THE SESQUICENTENNIAL
1841-1991

Well, we finally made it. As we look back over these photos and reminisce about “the good old days” at law school, let us not forget that ours was the class that graduated in the 150th anniversary of this proud university. It seemed that every other day there was some kind of function marking Fordham’s Sesquicentennial in the Platt Atrium or the McNally Amphitheater. What a special opportunity it was to hear and meet with distinguished Fordham alumni such as Hon. Geraldine Ferraro L’60, Archibald Murray L’60, James Gill L’56, Thomas Moore L’72, Ronald Kuehn, Jr. L’62, Hon Cesar Perales L’65, Hon John Keenan L’56, and Andrew Maloney, L’61.

Over the last several years we have made new friends, formed lasting bonds and developed enduring ties. To be sure, law school has been an experience that has made a mark on our minds and our lives. For many of us it is the final step in a long and winding educational journey. But now, prepared with the tools to “think like a lawyer,” we embark upon our careers. Fordham has done its job; now it’s time for us to do ours.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE GRADUATES

O, sing the praise of Fordham Law:
 A song so loud and clear,
 For the students who will graduate
 In this Sesquicentennial Year!
 Here are America's very best!
 I contemplate in awe —
 The "par excellence" of legal brains
 Today, at Fordham Law.

A century and one-half has passed
 Since Eighteen Forty-one;
 When as the College of St. John,
 Fordham was begun.
 America owes a vote of thanks
 To those religious men
 Who inspired higher learning
 And paved — the way — back then.

"Faith in the Future Keeping"
 Prudent — and — sincere,
 So lucky — you — to graduate —
 In this most inspiring year.
 Never — once — may you forget

Your teachers and good friends.
 "Maroon" and "Rams" — the passwords —
 You — in ecstasy — suspends!

God bless your Alma Mater
 Where "Wisdom and Knowledge" grew:
 Wisdom on how to reason —
 Knowledge of how and what to do.
 As you don your caps and gowns
 On this twenty-sixth of May,
 Our prayers and thoughts go with you
 On this, your Graduation Day!

As you greet the dawning century,
 And Year Two-Thousand-One,
 Remember Fordham Law School —
 Perhaps — from Washington? —
 The Congress? — The White House? —
 Or somewhere in between?
 Remember Fordham Law School
 And its awe-inspiring Dean!

A RETROSPECTIVE by David Sternlicht & Michael Manley

A beginning to an ending. Perhaps we are looking at this passage a few days before our graduation, or maybe years after graduation, remembering the time we spent at Fordham. We begin to see the familiar faces and invariably we recall the good and not-so-good times. We see who we were when we started. Have we changed along the way?

First Year, for many, was a rude awakening. Most of us did not really know what to expect; most could not predict what has happened to us since. Who would make a Journal and who would join the Follies? Fresh faces, excitement. The professors — Abramovsky, Byrne, Magnetti, Marcus, Perillo . . . Was she a good one? Was he a bad one? Would he give his grades in on time? Legal Process. The ultimate question of the first month: would we pass Legal Process? And though upperclass students told us no one ever failed Legal Process, none of us wanted to be the first. So most studied; those of us who did not, turned out to be “the smarter.”

We thought we knew what was going on, yet we got increasingly lost. We hit several hurdles — mid-terms, then finals. Law School, we learned, was a unique learning experience. It taught us how to think in a different mode — what had worked previously did not necessarily work anymore. Plenty fought that way of thinking. Others seemed to embrace it automatically. Perhaps the more we seemed to know, the less we actually knew. Often, greater questions were left unanswered because we had to focus on the black letter. As we look upon the SUMMATION now, have those questions been answered? Are they ever answered? Do they even matter?

With First Year behind us, most entered the unified writing competition or engaged in the Moot Court competition. We realized First Year lingered on as finals gave way to these two events that were time consuming, competitive, and stressful. But with the coming of our grades, so ended our First Year — the gauntlet — a rite of passage. But perhaps now was truly the beginning — Job Search.

Career Planning and Placement — another unique experience. Job binders, NALP forms, Firm cocktail parties; fake smiles, good food, free booze. It was the first time we saw our friends in suits. Classmates looked on the wall to see which firms granted them interviews. Lots of us looked to see how many times we had not received interviews. The events that had always seemed to be going on in the Atrium finally included us. We were no longer spectators, but participants.

Second, Third, (and for some) Fourth Year. Corporations, Evidence, Remedies, Professional Responsibility. Our first taste of electives — the opportunity to choose anything from Space Law to Law of the Sea. We gained a new perspective and finally emerged from the library to experience a new part of Law School — the Journals, Moot Court, Mediation Clinic and the Clinical Program, and non-academic activities such as the Fordham Democrats, the Legal Fiction, and Pro-Bono. Some people worked part time, others did research for professors, still others had judicial clerkships and got a chance to see the courts in action.

Back from our summer jobs, Law School seemed less a hurdle, more an obstacle. For the first time people spoke openly of a recession and it affected all professions, industries, and walks of life. For Fordham Law it was uniquely difficult because what we heard going into Law School was no longer true. First Year we were together as a group. Second, Third and Fourth Year we began to drift apart. But in these somewhat difficult times, we recaptured our sense of “class.”

With the Boatride, Tuesday Nights at the Quarter Moon and McAleer's, TANGs, the Fordham Follies, the Spring Cotillion at Tower Suite, and ultimately with our Graduation on May 26, 1991, Fordham's Sesquicentennial class is together once again. And though we may take different paths — the public sector, legal aid, government service, or large and small law firms — we know that the Class of 1991 will always share a bond, specially tailored for Fordham's 150th class.
