GILMORE FAMILY BIBLE

These Bible records were copied from the Gilmore Family Bible by Clara A. (Gilmore) Damerall in about 1935. The same dates were copied by her brother-in-law, Robert Harllee McNeill, into his personal journal, now in the possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. Margie M. Boyd, 4465 Thomas Lane, Beaumont, TX 77706. Although it is rumored that the Gilmore Family Bible burned many years ago, these two sources compliment each other and thus seem authentic.

SOME CHILDHOOD MEMORIES OF MISS LORETTO CHAPPELL

By
Roger Harris
3410 Carden Drive
Columbus, Georgia 31907

The following text is based on an interview that was conducted by Mr. Harris in the winter of 1979, just a matter of weeks before Miss Chappell's 84th birthday. On October 6, 1987, "Miss Loretto," Columbus's most prominent and beloved librarian, died at the age of 92.

When Loretto Chappell was born in 1895, her birthplace of Columbus, Georgia, was a town still caught up in pressures of Reconstruction.

"There were remnants of the Reconstruction in the air during my childhood, although history books say it ended in 1876," says the petite octogenarian known to her friends and acquaintances as "Miss Loretto." "Believe me, I saw fragments!"

When post-war days of the fallen antebellum South brought not only physical loss to proud families that survived to endure degradation, but also a need that was greater than ever for spiritual and financial support from all who were able to set foot outside the home. These were times when many worked who had never worked (or considered working) before. Countless women, realizing the need, left their hearths to share in the responsibility of providing for their struggling families.

"Most women who worked outside their homes were schoolteachers, although women did work in millineries, as salesladies, and as telegraphers. As a child, I remember the salesladies in their black skirts - with a pocket for scissors - and their gray hair," Miss Chappell recalls. "They were such dainty, sweet, lovely women, who wouldn't think of going to beauty parlors three or four times a month like ladies today!"

For some women, work inside the home was more appealing than that beyond their front doors, and many of them chose to open up their residences to those seeking room and board. Thus, the "boarding house," as it was called, became an institution of the New South.

"Women needed and wanted to help," Miss Chappell says. "A woman could take her old family silver, her lovely damask, her exquisite china, and her family home and easily make her house one for boarders. There were many lovely boarding houses."

In a letter dated January 5, 1895, Miss Chappell's grandmother, Mrs. Absalom Harris Chappell (the former Loretto Rebecca Lamar), wrote to a Mrs. Watt and described the serene and familiar scenes of the Columbus boarding house in which she had stayed temporarily.

"I often view with my mind's eye your surroundings," Mrs. Chappell wrote. "In the dining room I see the long table spread, the spoons arranged in angles, rectangles, and triangles, with mathematical precision, napkins fringed out with Charlie's (the butler's) aesthetic skill and he rushing around with frantic haste to serve each boarder with savory steak or crisp fried chicken, either in their laps or plates as chance may direct. But the most pleasant contemplation is to behold you all assembled in the comfortable parlor, a merry social band, who have turned all care outside the door. And then again I visit you in your own elegant room with scarfs, mats, and cushions, all beautifully laid, and a cozy chair by the warm grate placed by ready, wifely hands for Mr. Watt. Oh! What a happy man he ought to be, with such a wife and what a contented woman you must be, with such a good husband."

For ladies who were neither able nor interested in the running of a boarding house, there was the possibility of another choice means of obtaining income while staying at home. However, these women had to be artistic; in fact, it was necessary that they have a steady hand with a paint brush.

"In the 1890's a Mr. Lycett opened a shop in Atlanta which carried fine china from Limoges and Haviland. After he received his shipments from France, he would have Georgia girls decorate it for his customers," say Miss Chappell. "A connection of mine who lived above Atlanta did work for him in the late 1800s."

The painting was extremely tedious, but it was the type of work that a woman could do in the comfort of her own home, at her leisure. The elaborate results of her work were highly prized by doting brides and are valued even today by those who are fortunate enough to lay claim to such "Lycett" treasures.

Although not all women of the period were gifted and privileged enough to produce delicately painted china, most young females were educated in embroidery, cooking, and sewing. Among the most fortunate of young ladies were those who received exposure to fine literature.

"Before the War (the War Between the States), many girls were sent to lovely boarding schools," Miss Chappell says, "but during Reconstruction, they were given their education within the home. Many girls were highly educated at home through private collections and libraries."

Miss Chappell admits that the general feelings of the times reinforced the idea that formal education for men was more important than schooling for women - that women were raised to believe that they could learn all that was necessary to be a good wife and mother from older females in her family. Not surprisingly, despite the willingness on the part of capable adult females to aid in meeting the family's financial needs - even in such times of depression as Reconstruction - the males still felt a need to be the one who supplied the family with income.

LORETTO CHAPPELL

"My father had the old-fashioned idea of his being the income and never dreamed of my mother working outside her home," she recalls.

But while Lucius Henry Chappell, her father, was involved in business and community affairs (which included a 12-year stint as mayor of Columbus), Mrs. Chappell (the former Cynthia Kent Hart) was rather busy herself back at home tending to the children and the household duties.

"My mother presided at the breakfast table," Miss Chappell remembers. "And when the children left for school, she saw to it that the lunches were well-prepared."

After breakfast Mrs. Chappell began to plan the family's midday meal - the largest of the day. Then there was the assigning of chores to the family servants, which included meeting the milkman daily with a pitcher for the milk and going to the market for the family's necessities.

Perhaps the most memorable weekly domestic ritual in Miss Chappell's eyes, however, was her mother's overseeing of the family's laundry.

"Every Monday she saw that all the table linens and the children's clothes were laundered," Miss Chappell says. "We had the most wonderful wash-woman who came each Monday to get our wash, and on Saturday she would bring the fresh clean clothes back to us, carrying them in a huge basket on her head. In his buggy, Papa took his shirts and the table linens to Charlie Lee and Yee Lee. They were Chinese men who ran a laundry right across from the (present) post office on 12th Street. They wore long pigtails and did the most beautiful work."

With particular affection, Miss Chappell speaks of childhood summers and of the sights and sounds still fresh in her memory. To the melodic voices of black women who carried baskets of fresh fruit on their heads and repeatedly sang "honeysuckle...sassafras" loudly enough for residents along the street to hear, the Chappell children would rise around 8:30 on those warm mornings, dress, have breakfast between 8:00 and 8:30, and then go visiting in the neighborhood until dinner.

"Sometimes there would be a watermelon-cutting for us," she says. "Or we might have had a glass of lemonade with ice from the ice man, which he brought around in sawdust and croker sacks."

When not outside playing under the trees, the children usually found themselves being given instruction inside the house, under the watchful eyes of attentive mothers and grandmothers.

"As children, our mothers had things to do, and we could sit and weave and sew in the mornings. The sun was hot and it wouldn't be good for us."

MUSCOGIANA, VOL. 1, NO. 3

In addition to her other regular household duties, Mrs. Chappell saw that the children were bathed after dinner and put into fresh clothes.

"In the summer, we always had a bath after our dinner. I usually put on a clean little dress with a sash. We called it 'dressing for the afternoon,'" Miss Chappell says with a gentle smile.

After a carefree afternoon, the Chappell children gathered around the dining table with their mother and father for the evening meal, which was usually a light supper, served around 6 o'clock.

Later, after their meal, the children in Miss Loretto's family and neighborhood would often congregate on the expansive neighborhood lawns, while their parents sat on front porches with palmetto fans until bedtime - which was somewhere around 8 o'clock.

"We would jump rope, half a dozen children at the time, or we might play a game called 'How Do You Make Your Living' (involving two teams and each guessed what the others pantomimed for their choice of a living when they grew up). The boys taught us a game called 'Stealing Sticks'; they (the boys) made a pile of sticks and the girls would try to take as many sticks from the pile as we could before the boys could catch us. But the boys always won," she says with slight laughter in her voice.

Miss Chappell acknowledges the fact that she was always partial to reading; when many of the other children were outside frolicking, she would be inside with a book. After the Chappell family's move in 1906 from her birthplace on Third Avenue to "Glen Lora" on Rose Hill (the antebellum mansion built in 1832 and acquired by Absalom Harris Chappell, Miss Chappell's grandfather, in 1857), she became particularly fond of Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, and "I wanted to do everything Rebecca did," she says.

Aside from books, she enjoyed neighborhood pony-cart rides, picnics beneath the stately trees at "Glen Lora," and trolley car rides.

"We had trolley car rides on the trolley cars if a little boy or girl had a birthday party. We could stop at Wildwood Park and have ice cream and cake, and then we would ride some more."

At home, on the quiet grounds of "Glen Lora," life was full and idyllic - a definite departure from the "city life" that she had known at her birthplace on Third Avenue.

"At "Glen Lora" there were rose gardens, scuppernong arbors, fig trees, swings, and plenty of room for the neighborhood children to play," Miss Chappell says of the home that no longer stands. "Life at 'Glen Lora' was very different from life downtown. My mother used to say, 'This is the house of my spirit.'"

LORETTO CHAPPELL

As the shadows lengthened and the lazy days of summer came to an end, annual preparations were begun for the cooler days of fall - and the return to school that they would bring.

"We always had a good sewing woman who would come every day for about two weeks before school started to outfit us," Miss Chappell recalls. "There were no ready-made clothes when I was small. About 1908 or 1910 department stores put out good ready-made clothes, but even after that, our sewing woman's creations were superior."

With the first day of classes - in the tailored, hand-made togs - she and her contemporaries gathered their academic supplies and walked to school. From her Third Avenue home, she walked to the old Sixteenth Street School (later named Woodall School); when she moved to "Glen Lora," she was reassigned to Rose Hill School. She walked to school on Rose Hill, too, until she was reassigned to Sixteenth Street School - and from "Glen Lora" she walked every day.

"You had to be at school before 9 A. M. If you came in after that you were everlastingly disgraced," Miss Chappell remembers. "You were kept in after school for tardiness and made to practice writing or reading out loud to the teacher."

There was school of sorts on Sunday, too. Sunday school.

"We surely were lined up and taken to Sunday school. Father wouldn't fail to take us; Mother wouldn't quite make it," Miss Chappell says. "She was just so involved at home with a good Sunday dinner and taking care of the babies."

Miss Chappell speaks with affection of Bishop Nelson (of the Episcopal Church in Georgia), who visited regularly in her parents' home - usually twice a year. After breakfast, on a singularly memorable Sunday morning during her childhood, Miss Chappell's father commented that it was time for them to be leaving for church (Trinity Episcopal). He chidingly said to the Bishop that Mrs. Chappell would not be joining them, and the Bishop promptly replied in her defense: "A lady who rose early in the morning, bathed and dressed and saw to tying sashes and curling hair and making sure that the children knew their catechism doesn't need to go to church!"

Miss Chappell delights in telling another of her "Bishop Nelson" stories - one that centers around his "giving her permission" to have a birthday party.

"I could never have a birthday party because my birthday was in Lent," Miss Chappell says, "and we were taught at Sunday school that you couldn't entertain during this religious season. But this particular year, when we were still living on Third Avenue, the Bishop told me that I could have a party - and I had a good one!"

Vivid memories of Sunday afternoons at home come to mind as Miss Chappell recalls the joys of childhood.

"After church, all the children ran home to read the funny paper. It was so much better than the funny paper these days," Miss Chappell says. "And after dinner, Mother would tell us wonderful stories and read to us from the Bible. She did that all our lives."

In speaking of her parents, Miss Chappell makes it clear that theirs was a relationship based on strong devotion to each other. On a light note, she remembers talk of her mother's being taller than her father and the concern that it brought the young bride-to-be before her marriage to "Mr. Chappell." "She fussed about it (her height), but Papa said that 'Josephine was taller than Napoleon, and that didn't make any difference to them.'"

Although her mother was first and foremost a homemaker, Miss Chappell emphasizes the fact that her mother was not a woman bound to the house and children, day in and day out. In fact, at Mr. Chappell's insistence, his wife joined the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

"Papa thought that she should honor her father by becoming a member," Miss Chappell says.

Mrs. Chappell was also a member of the industrious Students Club (now known as The Junto), which did much for the establishment of free kindergarten in Columbus, by staging bazaars; plays; and other fund-raising events; and she was no less active in the mission projects undertaken by her church.

"But Mother was always anxious to get home after such meetings, and we were always glad to see her," Miss Chappell says. "Those winter afternoons were so awfully long as we waited for her to return to us."

A recollection of her grandmother brings to mind the elderly people whom Miss Chappell knew as a child.

"Children were very respectful of old people. Grandmothers were devoted to the children and wanted to teach them to do such things as make quilts and weave mats. Older people were greatly treasured; they were given the best rooms and their families granted their requests as best they could."

"They surely kept that commandment," Miss Chappell says, looking far away and speaking just above a whisper, "'Honor thy father and mother, and thy days will be long upon the earth.'"

COLONEL WILLIAM L. WYNN (1799-1868):

NAMESAKE TO A NEIGHBORHOOD

PART ONE

By

Kenneth H. Thomas, Jr.
619 Pinetree Drive
Decatur, Georgia 30030

William Lewis Wynn, who lived in Columbus/Muscogee County briefly in the 1830's and 1840's, left a name on the Columbus landscape which has endured ever since. While his house at 1240 Wynnton Road survives, it is no longer generally known to be his home, having been the CFA (Christian Fellowship Association) Headquarters since 1958. But the area in which he lived, part of which was his own land, has been known for over a century and a half as "Wynnton".

Wynnton was a village and Columbus' first suburb or satellite community from which planters and others commuted into town to do business or work. The name has endured for the community which was incorporated into the city limits of Columbus in 1925¹, as well as for Wynnton Road, which eventually becomes Macon Road; being the main road leading east out of town toward the city of Macon, one hundred miles away. There is also Wynnton School, which includes a brick antebellum school building surrounded by a 1920's school building.² There are also several churches whose congregations have borne the name Wynnton for over fifty years. Wynn's Hill, the steep incline leading toward the city of Columbus from the home, retains the Colonel's name directly.

Little has ever been published about William L. Wynn, the namesake for Wynnton. The existing histories of Columbus (there have been no histories of the county), from John H. Martin in the 1870's until the recent photo-histories by Kyle and Mahan, reveal nothing about Wynn's background or his life after leaving Columbus.

There are numerous people around Columbus who are named Wynn (variously spelled), either as a first, middle, or last name, and it might be assumed that some of them would have to be descended from him. Being descended myself from one of these families, I learned early that we were not kin to Colonel Wynn. I assume that those named Wynn probably thought the other Wynns were his relatives, if they thought about it at all. The truth is that no one today in Columbus named Wynn - for either one of their three names - is related to him or his brothers.³

As in the case of many placename namesakes around the southeast, Colonel Wynn's tenure in Columbus is brief, yet his memory is long-lasting, due to "Wynnton".

Who was William L. Wynn and what was his role in Columbus? What became of him?

MUSCOGIANA, VOL. 1, NO. 3

William Lewis Wynn was born March 10, 1799, presumably in Sussex County, Virginia, the sixth child and fifth son of Green and Hannah G. Tyus Wynn.⁴ His parents had married 23 December 1785 in Greensville County, Virginia, and lived in neighboring Sussex County until shortly after 1801, when they moved to Georgia. They arrived in Georgia by 1802-1803 to be eligible to enter the 1805 Land Lottery, when living in Hancock County.⁵ Green Wynn was a planter and presumably came to Georgia, as did other Virginians, to seek better land for farming. No doubt they brought several slave families with them, as he always appears to have been a slave owner.

After spending a few years in Hancock County, the Wynns moved only a short distance to Georgia's most newly-opened land. They appear as early as 1809 living in Jones County, Georgia. Opened for settlement in 1807 and then on the state's westernmost frontier, the county's western boundary was the Ocmulgee River. They lived on the county's northern border with Jasper County, and owned land on either side of the county line. In the early 1820's, Macon would be established on the western bank of the Ocmulgee River, just a few miles to the south.⁶

Green Wynn, the father, a son of John Wynn (who died in 1796 in Virginia), and Agnes Sturdivant Wynn (his first wife)⁷, died in Jones County, Georgia, in late April 1820, leaving a will.⁸ His estate included twenty slaves, and was valued at $10,000 when inventoried in January 1821. William L. Wynn was co-executor of the estate, which appears to have been settled by the mid 1820's.⁹ The widow Hannah, daughter of Lewis Tyus and Ann Gilliam, is said to have lived until 23 September 1837. She apparently left Jones County and was living in Upson County in early 1825 with her son Lewis. By 1830 she was in Monroe County, just across the Ocmulgee River from the Wynn's previous plantation, with another son, the eldest, and the other co-executor, Richmond W. Wynn. She did not appear to be living with him and his family in the census of the same year.¹⁰ Thus, it is not certain where she died.

When William L. Wynn was married in Jones County, Georgia, on 22 June 1828 to Ann Eliza Lewis, 17-year old daughter of Pearce A. Lewis and Phebe (said to be Langdon), it was not the Wynn family's first association with the Lewis family. William's oldest brother had been married in 1816 to her older half-sister, Mary T. Richardson, who had been orphaned when barely a year old. Raised by her mother and step-father, they named several of their children for the Lewis relatives. It was after more than a decade of association with the Lewis family, both through intermarriage and many land transactions, that William L. Wynn solidified the connection with his own marriage.¹¹

Shortly after their marriage he and his bride moved to southwest Georgia's Randolph (to a part which later became Stewart) County, which had just been opened for settlement as was Columbus and Muscogee County, through the 1827 Land Lottery. They lived there until early 1832.¹² The 1830 Census indicated that the Wynns had one male child under five, and a second adult male in the household, as well as thirty-two slaves. I am assuming this other adult male was his older brother, John C. Wynn, as all his other brothers were married and accounted for.¹³

While living in Randolph/Stewart County, Wynn began his first participation in Columbus. Wynn attended the auction held on July 14-15, 1828, for the sale of city lots in Columbus as well as for land in the Coweta Falls Reserve, the large body of land adjoining Columbus on the east, which had not been distributed in the 1827 Land Lottery as had the rest of the county. Wynn purchased "on time" (five installments) a number of lots, including Lot 60, a 100-acre tract on what would later be known as "Wynn's Hill".¹⁴

During the few years the Wynns would live in Randolph (after 1830 their land was in Stewart County), Wynn was active in local events affecting river traffic.¹⁵

Several of the other early planters or large landowners who were to play an important early role in Columbus/Muscogee County owned land in the Stewart County area where Wynn lived. Whether these influenced him to move to his land in Columbus/Muscogee or not, is not known. His in-laws, the Pearce Lewises, also came to the Columbus/Muscogee/Russell County area shortly after 1832.¹⁶

Wynn's actual settlement date in Columbus/Muscogee County is not known, but obviously had taken place by early 1832.¹⁷ His land grants, bought on time, were finally paid for by early 1833 and he received his land grants from the governor of Georgia dated 15 April 1833. He added other Coweta Falls Reserve land by purchasing land grants from others before they finished paying for them, thus while he did not bid for them at the 1828 auction, he ended up as the grantee when the grant was issued.¹⁸

The earliest surviving official record listing Wynn's total landholdings is the 1838 Tax Digest for Muscogee County. It indicted that Wynn owned 1,638 acres of land in Muscogee and approximately forty slaves.¹⁹

Of the land he owned by 1838, some was out in the county, some was small city lots within the city limits of Columbus, and the rest, the part within the Coweta Falls Reserve, a large, contiguous track of land, became Wynn's plantation and homeplace. This plantation became the southern core of the "Village of Wynnton".

The Wynn Plantation was roughly the land between today's Brown Avenue on the east and 10th Avenue on the west, and south of Wynnton Road-Buena Vista Road.²⁰

Further analysis and discussion of the Wynn estate and its evolution into the Village of Wynnton will be explored in a later article.

The use of the term "Wynnton" as the name for the new settlement arising from Colonel Wynn's plantation can be found as early as the fall of 1837, when the Wynnton Academy was incorporated by the Georgia Legislature. Among the original trustees, besides Wynn, were Lovick Pierce (who built Hilton), Thomas J. Hand, and Isaac Mitchell.²¹ The fact that the "Village" extended north of present-day Wynnton Road and Wynnton School is evident from an advertisement for sale of land in August 1838. This land, part of lot 76, was never owned by Wynn.²²

While in Muscogee/Columbus for approximately fifteen years, from 1832-1848, Colonel Wynn no doubt participated in many local activities. Foremost among these was politics. In October 1834 he was elected as one of two state representatives from Muscogee County on the States Rights Party ticket, along with John Woolfolk, serving only one term, November-December 1834.²³ He ran again in 1837 on an Anti-Van Buren platform but lost.²⁴ In 1836 he was involved in a lease from the city of Columbus for a large portion of the South Commons (near the present Municipal Auditorium and stadium) and was already a party to another lease for a race course in the same area, his partners being M. W. Thweatt and T. B. Howard.²⁵ In December 1838 he was a trustee for the Wynnton Female Academy.²⁶ Somewhere along the way he attained the title or rank of "Colonel". No documentation has been found to determine whether this was an earned or honorary title.

HIS FAMILY

Wynn's wife, Ann Elizabeth Lewis, died in Columbus on 9 June 1834, just before she turned twenty-three. Her obituary indicated that she "died at her residence in the vicinity of Columbus" and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church in Columbus, presumably the present St. Luke's. She died shortly after giving birth to a daughter, also named Ann Elizabeth, born June 2, 1834, her only surviving child, and is buried in Linwood Cemetery on a lot where the other marked burials include two of her siblings and some of their children. Her tombstone predates the next marked burial by a decade. Due to the size of the lot, it would appear that the ten other graves take up the lot, although some of their markers are now illegible.

Her tomb reads: "Ann Elizabeth, Consort of Wm. L. Wynn Born July 21, 1811/Died June 9, 1834. Here Reposeth Mother and Son.

"Wynn" in large letters is on the back. On the other side is the marker for an infant son:

"Americus Green, son of William L. and Ann Elizabeth Wynn, February 1, 1830/February 9, 1833."²⁷

This would be the child who was living with them in the 1830 Census of Randolph (later Stewart) County.

Her two siblings buried there include Pearce L. Lewis (1816-1852), who died in Russell County, Alabama, leaving a will, and his wife, Caroline Elizabeth (Cook) Lewis (1820-1850); and Mrs. Sarah A. Lyon (1806-1843), erected by her son, Pearce A. Phillips (1825-1844), who left a will in Muscogee County, and is buried next to his mother.²⁸

Ann Elizabeth Wynn's parents moved to Russell County after 1832 and died there. Pearce A. Lewis's will was probated in 1852 and named these sons: Felix [G.], John L., Pearce L., Jacob A., and his only [surviving?] daughter Margaret Phillips and her children.

Several of these children were living in Russell County in the 1850 Census. The Lewis family and some of the Phillipses are buried at what is known as the Phillips-Barnett Cemetery in Russell County off US 80 (the Crawford Road) near Crawford. The Lewis tombs read:

"Pearce A. Lewis [died] May 1st, 1852 in the 78th year of his age"

"Mrs. Phebe Lewis Born Feb. 16th 1776, Died/Dec. 27th 1858..."

Before living in Jones County, Georgia, the Lewises lived in Wilkes County, Georgia.²⁹

2. "Wynnton School," National Register Nomination, copy found at the Historic Preservation Section, Georgia Department of Natural Resources and the Historic Columbus Foundation.
3. Col. Wynn had only one daughter to survive to maturity. The descendants of four of his brothers are known to be in Mississippi, Louisiana, or other western states. None ever lived in Columbus. My Wynn family, represented in Columbus by John Henry Wynn, descends from several of the children of John and Mary (Brewer) Wynn who lived in Putnam County, Georgia. He died there in 1827 and his own roots are unknown. Descendants of four of their children eventually lived in Columbus.
4. Green Wynn/R. W. Wynn Family Bible, Xerox copy in possession of the author.
5. Family information from Wynn descendants in Louisiana; the fact that their son born in 1803 was born in Georgia, per the census, and that to qualify for the 1805 Land Lottery one had to be in Georgia for the year 1802-1803.
6. Jasper County, Georgia. Deed Book 3, p. 256. Deed dated 20 March 1809 in which Green Wynn buys lot 100, 12 District, on the border of Jones/Jasper Counties, gives Wynn's residence as Jones County.

9. Jones County, Georgia Inventory, Appraisements, Sales and Returns C (1819-1823), p. 92; and G (1828-1829), p. 166.
10. Her marriage record gives her father's name: Knorr, Marriage Bonds and Ministers Returns of Sussex County, Virginia, 1754-1810, p. 89. It is also recorded in the Wynn Family Data (Louisiana). Her death date comes from the Wynn Family bible, cited above, and has not be verified by an obituary or any other source. Her 1825 location is given in Jasper County, Georgia, Deed Book A, p. 443, in which the deed is witnessed by her son, Lewis Wynn, who was a J. P. in Upson County. The 1830 location is from Houston County, Georgia, Deed Book G (1836-1840), pp. 563-564, dated 9 July 1830, and witnessed by her son, R. W. Wynn, who lived in Monroe County in both the 1830 and 1840 censuses. The 1830 Census information for Williamson Wynn is in Monroe County, Georgia, page 224.
11. Jones County, Georgia. Marriage Book A, p. 375. Her age is from her tombstone, and her parentage is from her obituary, The Columbus Enquirer, June 14, 1834, p. 3. The connection of the Lewis-Richardson family is made from citations in Grace G. Davidson, Early Records of Georgia . . . Wilkes County (1932, 1968), two volumes in one. The estate of Joel Richardson indicated that Pearce A. Lewis and R. W. Wynn were involved with the schooling and housing of Benjamin Richardson, orphan. Earlier records indicated there had been a second orphan, Mary, and a widow Phebe. The original loose papers of this estate at the Georgia Archives contain the receipts which confirm these connections. Pearce A. Lewis' marriage to the widow Richardson took place by 1801 probably in Wilkes County where all parties were then living. Richmond Williamson Wynn, oldest brother of William L. Wynn, married Mary T. Richardson in Jones County, Georgia in 1816. The Langdon surname for Mrs. Lewis is suggested only in Russell County in Retrospect (1950) by Anne Kendrick Walker on page 226. While this is probably correct, since the Lewises had a son named John Langdon Lewis, I have not yet verified it. There are also some errors in the Lewis information in that history.

12. They lived in Randolph County, Georgia, at the time of the Coweta Falls Reserve/Columbus auction of 1828, since "Randolph" is given as Wynn's residence on the land grants, apparently from the original sales log. They were there in the 1830 Census (p. 248). Their earliest appearance in Columbus/Muscogee as residents is in a deed dated 31 March 1832 found in Stewart County, Georgia, Deed Book B (1831-1833), p. 289..

13. 1830 Census, Randolph County, Georgia, page 248. It is only total assumption that this other adult male, aged 30 to 40, within the same age range as William L. Wynn, was his older brother John C. Wynn, born in 1797. John C. is the only one of the six sons of Green Wynn who has not been traced, and is not the same as the man of the same name who was in Thomas County, Georgia in 1840 and in Florida in 1850 and later. The Wynn Family Data (Louisiana) erroneously attributes this John C. Wynn to my own ancestor, John of Putnam, because the Wynn Family Bible gives on an added sheet, his marriage to one Mary Brewer. No record of this marriage has been found, nor any real proof of his later whereabouts, or even his name on any deeds with the family. At this writing, he remains a mystery.

14. The Coweta Falls Reserve Land Grant records are part of the Surveyor General Section of the Georgia Archives. The first payments out of four for the land indicate that Wynn was at the auction and made his first payment shortly thereafter. The lots varied in size.

15. Helen Eliza Terrill and Sara Robertson Dixon, History of Stewart County, Georgia {Volume One} (1958), pp. 11, 13, 15. The last reference was signed on January 2, 1832 when the committee gave its report.

16. Pearce A. Lewis registered for the 1832 Gold Lottery as a resident of Jones County, Georgia, indicating he was living there in the late spring of 1832. They were living in Muscogee/Russell by 1834 when their daughter Ann Eliza Wynn died, as they were mentioned in her obituary.

BRANNON FAMILY CEMETERY

HARRIS COUNTY, GEORGIA

From Ellerslie, Georgia, go east on Highway 315E for about six miles to the crossroads of Ridgeway Road and Highway 315, and about .4 of a mile further along 315. Take a right turn into the woods on a dirt path or narrow dirt road. It goes back into woods about 200 yards and stops. The cemetery is in sapling woods to the left. Most of these graves are marked only with fieldstones and are all about in leaves and leaf mold. It is very hard to make a count of them, maybe about seventy-five graves. There are two lots walled with built up fieldstones and topped with a thin coating of concrete. The large long lot has six graves. The smaller square walled lot does not seem to contain any markers. None were seen. There are a few built up fieldstone graves but without any identification. The rest are just single stones on the ground or sinks. Copied Feb. 4, 1987 by June Hanna with the help of Mr. Edward C. Lunsford, who showed her the location of the cemetery.

In the larger lot, an obelisk about 6 feet tall: On the front side:

In / Memory of / Our Father / and Mother / Calvin J. Brannon / Nov. 9, 1804 / May 11, 1863.

Mattie Brannon / Apr. 30, 1799 / Feb. 5, 1858.

North side of obelisk:

In / Memory of / Our Sisters / Emily P. Brannon / Sep. 1, 1834 / Feb. 3, 1853.

Frances C. Brannon / June 16, 1841 / Aug. 27, 1864 / We hope to meet again.

South side of obelisk:

In / Memory of / Our Grand Father / and Mother / John Brannon / Jan. 3, 1775 / Jan. 27, 1858.

Nancy Brannon / Nov. 7, 1786 / Oct. 29, 1863.

Row in front of obelisk contains the graves of the above named six persons:

1. Concrete slab with small marble name plate on top: Frances Brannon and footstone.
2. Concrete base for small flat marble slab:

In memory of Emily P. / Daughter of / Calvin and Catherine / C. Brannon / Born Sep. 1st, 1837 / Died Feb. 3rd, 1853 / Though suddenly cut off, / Yet still we hope, / For her last utterance was / Rest forevermore.

Marble footstone lying flat: E. P. B.

MUSCOGIANIA, VOL. 1, NO. 3

3. Marble slab:

Sacred / to the memory of / Mrs. Catherine C. / Wife of / Calvin J. Brannon /
Born April 30th, 1799, / Died Feb. 5th, 1858 / Who in life was beloved of all, and in death has escaped / the reward of her many virtues. / Peace to her ashes.

Flat marble footstone: C. C. B.

4. Rock marked grave - rocks and dirt - small marble name plate:

Calvin J. Brannon

5. Another fieldstone and dirt marked grave with small marble name plate:

John Brannon

6. Concrete slab and small name plate of marble:

Nancy Brannon

end of lot

Next lot - adjoining the above lot; rock walled, no markers seen. Rock marked graves are all around. A few are of stacked fieldstones, seventy-five or more estimated.

From Louise Barfield's History of Harris County, Georgia. page 645 under RIDGEWAY:

"Prospect Methodist Church, First Location: about three miles from Waverly Hall, and built on the land of Calvin John Brannon. It was a small one-room building, thought to have been made of logs. There is a cemetery, a few marked graves that are surrounded by a high rock wall."

Then it lists the burials of the six Brannons in this rock walled lot. Page 644 says:

"The church was later moved to a spot about a mile and a half away. Here it stood for many years. There is a large cemetery enclosed by a wire fence." (Prospect Cemetery).

The above Brannon lot is a family lot in the church cemetery at its first location.

QUERIES

GRACE: My ancestor, Jesse Grace, died as a very young man in 1854. He lived in the village of Redbone near the junction of present Talbot and Taylor counties. I would like to know the cause of his death. If it were an accident, might a newspaper mention it? What newspapers served this area? Are any still in existence? Where? Josephine P. Moore, 3242 Regent Dr., Dallas, Texas 75299.

EDMONDS-MURPHY-STEWART-REACH: Francis M. Edmonds, b. ca. 1794-1800, m. Ailsey Murphy 13 Sep 1838, Upson Co., GA. Family tradition is that they came to Alabama (Bibb Co.) ca. 1851 from Muscogee Co., GA. They were in Upson Co., GA. in 1840 census and in Meriweather Co. in 1850. He may have been son of William Edmonds who d. ca. 1840 Newton Co., GA. Need parents and siblings of Ailsey or Ailsey Murphy b. ca. 1815-1820 GA. One son of Francis and Ailsey Edmonds was Francis b. 26 March 1847 GA., d. 1933 AL. m. (1) Sarah Frances Stewart, d/o Jeremiah and Nancy Stewart (2) Salina Reach. Other children of Francis and Ailsey from census records, all b. GA. are: John T., Matthew, William, Elizabeth. Any help on these would be appreciated. Will pay cost of copies and postage. Sara S. Nichols, 921 66th St., Tuscaloosa, AL 35405.

CHILDERS-GREENE: Looking for parents of Prudence Childers b. ca. 1829 who married Benjamin W. Greene 26 Oct 1843, Talbot Co., GA. and parents of Benjamin W. Green b. ca. 1826 in GA. 1850 Census in Talbot Co., 1860 Census, Columbus, GA. Believe Benjamin died April 10, 1865 in Richmond, VA. hospital. Two eldest sons, William Franklin Greene and Daniel Thomas Greene also in CSA. Three other siblings Nancy A., Sarah J., and Benjamin W. Greene haven't been traced. Eleanor Greene Hemmes, 9918 Kirkhaven, Dallas, Texas 75238.

JONES: Seeking information on the Samuel Jones family who were residing in the vicinity of Muscogee Co. and Chattahoochee Co. during the period of 1850's to 1860's. B. ca. 1767 and is believed to have been granted land as a soldier from Blacks District, Putnam Co., GA. in the Co. of Lee in 1832. His will was propounded for probate at the January term of the Court of Ordinary in 1851 in Muscogee Co., GA. Through the marriages of his children, Johanna, Mary (Polly) Ann, Barbara, Melford, and John Keeling Jones, he is connected to the following families in this area: Bagley, Cobb, William T. Jones, Davis, and Castleberry. My family follows through the issue of John Keeling Jones. Presuming that Samuel died prior to the 1850 Census and all his children were grown. Did not find his wife Elizabeth in any of his children's household at this time. Would like to correspond with anyone who has ties to the above families. Will pay postage for any replies. Louise Bland Martin, Rt 3, Box 324A, Garrison, Texas 75946.

BLAND-CARTER: Seeking information regarding Talton Bland who was born ca. 1795, Edgefield Co., S.C. and married Mary (Polly) Carter. He died in Chattahoochee Co., GA. between 1870 and 1880. It is said that he came from N. C. to GA. ca. 1825. His children were: Sara, Eliza, and Calvin Bland who married Lucinda Morgan. Calvin and Lucinda had the following issue: Frank, William, Harriett and Eliza. Frank married Ophelia Lane and remained in the Columbus, GA. area. Their issue: Julian, Enoch, Howard, Leah (Mrs. Tyler Eason), Mary Lou (Mrs. Eugene Brennan), Gladys (Mrs. Joe Springer), Margaret

(Mrs. Henry Pearson), Sarah (Mrs. Paul Land), Enoch m. Harrie Newsome, Julian m. May Williams, Howard m. and lived in New Mexico. Would like to correspond with anyone in the above mentioned families and exchange information regarding Talton Bland. Will pay postage for answers to this query. Louise Bland Martin, Rt #, Box 325A, Garrison, Texas 75946.

RICHARDSON-GRESHAM: Seeking proof of descent of Asa Richardson (1825-bfr 1860) from John Richardson (1806-1846) of Stewart Co., GA. The will of John Richardson lists Asa as his son; however, a family history in History of Stewart Co., GA lists Nancy Oates as John's second wife; was she the mother of Asa? This same history states John's first wife was a "Miss Gresham." Was this an error? Our family records show Asa married Elvira H. Gresham, the daughter of Marmaduke Gresham. Who was the father of this John Richardson? His brothers are listed as Daniel (b. 1792) and Littlebury (b. 1810). Asa Richardson's children were Mary A., John D., Nancy Caroline (who married John Emanuel Gilmore), Exa B., William T., Thomas B., Asa Augustus "Gus", and Henry W. Richardson (all born 1845 to 1857). Margie M. Boyd, 4465 Thomas Lane, Beaumont, Texas 77706.

GILMORE-ORR: Seeking information on the parentage of Thomas S. Gilmore (1811-1861), b. Washington Co., GA; lived in Muscogee Co. by 1850. Married 1843 to Mary Jane Orr (1827-1874). Who were her parents? The surviving children of this couple moved to Texas ten years after the Civil War, ca. 1875; their names were: John Emanuel m. Nancy Caroline Richardson; Isaac W. m. Rhoda E. Land; Anna Rose Gilmore (no info); Martha "Mattie" m. Dick Singleton; William H. Gilmore (possibly died young). Margie M. Boyd, 4465 Thomas Lane, Beaumont, Texas 77706.

COBB-Hill: Seeking parentage of Martha "Patsy" Hill Cobb. She was the wife of Seth Cobb and they resided near Cusseta on Hitchity Hill. They had the following children: William J.; James; Isaac Hill Cobb who married Savannah House; Jesse T. who married Harriett Flannigan; Susan J. who married James Castleberry; Lucinda B. who married Rhesa Jones; George W. who married Martha A. Pollard; Angeline P. who married Charles A. Brooks; M. Adeline who married D. H. Burts; J. LaFayette who married Lydia A. Dent and Martha who married Dr. H. Sanders. She was a member of Mt. Olive Church and the History of Chattahoochee County states that she was the daughter of Isaac Hill who was the brother of John Hill and a cousin to the illustrious Ben Hill who was a congressman. Grand-Daughter Meta Castleberry Cooksey and Luara Norman were both outstanding in the School System of Columbus, GA. Need to know Isaac Hill's wife (Penelope Clarke-Clark-?), when and where they were married. Need to be sure that this Isaac Hill was the son of Isaac Hill Sr. and Lucinda Wallace. Louise Bland Martin, Route 3, Box 324 A, Garrison, Texas 75946

HELMS-WEATHERS-STERNS: Uriah Helms' will was probated 27 November 1847 in Muscogee County, GA. He named wife, Elizabeth, and daughter, Jane Weathers, wife of Samuel Weathers, among others. Was this Jane Weathers the same as the Jane, age 35, wife of Samuel Weathers, age 40 on 1850 Census, Barbour County, Alabama # 1781? Was Emeline, age 12, their daughter? She was not named in the settlement of Samuel's estate.

QUERIES

He was dead by August, 1854, and by December 1854, Jane had married Wilson H. Sterns. Did they have children? Sue Nite Raguzin, 5008 Briarbrook, Dickinson, TX 77539

COX-RAILEY: Seeking any information of family of John Wesley Cox, born ca 1799, Pendleton District, SC, son of William and Mary Cox. He married ca 1819 to Patience (Madden?). They were living in Pendleton District, SC, 1820; in Dekalb Co., GA, 1830; in Harris Co. GA, (Mountain Hill?) from 1834-1848. By 1850 they were in Marshall Co., MS. Their children were: Ezekiel Asberry, b. 1820 Pendleton District, SC, m. 1842 Harris Co., GA to Frances C. Railey. Rhoda M., b. 1822 SC, m. 1843 Harris Co., GA, to James Hare. (?William E.) b. 1823 SC, m. 1848 Muscogee Co., GA to Sarah A. Righley. Polly A., b. 1827 GA, m. 1840 Harris Co., GA, to John C. Cox. Richard R., b. 1830 GA, m. ? to Naomi ?. Sarah Ann, b. 1833, GA, m. 1848 Marshall Co., MS, to O. P. Bradshaw. Elizabeth, b. 1835 GA, m. ? to Jim Reid. John Wesley (Pony), b. 1836 GA, m. 1859 Marshall Co., MS to Nancy Jane Cox. Two brothers of John Wesley Cox, Sr., were also in Harris Co. Brother George d. 1828-1840 Harris Co. and Wm. Bolen Cox lived there before moving to Texas ca 1849. Also need parents for Frances C. Railey, wife of above Ezekiel Asberry Cox. Marlene Scott, 4605 Cherokee, Lawton, OK 73505

MADDOX: Seeking information on ancestors and descendants of John A. and Elizabeth Maddox, shown in Troup Co., GA Census of 1850 as Mattox. John A. was shown as being born in Maryland. Elizabeth and the eight children in GA. Among the children is Arpey, shown as age 9. In the Muscogee Co., GA 1850 Census is William Maddox and wife Elizabeth, along with Clara Hancock age 40. Was William the son of John A. and Elizabeth? What was Elizabeth's maiden name? My ggf was William Washington Maddox and had a spinster sister Arpy who lived with my grandparents in Collin Co., TX in 1880. What was the relationship of Clara Hancock to William and Elizabeth Maddox? Gene Davenport, 3510 McMillan Dr., Tyler, TX 75701.

WESTBROOKS: Need information on William K. Westbrooks, b. 1811, NC and his wife Bethenia. They are on the 1840-1850 Talbot Co., GA Census. In History of Macon Count, Georgia, they are listed as charter members of County Line Baptist Church. By 1854, they were in Marion County, Alabama. Their first two children, William, 1830, and Rebecca J. 1833, were born in NC. Martha, 1835, Green, 1837, Andrew Jackson, 1841, Amanda Bethenia, 1843, George W., 1845, and Eldridge, 1850 were all born in Talbot Co. Cornelius, 1854, was born in Alabama. A Wilson family lived next door to them in Talbot Co. They evidently came with them from NC and moved with them to Alabama. Was Bethenia a Wilson and were these her parents? Were William and Rebecca married in GA and if so, to whom? Edna W. Taylor, 2222 Dividing Ridge Cem. Rd., Soddy-Daisy, TN 37379

MASSEY-RUSSELL-DANCER: John R. Massey, b. 1814; d. 1895 Crenshaw Co. AL; m. in 1839 to George Ann Russell in Muscogee Co., GA. (Not John Ross, wife Elizabeth Bailey). Need proof that John R. was son of Josiah Massey, and his wife, Mary __, whose family was in Muscogee before 1840 Census. John R. and George Ann's whereabouts not known for 1850 Census; were in Muscogee 1860 Census; and Crenshaw Co., AL 1870 Census. Believe George Ann's parents to be James Russell and Elizabeth Dancer, daughter of William Richard Dancier/Dampier/Dantzler. Need information on Russell and Dancer families. Could the Madison Dancer (1812-1880) buried in Linwood Cemetery, per FALL 1989 issue of Muscogiana be Elizabeth's brother? Any information appreciated. Opal T. Scott, PO Box 244, Greenville, AL 36037-0244

CARNES-BIRD-ATWELL: Researching William Clapton Carnes, b. GA, m. Sarah Bird, dau. of Tamlin and Penelope Connell Bird. Both William and Sarah are buried in Heard Co. Also interested in the Atwell family. Esther C. Driver, 11 Third St., Newnan, GA 30263.

ODOM-WALLACE-HERRING-REESE-SANDERS: Searching for information on the following Georgia families: Odom, Wallace, Herring, Reese and Sanders (Saunders). Lavinia O. James, Rt. 1, Box 1384, Jefferson, GA 30549.
