The object of this research is the movie entitled Hellboy II by Guillermo del Toro. The major problem of this study is “how the sacrifice for better life of Prince Nuada is reflected in Hellboy II Movie (2008) Directed by Guillermo del Toro based on Individual Psychological Approach.”

The researcher employs qualitative method. The researcher uses two data sources, namely primary and data source. The primary data source is the movie itself. The secondary data are the books about Individual Psychological, and the other source related to the analysis. The method of data collection is library research and the technique of data collection is descriptive technique.

The study comes to the following conclusions. First, based on the structural analysis of each elements, it shows that the character and characterization, plot, point of view, setting of place and time, mise-en- scene, cinematography, editing, and the other technical elements have the unity and successfully relate to one another then finally are formulated into good quality of a movie. Second, based on the Individual Psychological analysis, it is evident that in this movie, Guillermo del Toro wants to give evidence that having sacrifice is one of the way to solve problem.
