THE BALLAD OF BARBARA ALLEN

A witch-boy from the mountain came,
A-pinin' to be human,
Fer he had seen the fairest gal . . .
A gal named Barbara Allen.

O Conjur Man, O Conjur Man,
Please do this thing I'm wantin'
Please change me to a human man,
Fer Barbara I'd be courtin'.

Now, Barbara had a red, red dress
And one she had of blue,
And many men did Barbara love,
But never was she true.

Oh, you can be a man, a man,
If Barbara will not grieve you,
If she be faithful fer a year,
Yer eagle, he will leave you.

O Barbara, will you marry me,
And will you leave me never,
Oh, yes, my love, I'll marry you,
And live with you ferever.

NEXT WEEK'S PRODUCTION . . .

by Alfred Uhry and Robert Waldman

AUGUST 3, 4, 5, 6

A sparkling new musical comedy based on a novella by Eudora Welty in which a Mississippi highwayman befriends a rich planter in order to rob him of his money and his more-than-willing daughter; a melodious musical with a host of zany comic characters.

MICHAEL STE MARIE
A.S.I.D ASSOC.

ABOUT TONIGHT'S PRODUCTION . . .

Milan Stitt began writing THE RUNNER STUMBLES in 1964, as a requirement for a playwriting course taught by the eminent theatre critic John Gassner at Yale University's Graduate School. It was twelve years and many rewrites before the play was produced professionally in New York City.

Stitt's wife, Lenore, suggested he base the play on a 1909 incident in her hometown of Traverse City, Michigan. "What interested me," Stitt says, "is how a murder could take place in a rectory. That's not a place for violence. But in looking for the answer you get into deeper waters. For instance, the God people of the same faith chose to worship. The priest here worshipped the God of agony, the nun, the God of mercy and love."

First called THE GUILTY, the theme of the early versions had to do with justice and Rivard's calling to a harsh God. During ten years of rewrites, the play evolved into a character study of considerable depth, the delineation of Rivard's spirit in his struggle to preserve his soul's integrity and the conflict between his Catholic dogma and individual will. The final version of THE RUNNER STUMBLES is an example of the best in classic drama: a well-made play structured around strong characters and a suspense-filled plot.

The play opened on Broadway at the Little Theatre, May 18, 1976. The Straw Hat Players' presentation of THE RUNNER STUMBLES is one of the first non-professional productions in America since the play achieved a long successful run. Following its Broadway bow, it was selected as "The Best Play" of the 1976 Broadway season by Burns and Mantle.
