"Move Up" Assembly Scene Of Annual Awards Sanger And Standridge To Speak At Graduation

Wednesday, May 25, will be the traditional "moving up day" of Madison College. According to Jean White, chairman of the assembly program, all classes will leave their present sections and move to the seats of the next higher class; the seniors will proceed to the balcony. Each class will sing a class song before moving to their new section.

President Miller will present certificates to those seniors named for recognition in "Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities" and the Duke Memorial Scholarship will be awarded to the junior with the highest scholastic average. At this time also, the name of the faculty member to whom the Schoolma'am is dedicated will be announced.

The assembly program will close with the singing of our Alma Mater.

Representing the four classes as they move up are Nell Cundiff, senior; "Gerry" Walker, junior; Kathie Sprague, sophomore; and, Carolyn Evans, freshman.

Annual Meeting Of Scientists Features Exhibits, Speeches

Over 600 junior and senior scientists from this state attended the four-day annual meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science here last week. More than 60 junior science and commercial exhibits were visited by students, faculty and townspeople. Science Talent Search Finalists were interviewed and research observations, including twelve phases of science were presented.

Chairman of the committee of local arrangements, Dr. J. E. Ikenberry coordinated with Mrs. Thelma Heatwole, Wilson Memorial High School, Fishersville, sponsor of the Junior Academy.

Madison College faculty members and students presented these papers:

Miss Margaret S. Anderson, sophomore, a study of racial differences with respect to tuberculosis; Dr. A. M. Showalter, research in the cross-breeding of pumpkins; Miss Antonia Skapars, senior, liver restoration in the golden hamster; Mr. Harry Reubush, senior, water content of vertebrate embryos and larvae; Dr. M. C. Shawver, trend of science teacher supply; Dr. Melvin A. Pittman, dispersion of carbon bisulfide as measured by spectral means; Miss Katherine M. Anthony, diagnosis of reading problems.

Featured speakers on the program were Dr. Jerome Namais, chief, extended forecast section, U. S. Weather Bureau; Dr. Eugene Crittenden, director, Nitrogen Division, Allied Chemicals and Dye Corporation; Dr. Churchill Eisenhart, National Bureau of Standards; and Dr. Morris J. Solomon, Bureau of Census.

Winner of the J. Shelton Horsely Award, Dr. Albert Lutz, is an organic chemist at the college of William and Mary. This is the highest award conferred by the Virginia Academy, awarded for the most outstanding research of the year.

A native of Bridgewater, and assistant director of the University of Virginia's Blandy Experimental Farm, Dr. Walter S. Flory, was elevated to the presidency of the Virginia Academy at the close of the meeting last Saturday.

Rev. Charles R. Standridge, B.D., Th.M., Th.D., pastor of West End Baptist Church at Petersburg, will be the speaker for baccalaureate services to be held Sunday, June 5 at 11:00 a.m.

That afternoon at 3:00, the graduates will be addressed on the subject "Responsibility As A Factor In Human Development", by William T. Sanger Ph.D., LL.D., L.H.D., Sc.D., president of the Medical College of Virginia.

A reception for the graduates will be held at Hillcrest, the home of President and Mrs. Miller, at 7:00 p.m. Friday, June 9. At 9:30 that night a vesper service will be held by the YWCA.

Saturday morning will begin with a senior breakfast at 8:00 a.m.; then class day exercises followed by a senior picnic at noon back campus. The senior dance will begin at 9:00 p.m. that night in Reed gymnasium.

Commencement exercises begin at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, June 5. Dinner for the graduates and their relatives and friends will be held in Bluestone at 1:00. Final exercises begin at 3:00 with an address and delivery of diplomas to the 154 graduates and 31 receiving secretarial diplomas.

Senior Dance

Playing for the Senior Dance on June 4, will be the Madison College Lost Chords. An informal cabaret style will set the tone for dancing from 9:00-12:00 p.m. Parents of the graduating students are invited also to attend the dance. Refreshments are to be served at a reception in Alumnae Hall during intermission.

A midnight breakfast will be served after the dance in all sorority houses and in Logan Hall. All seniors have been granted late permission 1:30 a.m.

Wood Takes Award

Miss Juanita Wood, senior business teacher education major at Madison College, from Paducah, Kentucky, has been awarded the Regional Certificate Award sponsored by the Journal of Business Education for leadership and potential ability as a business teacher.

Miss Wood was given the "Smead Award for outstanding achievement in Business Education" by the Smead Manufacturing Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota. She received a leather-bound portfolio notebook with her name inscribed on it, as well as a year's subscription to the Journal of Business Education.

"Through The Looking Glass"

It was yesterday morning at 9:00 a.m. that the Home Economics Department opened its exhibition of clothing made by sewing classes; and it was yesterday afternoon at 4:30 that the main part of "Through the Looking Glass" was exhibited in front of Senior Dorm. The advanced clothing class taught by Mrs. Jeanette Lockard was responsible for this exhibit, although as many other contributions as time permitted were modeled from the beginning and intermediate classes.

Mrs. Lockard opened the program with a few words about her classes and their projects, and expressed her appreciation to "Willie" Hoagland, who played the background music for the exhibit; to Dr. John Wells, for the use of the public address system; to Judy Freeman, who sang during intermission; and to the parents who so graciously brought their children to model some of the children's garments.

Then with Maude Marshall announcing, the exhibit began with a demonstration of the rule of fourteen, which was an illustration of how we may set a standard for the choosing of accessories. The members of the home economics classes for elementary teachers presented this part of the exhibit, and showed how we may either dress up (or dress down) a wardrobe through the skillful (or unskillful) choice and use of accessories.

Then, accompanied by piano music, the display continued on to play clothes, pajamas, casual dresses and more dressy suits and dresses . . . right on to coats which literally were dragged out of the mothballs for the occasion. At the time when two shirt-waist dresses were being modeled, a little animated color entered the picture. From far off to the right of the platform came a high-pitched yelping sound, and shortly after everything had to stop while a tiny black dog, pursuing an even tinier brown rabbit, flashed over the scene. Calm returned though, and the spring showing ran smoothly thereafter.

By the time you read this the Yankees, Giants, Indians, or even the Senators may have walked away with the pennant. Don't get excited yet. We don't mean the National or American League . . . merely the Madison College intramural softball championship, but to us that is a big event. The final games were played off Thursday and Friday, so listen in the dining hall for an announcement of the victor. Standings of the teams after Tuesday's games were as follows: Yankees, two wins, one loss; Giants, two wins, one loss; Senators, no wins, one loss; and the Indians, no wins, two losses. The Giants and the Dodgers played off for first place today.

Madison's tennis players showed a big improvement over their last games when they played Bridgewater Wednesday even though they did come out on the losing side. Miss Tate, intramural tennis advisor, accompanied Pat Schultz, Jerry Walker, and Janice Miller to the matches at Bridgewater College.

The archery range has really been buzzing lately, not only during class periods and intramural archery hours, but during every bit of the day when it is humanly possible to see the target. Could it be that we've all been putting off those out of class practice hours until the last minute?

Want some rest and relaxation during exam week? Here's your chance . . . the swimming pool back campus will be open for your many hours of free time. Check the bulletin board in Reed and listen for announcements in the dining hall for the day and hour. The pool will also be open next Tuesday and Thursday from 3 to 4:30 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Scribblers' Nook

Sonnet

The mountain stained with sunset's golden veil
Reaches out her peak for some cloud covered star.

The trees bend from an unseen silent breath
And a night tune sounds from Nature's branching lyre.

The force that raised her to a majestic height
Was the power and strength of an unresisting core.

Nor even the evil craft of carving rains
Could reach the towering mountain's unknown floor.

Each Spring the mountain smiles up at her friend
To receive the warmth and kindness of the rays;

And in return her flowers are humbly spread
Gratefully swaying on through summer days.

Reaching skyward, she is loved from near and far;
Now watch how the cloud gives her the evening star.

WHAT'S THIS? For solution see paragraph below.

YOU GET A GOOD CLOSE-UP of college smokers' preference for Luckies in the Doodle at right, captioned: Lucky Strike column in a college cigarette-vending machine. On campuses all over America, college students automatically get Luckies. Why? Simply because Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . .

cleaner, fresher, smoother. Next time it's light-up time, why don't you pull for Luckies?
