GLADYS C. ORME HOKONA PROCTOR

We went over the other evening to interview Mrs. Gladys C. Orme who has been appointed housemother of Hokona Hall to replace Mrs. Vary. We knocked and a pleasant, wavy, grey haired lady opened the door. After we told her our mission she invited us into her parlor where she spends her evening hours counselling the girls.

"I have never been interviewed before," she offered as the conversation got off to a slow start. After we learned that she was the aunt of an old friend the formality disappeared and we found why she had been chosen to fill such an important position.

Mrs. Orme was born in Kansas but she moved to Mountainair in 1902 where she has lived ever since. Her father founded Mountainair and her family were pioneers in the Estancia Valley.

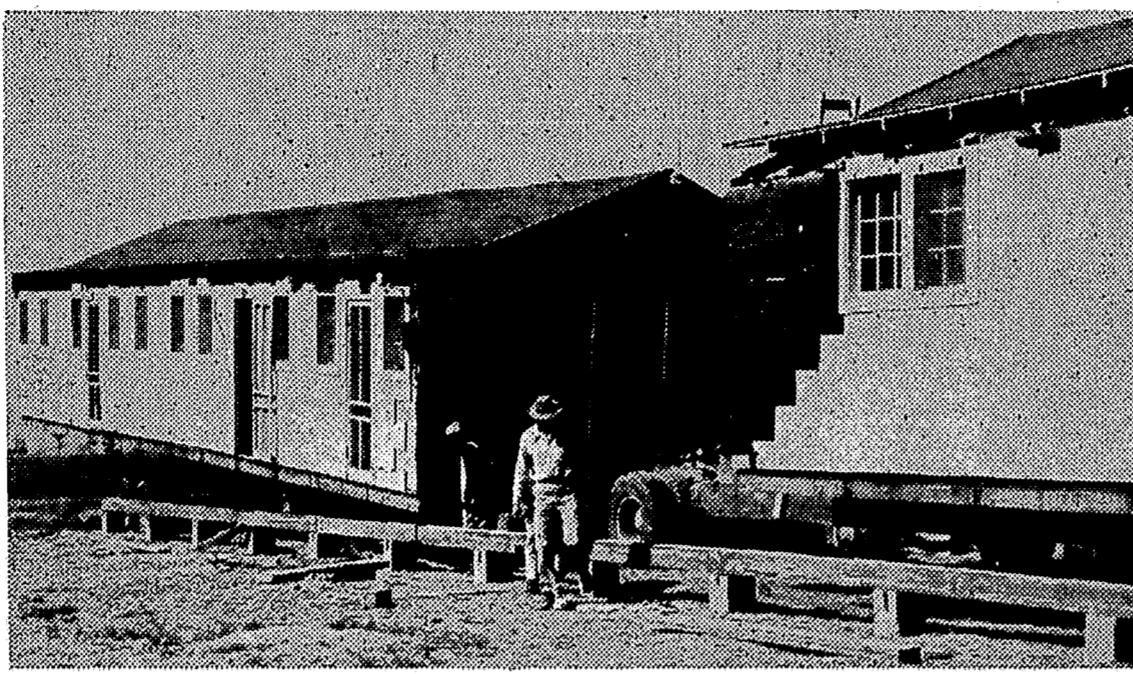

She has one boy, Richard, who is in school here now and another boy, graduated from the college of engineering in 1941 and is now employed by General Electric.

Mrs. Orme has taught school for six years and last winter was housemother for the ADPI house at Ohio State in Columbus. She left Ohio since it was too far from home and applied for a position at the University. When Mrs.

Vary left, she was chosen to replace her.

She has three proctors assisting her with the 210 girls but the job still takes up the better part of every day. Her days are spent supervising the housecleaning and office. After seven in the evenings she is in her office to talk with any of the girls who desire to see her. Her telephone is the only one listed for Hokona Hall so that everything is punctuated by frantic phone calls from lonesome Romeos.

Mrs. Orme's eyes are too weak to do much reading and she doesn't play cards but she does spend her few spare moments listening to music. She plays the piano and in past years has taught piano. She is partial to the "old masters" and spends little time with modern music.

Library Adds New Volumes

There are many excellent new books coming through the library this month. Two outstanding reference books are the 1946 American Book Trade Directory of active book publishers listed by states and cities, and the South American Handbook for 1946. The latter contains statistics and factual information about South American countries. Big Spring by Shine Philips is a new casual biography of a prairie town, Big Spring, Texas. It is written in the manner of a novel. In the economic line, Economic Stagnation or Progress by E. W. Swanson and E. P. Schmidt is a critique of recent doctrines on mature economy, over savings, and deficit spending. Also Freedom Under Planning by Barbara Wooton is an excellent book on economics. The U. S. government has put out the new book, Public Housing Design. It contains designs and plans for low-rent housing. It was published in June 1946. The Coronado Library is adding the Historical Encyclopedia of New Mexico. This book is published by the New Mexico Historical Association. As its name suggests it is a history of New Mexico's towns. There are many pictures and facts about the growth of the state. This is going to be a grand addition to the Coronado collection.

New Varsity Tennis Courts

Construction of three new varsity tennis courts at the University of New Mexico was announced this week by Tennis Coach Arthur M. McAnally.

The courts, which are now in the process of completion, are located just south of the University stadium. Built to conform with American Lawn Tennis Association regulations, the courts will be made of black, brushed concrete, and will extend 21 feet from base line to backstop. They will be laid over a cinder base, McAnally said.

"Colored, brushed courts have been used for quite some time on the coast," McAnally explained, "but they have not been built much in this part of the country."

The colored surface, he pointed out, cuts down glare, and the brushing slows down the ball, which is too "live" in Albuquerque's altitude.

Barring the unexpected, McAnally said, the courts should be completed in two or three weeks.

"American Thought" Takes 2 Quarterly Review Stories

Two articles from the Autumn 1945 edition of the New Mexico Quarterly Review, published by the University of New Mexico Press, have been selected to appear in a book, "American Thought," an anthology to be published by the Gresham Press, Dr. Dudley Wynn, editor of the Review, has announced.

The articles are "Art and Civilization," by Mathurin Dondo, and "The Art of Katherine Anne Por-

Speech Clinic Plans Intensive Program

The University Speech Clinic, headed by Dr. Robert E. Barton Allen, has completed plans for an intensive program of speech correction to be presented to University students. At the present time the facilities of the clinic are limited to University students, but in the future Dr. Allen intends to enlarge the clinic to accommodate high school and grade school children from the entire state. This will be done by creating traveling speech clinics, which will visit outlying and remote towns in New Mexico. These clinics will be staffed by trained speech clinicians, who will give instructions in both Spanish and English.

The need for correct speech is becoming more apparent every day as the tempo of competition increases in both a business and social aspect. With this in mind the Speech Clinic has arranged to have University students take speech training. All freshmen and transfer students are required to take voice, speech, and hearing tests. There are 1,947 of these students at the University. A laboratory has been set up by the clinic to give the various tests, and about 30 students are being run through each day.

The average university student is found to have normal voice, speech, and diction, but with a number of defects. The most common of these defects in order of their frequency are: lipping, slight deafness, stuttering, stammering and voice blockage. Little attention is being paid by the Clinic to regional accents, such as the New England, the Bronx, or the deep South accent, unless it is so marked as to interfere with the student's ability to express himself in geographical areas other than his origin.

The Division of Speech, the English Department and the Romance Languages Department under Dr. Duncan are co-operating on the speech correction program for both English and Spanish students. Temporary quarters for Speech Clinic have been installed in Hodgin 6. The room is equipped with 3 large recorders which have just been received. They are the very latest and finest of equipment available, with crystal microphones and a special sound gadget to make possible authentic and accurate transcripts of students' voices.

Any further information concerning the Clinic or Speech Department can be obtained by calling at Hodgin 6 or contacting Dr. Allen.

Broken Circuit Library Chaos

At 9:35 Thursday evening, all of the lights in the library suddenly went out. The library was full of students at the time, and Mr. Frank Lowe, a former student, was greatly appreciated when he came to the rescue with his flashlight. At first it was thought to be a prank. However, at noon Friday the lights are still not in working order. It has been impossible as yet for the difficulty to be located, and the library staff is working under a great handicap even during the day as the stacks are almost entirely artificially lighted.

Vet Tuition Fee Clarified

Clarification of tuition fees paid by the Veterans Administration for veteran students at the University was issued today by the University News Bureau following publication Saturday of a statement that the fee was blanket $75 per semester. "Under the contract between the University and the Veterans Administration," the statement said, "the fees for veterans under Public Law 346 are based upon actual instructional costs, not including University maintenance and overhead."

"These costs were set in the contract at $7.25 per semester hour, and since the average veteran carries 15 hours a semester, the Veterans Administration pays an average tuition fee of $108.75 a semester."

"This fee applies to both New Mexico and non-resident students. The contract may be renegotiated to take up any change in instructional costs that may occur." For veterans with service-connected disabilities, going to the University under Public Law 16, the statement said, the Veterans Administration pays tuition of $40 a semester, for New Mexico residents, and $75 a semester for out-of-state students.

Syracuse to Award New Fellowships

The Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs of Syracuse University will award five fellowships and ten scholarships in Public Administration beginning January 2, 1947. Dr. Thomas C. Donnelly, head of the government department, has been notified. The fellowships pay $1275 each ($600 plus tuition of $675) and the scholarships pay tuition for a three-term (one-year) period. The same number of awards will be given in the course beginning in September 1947.

Veterans qualifying under the G. I. Bill will not be awarded fellowships, but they are eligible for fellowships. Appointments are open to graduates with high scholastic averages. To be qualified for appointment, the applicant must intend entering government service.

The year course leads to a Master of Science degree. Residence for a minimum of six semesters is required for the degree of Doctor of Public Administration.

Applications for admission to January 1947 course should be made at once to The Dean of the Maxwell School, Syracuse University, Syracuse 10, New York.

Allen Asked to Mexico City

Dr. Robert E. Barton Allen, head of the division of speech at the University of New Mexico, has been invited to attend the presidential inaugural ceremonies in Mexico City, Dec. 1, as the personal guest of President-elect Aleman.

A telegram from Sr. Aleman asked Dr. Allen to attend as a former member of the American state department's committee on cultural relations with the other Americas.

Robert Barnard Addresses Club De Las Americas

Mr. Robert C. Barnard, senior in the School of Inter-American affairs, will speak on "Highlights of Life in a Mexican Town," a sequel to Mr. Brilovich's lecture of last week, Friday at 7:30 p. m., in room 150 of the Administration building under the auspices of the departments of Sociology and Modern Languages, Club de las Americas, and the School of Inter-American Affairs.

In last Friday's lecture Mr. Brilovich of Chile discussed his impressions of the United States after having spent a year here. Mr. Barnard, Friday's speaker, will follow up this lecture with his impressions of life in a Mexican town.

Last summer he went to Mexico to initiate in the town and municipality of Ciudad del Maiz, San Luis Potosi, a sociological study to secure material for his master's thesis. The lecture will deal with a few of the facts and phases of this Mexican small town which seemed most striking to a 'gringo.' Particular, but brief, consideration will be given to General Saturnino Cedillo, last of the Mexican caudillos, who ruled San Luis Potosi from his Ciudad del Maiz headquarters for some twenty years. Mr. Barnard will also speculate on what science and engineering could bring to this typical town and will give an object lesson to would-be inter-American business adventurers: the appearance in and disappearance from Ciudad del Maiz of a well-financed United States timber contractor and the moribund that hang by this tale.

Mr. Barnard was born in Anacosta, Montana, and received his elementary and secondary education in Portland, Oregon, and Seattle, Washington. He studied at the University of Washington from 1935 to 1938, majoring in Spanish. In the summer of 1936 he traveled in Mexico. In 1938 he left the University of Washington for an enlightening two-year interlude as an encyclopedia salesman, shipping clerk, window trimmer, radio server, and typewriter mechanic. In 1940-1941 he traveled afoot, a car-burro through 22 Mexican states, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica. This trip was notable for a "brief and enforced stop-over" in Guatemalan Dictator Ubico's political prison.

The second phase of Mr. Barnard's adventures opens with his joining the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey in February, 1941. As a Chief Radio Technician, his principal assignments were the design and development of electronic gear for existent and new hydro-oceanographic survey methods, particularly Radio Acoustic Ranging and Radio Current Measuring. His field service included the Western Aleutians, the Shumagin Islands, Washington, D. C., and New London, Connecticut. He was granted a leave in June, 1943, to join the Radio Research Laboratory at Harvard University, which developed radar counter-measures-electronic devices to deprive the enemy of the use of radar. At the Harvard Laboratory he was secretary of the Steering Committee and assistant to the director until October, 1945, when he came to the University of New Mexico and enrolled as a junior in Inter-American Affairs. He expects to receive his B.A. in February.

Bartlett Builds Band

Among the many new dance bands springing up on the campus, the newest is that of Frank Bartlett. Frank has accumulated 14 hot jive men, and is planning to make the students really hop. Available for any engagements his motto is, "Rhythm is our business."

Robert in Fourth Concert Series Wednesday

Fourth concert of the 1946 Concert Series will be at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 13, at the Student Union, the University department of music announced today. George Robert of the piano faculty at the University, long a favorite with Albuquerque audiences, will include in his piano program a suite in the classical manner which he composed during an eastern vacation this summer. Admission will be by season ticket, and general admission tickets will be on sale at the door.

Mines Band And Drill Squad Will Perform In Half

Nearly 500 Miners will make the trip from El Paso to Albuquerque next Saturday for the Lobo-Miner match. The train will dump the Miners onto the campus about noon of Saturday.

Included in this group of 500 will be the Texas School of Mines band and drill squad, one of the best in the Southwest. Eight minutes of the half will be given over to them.

We will become their hosts as soon as the train arrives at Isleta. A delegation will board the train there and will pass out preliminary information pamphlets at that time.

When the train pulls into the Santa Fe depot our band and a delegation of students will be there to meet them with special busses chartered to bring them to and from the campus.

After the students get onto the campus they will make their headquarters in the SUB which will be thrown open to them. There will be hostesses there and coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Sorority and fraternity houses will hold open house for the guests and Carlisle Gymnasium will be opened in order that there will be a place for them to clean up. Hokona Hall will be open for the girls making the trip.

Plans originally called for opening the dining hall to them too, but Mines school officials stated that they wouldn't need this service.

A special dance at which Tommy Reed will play as well as a band being brought by Texas Mines will be held in the Gym. The Miners will leave at midnight.

Who's Who List Swells to Fifteen

The University News Bureau today said a prayer, and made a resolution never again to try to round up all University people listed in Who's Who.

After a check through the new 1946-1947 issue which took two days and discovered 12 faculty members and administrative people in the big book, the bureau sent out a story listing the 12 elect.

It wasn't long until the art department called to say that, after all, Kenneth Chapman and Kenneth Adams were also in the book, and that that made four artists in the one department who'd made the big time.

Next day, Dr. L. B. Mitchell, professor emeritus of the classics and one of the list, called to say with some heat that one of UNM's most famous men, Dr. John D. Clark, professor emeritus of chemistry, also had been omitted, and had been in the book a long time.

So that makes the total list 15—unless there's another ring of the telephone.

Cats: Dig This

Thanks to the boys in our engineering department, students at the University will be able to hop around much faster now. The engineers have constructed a temporary public address system. This is to be used until our regular equipment arrives from Indiana.

On November 16, this equipment is going to be used for the first time. To suit the occasion the student council is going to buy 50 new popular records. The student body is being asked to help select these records. Please list your ten favorite records below and send them to James Garliepp, president of the Associated Students.

The subject will be one of the principal ones to be discussed at the state convention of the New Mexico Educational Association which meets in Albuquerque in November.

Praise of the work of the Division of Research has been recently received from the National Educational Association which said of Dr. Connelly's study entitled "The State Educational System," that it is one of the best studies of its kind in America.

In that rather widely read editorial I put out last week, some people, notably El Presidente, detected some slight discrepancies.

Dollars and Sense...

The editorial column has taken a trend toward the dictatorial dollar. That seems to be the trend of the campus however.

We have the makings on the campus of a good and threatening bowling team. This organization is also seeking support from some part of the student body.

Veterans Corner

It has begun! It looks like a good game too! And like any football game it has its football field. Only the ball is the veteran and the field the United States.

Like all games, however, a poor player can lose the game or set back the team and that is what all the veterans have done.

One statement, however, made by an official of the U in answering the so called charges deserves attention.

What is in New Mexico for? More particularly what are you doing on the campus? Getting or trying to get an education? What is an education? Are you a member of the Veterans Club?

Watch the next half! See how much more kicking and passing there will be. We are nearing that line. That date line NOV. 5.

You readers don't know how close you came to missing this article! Failing to find my name in the new edition of 'Who's Who?'

Tests are generally the downfall to us all so perhaps a few suggestions concerning them will help. The ideal way to write a test is, of course, with an open text book, but for some strange reason this is frowned upon so we must find more subtle methods.

We, of course, don't suppose that it is the coach's responsibility to keep his players informed of various modifications in the rules, such as the change made several years ago involving the touching down of a punted football within the defending team's ten yard line.

Now I will get back to my chore of training the vets in my hand to spell out correct answers for TOMORROW'S TEST.

Dear Sir: In your own words it is the "poor Mr. Barnes" who has taken the blame for the Lobos' shortcomings. We don't suppose "poor Mr. Barnes" has any responsibility for the invention of plays in which Don Bamley tosses passes to Roy Anderson who in our consideration is a passer par excellence.

A "mysterious man of mystery" you call me, and cry out that there is (alas) so much about me you don't know. I am just an ordinary boy, Lydia Lou, a happy, care-free, fun-loving boy.

In the Lobo Lair By ED GLASNER
Unfortunately, the very limited budget of the LOBO does not allow it to send a representative away to football games so we can't tell you how the boys looked in dropping that close one to Colorado Saturday.

Concluding No. 2 is probably the reason for conclusion No. 1. Not being there, I couldn't tell you for sure, but the new combination certainly must have been smoother than the one which fell to pieces the previous week.

We're down to a .500 won and lost percentage now, with four of our highest hurdles still ahead. We won't say anything about the Texas Tech, and Arizona affairs; but it's sufficient to say that we've got to beat good teams from Texas Mines and Kansas State respectively in order to keep our heads above water.

Lobos Beat Colorado, Almost

Last Half Rally Nearly Upset Homecoming

The hard-fighting U of New Mexico Lobos, rated a two touch down underdog by the Associated Press, almost spoiled the Colorado University Homecoming by coming within a single point of deadlock in the Buffs before an estimated 17,000 at Boulder, Saturday.

Pulling apart the first conclusion, we find that for the first time this season (outside the Playtag game) the Lobos started to play ball when behind.

Concluding No. 2 is probably the reason for conclusion No. 1. Not being there, I couldn't tell you for sure, but the new combination certainly must have been smoother than the one which fell to pieces the previous week.

Sammy Kaye Contest for Would-Be Poets

A National Amateur Poetry Contest, with over $1,250 in cash prizes is being sponsored by Sammy Kaye, orchestra leader. The first prize will be $500; second prize $200; third prize $100. There will also be twenty prizes of $25 each.

The contest starts October 1st and will close February 27, 1947, a date selected because it is the anniversary of the birth of one of America's greatest poets, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The winning poems will be read by Sammy Kaye on his "Sunday Serenade" program, which is heard over the coast to coast network of ABC every Sunday at 1:30 p. m., EST, and will be published in the 1947 edition of the "Sunday Serenade Book of Poetry." The first prize poem will appear in Pageant Magazine.

In announcing the contest, Sammy Kaye stated: "Writing poetry is one of the fine arts and should be encouraged as much as possible. We are particularly interested in receiving entries from college and high school students, as some of the finest poetry emanates from these sources. We are hoping that this contest will uncover poets who will thus be inspired to continue writing and achieve fame in this field."

The contest is open to everyone and entry blanks may be secured by writing Sammy Kaye's National Poetry Contest—address above.

Dean Bowers Collects Bottles

The pharmacists' bottle and the "mysterious liquids" therein are museum pieces at the University of New Mexico College of Pharmacy.

Three of the old-time big bottles full of colored fluid are decorations in the office of Dean Roy A. Bowers on the campus. He collects them as ancient symbols of the pharmacist's art. One is a gift from Carl W. Peterson, Fox-Villet Drug Co. manager, and the other two are from Ned N. Curtis of the Dallas branch of the Owens-Illinois Glass Co.

"Such show-globes have been used perhaps before the 17th century, especially in Anglo-Saxon countries, as a sign of pharmacy," said Dr. Bowers. "It appears that they originated with early English pharmacies, called chemist shops. Shop owners wanted to build up the air of mystery surrounding the pretty liquids they dispensed.

"Candles were placed behind the bottles to heighten the effect, and one fancy story is that the resultant colored light at the time of Caesar helped guide the approaching Roman fleet to the British shores."
