"R O B I N S O N C R U S O E"

Merry lads and fisher lassies
Gaily sing upon this day
For young Crusoe is returning
Home from foreign parts they say
Will he settle down and marry
Who will be the happy bride
Whos the one to make him tarry
Anchored by his sweetheart's side
Merry lads and fisher lassies
Gaily sing upon this day
For young Crusoe is returning
Home from foreign parts they say
Will he settle down and marry
Who will be the happy bride
He is mine
Oh no he isn't
Here's the girl who will decide.

First
Second

----- As he steps ashore
Oh, she's aching to hold him on~~e~~ more to her heart
As soon as he steps ashore

----- Was Robinson Crusoe
And the dirty thief was Robinson Crusoe
Crusoe, Crusoe, we didn't think you'd do so
To steal his chart and break his heart's
A thing that you will rue so
(To Polly) We think you ought to tarry
And never never marry
That big bad bold lad Robinson Crusoe.

-----Into a secret
What is it Rob?
I think I know, you're going to get married to Polly

First

-----going to go
Oh please don't go
-----on my way
Oh won't you stay
-----never more
We love you so
-----see me again
We'll go insane
-----hold me back
Oh please come back
-----ask me why
Our love shan't die
-----goodbye.

Oh, Mr. Robinson Crusoe
You're not going to do so
You're not going away
For if you leave to-day
Your love will surely stray
And you must know that we want you
If you go we will haunt you
Yes, by night and day
And you will surely say
That you wished you'd stayed at home.

Hurrah Hurrah for the rolling sea
A sailor's life is the life for me
A sailors wife is the wife for me
Hurrah for the rolling sea
So shout hurrah for the raging main
I love the sea I've told you plain
In case I haven't I'll tell you again
Hurrah for the rolling sea
Hurrah for the rolling sea.

-----for me boys
When the stormy winds do blow
-----winds did blow
When the stormy winds do blow
For your tum-tum try coco
So help my greens I dunno what it means
I'm a tar, there ye are, what oh!

(Chorus repeat the exit)

-----before I die
Di diddly I diddly I di di (break)

"ROBINSON CRUSOE"

"ROBINSON CRUSOE"

Merry lads and fisher lassies gaily sing upon this day
For young Crusoe is returning home from foreign parts they say
Will he settle down and marry, who will be the happy bride
Who's the one to make him tarry anchored by his sweetheart's side
Merry lads and fisher lassies gaily sing upon this day
For young Crusoe is returning home from foreign parts they say
Will he settle down and marry who will be the happy bride

First He is mine
Second Oh no he isn't
Here's the girl who will decide

-----as he steps ashore
as soon as he steps ashore

-----was Robinson Crusoe
And the dirty thief was Robinson Crusoe
Crusoe, Crusoe, we didn't think you'd do so
To steal his chart and break his heart's a thing that you will rue so
(To Polly) We think you ought to tarry and never never marry
That big bad bold lad Robinson Crusoe

-----into a secret
What is it Rob?

First I think I know, you're going to get married to Polly

-----going to go
Oh please don't go
-----on my way
Oh won't you stay
-----never more
We love you so
-----see me again

We'll go insane
-----hold me back
Oh please come back
-----ask me why
Our love shan't die
-----goodbye

Oh, Mr. Robinson Crusoe, you're not going to do so You're not going away for if you leave to-day
Your love will surely stray
And you must know that we want you
If you go we will haunt you
Yes, by night and day and you will surely say
That you wished you'd stayed at home

Hurrah hurrah for the rolling sea a sailor's life is the life for me
A sailor's wife is the wife for me, hurrah for the rolling sea
So shout hurrah for the raging main I love the sea I've told you
In case I haven't I'll tell you again plain
Hurrah for the rolling sea, hurrah for the rolling sea

-----for me boys
When the stormy winds do blow
-----winds did blow
When the stormy winds do blow
For your tum-tum try coco
So help me greens I dunno what it means
I'm a tar, there ye are, what Oh!
(Chorus repeat and exit)

Oh I'm Polly Perkins of Paddington Green
And I'm deeply in love with a sailor
The handsomest laddie that ever was seen
When he shipped aboard of a whaler
I've just had a message to say he'll be back
Laden with presents galore
Oh I'm aching to hold him once more to my heart
As soon as he steps ashore.

-----this I hear

(down L) It's true I fear

-----start for Coral Island

Of course I'll marry you Rob. But why do you want to go back to Coral Island

Hullo, what's this mother

-----sell up the happy home

I see- This is your doing Will Atkins

-----ain't I your father

Mother, have you married this Bulgarian Bloodhound?

-----I'm going to

Well you're not yet my father, and I owe you no duty. I've shipped as second made on the Sea Rover and to-day I leave for the Indies. But before I go I'll pull your nose for trying to impose upon my poor Mother (He pulls his nose)

-----we were aboard

Aye aye Sir Goodbye Mother (bus. embracing Mrs. Crusoe) Goodbye Polly

-----you some harm

I must go Mother (Bus. goes up stage)

Scene Coral Island.

(Enter Robinson Crusoe, dressed in skins, followed by Friday)

Well here I am cast upon this lonely island. I've been here for months and I should have gone mad for the sight of a human face if it had not been for my faithful black friend Friday. One day when I had given up all hope of ever seeing another human being I came across the imprint of a foot in the sand. I followed the track and found him almost dying. I tended him and restored him to health, and he has been my faithful friend ever since. I called him Friday because I found him on that day

Opening Chorus, Act 1.

Merrily, cheerily, life is but a span
 Merrily, cheerily, let us be holly while we can
 We will drink to the joy of the hour
 As we last but a day let us live while we may
 So we'll live and laugh and sing and quaff
 And drive all care away
 Who can tell but tomorrow may bring us all sorrow
 So let us live to-day let's on with the laughter who cares for We'll make the world seem gay Hereafter
 Drink to the joy of the hour, we'll be jolly all the way
 Let us live while we may
 So we'll love and laugh, sing and quaff and we will make life gay Merrily light and free let us joyful be Merrily light and free cheerily happy be Time is retreating life is but fleeting while we may Cease all repining all moping and whining now joy rules the day
 Let each one help to make the world seem gay
 ----- jolly girl is she
 Yes- here she comes, 'tis Antonette, ah, she's the girl for me
 ----- dance the hours away
 Let's sing and dance and drink and get as mellow as the wine is red
 ----- sweetheart
 Ho, no, it must not be
 ----- Cupid's dart
 An archer shrewd is he
 ----- that love is bold
 The truth must be confessed
 ----- the best
 Which one of us she loves the best
 Which one of us she loves the best

In a kingdom of our own
 With little Cupid on the throne
 With a Prince and Princess on my knee
 You'll be happy as a King
 Every afternoon at three
 We'll sit and sip our royal tea
 I'll be K I N G then
 I'll be Q U double E N
 And we'll live and love along
 So H A P P Y we'll be
 In the Kingdom of our own.
