Campaign Underway To Complete Library

Many Alumni have rallied to the appeal but more are urgently needed to help complete the financing of the new Medical Library. Area Captains and their assistants have received kits containing campaign material and their assignments. They are presently soliciting on a geographical basis because this method offers an opportunity to make direct presentations to prospective donors. They and others will make telephone calls or write letters only in cases where a personal visit is impractical.

The Share Plan allows contributors to select a specific unit in the Library for their support and is set up to attract both the modest as well as the larger gifts. Shares may be designated for suitable plaques to carry the donor's name. The Plan encourages pledges payable over a period of three to five years especially for those wishing to take advantage of income tax provisions covering contributions to educational institutions.

Originally the Library was to be located in a separate building scheduled for construction at some later date but it was possible to add three floors to the Instructional Building due to the foresight of those planning that structure. Thus time and money were saved and, most important, the new Library is now a reality complementing the classroom expansion for the 33% increase in student enrollment.

The total cost of the additional three floors and its equipment is $1,694,000. Over $1 million of this sum has been covered by a grant from the U.S. Public Health Service and $400,000 of the remainder has been raised by contributions and pledges from the Alumni Annual Fund, Faculty and friends of the School. The appeal for the balance is directed not just to Alumni but through them to their friends, members of their families, parents of students and others in their communities who have an interest in supporting medical education.

NEW MEDICAL LIBRARY

TO BEAR ALUMNI NAME

From the Alumni President's Desk

This school year has certainly passed rapidly. It has had its share of ups and downs. The main thrust has been forward, however, and we hope to keep it this way.

Since my last report your executive committee has held several special meetings in addition to those regularly scheduled. These meetings were focused on three major concerns.

1. The first concern was to provide recognition for all those alumni who had so faithfully supported the school by their financial contributions in the past. This was successfully accomplished when the Board of Trustees of the University formally named the new three story library as the ALUMNI LIBRARY.

2. The executive committee also expressed a desire to have some involvement with the Medical Center Trustee Council so that they would be aware of trends before policy was established. After conferences with President Arland Christ-Janer and Dr. Lewis Rohrbaugh it was agreed to begin by having an executive committee member present at certain council meetings as an observer. The nature of the on-going liaison will be worked out during the next year.

3. The third major concern was the resignation of Dean Frank Ebaugh. As you all know, we have had a number of deans in the past 10-15 years. We are disturbed at their short tenure for one thing but also because a Boston University School of Medicine graduate has never held the post. Therefore, the executive committee is demanding to have a role in the selection of the new dean. We want an

The School of Medicine will have an important facility named for its Alumni for the first time in its 96-year history. From now on it will be the ALUMNI Library. In terms of obtaining a first rate medical education perhaps no segment of the physical plant is more important to Students and Alumni than the Library.

Some will remember the Library when it consisted of a single room in the original Medical School, most have known it since it was relocated in 1942 to the second floor of the former Evans Building, latterly called Building A. Today a giant forward step has been taken and the Library matches the modernization of the School in every respect.

At the kick-off dinner on March 5th launching the Library Fund Campaign, President Arland Christ-Janer referred to the "experience of discovery" in a library and termed it "central to the students' medical education." He said that naming this essential unit of the School for Alumni was one way of thanking them for their deep concern and praised them for the loyal role they have played in its latest development.

Dr. Charles D. Bonner, president of the Alumni Association, commenting on the University Trustees' favorable action giving the Alumni name to the new Library "in recognition of their great interest and continued support" pointed out some of its features. The 30,000 square feet of floor area, ten times greater than the old quarters, will accommodate 100,000 volumes, a recreational reading room, an archive section, the very latest in equipment and have 450 reader spaces. Dr. Bonner said "a new day and a new sense of vitality has been brought about." He added that naming the Library for Alumni carries the responsibility of meeting the challenge to complete its financing.

Instructional Building Dedication On May 10th

Plans for dedication ceremonies of the new Instructional Building have reached the final stage. Events will begin with an academic convocation at 10:30 a.m. when honorary degrees will be awarded. The building dedication will follow and a luncheon for all, as University guests, will complete the morning program. During the afternoon Alumni will have opportunities to tour the Medical Center, visit with Department Chairmen, or if returning for a Class Reunion meet together in spaces reserved within the new building.

In the evening Alumni will move on to the Charles River Campus where, at 6:30, there will be a reception at the CASTLE, 225 Bay State Road. This was the home of Presidents Daniel Marsh and Harold Case. At 8:00 the traditional Alumni Meeting and Banquet will take place at the George Sherman Union located between the Mugar Library and the B.U. (formerly Cottage Farm) Bridge on Commonwealth Avenue.

This year marks the beginning of Boston University's Centennial Year and the School of Medicine, by dedicating its first new classroom facility in 75 years, will be among the first of the affiliated schools to celebrate the transition into the second century. Although the CASTLE has limited capacity for the social hour, it offers grace and charm amidst furnishings and architecture of the earlier period in the School's history. This will be in sharp contrast to the more functional style of the Student Union for the Banquet.

alumnus to be considered. Again President Arland Christ-Janer and the Search Committee have assured us of this voice.

In addition we voted money to reconstruct and refurbish our alumni office. This is now awaiting action from the medical school. We also voted financial support for disadvantaged students who have been accepted into the September 1969 class. We continue our concern about the library campaign and earnestly solicit your help and good will.

Above all I wish to thank all my executive committee and all the alumni in the field who have hosted us during the year or helped in many ways to make my term in office successful.

Sincerely,
Charles D. Bonner, M.D.
President, Alumni Association

New Appointees to Executive Committee

Three Officers of the Alumni Association Executive Committee tendered their resignations early in the year; one had moved and could not attend meetings and two found that the nature of their practices usually prevented their attendance. Pending the next regular election on May 10th, and as provided in the By-Laws, President Bonner named the following to fill their positions. To succeed Dr. Anthony Colozzi '43B as assistant secretary, Jay Coffman '54, for Joseph Wallace '46 as assistant treasurer, Lester Williams '56, and for J. Elliott Taylor '61 as a director, Philip S. White '61.

Suburban Alumni Meet

Continuing the program started by Alumni President Bonner, a group gathered last month at the home of Dr. James Kenney '45, eleven of the 23 Alumni in practice or residing in the Norwood-Dedham area attended. They were: Drs. Martin Bradford '42, William Curwen '54, J. Worth Estes '64, Frank Gualtieri '52, John Kelly '46, Francis Mason '54, Arcangelo Mariano '59, John O'Connor '57, Robert Orme '45 and Peter Van Orman '61.

YOUR ALUMNI OFFICE

The Alumni Association employs a full-time executive secretary and a clerk to manage the office and to represent you in a liaison capacity with the School of Medicine and the University. Its function is to provide service for members on a wide variety of matters.

Basic elements are current address files and biographical information on every graduate. A constant effort is made to maintain current addresses by class, alphabetically and geographically. In addition records are kept by special types of practice. You are urged to notify the Alumni Office whenever you move.

The ALUMNI NEWS provides the normal means of communication but the staff continually strives to learn about your accomplishments by frequently mailing questionnaires or providing you with some other means of letting them know of your recent activities.

Class Reunions and the Annual Meeting in May each year offer opportunities for fulfilling the social aspects of the organization. However, small local meetings with the Dean or other representatives of the School have met with considerable success when held at the homes of members across the country.

Also opportunities for Alumni to gather between sessions of the larger national medical society meetings are aimed primarily for the benefit of those who seldom can return to Boston and the Medical School.

Recognizing that students will soon become alumni, all reasonable requests from them for assistance on planning events and for stenographic work are accepted cheerfully. The Alumni Office presently works closely with Class and Student Council Officers, the leaders of organizations such as the Begg Society and the Student American Medical Association. Scholarship aid and merit awards for outstanding achievement are made on a continuing basis. The reception to incoming students in the fall, dinners for Seniors at the homes of local Alumni and inviting the graduating Class to the Annual Banquet as guests of the Association are still among those affairs sponsored by Alumni best remembered by the undergraduates.

You are invited to ask the Alumni Office to help if you need the name and address of a former classmate when you wish to refer a patient moving from your community to a different part of the country.

The Alumni headquarters is now located on the first floor of Building A, adjacent to the Auditorium, where visitors are always cordially welcome to obtain information, be given a tour of the Medical Center, meet with department chairmen or merely to relax. It is hoped that more Alumni will find the time to take advantage of the invitation to stop in and become better acquainted.

Search For New Dean Begins

When Dr. Ebaugh announced to Students and Faculty that he was resigning to become Dean at the University of Utah School of Medicine in June, the news was received with deep regret. During his five year term as Dean, the progress made will have a beneficial effect on the School of Medicine. He was directly involved in the recruitment of several outstanding new faculty chairmen, curriculum changes, the first addition to the physical plant for teaching purposes in 75 years, a new Library, increased student enrollment. He encouraged and sponsored new student organizations and was responsible for bringing Alumni into a closer relationship with Medical School affairs. Whenever travelling around the country he devoted many hours to becoming better acquainted with Alumni, often meeting informally with small groups in their homes. In spite of his relatively short term as Dean, Dr. Ebaugh leaves Boston as the senior dean of the three medical schools, both Harvard and Tufts having appointed new deans while he has been at BUSM. He leaves with the best wishes of all who have known him and worked under his inspiring leadership.

Registrar Retires

A friend and counsellor to students for 17 years, Mrs. Anne L. Gowing retired from her position as Registrar at the School of Medicine in January. Typical of her devotion as advisor on student affairs, she stayed on until one of her most important annual duties was completed; she wrote recommendation letters for the internship appointments on behalf of members in this year's graduating class.

After a winter vacation with her husband, Mrs. Gowing has returned home to Brookline where she has plunged more actively into community affairs than was possible while at BUSM.

If one needed advice on housing, a part-time job or the solution to almost any problem, she was always ready to put her unusual talents to work. She will be missed by students, alumni and her associates for the many capabilities she possessed.

VOLUNTEER, ANYONE?

More workers would be helpful for the BUSM Alumni Medical Library Campaign to better reach the 2500 graduates.

Anyone willing to help by making a few contacts with fellow alumni is encouraged to let Dr. Elia or Dr. Sapienza know. A letter or card for them c/o Development Office, School of Medicine, 80 East Concord Street, Boston, Mass. 02118 will get results . . . or a call to their office.
