Yevgenia Gennadiievna Gapchinska (b. November 15, 1974, Kharkiv, Ukraine) is a Ukrainian artist-painter and an illustrator of children's literature.

She was born on November 15, 1974 in Kharkov in the serviceman's family, the fifth child in the family. At the age of 5 she went to school, and at the age 13 she became a student of the Kharkov Art College. Gapchinska also successfully graduated from the Kharkov Art Institute.

"№1 happiness supplier" - that's how an artist Gapchinska calls herself. Her works are really difficult to confuse with other painters - amazing men with children signs in the spirit of "Mommy bought me a pants with roses" or "My stupid heart still loves and loves"

Gapchinska attended the Nuremberg Academy of Art, then moved to Kiev in 2000. She began her art-exhibition activities in 2002. The artist's collaborates with the publishing house "A-ba-ba-ga-la-ma-ha", in particular, she illustrated the book by Ivan Malkovich "Lisa and her dreams."

In 2008, "Ukrposhta" has released a series of 12 stamps "Signs of the Zodiac" with the works of Yevgenia Gapchinska.

Each year the painter conducts more than a dozen of exhibitions in Ukraine, Russia, France, Belgium, England, the Netherlands and other countries. She also has some own galleries in Ukraine and Russia. Her works can be found in the European museums and private collections of connoisseurs and artists. Today her works are in the collections of famous Russian and Ukrainian actors, presenters and singers. Her paintings were once bought by an outstanding singer Luciano Pavarotti.

To be successful, not only among artists, but also in any other field, Gapchinska tries to follow a piece of advice: "Any person who is fit and manufactures shoes, bags, vodka, cakes, is really doing something."
