NOTE

In this international seminar on Language Maintenance and Shift 7 (LAMAS 7 for short), we try to do the new paradigm, that is publishing the proceeding after the seminar was held. The positive aspect of the paradigm is that the presenters of the seminar have opportunity to revise their paper based on the responses of the audience. However, it takes longer time to process the proceeding until it is ready to distribute. Therefore, we apologize for being late.

In this opportunity, we would like to extent our deepest gratitude to Balai Bahasa Jawa Tengah for continuously cooperation in conducting the seminar. Thanks also go to the Dean of the Faculty of Humanities, the Head and the Secretary of the Master Program in Linguistics Diponegoro University, without whom the seminar would not have been possible. We would also express our special thanks to committee for putting together the seminar that gave rise to this compilation of papers.

We would like to thank Mrs. Shu-Chuan Chen, Ph.D. from Asia University Taiwan, Dr. Tupas Topsie Ruanni, from National Institute of Education Singapore, Drs, Pardi M.Hum. from Balai Bahasa Jawa Tengah; Prof. Ketut Artawa, Ph.D. from Udayana University, and Dr. Suharno, M.Ed. from Diponegoro University, as invited speakers in plenary sessions, and to all of the participants of the seminar.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Lexicon

Lexicon is the linguist’s term for the language user’s mental dictionary. The content of the lexicon is an important issue for any theory of morphology because lexical items are the fundamental building blocks of morphological structure. They are the bases to which morphological rules apply. The lexicon must contain at least all the information that is not predictable from general rules (Haspelmath and Sims 2010, 60).

The lexicon specifies the properties of each word, its phonological form, its morphological and syntactic properties, and its meaning. A lexical entry expresses a correspondence between phonological, syntactic, and semantic pieces of information, just like morphological rules or templates, which do the same at a more abstract level, in a generalized fashion, with variables taking the place of the individual properties of lexemes. (Booij 2005, 16)

The notion ‘lexicon’ refers to the repository of all information concerning the established words and other established expressions of a language. It is an abstract linguistic entity, to be distinguished from the notion dictionary, which refers to practical sources of lexical information for the language user in some material (paper or electronic) form. A dictionary will never provide a full coverage of the lexicon due to practical limitations of size and requirements of user-friendliness, and because the lexicon is expanding and changing daily. The third related notion of relevance here is that of the mental lexicon, the mental representation of lexical knowledge in the brain of the individual language user. The mental lexicon of an individual is always smaller than the lexicon in the linguistic sense: nobody knows all the established words of a language. Moreover, the mental lexicon exhibits an asymmetry between production and perception: we understand probably about five times more words of our mother tongue than we actually use in language production. (Booij 2005, 18)

Word creation is different from word-formation in the strictly morphological sense, where the meaning of the newly created word is recoverable from that of its constituents, and it is typically an intentional form of language use. The lack of transparency of these words serves to create incrowd groups who understand these shortened words, and so they have an important sociolinguistic value. They may also establish intimacy or informality. The lexicon, however, is not just a set of words, but also comprises word combinations.

A basic assumption in morphology is the hypothesis of Lexical Integrity: the constituents of a complex word cannot be operated upon by syntactic rules. Put differently: words behave as atoms with respect to syntactic rules, which cannot look inside the word and see its internal morphological structure.

Other examples of lexical multi-word units are adjective noun combinations such. Such phrases are established terms for referring to certain kinds of entities, and hence they must be listed in the lexicon. Some languages tend to prefer such multi-word units to morphologically complex words as denoting expressions. (Booij 2005, 22-23)

Sundanese Language Level

One of the Sundanese language uniqueness is language level or manners (undak usuk basa). The language manners seem to be used most only in Sunda-Priangan dialect. The language manners are believed as effect of Mataram Kingdom invasion to Priangan region, since previously on Salakanagara Kingdom until Banten Islam Kingdom period, Sundanese society which Bahasa Buhun Sundanese language, did not know the language stratification. Javanese culture finally implemented its culture product to Sundanese land.

In outline, the language manners are divided into: polite (lemes), middle/intimate/normal (loma), and impolite (kasar). The polite language is used to talk to the older one, the middle language is used to talk to the same age one, and the normal language is used to animal or if someone is being angry.

Those lexicons are called irregular lexicons.

There are Sundanese lexicons which have no difference in their using based on the language level, such as question word, demonstrative pronoun, numeral, and other lexicons. They are called regular lexicons.

METHODOLOGY

The methodology used in this study is qualitative method. The data were collected and analyzed in qualitative approach. In doing this, the writer acted as the key instrument in this study which means playing a dominant role in collecting data and deciding the result of analysis.

The data are taken and collected from a book entitled Wawacan dalam Khasanah Sastra Sunda dan Suntingan Teks Wawacan Rawi Mulud and website <http://www.tekslirik.com/pupuh-dangdanggula.html>. Therefore, it is believed that the data could provide this study with a reliable representation. After having the data, the lexicons were identified based on the theory and classified into Sundanese language level based on the theory in <http://barayapasundan.blogspot.co.id/2016/07/pengertian-pupuh-sunda-dan-contohnya.html>.

RESULT AND DISCUSSION

The following is result of the research that analyzes the lexicon and the language level from some data of Pupuh Dangdanggula based on the theory and Sundanese language levels dictionary in <http://kangromli.blogspot.co.id/2014/01/undak-usuk-basa-sunda-lengkap.html>

Pupuh Dangdanggula

Eling-eling sanak kulawargi, luang lumrah jalma nu ngumbara,
kudu bae tara jongjon,
inget ka lembur matuh,
santiasa beurang jeung peuting,
mikiran baris mulang,

ka nagri kapungkur,
jeung luang lumrahna jalma,
nu ngumbara kudu bae balik deui, ka lemburna sorangan
(Kalsum, 2010:84)

Analysis:

From the data above, it can be classified to the table below:

No.	Irregular Lexicon	Language Level	Meaning
1	eling-eling	normal	remember
2	Sanak	normal	relative
3	Kulawargi	polite	family
4	Luang	normal	free
5	Lumrah	normal	usually
6	Jalma	normal	human
7	Ngumbara	normal	wander
8	kudu	normal	must
9	Inget	normal	remember
10	Santiasa	normal	always
11	Beurang	normal	daytime
12	Jeung	normal	with
13	Sorangan	normal	alone

The table above shows that there are 13 lexicons classified to one polite language level and twelve normal language levels. From the table can be concluded that the Sundanese language levels of lexicon used in the canto are polite and normal levels. The most language level used in the canto is normal level. From the meaning, it can be concluded that to deliver the tranquility theme in this canto, it is used most of normal language level and it is used only one polite language level to state ‘family’.

CONCLUSION

After discussing the research findings, it can be concluded that:

1. The lexicons using in “Pupuh Dangdanggula” are irregular lexicons.
2. In ”Pupuh Dangdanggula”, the using of lexicon consists of normal lexicon and polite lexicon from Sundanese language levels. The polite lexicon in “Pupuh Dangdanggula” is used for the verb which the subject is a high level society or God, and is used for utterances to God. Thus, the using of lexicon in “Pupuh Dangdanggula” is a combination of the two Sundanese language levels based on the Subject level and the theme.

Limitations of the study

The limitation of the study is important in order to be focused on certain cases needing new findings. Limitation of this study are:

1. To identify the lexicons used in Dangdanggula Canto.
2. To classify the Sundanese language level of Dangdanggula Canto.
