DESCRIPTION

- Who is LeBron James?
 - A professional basketball player drafted out of high school
 - One of the greatest players to ever play in the NBA, winning various awards in his first seven years
- Why is he so important to Cleveland?
 - As seen in Cleveland and the U.S.
 - Symbolized Cleveland's revival in the sports world
- The Decision
 - In June 2010, James announced that he would leave Cleveland to play for the Miami Heat
- Artifact: Gilbert's public letter criticizing James
 - A scolding letter written in response to The Decision

RESEARCH QUESTIONS

- What do the metaphors used in Dan Gilbert's public letter to Cleveland Cavalier fans reveal about his perceptions of LeBron James and Cleveland's situation after his departure?
- Looking specifically at some of the metaphors utilized, what does Gilbert's attempt to rhetorically shift James from "angel" to "devil" tell us about his view of the professional athlete in general?

METHOD

- Metaphoric Criticism
 - Goal is to find the explicit and implicit metaphors in order to form an overall idea of the rhetor's message.
 - Steps of the method:
 - Reconstruct context
 - Search for metaphors
 - Group metaphors into common themes according to tenor or vehicle.

METAPHORS

LeBron James	Dan Gilbert/ Ownership
As villain	As hero
As native son
As fallen god/king/hero

ANALYSIS

- Gilbert/Ownership as hero
 - Points organization as the knight in shining armor that will slay the evil that is LeBron James
 - Makes a promise to vanquish Cleveland's newfound foe.
 - "The god says that the ownership took all the rest of the hardworking, loyal, and devoted staff over here at your dismissal! Cleveland! How did we betray you? We NEVER will betray you!" (Gilbert)

- LeBron as native son
 - James, from Akron, Ohio, played for the Cavs for the first 7 years of his NBA career.
 - Gilbert uses phrases such as:
 - "Our former hero, who grew up in the very region that he departed"
 - "shameful display of selfishness and betrayal by one of our very own"
 - "Inheritably from our home grown chosen one"
 - Brings up a sense of family and connection with LeBron James that makes the hurt and betrayal more poignant

- LeBron as fallen god/king/hero
 - Throughout James' career he's been touted as "The Chosen One," "The King." These metaphors set up the expectation that James is the basketball god. Gilbert directly and viciously attacks this premise with perhaps the most powerful line in the letter: "Some people think they should go to heaven but NOT have to die to get there. Sorry but that's simply not how it works!" (Gilbert)
 - Directly attempts to knock James out of the sky
 - Develops a new metaphor: James as devil

IMPLICATIONS AND CONCLUSIONS

- Research Question #1
 - Gilbert's perceptions of James
 - Agrees to label LeBron, despite once being just as enamored with the star as the fans were
 - Gilbert's perceptions of Cleveland Cavalier's situation
 - Agrees to cast Cleveland's situation as dire, judging by the intensity of his response

IMPLICATION AND CONCLUSIONS

- Research Question #1
 - Shift from "angel" to "devil" tells us something significant about how view of athletes in general
 - We are so hard on professional athletes. We are unreasonably putting unrealistic expectations on them and then crucifying them if they fail.
 - LeBron is simply a man looking to be the best at his profession and to make decisions based on what is best for him and his family.
