. 2 , Article 22.

Available at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/bestill/vol2/iss1/22>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by the College of Osteopathic Medicine at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in be Still by an authorized editor of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

The path you walked, longer than mine, a mystery to me, now ours entwined.
A few years prior, anxieties did match, as my future ignited, yours dispatched.
Selfless you gave, your last belonging, a gesture of faith, a soul evolving.
Humbled I was, upon our meeting, many life perceptions, soon retreating.
Your frailty, your pain, pathologies the same, a body in failure, but a spirit untamed.
You were my patient, or so I was told, but with just a touch, my new life unfolds.
This right of passage, a privilege to me, my silent mentor, has helped me to see.
That life transcends, our physical address, we must expand, to become shapeless.

SHAPELESS

- ▶ Christopher Larrimore, M. Sc. is a second year medical student at Nova Southeastern College of Osteopathic Medicine

CHRISTOPHER LARRIMORE, AUTHOR

A decorative graphic consisting of several parallel white lines of varying lengths, slanted diagonally from the bottom right towards the top right, located in the lower right quadrant of the slide.