SUPREME COURT, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1866.

IN CHAMBERS.

WEBB AND ANOTHER v. FISHER.-Mr. JUSTICE LUTWYCHE now delivered

This was an application for an order directing the Registrar of the Supreme Court to tax the defendant's costs on one of the scales of taxation prescribed for adoption in the Supreme Court. The action was commenced in the Supreme Court, but was sent down, by consent, for trial under the provisions of the 98th section of the District Courts Act, 22 Victoria, No. 18, to the Metropolitan District Court. At the hearing, the Judge of the District Court found a verdict for the defendant on one of the issues raised by his pleas in har, and on one of the issues raised by his pleas in bar, and on the other for the plaintiff, and the Registrar of the District Court certified the result to the Registrar of the Supreme Court accordingly. It was contended for the plaintiffs, that this certificate was insufficient, and that it should have included the amount of costs payable to the defendant, taxed according to the scale adopted by the District Court. I intimated a pretty strong opinion during the argument that this position was untenable, but as the point was new in this colony, and it was desirable to settle the practice, I took time to consider my decision. I now adhere to the opinion formerly expressed. Balmforth v. Pledge (35 Law J. N. S. Q. B. 169), cited by Mr. Garrick for the defendant, is quite in point. The words of the 98th section of the Act 22 Victoria, No. 18, are identical with those used in the 26th section of the Act 19 and 20 Victoria, c. 108, and they merely make provision for the trial of the cause. When the trial is over, the jurisdiction of the District Court is at an end, and on receiving the certificate of the Registrar the Supreme Court resumes its control over the case. An order must therefore be made of the Supreme Court accordingly. It was conover the case. An order must therefore be made directing the Registrar of the Supreme Court to tax the defendant's costs accordingly.

By His Excellency's Command,

A. MACALISTER.

Department of Public Lands, Brisbane, 4th January, 1867.

TENDERS will be received at the Surveyor-General's Office, until Four p.m. the 1st February, 1867, from Surveyors who may be willing to Contract for the Survey, and Subdivision into portions varying from 80 to 640 acres, of the following Crown Lands, in the District of Moreton:—

1st. The available land on the north side of the Railway between Laidley and Toowoomba. Area of portions 80 to 640 acres.

2nd. The Tent Hill Agricultural Reserve, on the south side of Lockyer Creek, between Gatton and Helidon. The area of subdivisions 80 to 160 acres.

The surveys are to be conducted in strict accordance with the rules of the Department of the Surveyor-General, and all boundary lines must be well marked, and corners defined by posts six inches square, sunk two feet in the ground.

All measurements must be executed immediately under the superwision of the Contractor, and in no case are assistants to be employed in setting out lines or measurements in the absence of the contracting Surveyor.

Tenders must specify the price per lot for each, separate, and also each conterminous portion of the following areas:—

80 acres and under 120 acres. 120 ,, ,, 160 ,, 160 ,, ,, 320 ,, 320 ,, ,, 640 ,, Lineal measurements, not being boundaries, per lineal mile.

No payments will be made for trace lines, or preliminary measurements, unless the particular lines have been ordered by the Surveyor-General as extra measurements beyond those necessary for the survey of the portions subdivided.

It will be optional for the Surveyor-General to cancel the contract, if the surveyor fail to proceed with the survey at the rate of (25) twenty-five lineal miles per month.

Advances of 75 per cent. will be made on the preliminary examination of the maps and other vouchers for the due performance of any covenient subdivision of the work exceeding £100. But the balance of 25 per cent. will be retained until the survey has been examined and found correct on the ground, and all maps and field-books, &c., have been duly furnished to the Surveyor-General.

In the event of any errors or defects being discovered in the survey within one year from the completion of the survey, it will be at the option of the Surveyor-General to require the Contractor to amend the same, or to employ another surveyor to correct it, and to recover the cost from the Contractor or his sureties.

The prayer of the Address is, that, for the reasons assigned in the former address, presented on the 15th November ultimo, the construction of the railway between Toowoomba and Warwick may be discontinued, and also that the Colonial Parliament may be summoned to meet for the despatch of business on the 12th January instant.

The Governor observes that his duty is perfectly clear in this matter. He will continue to act, henceforward as heretofore, in strict conformity with those principles of Constitutional Government, so carefully defined by successive Secretaries of State for the Colonies, and which were adopted, in the most formal and solemn manner, and without a single dissentient vote by both Houses of the Queensland Parliament in the Address presented by them to his Excellency, during the Session of 1865, in the following terms, viz.:—

- "May it please your Excellency,-
- "We, Her Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the members of the Legislative "Council and Legislative Assembly of Queensland, in Parliament assembled, desire to assure "your Excellency of our continued loyalty and affection towards the person and Government "of our gracious Sovereign.
- "In the person and conduct of your Excellency, Her Majesty's Representative in this "Colony, we have never failed to recognise an active intelligence, and a prudent zeal for the "interests and welfare of Queensland, which have secured, not only the respect due to the "office which your Excellency fills, but also our personal regard and gratitude."

"We further beg to assure your Excellency that we entirely agree with the "principles of Constitutional Government, which have been laid down by Her Majesty's late "and present Secretaries of State for the Colonies, in the terms recently quoted by your "Excellency, viz.:—

"'Government is to be guided is this:—'That when Imperial interests are concerned, he is to "'consider himself the guardian of those interests; but in matters of purely local politics, he "'is bound to follow the advice of a Ministry which appears to possess the confidence of the "'Legislature'; and 'A strict observance of the principles of Constitutional Government has "'given to Great Britain her happy pre-eminence among free and well ordered communities, "'and is no less important to a Colony enjoying representative institutions than it is to "'the mother country.'

"We thank your Excellency for having directed public attention to these principles, "and for your assurance that, henceforward as heretofore, your Excellency will continue to "support the law of the land, and to carry out the will of the people, as expressed by the "Colonial Parliament, with unceasing vigilance and inflexible resolution."

His Excellency further directs attention to the following instruction from the late Duke of Newcastle, while Secretary of State for the Colonies, viz.:--

"In granting Responsible Government to the larger Colonies of Great Britain, the "Imperial Government were fully aware that the power they granted must occasionally be "used amiss. But they have always trusted that the errors of a free Government would "cure themselves, and that the colonists would be led to exert greater energy and circum- spection in legislation and government when they were made to feel that they would not be rescued from the consequences of any imprudence merely affecting themselves by authoritative intervention of the Crown or of the Governor."

The general principles laid down above are of simple and easy application to particular cases. For—

1. "When Imperial interests are concerned, the Governor is to consider himself the "guardian of those interests."

Now the chief matters in which "Imperial interests are concerned," are defined and classified in the sixth section of the Queen's Instructions. (See Statutes of Queensland, vol. 1, p. 250.) Thus, for example, when it was proposed, some months ago, to introduce into the Queensland Parliament a Bill authorising the issue of "Legal Tender Notes," the Governor at once informed the Ministers that he would be precluded by his Instructions from assenting to such a law. This action on the part of his Excellency has received the entire approval of Her Majesty's Government.

2. "But in matters of purely local politics, the Governor is bound to follow the "advice of a Ministry which appears to possess the confidence of the Legislature."

Thus, in the matter now before the Council, it is obvious that to justify the Governor's interference with the policy of his Constitutional Advisers, it must be proved in an indisputable manner:—

- (a.) That the construction of a few miles of railway in the interior of Queensland, and the question whether the Queensland Parliament shall meet for an extraordinary Session in January, or be convened at the usual time three months later,—are matters in which "Imperial interests are concerned."
  - (b) That the present Ministers have forfeited the confidence of the Legislature.

It need scarcely be said that neither of these propositions has been proved.

It follows that the Governor is "bound to follow the advice" of his Ministers for the time being, in the matters laid before him in the Address.

In referring the entire subject to his Responsible Advisers, it remains for the Governor only to express his satisfaction that the course which it is his plain and obvious duty to pursue is entirely in accordance with those well-known principles of Parliamentary Government which have been formally adopted by the Queensland Legislature, the only constitutional exponent of the will of the people of this Colony.

The Council deliberate. The Honorable the Vice-President observes, that in the letter addressed by him on the 26th November ultimo, to several of the gentlemen who have signed the address now before the Council, he fully explained and justified, on behalf of himself and of his colleagues, the policy respecting the Warwick Railway, to which the present Ministry are determined to adhere. The memorialists are requested to refer to that letter

The Vice-President further recommends the Council to advise His Excellency the Governor to decline compliance with the prayer of the Address, on the grounds already stated in the abovementioned letter, and also for the following reasons:—

1. It is well known that several of the most influential of the memorialists have always been, and still are, strongly opposed to the establishment in Queensland of Parliamentary Government. These gentlemen would prefer to have a single Council, entirely, or in great part, nominated by the Crown, instead of an Assembly elected by the people; and to see all the powers and functions of the Executive concentrated in the sole person of the Representative of the Sovereign, instead of being exercised by Ministers responsible to the Colonial Parliament. If there were any doubt on this point, such doubt would be removed by the fact, that-although these gentlemen, alleging that some imaginary privilege of the Assembly has been violated by the Ministers now in office, have carried on for the last six weeks an incessant personal canvassing of the members of both Houses, and an indefatigable agitation through the press and otherwise-they have been unable to induce more than thirteen out of the thirty-two members of the Assembly to affix their signatures to the address; and yet they do not hesitate to urge His Excellency the Governor to set his Constitutional Advisers at defiance in a matter in which purely local interests alone are concerned, and at the instance of a minority of the representatives of the people. Five of the Ministers are themselves members of the Assembly, and would be the first to defend the privileges of that body, if they had been really in any way infringed. Moreover, it need scarcely be said that no free Government, responsible to the local Legislature, can possibly be conducted with success, unless it be founded on the support of a majority of at least the popular branch of that Legislature. Consequently, it would be a violation of an important constitutional principle, and an insult to the Assembly, if the Parliament were to be summoned to meet in an extraordinary Session, under existing circumstances, and contrary to the advice of the Ministry possessing the general confidence of a majority of that Assembly.

- 2. Whenever Parliament meets, it is the constitutional practice that the Ministers for the time being announce the measures which they propose to bring forward for the welfare and advancement of the community. But if the demands of the petitioners were complied with, it would be necessary for the Government virtually to change sides. In place of the Ministers, as representing the majority, intimating the course which they intend to pursue, they would have to keep their seats, and wait patiently for the petitioners to announce their views and policy. Some precedent ought to have been quoted, to show how long such a proceeding should last—how long the majority should be expected to await the good pleasure of the minority. In fact, the gentlemen who have signed the Address, do not constitute even a legal quorum of the Assembly. They could not of themselves enable the House to transact any business. A special Session during this month would be very inconvenient, except for those members who reside in or near Brisbane. The petitioners cannot expect that the members of the majority who disapprove of their conduct and policy, would attend, at the cost of much personal inconvenience, to make a House.
- 3. The Governor of this Colony acts, according to the Constitution, by the advice of Responsible Ministers. The Ministers, as such, know nothing of the petitioners, or of the subject to which their Address refers. Mr. Raff's resolution, on which the petitioners mainly rest their case, was (as has been already stated in the Vice-President's former letter), carried in the Assembly in a thin House, at the end of the Session, and only by the casting vote of the Speaker; ten members out of thirty-two voted for it, and it is at variance with the provisions of several Acts of Parliament, and resolutions of both Houses. This Resolution was never communicated, in the usual form, to the Legislative Council. Nor was it ever brought under the notice of the Governor in Council, in the only way known to the Constitution—that is, by Address from the Assembly itself, while in Parliament assembled. It is certain that the petitioners are not the Parliament; nor, during a prorogation, are they anything more than private gentlemen.

The Council express their unanimous concurrence with the Vice-President; and advise the Governor, for the reasons stated, to decline compliance with the prayer of the Address. Further, the Council, observing that the petitioners admit their course to be "unusual," are bound to record their conviction that it is entirely without precedent in any self-governing British Colony, thus deliberately to endeavor to place the Representative of the Queen in the position of an Autocrat, upsetting the majority at the instance of the minority of the Legislature, and arbitrarily intervening in affairs where no Imperial interest can, by any possibility, be involved. The present difference is obviously a mere trial of strength between contending political parties, and must be decided in the Colonial Parliament during the ordinary annual Session.

Clerk of the Council.

Downing street, 30th October, 1866.

Sir,
I have the honor to transmit to you for your I have the honor to transmit to you for your information a copy of an Act which has been Cap.65cf OVict. passed in the late session of Parliament "to enable Her Majesty to declare gold coins to be issued from Her Majesty's Colonial Branch Mints a legal tender for payments; and for other purposes relating thereto."

It is probable that branches of the Royal Mint for the issue of gold coins will be established in certain of Her Majesty's colonies, in addition to that which has been established at Sydney, and the present Act is passed for the purpose of enabling Her Majesty to place gold coins issued from any of these branch mints on the same footing throughout Her Majesty's Dominions as gold coins of similar denomination and value issued from the Central Mint in London.

I request that you will inform me whether there is any reason why the powers conferred by this Act should not be exercised in the Colony of Queensland in respect to gold coin issued from such branches of the Royal Mint as may be hereafter established in Australia or elsewhere.

You of course fully understand that these mints, though their expenses are defrayed from colonial though their expenses are defrayed from colonial funds, are strictly Imperial and not colonial establishments.

THE following Notice to Mariners is published for general information.

Colonial Treasurer.

GOVERNMENT NOTICE No. 122, 1866.

His Excellency the Administrator of the Government directs the publication, for general information, of the following Notice of the erection of a Lighthouse on the Bluff at the south side of the entrance of Port Natal.

By His Excellency's Command,

D. ERSKINE,

Colonial Secretary.

Colonial Office, Natal October 20th, 1866.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

A Eighthouse has been erected on the Bluff at the south side of the entrance of Port Natal, at an elevation of 292 feet above high water, a light from which will be exhibited on the 23rd January, 1867.

The Lighthouse is in latitude 29 deg. 52 min. 50 sec.

south, and longitude 31 deg. 3 min. 35 sec. east.

The building is an iron tower, in the form of a frustrum of a cone, 81 feet high, painted white; centre of light being 70 feet above the base, exhibiting a revolving white light of the second class (dioptric), attaining its greatest brilliancy once every minute.

It is visible in all directions from north (round by east and south), to south 59 deg. west; and can be seen from a ship's deck 24 miles in clear weather.

The above light is not visible from the Aliwal Shoal, which is twenty-five miles south, 53 deg. west, from the Lighthouse: vessels should not, therefore, when coming Lighthouse: vessels should not, therefore, when coming from the southward and westward, approach the shore nearer than 4 miles, or shoal their water under 40 fathoms, using the lead freely until they make the light well out from the deck, when they may stand in until it bears north 59 deg. east,—which bearing will keep them outside all known danger—until they are abreast of the Umlazi River (about 9½ miles below the Lighthouse), when they must keep it more to the northward, as the land trends more to the eastward, giving the shore a good berth of a mile, and when the light bears about east-northeast, they can haul in to the northward for the anchorage: east, they can haul in to the northward for the anchorage: anchoring in  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to 10 fathoms, with the Lighthouse bearing south-west to south-west half south, distant one mile.

VOL. VIII.] THURSDAY, 7TH FEBRUARY, 1867.

No. 11.

Colonial Secretary's Office, Brisbane, 7th February, 1867.

HIS Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to direct the publication of the following List of Officers in the Civil Service of Queensland, classified according to the provisions of the Acts 27 Victoria, No. 18, and 28 Victoria, No. 12.

The Class in which each officer is placed is determined by the Salary granted to him by the Appropriation Acts of 1863, and subsequent years; and the position of each officer in the Class is determined by the date of the first receipt of the Salary of the Class.

It is to be distinctly understood that this classification is made for the purpose of carrying out the Civil Service Acts of 1863 and 1864, and not in order to determine the precedence of any officer in the Service over another; and the Government cannot entertain the application of any officer to take precedence of another, in the classified list, on account of the supposed superior importance of his office. Questions of precedence, should they arise, can only be settled in accordance with the Queen's Colonial Regulations.

Appended to the Classified Schedule is a list of persons permanently employed by the Government at an annual Salary, to whom certain of the provisions of the Civil Service Act of 1863 are extended by the amended Act of 1864.

By His Excellency's Command,

(For the Colonial Secretary)

JOSHUA P. BELL.

F. O. DARVALL, Registrar-General.

REGULATIONS RESPECTING THE DUTIES AND INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE GUIDANCE OF REGISTRARS OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES, IN THE COLONY OF QUEENSLAND.

EVERY Registrar of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, should immediately after his appointment cause a should immediately after his appointment cause a board to be placed in a conspicuous place outside the door of his public office, with his title, viz.:—"Registrar of Births, Deaths, and Marriages for the district of "——"legibly painted thereon.

The attention of District Registrars is particularly called to the Acts of Parliament nowin force in this Colony relating to the registration of births, marriages, and deaths. The Act relating to the registration of births and deaths is the 19 Victoria, No. 34, and the Marriage Act is the 28 Victoria, No. 15.

It is the duty of each District Registrar to inform himself, as carefully as possible, of every birth, marriage, or self, as carefully as possible, of every birth, marriage, or death, which happens within his district. He is bound to register, not only those births, marriages, or deaths, of which he shall have received notice according to the or which he shall have received hotice according to the provisions of the Acts in force for that purpose, but he must also endeavor, by every means in his power, to ascertain all births, marriages, or deaths, which occur in his district, and register them. For this purpose he should often communicate with the several medical practitioners, clergymen, and other persons resident in his neighborhood, who, from their habits or occupations, are most likely to have immediate knowledge of any birth, marriage, or death, which occurs in his district. The 21st section of the Registration Act, 19 Victoria, No. 34, enables the Registrar to prosecute persons neglecting or enables the Registrar to prosecute persons neglecting or refusing to give information of births or deaths taking place in their families or dwellings, and he is required, at his discretion, to use the powers given to him for the punishment of persons who wilfully neglect or obstinately refuse to comply with the provisions of the Act referred to. In some instances where he ascertains that numerous cases of neglect have taken place on the part of the same person in failing to register births or deaths, he may deem it advisable to take proceedings against him under the Act, with a hope that the publicity given to the penalty which parents and others are liable given to the penalty which parents and others are liable to for their neglect, may tend to make persons come forward voluntarily and supply the particulars necessary for registration, without giving the Registrar the trouble of seeking for them. He must also endeavor to register, within the time prescribed by the Act, the births and deaths occurring within his district, of which he may by any means and from any persons receive notice and intelligence (although the intelligence received may not seemled to the comblet with the complete the entry in the be sufficient to enable him to complete the entry in the register), and he should endeavor by every means in his power to obtain afterwards further particulars from parties qualified to supply them.

For the purpose of obtaining the earliest information respecting births and deaths occurring in his district, the Registrar should forward to all magistrates, squatters, and large employers of labor, superintendents of charitable institutions, clergymen, medical men, and others resident in his district, forms of certificates of births and deaths, with a request that they will cause the forms to be filled up as occasion may require, and transmitted to him, pointing out at the same time to such persons, that all such documents left open at the ends, and indorsed on the outside as returns of births ends, and indorsed on the outside as returns of births and deaths, &c., will be transmitted through the post free of charge. The persons upon whom it is incumbent to give information to the Registrar, according to the best of their knowledge and belief, of the several particulars required to be known, and registered, and who are qualified to do so, are as follows, viz.:—

In case of a birth, the father or mother of the child; or first the event of the death, illness, or inability of both or (in the event of the death, illness, or inability of both the father and mother) the occupier of the house or tenement in which the child shall have been born; or, if the birth occurs at sea, the master or commander of the vessel, immediately after his arrival in any port in the colony; or in case of a new born child found exposed, the police authorities of the place where it is found.

In case of death, the nearest relation of the deceased, or some person present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness of the deceased; the occupier of the house or tenement in which the death took place, the employer of the deceased, the undertaker or other person burying the body; if the death occurs at sea, the master or commander of the vessel, on his arrival in any port in the colony; or in case of a dead body found exposed, the Coroner or magistrate holding an inquiry as to the cause of death.

The Registrar must also observe that the master or keeper of every prison, lock-up, or house of correction, the superintendent of every charitable institution, such as hospitals, lunatic asylums, or refuges for the destitute, are deemed the occupiers thereof, and are bound to furnish information of all births or deaths occurring in the establishments under their charge, and are liable to the penalties set forth in the Registration Act for the penalties set forth in the Registration Act for neglecting or refusing to give the required information.

A separate register for births, deaths, and marriages must be kept by each District Registrar, and his attention is particularly called to the penalty set forth in the Act 19 Victoria, No. 34, for any act of his tending to the destruction, mutilation or wilfully falsifying any such register book committed to his charge; the Registrar is further reminded of the necessity of keeping all the registers in such a manner as to avoid, as much as possible, the risk of mutilation or destruction by fire or damp.

Erasures ought not to be made in any register book.

Erasures ought not to be made in any register book, nor may any entry be cancelled (except where duplicate entries occur) but a correct entry is to be made in the margin, and underneath such marginal entry the Registrar should sign his name, and insert the date upon which such marginal entry or any correction in an entry was made.

Great care should be taken to avoid errors, and to make every entry clear and distinct, so that in case the register should be referred to, even after the lapse of years, no mistake could be made by persons making extracts from it caused by indistinct writing. Having in view the responsibility of his office, it is desirable that the Registrar should be careful to make every entry as complete as possible, to see that every name is properly spelled, all christian names and surnames given at full length, and that each letter is distinctly formed so as to avoid the possibility of error between e and i, n and u, avoid the possibility of error between e and i, n and u, t and l, &c. Attention to these trifling details at the time of making the entry will prevent the very serious consequences which may result from errors occurring in extracts from registers or mis-interpretation of the registers when required in relation to property. Register books or certified copies therefrom are legal evidence in courts of justice, within the British dominions, of the fact of the birth death or marriage to which the same fact of the birth, death, or marriage to which the same relates.

District Registrars are required to make the entries in the various registers in a uniform manner, and for their guidance the following rules are laid down, which, for convenient reference, are divided so as to refer to each description of register, and subdivided so as to show how the particular should be entered in each column of the particular register referred to. The birth column of the particular register referred to. The birth register will be taken first, the marriage register second, and the death register last, viz:

BIRTH REGISTER.

In the 1st column, the progressive number is to be inserted, and care should be taken that no mistake occurs in keeping the proper numerical order, so as to facilitate reference.

In the 2nd column, the place where, and the date upon which, the birth took place, is to be inserted. If the place where the birth took place happens to be a farm or out-station, the name of the nearest town or heador out-station, the name of the nearest town or head-station should be written underneath the name of the place, thus: on "Gowrie Station, near Toowoomba." The exact locality will thus be indicated. Where the birth occurs in a town, the street or suburb should be entered thus, "Ann street, Brisbane," or "Fortitude Valley, Brisbane."

In the 3rd column, the christian name of the child

In the 3rd column, the christian name of the child only should be inserted, and underneath should be written the word "present" or "not present"; which refers to the fact of the child having been brought or not, as the case case may be, to the Registrar's office by the person who comes to register the birth. In case the child has not been named by the parents at the time of registration, it will be necessary to insert "unnamed," the subsequent "scartion of the name this column. The subsequent insertion of the name will be referred to in another portion of these instruc-tions. The Registrar is not justified in refusing to enter the name given by the parent to the child, whose birth he or she may come to register, although the child has not been baptised, but he can require the parent to furnish him with a certificate of baptism, under the hand of the minister who subsequently performs the ceremony. Twins should be entered under separate numbers, and not in the same entry; and it is very essential that precedence should be given to the eldest, and for this purpose it should be noted in the register by the insertion of the words "elder born of twins," and "younger born of twins," under the christian name in this column. The same rule will apply where a greater number than two children are born at the same time.

In the 4th column, insert the sex.

In the 5th column, in the first instance, the father's christian name or names should be entered at full length, and initial letters at all times avoided. Great care should be taken that the surname is properly spelled, as many fatal errors have occurred in registrations owing to carclessness in this respect. Where any doubt exists in the mind of the Registrar as to the proper method of in the mind of the Registrar as to the proper method of spelling the surname of the father, it is advisable that the person coming to register the birth should be made to write it, if able to do so, previous to entering it in the book. The father's profession, age, and birthplace, should always be carefully entered in this column. It is also advisable, in every instance, to insert the exact place where the father was born, and not to use such general terms as "England," "Ireland," "Germany," &c., &c.

In the first part of the 6th column, the date of marriage, and the place where the ceremony was celebrated,

In the first part of the 6th column, the date of marriage, and the place where the ceremony was celebrated, should be definitely stated; and such vague entries as "1866" for the date, and "New South Wales" for the place of marriage, should at all times, if possible, be avoided. The following is an instance of how the entry should be made, viz., "18th October, 1864," at "Sydney, New South Wales," &c., &c. Where the informant states that the marriage took place in the same district in which the birth is being registered, the Registrar should always search whether the marriage has been duly registered. If this course be adopted, it will tend to ensure the registration of all marriages performed within that district; as all omissions in such regis-trations will be discovered, and the Registrar will be in a position to proceed against the minister who performed the ceremony for the penalty set forth in the Act 28 Victoria, No. 15; and also to make him rectify the omission by No. 15; and also to make him rectify the omission by furnishing a certificate for registration. The second portion of this column, allotted for entering the previous issue of the parents, should be carefully filled, by first inserting opposite the figure (2) (if there is any previous issue living), the word "living," and underneath should be inserted the christian names and ages of all the children then living, according to their seniority, viz., "Martha, 8 years," "William, 6 years," "Emily, 4 years," &c., &c. If any of the previous issue are dead, underneath the christian names, inserted as above, the word "dead" should be written; and below that, it will be sufficient to state the number of each sex that are deceased, viz., "2 males," "1 female."

In the 7th column, the mother's christian names should be inserted at full length; and between the christian name or names and the maiden surname, christian name or names and the maiden surname, enter the word "formerly," thus:—"Mary Ann, formerly Jones"; but in cases where the mother has been previously married, and has become a widow, once or oftener, the entry should be made thus:—"Mary Ann, late Smith, late Robinson, formerly Jones." Care should be taken that the mother's surname or names be properly spelled. It is essential that the mother's age and birthplace should be also inserted, as mother's age and birthplace should be also inserted, as particularly as circumstances will permit.

In the 8th column, the person giving the information respecting the birth should always be made to sign their name, or if unable to write should make their mark in the Registrar's presence. The relationship and residence of the informant should be clearly stated; if no relationship exists between the informant and the child, such words as "neighbor," "friend," &c., &c., may be used. Where the information is sent to the Registrar in writing, the entry in this column should be made to the following effect, viz.:—" Certified in writing by James Williams, father, Logan River, near Brisbane."

In the 9th column, the Registrar must insert the names of the doctor, midwife, or witness who was present at the birth.

In the 10th column, the Registrar must sign his name, and insert the date upon which, and the place where, the entry was made. This column should always be filled up at the time the entry is made; and in cases where the informant cannot furnish all the particulars at the time, but supplies them afterwards, the additional matter may be inserted, but the entry must bear the date when the information was first received, so as to keep the dates consecutive with the numbers in column one.

With reference to the 11th and last column, it is used to insert the name of the child after it is baptised, where the birth has been registered before any name has been given to it. The Registered belove any name has been given to it. The Registrar should supply the parents (who have not named their child at the time of registration) with a form of baptismal certificate, assixing to it the number under which the birth has been registered, and instruct them to return it to him duly filled up by the clergyman immediately after he performs the baptism, or whatever ceremony it may be by which a name is given to a child by denominations which do not baptise given to a child by denominations which do not baptise until the person arrives at adult age. When the Registrar receives this certificate, it is his duty to make an entry in this column, to the following effect, viz.:—
"Baptized by the name of John, by the Rev. A. B., at Brisbane, 1st January, 1865." If the copy returns (which will be mentioned afterwards) have been forwarded to the Registrar-General before such an entry as the above has been made, it will be the District Registrar's duty to furnish the Registrar-General with an exact copy of the additional entry he has made, to enable the Registrar-General to have the particulars entered in the Registrar-General to have the particulars entered in the copy returns in his office.

N.B.—District Registrars' attention is requested to the specimen entry of a birth appended to these instructions.

MARRIAGES.

The duties of Registrars of Marriages and of clergymen registered under the Act are, for the most part, defined by the Act 28 Victoria, No. 15.

The following is a summary of its principle provisions, by which the Registrar is affected:—

Clause 2 enacts, that no marriage shall be celebrated except by a minister of religion, whose name, designation, and usual place of residence is registered in the office of the Registrar-General. Before receiving a certificate of marriage for registration, the Registrar should find out by reference to the Government Gazette, or by written application to the Registrar-General, whether the clergy. man who celebrated the marriage is registered.

Clause 9 enacts, that before the Registrar proceeds to marry the persons coming before him for that purpose, he must cause them to make a declaration according to schedule A of the Act. The Registrar will observe that by this clause he cannot celebrate a marriage except the bride ordinarily resides in his district.

Clause 10 enacts, that before the persons are married, whether by a minister of religion or by the District Registrar, it is necessary that they should make a declaration upon oath, or in cases where they conscientiously object to take an oath, by solemn affirmation in the form of the schedule C of the Act.

Clause 11 enacts, that every marriage celebrated by the District Registrar shall be celebrated in the public office ordinarily used by him, and in no other place. The doors of such office must be open at the time of the celebration of such marriage so that any person wishing to be present may be enabled to enter. It is also enacted, that no marriage shall be legal or valid, except it is celebrated between the hours of eight o'clock in the morning and eight at night.

Clause 14 enacts, that every marriage must be celebrated in the presence of at least two witnesses. The witnesses must sign the marriage certificate as well as the persons who have been married; and it is compulsory upon the minister or Registrar who performs the ceremony, to deliver to the persons who have been married, at the conclusion of the ceremony, a copy of the marriage certificate (in the form of the schedule D of the Act) certificate (in the form of the schedule D of the Act) signed by him, as well as by the witnesses and the persons who have been married. This clause also enacts, that any minister of religion who celebrates a marriage, must, within one month after the time of such celebration, transmit to the Registrar of the district within which such marriage was celebrated the original certificate of such marriage. The District Registrar's attention is particularly called to this portion of the Act, and should he discover any dereliction of duty in this respect on particularly called to this portion of the Act, and should he discover any dereliction of duty in this respect on the part of a minister of religion, it is his duty to com-mence proceedings at once against him for the recovery of the penalty laid down by the Act, as well for the protection of the public against improper marriages, as also to carry out the proper registration of all marriages occurring in the colour. occurring in the colony.

Clause 15 empowers the Registrar or minister to ask the persons about to be married the several particulars required to be registered touching such marriage.

Clause 16 enacts, that the provisions of the Act shall not extend to marriages celebrated between persons both of whom shall be Quakers or Jews, but it makes it compulsory on the minister who celebrates the marriage between such persons, to transmit a certificate of such marriage to the Registrar of the district within ten days marriage to the Registar of the district within the days marriage, stating the date and place of such marriage, and the name, designation, and usual residence of each of the parties.

Clause 18 enacts, that if either party to any intended marriage, not being a widower or widow, shall be under the age of twenty-one years, such marriage shall not take place without production to the minister or Registrar about to celebrate the same of a written consent (in the form schedule E of the Act) of the father of said minor, if he is within the colony, if the father does not reside within the colony, then the consent of a guardian appointed by the father, or if there be no such guardian resident within the colony, then of the mother of such minor if within the colony. But in cases where no such parent or guardian is in the colony, or in cases where the parents or guardian are incapable of duly consenting in consequence of distance, habitual intoxication, or mental incapacity, then the written consent of a justice of the peace (authorised to give consent to the marriage of minors), in the form schedule F of the Act, must be produced. The justice of the peace is bound before he gives his consent to such marriage to cause the person or persons wishing to have his consent, to swear an affidavit of the facts and circumstances of the case.* It is also necessary that the parent's or guardian's signature to a consent to a marriage of a minor should be attested by a magistrate, the minister who performs the ceremony, or the District Registrar.

It is the duty of the District Registrar to see that the It is the duty of the District Registrar to see that the provisions of this clause of the Act are strictly carried out, and to be careful how he celebrates a marriage between minors without having the consent of the person duly authorised to give it, as by the 27th clause of the Act a heavy penalty is provided against any person who wilfully marries a minor, without previously having received a consent in the manner referred to above

It is also the District Registrar's duty to examine all certificates of marriage forwarded to him by ministers for registration, and to see in case either the bridegroom or bride is under twenty-one years of age that a proper indorsement is made by the elergyman who celebrated such marriage, on the back of the marriage certificate, stating who gave consent to the marriage in question. It often happens that ministers, from hurry or inattention, omit to make this indorsement, but in all such cases the certificate should be returned by the Registrar to the person who sent it, to have the necessary information indorsed on the back of it.

Clause 20 relates to the indorsement of the consent on chause 20 relates to the macrosement of the consent on the back of the marriage certificate, and authorises the minister or Registrar to postpone the celebration of a marriage for a week, for the purpose of making inquiries of parents or guardians, or adopt any other means of satisfying himself as to the truth of any statements made by the persons about to be married that he may deem expedient.

Clause 24 enacts that a copy of the registry of any Clause 24 enacts that a copy of the registry of any marriage in the office of the Registrar-General under his hand shall be received as evidence in all proceedings, civil and criminal, of the fact of such marriage. Having the above clause of the Act in view, the necessity of being most careful and accurate in transcribing the particulars contained in a marriage certificate cannot be too often urged on the District Registrars; and in a case (which often occurs) where the writing in the body of the certificate and the names are illegible, he should never make an entry where he is doubtful as to the proper spelling or meaning of any name or other partiproper spelling or meaning of any name or of particular set forth in a certificate, but should postpone such entry, or any part of such entry, and immediately communicate with the clergyman who performed the ceremony for the requisite information.

Clauses 25 and 27 provide heavy penalties against persons wilfully performing the ceremony of marriage between persons, both or either of whom are under the age of twenty-one years, without having first obtained the written consent required by clause 20 of the Act previously referred to. An abstract of the clauses of the Marriage Act, which regulate the duties of clergymen registered under the said Act, is given in the appendix hereto, marked A.

Clause 30 provides a penalty against any minister or other person who, having celebrated a marriage, fails to transmit the certificate of such marriage to the District Registrar.

Clause 32 fixes the fee to be charged by the District Registrar for the performance of a marriage.

THE MARRIAGE REGISTER.

The District Registrar's attention having been called to the provisions of the Marriage Act bearing upon the duties to be performed by him, the following instructions are framed for his guidance in making the entries in the Marriage Register:

For convenience, the various columns of the register will be taken in succession.

In column No. 1, it is only necessary that the District Registrar should be careful to enter the number con-

In column No. 2, the date when, and the place where, the marriage took place should be accurately entered; and care should be taken to be as minute as possible in stating where the marriage was celebrated.

In column No. 3, the christian names and surnames of the bridegroom and bride should be entered at full length; and in all cases the use of initials should be avoided.

In column No. 4, the condition of the parties should be entered, viz., whether bachelor, spinster, widower, or

In column No. 5, the birthplace of the bridegroom and bride should be inserted, and it is advisable that the exact place of birth should be entered, and not merely the country; such general terms as England, Scotland,

France, &c., &c., should be avoided.

In column No. 6 should be entered the rank or profession of the bridegroom and bride. It very often happens that in the case of the bride a difficulty is experienced in stating her rank or occupation, and such terms as "living with her father," "domestic duties," &c., &c., have been used; but where any difficulty exists in stating the bride's rank, the column may be left blank without detriment to the entry.

In column 7, the age of each of the parties at the time

In column No. 8, the usual place of residence of the parties should be inserted; and as this is one of the parties should be inserted; and as this is one of the particulars that the law requires in all cases, the District Registrar should be very careful in making the entry, and giving the fullest information possible.

In columns Nos. 9 and 10, the christian name and surname of the father, and the christian name and maiden surname of the mother, of both the bridegroom and bride should be entered, together with the trade or calling of the father of both bridegroom and bride.

It is particularly requested that District Registrars will refer to the specimen page of the Marriage Register which is annexed to these instructions, and observe the manner in which the entry should be made. In many instances, the most ridiculous blunders have been made by Registrars in filling the particulars into these columns; and it is hoped that Registrars will, with the specimen and it is hoped that Registrars will, with the specimen page before them, adopt a more uniform manner of making their entries than has heretofore been observed.

After the words "Married in the," printed under the columns above referred to, should be inserted the house, street, or suburb (if in a town) where the marriage took place; and if in the country, the exact locality where the ceremony was performed. After the words "according to" should be inserted the rites of the particular church to which the parties belonged, viz., accordcular church to which the parties belonged, viz., accordentar entirch to which the parties belonged, viz., according to the rites of the Church of England, or the Church of Rome, or the Presbyterian Church, &c., &c.; or where the marriage has been performed by the Registrar, the word "law" should be inserted. The remaining portion of the entry, viz., the signatures of the persons married, and the signatures of the witnesses, and the minister, or Registrar, should be energifully copied from the marriage Registrar should be carefully copied from the marriage certificate, and care taken that all the names are spelled in the same way as they appear on the certificate.

DEATHS.

A correct and reliable record of all deaths is much to desired. To assist the District Registrars in the careful discharge of this portion of their duty, the most minute instructions will now be given, so as to diminish, as far as possible, the chance of error or misconception on the part of the officers entrusted with the duty of keeping this Register. As in the case of the births and marriages registers, instructions will be given respecting each column separately.

The 1st column is for the number of the entry, which, as in the birth register, must be consecutive.

The 2nd column is for the place where, and date upon which, the death took place, and it will be only necessary to refer to the instructions respecting this column in the birth register, which are also applicable to the death register.

In the 3rd column the surname as well as the christian Ta the 3rd column the surname as well as the christian name should be entered at full length, and, in addition, the trade or calling, if the deceased happens to be an adult, male or female, who has an occupation which can be properly described. It is essential that great pains should be taken to spell all names correctly.

In column 4 the sex and age should be inserted, and as no entry can be considered of value in the preparation of the Registrar-General's return of the Vital Statistics of the colony where these particulars are not given, District Registrars are requested to be careful in obtaining the requisite information where it is possible

The 5th column is for entering the cause of death, the duration of last illness, and the doctor's name who attended the deceased, or in cases of violent death, the verdict of the coroner or magistrate holding the inquiry verdict of the coroner or magistrate holding the inquiry as certified by him. The information contained in this column is of the utmost importance, to enable the Registrar-General to prepare reliable tables of mortality, which are valuable in shoring the prevalence of particular diseases in certain seasons and in certain localities, and the per centage of deaths from one class of disease in comparison with others. To assist District Registrars in obtaining this information, a circular letter has been addressed to all the medical men practising in the colony. addressed to all the medical men practising in the colony, requesting them to furnish the Registrars with certificates of the cause of death in cases where they have been attending the person previous to the death taking place. With this assistance, there can be very little excuse for leaving this column blank, as so often occurs in the returns heretofore furnished to the Registrar-General by the District Registrars.

The 6th column is for the christian name and surname of the father, and the christian name and maiden surname of the mother of the deceased. The father's calling or profession should also be stated in this column. As before remarked, care should be taken in spelling the names properly, so as to prevent mistakes. As the particulars in this column are valuable as a means of paraculars in this column are valuable as a means of identifying the deceased, pains should be taken in every instance to procure the necessary information.

In the 7th column should be inserted the name of the informant, with his or her place of residence, and relationship to the deceased. The instructions given for filling the eighth column in the birth register are applicable to this column of the death register, and it is therefore unnecessary to reiterate them.

In the 8th column the Registrar should attest the entry with his signature, and insert the date upon which, and place where, the entry was made; as the instructions for filling the 10th column of the birth register are also applicable to this column, the Registrar is referred to them.

In the 9th column should be inserted the date of burial, the place where the body was interred, and the name of the undertaker.

In the 10th column should be entered the name of the clergyman who performed the funeral service, and the names of the witnesses who were present at the burial of the body. As the 9th and 10th columns are so of the body. As the 9th and 10th columns are so intimately connected, instructions will be given respecting them at the same time. It is absolutely necessary, to render the entry of any value as evidence, that full particulars should be inserted in these columns. The Registrar will perceive, upon reference to the 19th section of the Registration Act, "that no entry of the registry of a death shall be received as evidence unless there is an entry of the burial." In country districts, where there are no undertakers, there is, no doubt, much where there are no undertakers, there is, no doubt, much difficulty in obtaining a certificate of burial; but the Act is so stringent upon this point, and to some extent meets the difficulty, for in the 29th section it is enacted, "that in cases where no Registrar's certificate is produced at the burial, the person who shall bury, or perform one flower of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the c perform any funeral or religious service for the burial, or who shall in any other way dispose of the bedy, shall forthwith give notice of the facts to the District Registrar." The Registrar will, therefore, observe, that there are three sources from which he can compel information, viz.: firstly, from the undertaker or the person who, although no undertaker, shall take upon himself to act in that capacity; secondly, from the minister who shall perform the funeral service, or from the person who, although not a minister of religion, shall take upon himself to perform any funeral or religious ceremony for the burial; and, thirdly, from any person who shall in any other way dispose of a body "—and it is the Registrar's duty to proceed in every instance against persons offending against this portion of the Act with severity, to insure as far as possible the registration of every death which occurs in his district. To enable persons living at a distance from the residence of the District Registrar to send certificates of burial to the himself to perform any funeral or religious ceremony for Registrar in the proper form, it is advisable that a few copies of forms of burial certificates should be sent to all stations, wayside inns, and other places of resort in the district under the Registrar's charge. A short memorandum of the requirements of the Act upon this subject might with benefit be transmitted at the same time, to prevent persons afterwards pleading ignorance of the law. The certificate should be signed by the undertaker, or by the party acting as such, by the clergyman or other person performing any religious service for the burial (if any such were present), and by The neglect to give notice of burial is punishable, under the 32nd section of the Act, by a fine of £10 for each default. The clergyman's giving notice does not relieve the undertaker or other person who shall bury the body from the responsibility of sending a burial certificate to the Registrar; nor does the undertaker's having furnished the certificate relieve the clergyman from his responsibility. It is the duty of the District Registrar to give notice to all parties who are rendered liable by the law to be fined for neglect, of the nature of their several responsibilities, and to enable the Registrar to do this with facility, printed notices to all parties concerned are furnished from the office of the Registrar-General upon application. The Registrar should obtain these notices from time to time, and circulate them in his district. The necessity of proceeding against parties for wilful neglect is again urged upon the District Registrar.

In the 11th column should be stated the birthplace of the deceased, and the period he has resided in this or the neighboring colonies. The Registrar should, in every instance, endeavor to obtain the requisite • information.

The 12th and 13th columns may be taken together, and the information which should be inserted in them has often proved of such value, as a means of identifying missing persons whom friends in distant countries may be inquiring after, and may also prove of so much value to the next or succeeding generations, that every exertion should be made by the Registrar to collect the information and insert it in a legible manner.

The most minute instructions have now been given upon every description of register, and upon every column in each register; and it is hoped that Registrars will take the trouble of studying the duties they have to perform, so that for the future a marked improvement may be apparent in the returns furnished to the Registrar-General, both in the amount of information afforded, the General, both in the amount of information afforded, the manner in which the returns are prepared, and the absence of all mistakes or irregular entries. On examination at the General Registry Office, it has been found that the returns received from those Registrars who have the least number of entries to make are, almost invariably, the most barren in the information they afford, and are prepared in the most slovenly manner. For the future the Registrar-General will recommend the Government to withhold the allowances will recommend the Government to withhold the allowances due to Registrars, in all cases where neglect or slovenliness is apparent in the returns he has furnished.

N.B.—District Registrars' attention is called to the specimen entry of a death annexed to these instructions.

MARINE BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

The District Registrars who are resident on the seacoast are requested to see that the undermentioned rules respecting the registration of marine births and deaths are duly carried out by masters and commanders of vessels visiting the port at which a District Registrar is located.

By the 26th section of the Registration Act, all masters or commanders of British vessels, or of colonial vessels, or commanders of british vessels, for colonial vessels, are bound, on their arrival in any port in the colony, to furnish to the Health Officer (or, it there be no Health Officer attached to the port, to the chief officer of the Customs) the particulars of every birth or death which occurred on board the vessel which he commands while at sea, according to the forms set forth in the schedule to the said Actuary and Tend IT. to the said Act marked D and E.

Under the 32nd section of the abovementioned Act, the master or commander is liable to a penalty of ten pounds for default in neglecting or refusing to furnish the returns abovementioned. The District Registrar has authority to proceed for the recovery of the penalty in District Registrars on the seaboard are requested to communicate with the Health Officer or Chief Officer of Customs, at their respective stations, and request them to demand seturns of marine births and deaths from the master or commander of each vessel arriving in their port, and to furnish them with the requisite forms for the preparation of such returns.

When returns of this description are obtained by the District Registrar from the officer whose duty it is in the first instance to receive them, he will at once forward them to the Registrar-General's Office.

All births or deaths which occur after the vessel drops anchor, including births or deaths which occur while any vessel is in quarantine, are registered in the usual manner as births or deaths occurring in the colony; and although the master or commander is bound to furnish all particulars respecting such births or deaths to the District Registrar, they should be prepared on a separate form, and should not be included in his return of marine births or deaths.

Forms for the registration of marine births and deaths will be supplied to District Registrars on the seacoast, upon sending a requisition to the Registrar-General's Office.

General Regulations.

In the months of April, July, October, and January in every year, each District Registrar is required to transmit to the Registrar-General exact copies of the entries made in the registers of births, marriages, and deaths in his office during the three calendar months next preceding; and great care must be taken that the copies are in every respect literal transcripts of the original entries, showing faithfully even any informalities, omissions, or mistakes which may have occurred in the original entry; and in no instance is it allowable to attempt to rectify imperfections by deviating from the original. All marginal corrections made in the registers should be copied on the margin of the transcripts.

When about to prepare the quarterly returns, the District Registrar should count the number of entries he has made in each register, during the quarter for which he is about to furnish returns, and then count the number he is about to furnish returns, and then count the number of sheets of forms that will be necessary to contain the entries made in each particular register. He should then separate the forms, and lay them one over the other, not one inside the other. Commence on the first page, and continue to fill each sheet in rotation, avoiding as much as possible having any blank pages (except the first), bearing in mind that all such returns when furnished are regularly bound in volumes. Great difficulty is sometimes experienced in the Registrar-General's Office in preparing the returns for the binder, owing to the carelessness and want of system evinced in their preparation by some of the District Registrars. by some of the District Registrars.

The returns should be confined to entries made from the first to the last day in the quarter for which they are furnished, and must not embrace entries made in the succeeding one.

The quarterly returns should be accompanied with an The quarterly returns should be accompanied with an index for each set of returns. In the index for the birth register the surname of the child is given first, and then the christian name follows; in the second column, the father's christian name only is given; and in the third column, the mother's christian name and maiden surname should be inserted. The narrow column on the margin of the index form should contain a number corresponding with the number of the entry in the Register. The index to the death register should be prepared in exactly the same manner, giving the surname of the deceased first, and the other particulars the same as the birth register. The index to the marriage register is somewhat different, as it must be in duplicate, inasmuch as it is necessary that the surnames of the bridegrooms must be put in alphabetical order on the index sheet in the first column, and the bride's name inserted in the second column, with the register number of the entry in the margin; and then an alphabetical list of the bride's names must and then an alphabetical list of the bride's names must be made on a separate sheet, with the names of their respective bridegrooms opposite each, in the second column; and the proper number inserted in the margin, as before directed. The indices above alluded to are only for temporary use in the office of the Registrar-General; but proper indices of each volume used in the Registrar's office should be kept by him. Forms for the preparation of permanent indices are furnished by the Registrar-General, upon application by requisition in the Registrar-General, upon application by requisition in the

A letter of advice should accompany each set of returns, containing a statement of the number of sheets sent belonging to each register, and the number of males and females whose births or deaths have been registered during the quarter for which the returns are furnished. For convenience, this letter of advice has been printed, and will be found amongst the forms furnished by the Registrar-General to each District Registrar.

Vouchers for fees, signed in blank, should also be sent with each set of returns; the amount due to the Registrar will be inserted in the Registrar General's Office, when the returns have been examined. Vouchers Office, when the returns have been examined. Vouchers for postage expended during the quarter should be sent in duplicate at the same time.

With the returns of the marriage register should be forwarded the original marriage certificates from which the entries were made in the register, as they are all regularly filed in the office of the Registrar-General, and are used to examine the copy returns furnished by the District Registrar, to enable the Registrar-General to see that the original entry was properly made. Together that the original entry was properly made. Together with the returns furnished in the month of January in each year, the District Registrars are required for the the cause of each death entered in the deaths register during the previous year. Printed forms for this purpose will be furnished to each Registrar, and a letter containing full instructions for their preparation will accompany the forms. accompany the forms.

All books and forms necessary for the discharge of the Registrars' duties are furnished from the Registrar-General's Office upon requisition. A printed form of requisition, containing the names of all the forms in use in the office of the District Registrar, is in each Registrar's office, or can be had on application to the Registrar-General.

Before concluding these instructions, the attention of the District Registrar is called to the absolute necessity of using the best registration ink procurable in making the entries in the registers, as from the quality of the ink used in a great measure depends the use of the registers after a lapse of time. In some instances, from the use of bad ink, entries made in registers have been known to fade so completely as to render the entry perfectly illegible.

District Registrars are reminded that all returns and documents connected with the registration of births, deaths, and marriages, if left open at both ends, and the particulars stated outside on the cover, go through the post free of charge

Care should be taken to fold the returns so that they shall receive no damage in transmission through the post.

The foregoing regulations and instructions for the guidance of District Registrars have been made as full as possible, so as to embrace almost any point uopn which a Registrar can possibly be at fault; but should any circumstance occur for which special provision has not been made, the Registrar-General takes this opportunity of impressing upon District Registrars the necessity of at once communicating with him for instruction, which will always be most cheerfully afforded, and sent with as little delay as possible.

F. O. DARVALL, Registrar-General.

APPENDIX A.

The following are the clauses of the Marriage Act, 28 Victoria, No. 15, regulating the duties of Ministers of Religion in connection with the celebration of Marriages in Queensland.

Clause 8 provides that any person causing his name to be registered as a minister of religion, and knowing himself not to be such, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and renders himself liable to a fine of £200 or two years imprisonment.

The same clause provides that the minister who celebrates the marriage shall deliver a copy of the certificate abovementioned to one of the parties to the marriage immediately after the marriage; and shall transmit the original certificate to the Registrar of the district in which the ceremony was performed, within one month after the celebration of such marriage.

Clause 15 empowers the minister to ask of any person about to be married the several particulars required to be registered respecting such marriage.

Clause 16 exempts parties, both of whom shall be Quakers or Jews, from the provisions of the Act, but renders it compulsory upon the person who shall celebrate a marriage between such parties, to transmit a certificate of such marriage to the Registrar of the district, in which certificate shall be set forth the date and place of such marriage, and the name, designation, and usual residence of each of the parties to the marriage.

Clause 18 provides that where either party to the marriage (not being a widower or widow), is under 21 years of age, the minister is not authorised to celebrate the marriage until a written consent to such marriage is produced to him from the father of such party, in the form schedule E to the Act, if the father is in the colony; should the father not be in the colony, the consent of the guardian duly appointed by the father is required. If there is no guardian in the colony, then the mother's consent is required; within the colony. Where there are no sent is requisite if within the colony, then the monter's consent is requisite if within the colony. Where there are no parents or guardians in the colony, or where the parents or guardians are incapable of consenting to the marriage in consequence of distance, habitual intoxication, or mental incapacity, then the written consent of some justice of the peace duly appointed for the purpose of missing executive of the previous of missing executive. justice of the peace duly appointed for the purpose of giving consent to the marriage of minors is necessary. Clause 20 provides that the statement of the fact of a consent having been produced by the minor shall be indorsed by the minister on the marriage certificate, and on the copy thereof and such indorsement shall be signed by the minister who celebrates the marriage. The same clause also authorises the minister to postpone the celebration of a marriage for one week after the production of such written consent, to enable him to make inquiries and to post notices, &c., to ascertain if possible the validity of the statements made by a minor. It also gives the minister the same power even when parties declare themselves of full age, if he has reason to doubt the truth of such a statement.

Clause 25 provides that if a minister celebrates a marriage where either of the parties (not being a widower or widow) are minors, and he shall know them to be so, without the production of a written consent from their parents &c., or knowing that the consent if produced is not by the appropriate person, or who shall wilfully celebrate a marriage contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall subject himself to a penalty of five hundred pounds or five years imprisonment.

THE following Regulations, approved by His Excellency the Governor in Council, respecting the retirement of Treasury Notes, and the payment of salaries and other public services, at Rockhampton, are published for general information, and for the guidance of the several officers named therein.

By His Excellency's Command,

J. DOUGLAS.

The Treasury, Queensland, 4th February, 1867.

MEMORANDUM respecting the retirement of Treasury Notes, at any time held by the branch banks at Rockhampton, and for making the said Notes available for the Rockhampton departmental payments, submitted by the Honorable The Colonial Treasurer for the consideration of His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council.

Recommended that, pending more complete arrangements for the establishment of a Local Agency or Sub-Treasury at Rockhampton, the Sub-Collector of Customs at that place shall be charged with the performance of the following duties:—

- 1. He shall, on behalf of the Government, retire any Treasury Notes presented to him by the managers of either of the branch banks at Rockhampton.
- 2. He shall cash any cheques drawn by the undermentioned officers on the established form upon the Union Bank of Australia, Brisbane, in liquidation of salaries or other public services at Rockhampton, or its neighborhood, which may be presented to him for payment, viz. :

The Postmaster-General

The Registrar-General

The Collector of Customs

The Commissioner of Police

The Portmaster

The Superintendent of Electric Telegraphs

The Engineer of Roads, Northern Districts and such other officers as may be hereafter advised to

- 3. He shall make payment for cheques cashed by him under the preceding clause in Treasury Notes only, when he has a sufficient amount of such notes on hand.
- 4. To prevent as far as possible the duties herein referred to interfering with the Sub-Collector's ordinary duties, the above officers are to draw, where practicable, one cheque only for the whole of the monthly services of their respective departments at Rockhampton, and are to forward such cheques to their responsible officers there, who will present them to the Collector, receive the notes, and make all local payments in the said notes, in conformity with advices received from Brisbane.
- 5. In order to provide funds for carrying out the above arrangements, the Sub-Collector shall retain during the time the present regulations remain in force one month's collections always on hand, remitting, for example, his January receipts on the last day of February, and so on.
- 6. The Sub-Collector is to make up the ordinary revenue vouchers monthly, and remit to the Treasury in liquidation thereof the several departmental cheques cashed by him as herein instructed. Should any balance be required to complete his payment, the same is to be made up by bank slip, as at present, or by Treasury Notes, according to the state of his accounts.
- 7. The Sub-Collector is to pay his Customs receipts daily into a public account at the Union Bank of Australia, Rockhampton, and to make his settlements with the banks (for notes retired) by cheques drawn upon that
- 8. Should the Sub-Collector at any time not have sufficient collections on hand to retire the notes presented, he is to at once communicate by telegram with the Treasury.
- 9. Should he at any time not have sufficient Treasury Notes to meet the whole of the cheques he may be called upon to cash, he will also communicate with the Treasury by telegram; and he is at liberty, pending the receipt of instructions from head-quarters, to retire any cheques so presented from the Customs collections on hand.
- 10. The Sub-Collector to make a monthly return to the Treasury, showing the total amount of notes presented to him by the different banks for retirement (distinguish-ing each bank's transactions), and giving a statement of the Government cheques presented to and cashed by him, showing also the balance of Treasury Notes on hand.

AMENDED REGULATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT SAVINGS BANKS.

IIS Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to direct the publication of the following additions to the Savings Bank Regulations, dated 16th November, 1864, and to the Amended Regulations, dated let Desember 1865, medantial and other than 1865. dated 1st December, 1865, made under the authority of the Act of Parliament 28th Victoria, No. 2, entitled "An Act to grant additional facilities for depositing small savings at interest with the security of the Government for due repayment thereof;" viz.:—

In all cases where notification of withdrawal is received from a depositor in the Government Savings Bank by Electric Telegraph Message, under existing regulations, authority to pay the amount claimed shall be forwarded to the local office by telegraph free of cost, beyond the one shilling originally charged under present regulations for sending such first message.

The officer receiving such authority shall at once pay the amount withdrawn from funds in his hands, retaining the telegraphic message as his voucher pending the ordinary advice by post; but no officer shall make any such payment unless the depositor is personally known to him, or unless he produces satisfactory evidence that he is the person entitled to the withdrawal.

By His Excellency's Command,

J. DOUGLAS.

The Treasury, Queensland, 26th March, 1866.

GOVERNMENT LIFE INSURANCE AND ANNUITIES.

PROPOSALS for Life Insurance, or for the purchase of Annuities, or Monthly Allowances, can be received at any Branch Office of the Government Savings Bank, where all information can be obtained.

By a very moderate outlay any person may now make provision, by Insurance, for his widow or children after his death; or by the purchase of a Government Annuity, may provide for his wife and family, or for himself, in old age.

Thus, a man aged 25 may Insure the sum of £50 at his death-

By the payment of Two Shillings monthly during his life;

Or, Eleven Shillings and Sixpence half-yearly; Or, Six Shillings quarterly;

Or he may Insure £100 at death by double the above payments.

Annuities or Monthly Allowances may, in the same way, be purchased by or for any person above the age of ten years.

Thus, a man aged 30 may purchase an Annuity of £20, to be paid to him from the age of 55 until his death by a yearly payment of £4 15s.

Or, he may secure a Monthly Allowance of £2 9s. 5d., equal to £29 13s. a year—to commence at 60—by payment of eight shillings a month.

NOTICE.

On the 24th of May, 1867, the harbor lights at the entrance of Port Louis, Mauritius, will be done away with, and a Floating Light at the bell buoy anchorage will be substituted.

The Floating Light Vessel will be moored a little to the north-westward of the present well known Bell Buoy, with the following bearings:—

Extreme of land to the northward, N.E. by N.
Extreme of land to the westward, W.S.W.

Flagstaff on Fort George, S.E. ½ S.

Depth of Water, 15 fathoms.

The light vessel will be painted white, which will enable her to be distinctly seen against the dark land during the day.

She will show a "flashing white light" from sunset to surrise, which will be visible a distance of nine miles in every direction from seaward, from the poop of a large

The fact of this being a flashing light, at short intervals, will sufficiently distinguish it from the revolving light at Flat Island, even were a mistake possible.

Vessels from the northward, after rounding Cannonier Point, must be careful not to bring Cannonier Point light to the westward of Flat Island light, till the floating light at the bell buoy is seen; they may then steer for the latter, on a S.S.W.  $\frac{1}{4}$  W. bearing, and anchor on that bearing, from half a mile to a mile from the light.

Vessels approaching the port from the westward, may steer for the floating light on an E. by N. ½ N. bearing, and either anchor half a mile from her on that bearing, or further to the northward, as convenient.

The mooring chain of the floating light runs about 150 fathoms in a N.N.W. direction, vessels must therefore be anchored in such a manner as to avoid hooking it.

The depths at the anchorage vary from 12 to 20 fathoms.

All the bearing are compass bearings.
