

ΣΥΜΜΕΙΚΤΑ

NOTES ON COLLECTIONS OF MANUSCRIPTS IN GREECE

The following notes were made during a visit to Greece in 1951-2. All are based on extremely brief and hurried visits to the libraries described, in none of which was it possible for me to do even a full day's work. Consequently it was often impossible for me to spare the time to count pages, and none of my estimates of date is more than a snap judgment. If an apology be required for the publication of such imperfect work, it must be that imperfect information seems better than none.

Beside the particular acknowledgments, made below, to local authorities, it is my privilege and duty to express my indebtedness to the late Archbishop of Athens, His Beatitude Spyridon, who authorized my visits to so many of the monasteries under his jurisdiction, and to the United States authorities established under the Fulbright Act, who made possible my work in Greece.

Cephalonia

Of the monastery libraries previously described, I visited only that of St. Gerasimus, where I hoped to see the unedited apocryphal material which reportedly followed the Questions and Answers of Maximus Confessor in a 16th c. MS. The library was in excellent condition, I found without difficulty what seemed to be the MS described, but the Questions and Answers were followed by various ascetic tracts and I could find no apocrypha nor pseudepigrapha.

My warmest thanks are due to the Rt. Rev. Hierotheos, Metropolitan of Cephalonia, whose extraordinary kindness and hospitality have made my memory of my visit to his island among the happiest of all I brought from Greece. It is only by reason of his friendly and active assistance that reports on the following monasteries can be made:

Hiera Mone tou Hagiou Andreou: No MSS.

Hiera Mone Sistōn (Hyperagias Theotokou):

1. XVIII c., paper, 248×155 mm., 44 ff., Ἀκολουθία καὶ βίος τοῦ ἱερομάρτυρος Μοδέστου.

2. XVII c., paper, 210×160, 157 ff., Κανόνες ἑσπερινῶν διαφόρων ἕορτῶν. Elegant hand, fine binding in Arabic style but with Christian motifs.

Hiera Mone tōn Themátōn (Hyperagias Theotokou) :

1. XV c., paper, 244×175, 177 ff., Nomokanon.
2. XVIII-XIX c., paper, 204×140, c. 200 ff.
- a. Nomokanon, XVIII c. hand.
- b. 21 blank folia.
- c. ἐγχειρίδιον περὶ τῶν συνηκεσιῶν (sic). Same hand as above.
- d. κεφαλαῖον ις' περὶ τοῦ συνεχῶς κοινωνεῖν ἀπαντας τῶν φρικτῶν μυστηρίων. Slightly later hand. 19 ff.
- e. διήγησις πάνυ ὁφέλιμος Μακαρίου μοναχοῦ. XIX c. hand.
- f. κεφάλαια συμεών θεσσαλονίκης. Different hand. 4 ff.
- g. Γρηγορίου τοῦ θεολόγου. Same hand as the διήγησις Μακαρίου.

Dated 1824.

h. A few small sections in various hands.

3. XVIII c., paper, 295×200, 264 ff. Beautiful hand. τοῦ σοφωτάτου κυρίου Θεοφίλου τοῦ Κορυδαλέως εἰς φιλοσοφίαν προδιοίκησεις (sic). Last page reads τέλος τῶν ὀκτὸ τῆς φυσικῆς ἀκροάσεως βιβλίων, ἐτελειώθη ἐν ἔτει αψιε (= 1746).

4. XVIII c., paper, 295×200, c. 200 ff., same hand as above.

Title page lost; first f. numbered 2. It contains a diagram illustrating the divisions of the ψυχικὰ δυνάμεις (αἱ μὲν φυτικαί, αἱ δὲ ζωτικαὶ καὶ δρεκτικαὶ, αἱ δὲ γνωστικαὶ καὶ διανοητικαί).

Last page reads ἐτελειώθη ἐν ἔτει αψιε.

5. XVIII c., paper, 295×200, c. 200 ff., same hand as above. Beginning lost. Last page reads τέλος τῶν τριῶν τῆς... κ..ς ψυχῆς πραγματείας βιβλίων, ἐτελειώθη κατὰ τὸ αψιη ἔτος.

6. XVIII c., paper, 295×200, c. 150 ff., same hand as above. Beginning lost, first f. numbered 4.

7. XVIII c., paper, 190×140, c. 100 ff., ecclesiastical music.

8. XVIII c., paper, 170×108, c. 50 ff., ecclesiastical music.

9. XIX c., paper, 220×145, 31 pp. (numbered), Ἀκολουθία εἰς τὸν ἑσπερινὸν τῆς ἱορτῆς τῆς μονῆς.

It must be remembered that these notes were made before the terrible earthquake of a few years ago, which may have damaged or destroyed a number of these monasteries.

Dimitsane

The library is excellently kept and easily available in the public school. The official librarian, T. Gritsopoulos, is now in Athens, at the National Archives; visitors should bring a letter from him. My thanks are due to the local authorities who permitted me, even without such authorization, to examine the collection. A catalogue has been published by Mr. Gritsopoulos in the Epeteris Hetaireias Byzantinon Spoudon 22 (1952) 183 ff. (MSS 1-68), and 24 (1954) 230 ff. (MSS 69-169). The following notes are intended to supplement that catalogue, of which, as its author remarked (p. 186), the comments were necessarily limited by considerations of space.

MS. 2: Add to the table of contents:

- 269v - 273, a selection attributed to St. Barsanouphios.
- 291r - 297, a second selection from Theodore Studite, concerning virtues and vices.
- 312r - v, questions and answers.
- 313r - 320v have been written by a second hand, of approximately the same period as the first, which latter (?) resumes at 321r.

9: dated on f. 111, 1812.

10: has 13 folia.

*¹ 12: At least two MSS have been bound together. The second begins with f. 153 and its first selection, the Aphorisms of Hippocrates, is in a sixteenth or seventeenth century hand, contrasting sharply with the eighteenth century one which wrote the latter half of the first MS.

22: The text of Demophilus the Neo-Pythagorean may be of some interest, since Schmid-Stählin (ed. 6, pt. 2, p. 378, n. 4) knows his work as preserved only in Vat. Gr. 743.

* 26: I have noted the following variants from the text of Nestle's sixteenth edition: Mt. 1. 1 - 8, ἐγέννησε passim; 1.5, Βοῦς bis; Ὁβῆδ bis; 1.6, Δᾶδ δὲ ὁ βασιλεὺς ἐγέννησε; 1.7, Ἀσά; 1.8, Ἀσά. John 21.18 σε ζώσει; 21.20, ἐπιστραφεῖς δὲ; 21.21, om. οὖν; 21.22, σὺ ἀκολούθει μοι; 21.23, ὁ λόγος οὗτο(ς); καὶ οὐκ εἰπεν; 21.24, ἀρ' οὗτος; καὶ γράψας; ἔστιν ἡ μαρτυρία αὐτοῦ; 21.25, πολλὰ ὄσσα; οὐδὲ; χωρῆσαι; + ἀμήν. Almost all of these are typical of the Constantinopolitan text.

* 27: The decorations of this manuscript have evidently been added by hands much less skilled (or much later?) than those of the scribe(s) who — if this and the preceding MS are only copies of earlier hands — were amazingly capable copyists.

The two large icons are evidently by different artists, that of Luke being a much closer imitation of early work than that of Matthew.

Add to the table of contents :

2 - 3, Eusebian canons.

6^r, hymns : ὁ μονογενῆς, οἱ τὰ Χερουβείμ, νῦν αἱ δυνάμεις, and φῶς Ἰλαρόν.

7^v, endorsement : ἐκ τῶν τοῦ Κωνσταντίνου Γορδάτου τοῦ Χίου 17.

202^v - 208^r, Euthalius' prologue to the Pauline Epistles
(= H. von Soden, Die Schriften des NT, Berlin, 1902,
I. I. 650 ff.).

208^v, Μαρτύρ(ιον) παῦλον τοῦ ἀποστόλου (= von Soden, ib., 369, with the first two of the additions given on 370).

I have noticed the following variants from Nestle's text :

Mt. I. 9 - 16, ἐγέννησε passim; 10 and 11, Ἀμών; 14,

Ἄχειμ; 18, μνηστευθείσης γάρ; 19, παραδειγματίσαι; 20,

8, ἀκριβῶς ἔξετάσατε. Lk. I. 2, παρέδωκαν; 5, ἡ γυνή;

6, ἐνώπιον, omit πάσαις; 7, ἡ ἐλισάβετ ἦν; 8, ἐναντίον;

τοῦ λαοῦ ἦν. Otherwise agrees as far as us. 12.

Acts: title; πρᾶξεις τῶ(ν) ἀποστόλ(ων); 5, βαπτισθήσεσθε ἐν πνεῷ

Pauline Epistles: Prefixed to Romans are the following words: ἐν ἀγγελικῇ διδασκαλίᾳ περὶ τε τῶν ἔξω χάριτο(ς)

- 1.5, διὸ (for δι' οὐ); 1.13, ἔκολλήθην (!); om. καὶ after σχῶ; 1.19, ὁ γὰρ θ(εὸ)ς. No other variants to 1.21 incl.
- * 28: Stamp on f. 2^r, ΔΩΡΕΑ Α. Π. ΠΑΠΠΟΥΛΙΑ, cf. n. 42, inf. This is of some importance, since it suggests that some of the personal papers and library of Callinicus Castorches, which form such an important part of the Dimitsane collection were not left by him to the public library, but were given to it by his heirs. Cf. Gritsopoulos' nos 86, 98, 144.
 - * 37: A second hand begins with a sermon for the Sunday of Orthodoxy, βλέπω καὶ θεορῶ τὴν πρόθυμον ὅρεξιν of which I have not found the incipit elsewhere. A third hand begins with Pantaleon's sermon on the Hypsosis, the usual πάλιν ὑψοῦται σταυρός, cf. PG 98.1243 ff. The MS concludes with Demetrius' Epistolary Types, a text of Weichert's family B (V. Weichert, Demetrii et Libanii... Typoi Epistolikoi, Leipzig, 1910, pp. IL ff.), but expanded with material quite different from any reported by Weichert. Thus, after the definition of the Συγχαρητικὸς τύπος (W., p. 10, lines 16-18) it continues: πρῶτον δὲ μάτην ἥδεσθαι δόξωμεν (δηλώσωμεν) I have added the parentheses. Η̄ τὸ δέξιωμα η̄ τὰς ἀρετὰς η̄ ἔτερόν τι τοιοῦτον δι' ὧν μεγίστην ἐκαρπωσάμεθα ἡδονῆν· ἐλπίζειν καὶ πρὸς ἡμῖν ἔσται ἀν τοῦ τοιοῦτον ἀξιώματος ὡφελειθήσεσθαι: μετὰ ταῦτα τὰς ἀρετὰς ἐν αὐτῷ τῷ φίλῳ ἔνουνταις (sic) χάριτας δηλοῦντες ἔροῦμεν ὅτι ἀπεκδούσθημεν τῶν ἐλπίδων, πάλιν γὰρ πρὸς σὲ δοκῶμεν... (Here the MS breaks off.).
 - * 42: Stamp on p. I, ΔΩΡΕΑ Α. Π. ΠΑΠΠΟΥΛΙΑ. pp. 5-11, Castorches' catalogue of the books he owned: 270 volumes, mostly religion, classics and school books. Α τετραεναγγέλιον εἰς μεμβράναις is probably no. 26 of the present Dimitsane library, see Gritsopoulos' catalogue (cited above) in vol. 22 (1952), p. 204.
 - * 57: The title and incipit of the first sermon (f. 2^r) read: Λόγος εἰς τὴν ὑψωσιν τοῦ τιμίου καὶ ζωοποιοῦ στ(αυ)οῦ καὶ πῶς εὑρεν αὐτὸν η̄ μακαρία ἐλένη η̄ βασίλισσα: — Μετὰ τριακοσίους χρόνους τοῦ πάθος (sic) τοῦ κυ(ρίου) ἡμῶν Ἰ(ησο)ῦ χ(ριστο)ῦ ἔγινεν η̄ γύρευσις καὶ εὑρεσις τοῦ τιμίου καὶ ζωοποιοῦ στ(αυ)-οῦ. εἰς τὸν καιρὸν ἐκεῖνον... This is evidently an adaptation to Modern Greek of the account listed in Bibliotheca Hagiographica Græca, s.v. Crux II.e. The language of the concluding sermon of the codex is also markedly modernizing. The sheet pasted to the inside of the back binding is signed Ἰωάσαφ Ἱεροδιάκων.

* 64: I have not been able to identify this chronicle. It contains some interesting material and I therefore transcribe the first two pages and the last three¹:

Beginning with Gritsopoulos no. 69, the numeration of the MSS in his catalogue differs from that which I found on the MSS at the time I examined them (Spring, 1952). For the following MSS, therefore, I give first the number in his catalogue and then, in parentheses, the number which the MS formerly bore :

- * 74 (73) : f. 1r - v, not counted by G., carries the conclusion of a sermon evidently on the incarnation. Explicit :
 ἔδει γὰρ καὶ γέννησιν τιμηθῆναι· καὶ παρθενίαν προτιμηθῆναι· προελθὼν δὲ θεός μετὰ τῆς προλήψεως, ἐν ἐκ δύο τῶν ἐναντίων, σαρ... (at least one line has been lost) ...τῆς σαρκὸς· ἐν χῶ τε τῷ... φὴ δόξα... εἰς τοὺς... ἀμήν

f. 2r : The sermon by Chrysostom is headed εἰς τὰ ἀγια Φῶτα and begins ἦ πηγὴ τῶν εὐαγγελικῶν γλυκυσμάτων (sic!) (= Montfaucon, 1st Venice ed., II.809).

f. 188r : The incipit of the martyrdom is : Πολλοὶ μὲν οὖν ἀνδρῶν ἀρίστους (sic) βίους καὶ μαρτύρων ἀνδραγαθίας ὥσπερ τινάς ἀστέρας δειφανοῦς τῷ κόσμῳ λάμποντας... This is not a variant of the homily of Andrew of Crete, ἐξὶ μὲν λαμπρᾷ (PG 97.1169 ff.) and I have not been able to locate it elsewhere.

103 (118), 104 (119) and 109 (120) all carry the notation Μονῆς τοῦ φιλοσόφου, which does something to strengthen the claim of 103 to be a direct copy of a parchment MS.

Gritsopoulos lists 169 MSS in all. At the time of my visit there were 152 numbered and arranged in sequence on the shelves, and, apart from them, 3 unnumbered, and two folders containing fragments of MSS and short documents. With only two exceptions, our lists of the first 102 MSS agree. But for the remaining MSS there is no correspondence between the numbers in our lists. This raises a question as to the correspondence of the MSS. I could find no entries in his list to match the following in mine :

104 - 111 : 7 notebooks, each 210×150 : c. 100 f. ; paper ; XIX c. ; exegesis of the Pauline Epistles, all in the same hand.

112 : 210×150 ; c. 100 f. ; XIX c. ; paper ; Βίος καὶ πολιτεία τοῦ νέου ιερομάρτυρος Γεωγογίου Ε'.

115 : 176×108 ; 32 pp. ; XIX c. , paper ; headed : Γνωστικῆς, i.e. — evidently — epistemology. Ch. 1 : Περὶ τῆς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου Γνώσεως ἐν Γένει. (Possibly = Gritsopoulos, 147).

136 : c. 25 f. ; XVIII/XIX c. ; paper ; headed : Λυσίου κατὰ Ἐρασθένους. If this should prove to be Lucius, the pupil of Musonius Rufus (Schmid - Stählin⁶, II.357, n. 4) this MS would be of considerable interest. The probability is, of course, that it will prove otherwise. Blessed are those who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed.

Skiathos

The Monastery of the Annunciation (founded from Mt. Athos about 1790) is largely in ruins, but the library is still in reasonably good condition. Unfortunately, the numbers of the MSS have been changed at least twice, so that most now have three numbers of which sometimes none seems to correspond to those of similar MSS described in the published catalogue. My thanks are due to the Rev. Hegoumenos not only for permission to examine the library and to consult his manuscript catalogue of the MSS, but also for the information that another complete catalogue using the latest set of numbers has been made and is now in the office of the Bishop of the diocese, at Chalkis (where scholars wishing to consult the library should, in any case, apply for permission before going to Skiathos). After satisfying myself as to my special concern (that the epistolary material mentioned in the published catalogue referred to nothing by St. Isidore of Pelusium), I was able to examine fully and photograph in part the two MSS described below¹.

During my stay on the island the Very Rev. George Rigas kindly permitted me to examine the MSS in his private collection and also those in the Church of the Three Hierarchs; it is a pleasure to thank him.

No. 70 (olim 67 & 74), XI c., parchment, 236×195, 74 ff. I am indebted to Prof. M. Richard for the following information, based on photographs which I sent him: ff. 2v-3^r give the end of the introduction of the Doctrina of St. Dorotheus of which Migne, PG 88 (1617-8) gives only the Latin version; on f. 3^r begins Doctrina I (PG 88. 1618-40). The hand seems to be of the XI c.

The MS is unbound and unsewn. Probably many pages, if not quires, are missing. In going through it, I noted the following headings (beside those on ff. 1 and 3):

- 17^r τοῦ ὄσιου πατρὸς ἡμῶν ἐφραὶμ εἰς ἀδελφοὺς δ' ἐν χριστῷ κεκοιμη-μένους.

Yannina:

The Zosimaia School was badly damaged in the war and then allegedly looted. What books remained had in 1952 been transferred to the Paidagogike Akademia and piled in a store room in such a way that it was impossible to see what there was in the lower levels of the piles. Some MSS, however, were visible in the upper levels, and the collection may by this time be again accessible.

The Archimandreion still has the MSS previously reported in its possession; they are stored in a closed behind the eikonastasis. I was especially interested in no. 20, of which ff. 8-110 contain a 13th c. text of Nemesius of Emesa. It was once a fine MS. Now, unfortunately, two large water-stains run all the way through it and in large triangles at the outside of the top, and inside of the bottom, of the pages, the text is practically effaced.

For help during my stay in Yannina I have to thank especially Dr. L. Zoumbas, Dr. Demetrios Salamanca, the distinguished historian of the city, and Dr. S. Dakaris, Director of the Yannina Museum, who made available to me the manuscript catalogues of its holdings, from which I have transcribed the following entries referring to MSS:
