SPRING 1970

NINETY-FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING

Class Reunions and the Annual Alumni Association Meeting and Banquet were held on the Weekend of April 24-25. Beginning on Friday evening, with a total of 63 persons, the Class of 1960 easily took the honors for attendance at their class banquet. Much of the credit for the success of the affair should go to the committee, but Dr. Phoebe Krey-Lanzoni, as secretary of the Class, took on the major responsibilities and handled the many details involved.

On Saturday, seven Classes, 1930, 1935, 1940, 1945, 1950, 1960 and 1965 turned out for a luncheon on the 14th floor J. Mark Hiebert Student Lounge which was followed by student-guided tours of the Medical School Instructional Building including the Alumni Library, Anatomy Laboratory, Multi-disciplinary (Home-Base) Laboratories, classrooms, student cafeteria and other new buildings in the Medical Center. Each Class was assigned to an individual room for informal meetings and to exchange experiences since they last met.

The Association Annual Meeting and Banquet, at the Hotel Statler, brought the series of events to a conclusion. As has been the custom for several years, members of the Senior Class with wives, husbands or dates were guests of the Alumni Association. All reunioning classes had reserved tables and continued their reminiscing. The 50-year Class, 1920, was represented by Drs. Florence M. Compson, Winifred W. Curtis and Barnet M. Wein with his wife, (three of its four members). continued

DR. HENRY J. BASKE CONTINUES AS

DEAN

Dr. Henry J. Bakst, longtime Associate Dean of the Boston University School of Medicine, who last July was named Dean, will continue in that role. Dean Bakst succeeded Dr. Franklin G. Ebaugh, Jr., who left the School last June to become Dean of the University of Utah Medical College. It had been reported that Dr. Daniel B. Stone of the University of Iowa College of Medicine was to assume the Deanship of the Boston University School of Medicine. For personal reasons Dr. Stone has elected not to come to Boston.

The new Dean began his post-graduate training on the Boston University service at Boston City Hospital. This period gave him insight into varied problems as a teacher, the care of patients and the complicated organization of a large hospital. Following this period of training he expanded his skills in patient care, clinical investigations, diagnostic and rehabilitation medicine. Throughout all of these areas Dr. Bakst has made outstanding contributions.

At a luncheon meeting honoring Dr. Bakst's appointment he said, in part, "We are now living in an age of dynamic and rapid transformation — an age in which innovation and change are in the norm. At this time, and in the future, those who are committed to unchanging traditions will travel a rough road.

"The medical curriculum for almost three generations has consisted of a rigid pattern of prescribed study. Current social issues and increasing demands for high quality medical care for the entire population require a review of the ways such care should be provided and how the consequent costs can be met. . .

"Interestingly enough a program instituted by our Medical School and Hospital almost a century ago — the Home Medical Service — is receiving particular attention in the modern curriculum. In this program senior students have an opportunity to contrast the burden of disease as it occurs in the community with the carefully screened patient population of a teaching hospital. In recent years there has been a striking increase in the number of medical schools which have established similar Departments of Community Medicine.

Dr. Bakst went on to speak of other "areas of interest" in the medical curriculum: of Bio-medical Engineering; of the Department of Surgery's interest in the management of trauma and the projected emergency services; of closer ties with other schools and colleges in the University; and of utmost interest today, the matter of financing medical education.

"I am proud of our student body and the physicians we have produced, who compare favorably with those of any school in the country. In these days of student unrest, I must also add that ours have generally been reasonable in their criticisms and I have shared their concerns. For these various reasons, I am not quite sure that I should be honored when, in truth, I have had a rare and unusual professional experience for which I am and will remain forever deeply grateful."

95th ANNUAL MEETING

Speaker for the evening was Dr. Ernest B. Howard, '36, now serving as executive vice president of the American Medical Association.

In his prepared speech, Dr. Howard predicted that the doctor shortage would continue to grow in the next decade and offered a suggestion to help take the pressure off over-worked physicians. His proposal is to employ nurses trained to make house calls, working under the direction of doctors. He advocated three courses of action (employing specially trained nurses), to train more physicians and to provide less expensive care of high quality.

The 16th Annual Alumni Award was presented to Herbert Mescon, M.D., '42, in recognition for his many contributions to medicine as a teacher and practitioner.

IMHOTEPAINS

The Alumni Office has one or more copies of Imhotepians for the Classes of 1930, 1931, 1932, 1955 and 1956. These may be obtained on a "first-come-first served" basis by Alumni who may have lost their original copies over the years since graduation.

"Dottie" continued to work with Dr. Bakst when he was named Associate Dean in 1965, and Dean in 1969.

IMPRESSIONS OF AN ALUMNUS

The following letter was received at the Alumni Office

"Sorry that I did not allow more time for my visit to the 'New' Boston University School of Medicine a few weeks ago. I suppose I was reluctant to face the changes in this age of computer and biophysical medicine. It was reassuring to see the old Homeopathic Hospital and the Old Evans, relatively unchanged, where we were greeted in September, 1927, by Dean Begg and President Marsh. Everything else was glittering and impressively new. I had seen pictures of the new Medical School complex but it has to be seen to be believed. Yet, I can still vividly recall seeing Milo Green playing tennis on the courts that are no longer there, and Charlie Branche hustling about in his lab coat; and as I looked into the Auditorium, there was Allan Winter Rowe finishing one of his polished lectures with Dr. Boyd standing by with his chalk at the blackboard.

"One of the highlights of my visit was the sincere welcome extended by Dean Bakst. I was amazed to learn that 2,500 applications were submitted for the 60 available places in the 4-year program (the remaining 36 being taken up by the 6-year students coming from the College of Liberal Arts after their first 2 years). The unbelievable Library matches the quiet dignity one senses going through the entire building, what a vivid contrast to the Library of our vintage, and the warmth Miss Turner generates in her enthusiasm is most impressive.

"I left with a feeling of deep pride in being an Alumnus and am certain that none of my classmates would fail to be vastly impressed, too."

BUSM ALUMNI CHAIRS

Due to a price increase by the manufacturer, it has been necessary to increase the Alumni cost of this item from $40 to $45, with the usual delivery charges added. Massachusetts residents should add 3% for the State Sales Tax when ordering.

We have been assured of more prompt deliveries by the supplier on all future orders.

NEW ALUMNI PRESIDENT

Jacob Swartz, M.D.

Dr. Swartz is currently Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the B.U. Medical Center Psychiatric Clinic. He is an active member of the Boston Psychiatric Society & Institute, having served as its treasurer from 1962 to 1965 and is presently chairman of its board of trustees. He also has been an executive councillor and now serves on the committee on public information of the American Psychoanalytic Association. Since 1958 he progressed from a Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association to the committee on Psychiatry and Medical Practice and this year was made chairman of the latter. In 1967 he was elected president of the Northern New England District Branch of the American Psychiatric Association and is continuing as an executive councillor of that organization.

The new president brings a fresh approach to the leadership of the Alumni Association with many positive ideas and goals to be accomplished. Not the least of these is improved communications between Alumni and students. He has already made it clear that the ALUMNI NEWS will endeavor to keep its readers better informed of developments at the School. He also plans to expand the effectiveness of Association programs in support of the School, its Library, the Administration and all students as well as younger Alumni serving as house officers at the Medical Center and its affiliated hospitals by sponsoring a series of informal gatherings involving older Alumni, new Alumni and students through discussions of topics in which all can contribute ideas or advice and improve each one's understanding of current problems.

If you have opinions, they may be addressed to President Swartz through the Alumni Office.
