Introduction

This official statistics release reports on early years and childcare inspections that occurred between 1 September 2008 and 31 March 2013 under Section 59 and 60 of the Childcare Act 2006. The arrangements for the regulation and inspection of providers on the Early Years Register changed in September 2012.

Inspections carried out between 1 September 2012 and 31 December 2012 are reported separately and these data are final. Data for inspections carried out between 1 January 2012 and 31 March 2013 under the new arrangements are provisional and subject to change.

Key findings

Latest inspection period (1 January 2013 - 31 March 2013)

- Ofsted carried out 4,702 inspections of childcare provision between 1 January 2013 and 31 March 2013. A large majority (88%) were inspections of providers on the Early Years Register. All inspections were conducted under the new Early Years inspection framework that began in September 2012.
- There were 4,110 full Early Years Register inspections, 43 Early Years no children on roll inspections and 549 Childcare register inspections.
- Of the 4,110 full Early Years Register inspections, just over two thirds (68%) were judged good or outstanding for overall effectiveness and 26% were satisfactory. Six per cent were judged inadequate. This is a slightly higher proportion of providers judged good or better compared with the previous reporting period (1 September 2012 to 31 December 2012) where 67% were good or better.
- The proportion of childcare providers on non-domestic premises judged to be good or outstanding for overall effectiveness is 70% whilst for childminders the figure is 67%. This reflects an increase of three percentage points in the proportion of childcare providers judged to be good or better and a one percentage point increase for childminders when compared with inspections carried out over the 1 September 2012 to 31 December 2012 period.
- For childcare on non-domestic premises, 6% were judged inadequate for overall effectiveness compared to 9% inspected between 1 September 2012 and 31 December 2012.
- Eighty eight per cent of the 4,110 Early Years Registered inspections were also monitored for their compliance with the requirements of the compulsory part of the Childcare Register. Of these 91% met the requirements and 9% were set actions to meet the requirements.
- The proportion of Early Years Register inspections where actions were set is 31%. This has increased from 23% of inspections covering the Annual Report period (1 September 2011 to 31 August 2012). The proportion of inspections where recommendations were made is 43%. This has declined from 93% for the 1 September 2011 to 31 August 2012 period. The shift in these figures can be explained by the changes to the new framework. Under the new framework providers may now be set an action when previously a recommendation might have been made.

Most recent inspections as at 31 March 2013

- As at 31 March 2013, 67,673 active Early Years Register providers had been inspected and their report published since the introduction of the Early Years Foundation Stage in September 2008. Just under two-thirds (65%) of these providers were childminders.
- At their most recent inspection, 77% of all Early Years Registered providers were judged as good or outstanding for overall effectiveness, 23% were judged satisfactory and 1% inadequate for overall effectiveness.

- The proportion of providers judged to be good or better at their most recent inspection is 77%. This has gradually improved from 74% at the end of August and 76% at the end of December.
- Just under half of providers inspected between 1 September, when the new framework began, and 31 March, had previously been inspected. These were generally weaker providers and were not representative of all early years providers nationally. Sixty eight per cent of these providers had been satisfactory at their last inspection under the previous inspection framework. Of these providers 57% have improved from satisfactory to good or outstanding, 34% have remained at satisfactory and 8% have declined to inadequate.
- Childcare on domestic and non-domestic premises providers judged satisfactory at their previous inspection are more likely to improve than childminders at their most recent inspection with 60% and 55% moving to good or outstanding respectively.
- Overall the proportion of providers judged to be good or better is higher for providers who have not previously been inspected compared to providers that have been inspected previously (74% and 61% respectively).

Methodology

1. The data in this release are from inspections carried out between 1 September 2008 and 31 March 2013.
2. This report includes data from inspections carried out since September 2012 under the new inspection arrangements for Early Years providers. A key change is the reduction in the number of judgements that are reported. From September there are now four, including an overall effectiveness judgement. This judgement is comparable with the overall effectiveness judgement made in the previous inspection cycle.
3. Statistics relating to inspections carried out between 1 January 2013 and 31 March 2013 are provisional and include inspections in the period where the inspection report was published by 30 April 2013.
4. Statistics relating to the most recent inspection outcome of providers include inspections up to the end of the period (31 March 2013), where the inspection report was also published at that date. This means that where the most recent inspection outcome of a provider took place during the period, but the report was not published at the end of the period, it will be excluded from the analysis. Where there is one, the outcome of the next most recent inspection will be included in the analysis instead.
5. Early years and childcare providers are allocated to local authority areas according to their postcode, using the National Statistics Postcode Directory. For a small number of providers, local authority and region information was not available at the time of analysis. These providers are categorised as 'Local authority not recorded' and 'Region not recorded'.
6. A small proportion of early years registered providers are inspected as part of a school inspection. The outcomes from these providers are not included in this release, but will be covered within Ofsted's official statistics on maintained schools inspection and outcomes and independent schools inspections and outcomes.
7. Revisions are published in line with Ofsted's revisions policy for official statistics. For more information about the policy please visit the Ofsted website:

www.ofsted.gov.uk/resources/statistical-notice-ofsted-revisions-policy-for-official-statistics

8. A new inspection framework for providers on the Early Years Register and providers on the Childcare Register commenced in September 2012. This replaced the framework published in September 2008. For more information about the new framework please go to the Ofsted website:

1. Percentages are rounded and do not always add exactly to 100.

2. This judgement includes the outcome 'How well does the setting meet the needs of children in the Early Years Foundation Stage?' from the previous EYFS framework that began in September 2008. Includes outcomes for the most recent inspections that were published by 31 March 2013.

3. Judgement only made at inspections from 1 September 2012 onwards.

Glossary

Actions

Inspectors raise actions to bring about compliance with the statutory requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage where these are not met at inspection. Usually actions result in one or more judgements being inadequate. In some cases where a specific requirement or part of a requirement is not met but the inspector considers that the overarching general legal requirement is met, the provider has a history of compliance and the impact on children is not significant, then the inspector may judge the relevant judgement to be 'satisfactory' or, on very rare occasions, 'good'. Providers are given a short timescale to put things right.

Childminder

This is a person who is registered to look after one or more children, to whom they are not related, for reward. Childminders work with no more than two other childminders or assistants.

They care for:

- children on domestic premises that are not usually the home of one of the children, unless they care for children from more than two families wholly or mainly in the homes of the families
- at least one individual child for a total of more than two hours in any day. This is not necessarily a continuous period of time.

Childcare providers

Childcare providers care for at least one individual child for a total of more than two hours in any day. This is not necessarily a continuous period of time. They must register to care for children under the age of eight, unless under exceptional circumstances; and can choose to register to care for older children. The early years and childcare sector comprises four main categories of provider: childminders, childcare providers on non-domestic premises, childcare providers on domestic premises and home childcarers.

Childcare providers on domestic premises

These are people providing care on domestic premises with at least three other people. They can provide the care directly or employ people to work with them. The difference between childminding and childcare on domestic premises is the number of people involved; if four or more people look after children at any time they are providing childcare on domestic premises, not childminding.

Childcare providers on non-domestic premises

These are people or organisations providing care for individual children in premises that are not someone's home. These premises can range from converted houses to purpose built nurseries.

Childcare Register

The Childcare Register has providers who care for children from birth to 17 years. It has two parts:

- the compulsory part

Providers must register if they care for one child or more from the 1 September following their fifth birthday until they reach their eighth birthday for a period of more than two hours in any day.

- the voluntary part

Providers who are not eligible for compulsory registration may choose to register here. These are mainly people looking after children aged eight and over, or providing care in the child's home like a nanny.

Ofsted inspects a random 10% sample of providers who are registered only on the Childcare Register, and not on the Early Years Register, each financial year.

Early Years Foundation Stage

The Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) is a comprehensive statutory framework introduced in September 2008 that sets the standards for the learning, development and care of children from birth to five.

Early Years Register

The Early Years Register records providers who look after children from birth to school age (that is 31 August after the child's fifth birthday). It is compulsory for such providers. Providers on this register must meet the requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage. Ofsted inspects all providers on this register at least once in a 47-month period to judge each provider's overall effectiveness.

Home childcarers

Home childcarers are usually nannies who care for children of any age up to their 18th birthday wholly or mainly in the child's own home, and care for children from no more than two families. They are not required to register with Ofsted but may choose to do so on the voluntary part of the Childcare Register.

No children on roll inspections

If an inspection is scheduled and there are no children on roll at the time of the inspection it should be deferred and the no children on roll letter EYL 409 sent to the provider. This letter explains to the provider that the inspection is being deferred as there are no children on roll. The provider must inform Ofsted when they start to care for children. The only exceptions to this are:

- if it is towards the end of a provider's prescribed period for inspection and an inspection needs to be carried out for Ofsted to fulfil its regulatory role
- it is a reinspection of those judged inadequate for overall effectiveness at their last inspection and it has reached the trigger point for the reinspection

Inactive providers

A childcare provider may be inactive because they have resigned or they have had their registration suspended or cancelled by Ofsted.

Recommendations

Inspectors make recommendations to improve the quality of the provision. These recommendations relate to the principles, practice guidance and statutory guidance of the Early Years Foundation Stage.
