Board Sets May Dedication; Positions, Degrees Approved

The Madison College Board of Visitors at its bi-annual meeting in Richmond approved the dedication of two buildings at Homecoming Day on May 2.

The two buildings are girls' dormitories recently completed. They will be named after Mrs. Agness Dingleline, long associated with the college and upon retirement the executive secretary to the Alumni Association, and Mrs. Dorothy Garber who held several positions culminated by becoming Dean of Women.

In other business, the Board heard a proposal by Marvin Milam, Harrisonburg city manager, and John Driver, assistant city manager and city engineer, to widen Main Street, which would take some college property. The proposal was referred to the planning and development committee for further study. John Paul,

Seniors Announce Convocation Activity

The Senior Class announced recently that it will hold its first convocation on Thursday, February 12, in Wilson Auditorium.

At the request of the Senior Class, the ceremony will include a guest speaker and the Senior Capping. A. E. "Dick" Howard of the University of Virginia Law School will address the convocation. Last year he was chairman of the Constitutional Revisional Committee for the constitution of Virginia.

Convocation ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m., and all third period classes will be cancelled. The Senior Class cordially invites all students to attend.

Please note that Spring Vacation will begin on Friday, March 20, at 11:50 a.m., and classes will reconvene on Wednesday, April 1. This is a change in the 1969-70 catalog.

Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Visits Madison February 17 for Concert at 8 p.m. in Wilson

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Shaw, the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra will visit Madison College, Tuesday, February 17 at 8 p.m. The program is sponsored by the Lyceum Series and will be held in Wilson Auditorium.

Shaw, founder and conductor of the celebrated Robert Shaw Chorale, became Music Director and Conductor of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra in October, 1967. He hopes to expand the Orchestra's scope to include ballet, opera, masque and oratorio, chamber music, special telecasts and educational concerts, while alternating with the regular concerts of symphonic repertory in Atlanta and on tour.

The Atlanta Symphony is one of the youngest orchestras to achieve national prominence in the past quarter century. Boston Globe critic, Michael Steinberg, says "Atlanta is proud of its Symphony Orchestra, and it is quite right to be. The orchestra plays well. The brass and percussion seem particularly good, so do the solo woodwinds. Shaw's conducting is clear, self-effacing, rhythmically alive," Harold Schonberg of the New York Times says, "The strings are fine, the ensemble precise and the general tone rich and full. His (Shaw's) work had much to admire. He is obviously more interested in the music than in himself."

Tours have taken the orchestra to 63 Southeastern cities in eight states, many of them on an annual basis, from as far north as Lexington, Virginia, to Fort Myers, Florida in the south.

Over the last two decades nearly 1,000,000 school children have been introduced to great music by the Symphony, which has played over 600 concerts to audiences totaling over 100,000 annually in Atlanta and on tours of the Southeast for the past twenty-two years.

In addition to the 20 Young People's Concerts played each year in Symphony Hall the Young People's Concert program is televised by Atlanta's educational television station, WETV, and offered to over 50,000 school children free.

The Atlanta Symphony Orchestra's past and present are striking monuments to the talents and devotion of many; the future is limitless in scope and excitement. In the past 25 years Atlanta has been the only city within a radius of 500 miles to develop a major orchestra. In the next 25, under the leadership of Robert Shaw, the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra will certainly become one of the most magnificent ensembles in the world.

UNICEF Issues Nationwide Appeal To Support Rehabilitation in Nigeria

United Nations, N. Y. — The U.S. Committee for UNICEF has issued a nationwide appeal for public contributions to help support a massive rehabilitation program in postwar Nigeria.

After a personal inspection trip to Nigeria, Mr. H. R. Labouisse, UNICEF's Executive Director, confirmed earlier reports that severe malnutrition and the danger of major epidemics constitute a continuing threat to the existence of millions of children in the former civil war zone. Despite the amnesty and the best efforts of the Nigerian Government and Red Cross to bring in food and medical supplies, many thousands of refugees have fled beyond reach of relief sources.

Through last December, the United Nations Children's Fund had shipped well over 100 million pounds of food, drugs, medicines, and other supplies to Nigerian war victims. During the latter stages of the war, it sharply increased the flow of medical supplies and foodstuffs to hospitals, sick bays, and refugee feeding centers. As a result, UNICEF's Nigerian emergency relief funds have been virtually exhausted.

Since the collapse of the rebellion, the Governments of the United States, Canada, France, Norway and Ireland have announced special contributions totalling $2,404,000 to the Children's Fund.

The U.S. Committee's appeal for contributions is being conveyed through public service newspaper and broadcast messages, and through its national organization of UNICEF State Representatives and Metropolitan Committees. Contributions may be sent to UNICEF Nigerian Relief, P.O. Box 1618, Church Street Station, New York, N.Y. 10008.

Draft System Confusing

Many questions have arisen lately regarding the new draft selection system. In order to clarify some of the misunderstanding associated with the new system, an attempt will be made to describe the major revisions in the selection program placed into effect by President Nixon on November 26, 1969.

Under the previous draft procedure, a young man began his time of maximum vulnerability to the draft at age 19 and, if he did not volunteer for service, remained in that status until he was drafted or reached his 26th birthday. Selection was on an "oldest-first" basis.

Under recent conditions of relatively high draft calls the age of involuntary induction has been low, averaging about 20 1/2 years. However, when draft calls were much smaller, as they were during the early 1960's, the average draft age reached nearly 24 years. This created a long period of uncertainty for young men and made it difficult for individuals to plan their lives intelligently.

The revised system establishes a "First Priority Selection Group" which will normally constitute the only group from which men will be called involuntarily into service, other than those delinquent in their obligations under the law, or medical, dental, and allied specialists who are subject to special calls.

Those registrants who are not selected for induction during their 12-month period of exposure will then be placed into a lower priority category and normally will not be vulnerable for induction except under the unlikely circumstance that the First Priority Group is exhausted.

The "First Priority Selection Group" will be limited after 1970 to draft eligible men in their 19th year of age at the beginning of the year and to those men between the ages of 19 and 26 whose deferments expired during the year upon completion of school or for other reasons.

In 1970, however, this principal group will include all draft eligible men who are in the ages 20 through 25 at the beginning of the year, so that no individual eligible for induction under the previous rules will escape vulnerability simply because of the change to the new system.

The new procedure thus establishes a "youngest-first" rather than "oldest-first" priority for induction. This will result in a stable and predictable draft age period for each young man — either in the year following his attainment of age 19 or in the year after he leaves school or otherwise cases to be deferred.

The actual chances of being reached for induction will depend upon many factors, particularly upon future military strength requirements as we progress in efforts to Vietnamize the war and upon the rate of voluntary enlistments and re-enlistments.

In view of the many uncertainties of the future, the best judgment at this time is that registrants whose birth dates will appear in the top one-third of the random birth date sequence will have a high probability of being drafted; these in the middle one-third, an average probability; and those in the bottom one-third, a relatively low probability.

The BREEZE is in need of any and all Madison students. One of the chief complaints about the BREEZE is that it does not contain enough stories of campus news and/or interest. Try as we do, we cannot be every place on campus to gather all the little bits of news. We need each students' cooperation. If you don't have the time to work as a regular staff member, and know of some news item of interest call us at 433-6127 or notify the editor at 433-4942. The BREEZE needs you to survive.

Worthwhile events come and go, and the majority of the people just sit around and let things slide, unfortunately. This was not the case for those who turned out for the march for Martin Luther King. Blacks and whites alike heard Don Banks give an outstanding account of Dr. King's dream, and also heard some very true words from Madisonite Carl Marshall: "The whites will never be free until the blacks are free."

It was a somber march, as it well should have been, but those who were there were participating because of their enthusiasm for the cause of freedom for all people. Even some scattered heckling from the local "gentry" did not cause their spirits to wane. Perhaps it was my imagination, but truckers passing by on Main Street seemed to make as much noise as possible in an apparent effort to drown out the speeches. I'm happy to say that their efforts failed.

Anyone who attended the last president's open meeting will surely agree that many left that meeting with a feeling of frustration grabbing at their insides. Take the case of the young lady who asked about the effect of a court decision on Madison's policy of making women students live on campus. This same young lady is an elected representative of S.G.A. and has worked hard in her three and a half years here to try to bring about constructive change. Her question was responded to with the "if-you-don't-like-it-why-are-you-going-here" answer that really says something.

These open meetings are supposed to maintain communications between students and the administration, but with answers like the one above, it could well cause those students still interested enough to brave the boring repetition of each meeting to stop coming altogether. Rumor has it that there will be some communication with the new governor regarding handling of certain affairs here. Keep your eyes and ears open, for it is you who can help.

With Nixon's gradual troop withdrawal, many think that we are nearing a solution for that mess. What about the support troops that are left after the American fighting troops have been removed? I received a tape the other day from my father, who is with one of the many support units over there, and he says it isn't too pleasant.

In his unit are bakers, cooks, laundry-men, truck drivers, and others with special skills not in the field of fighting. Even with their lack of training, these same men are forced to man the perimeter of their base camp and fight like infantry should they be attacked. How would you feel in their place?

And personnel problems aren't the only ones. Getting necessary supplies has become even harder than when I was over there. What supplies don't find their way into the black market are drained off by all the higher headquarters and very seldom make it down to the small-unit level. This may not seem too important to many of you, but there is still a chance that some of you, or your boyfriends, will still get the sign to go there. How would you like to operate under fire with the above situation?

Leaving these support troops to be defended by the South Vietnamese Army is no solution either. They still can't fight their way out of a wet paper bag, for the most part. And I don't want to sound like a bigot, but it is a proven fact that you can't tell a V.C. from any other Vietnamese without a scorecard.

The Russian Language Students of Madison will present the Russian comedy, "The Inspector-General", tonight at 7 p.m. in the Anthony-Seeger Auditorium. It is a film with English subtitles. Tickets will be sold at the door for 50c or may be purchased from any Russian student.

Letters to the Editor

Student "Thanks" B&G Crew
Dear Editor:

I'm sure I am not speaking alone when I extend my "thank you" to the Buildings and Grounds Personnel of Madison College for taking the time to clear the lake not once but several times. After the snow, the students and children of the area found it almost impossible to clear an area big enough to partake in this sport. For those of us who are just learning to ice skate, it has been a great help in having a larger area to overcome the hazards of skating.

It is rarely found these days that someone will take the time to do something for someone else without being asked. The Building and Grounds Personnel, I'm sure, have enough of their own problems without taking on the added problem of clearing a forbidden lake. I'm glad to see that someone takes an interest in our pastime. Maybe if the students of Madison would take the time to say "thank you" once in a while, more people wouldn't mind doing things for us.

So I'm taking the time to say "thank you" again for your time and effort in giving us this area where we can enjoy ourselves.

THANKS

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The Honor Council recently met to decide a policy for informing members of the college community of our proceedings. In the future, all the minutes from each business meeting will be posted on the Honor Council bulletin board in the post office so that students will be aware of the issues being discussed.

No statements concerning the outcomes of trials will be posted due to the varying circumstances of each case and to protect the accused.

Women's Club Holds Dinner at Melrose

by Frank Humphreys

Imagine your surprise if you opened an invitation you had just received and it read: "Fundur verdur haldin Februar 12, 1970; Heitur Madur verdur a bordum, Maturinn or framreddur Kvenna Klubnum." I mean, how would you dress for something like that?

In actuality, one would want to dress casually, because the above is an announcement of the Annual Covered Dish Dinner sponsored by the Madison College Faculty Women's Club, and that's how they would like you to dress. This year's get-together is centered around the "Scandinavian Smorgasbord," which explains the invitation in Icelandic, and is to be held at the Melrose Caverns on February 12 from 6:30 p.m.

Coordinator for this event, Judy Palocsay, informed us that the dinner will feature Swedish meatballs, with those attending bringing a covered dish containing either salad, vegetables, desert, or bread. She also said the dinner is open to members of the faculty, their spouses, and invited guests in the case of single faculty.

So, faculty, "Gjordid suv vel ad koma!", which means "Please come!" Those needing a ride may contact Mary Ellen Radar, 434-5066, or Kay Beer, 879-9130. For further information call Judy Palocsay at 434-3094.

the college's psychology department, will serve as a coordinator of the grant, and Dr. Catherine R. Mumaw, head of the home economics department at Eastern Mennonite College, will be assistant coordinator.

Dr. Mundy said, "The project will perform a much needed community service and a variety of counseling services will be eventually offered by the Counseling Center to individuals in the community as staff personnel and facilities become available."

High on the priority list of counseling services to be offered will be services to families with personal problems including marriage counseling, home management, budget planning and related service. In the future vocational and educational counseling and group counseling may be added.

Dr. Mundy added, "The center will also serve as an ideal place for graduate students in fields related to the services offered to receive practical experience." He said the services offered "will not conflict with nor duplicate those of other local agencies".

Six faculty members of Madison and EMC will work with the Center along with five consultants expert in their fields.

No physical site has been obtained as yet for the service.

Head of Special Ed Services Named in "Community Leaders of America"

Dr. Ted Christiansen, head of the department of special education services at Madison College, has been named in the 1969 edition of "Community Leaders of America".

The annual publication contains approximately 5000 names of community leaders chosen by a special board of the American Biographical Institute of Raleigh, N. C.

The nationwide publication is distributed to libraries. Those listed also receive a plaque designating them as a community leader.

Dr. Christiansen was formerly in the special education department at the University of New Mexico. While there, he was selected for listing in the 1969 edition of "Who's Who in the West".

Committee Set Up As Appeal Board

The Traffic Appeals Committee has been established to serve the student body as an appeal board for students that have five traffic violations of the campus traffic rules.

Offenders are required to appear at the Business Office within one week of the violation to make settlement. The penalties are:

- first violation—$1
- second violation—$3
- third violation—$5
- fourth violation—$10

With the fifth violation, the student is brought to the attention of the Dean of Student Services for consideration of possible suspension of his permit to operate a vehicle on campus.

When a student accumulates five violations in one academic year, he may now appeal the suspension of his campus permit to the Traffic Appeals Committee. This committee will then make a decision that will be given to the Dean of Student Services for his consideration.

It is hopeful that students will cooperate with campus traffic rules and avoid penalties, especially those accumulating to the fifth violation.

Political Science Prof Accepted As Adviser For Study Tour in Modern European History

Dr. Cary S. Henderson, political science professor at Madison, has been accepted by World Academy Schools for Foreign Study as a Group Adviser for a study/tour next summer in Modern European History.

Dr. Henderson will be supervising local students in the 27-day program, accompanying them on an itinerary that includes Italy, Switzerland, France, and England.

World Academy, a Cincinnati-based organization, is offering 18 different summer study/travel programs in 1970. Students can enroll in literature, political science, history, art, music, and language courses. Two new study/tours, being offered for the first time this year, have itineraries that will visit Israel and Russia.

Classes are taught by qualified American and European World Academy staff educators, and field trips are closely related to the chosen course of study. Group Advisers usually have no teaching duties. They are responsible for the supervision and well-being of their students during the study/tour.

Academic credit for World Academy secondary school summer sessions is processed through the Harker Preparatory School, Potomac, Maryland. College credit may be granted when approved by the college or university of the student's choice prior to departure, and has been granted to former Academy students by many American institutions. Several colleges participate with the Academy, set up their own course criteria, and send their own professor to teach the academic aspects of the course. All course outlines and syllabi are written by professional educators and approved by World Academy's College and Secondary School Curriculum Committees.

Information on all World Academy study/tours is available by writing to World Academy Schools for Foreign Study, Gwynne Building/Sixth and Main Streets/P.O. Box 2385, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202, or by contacting the above-named Group Adviser.

Four members of the Mu Tau chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon went to Old Dominion University on January 10 to attend Founders Day activities held there. They heard T.K.E.'s national vice-president address the gathering.

Events for the evening included a cocktail hour at the local fraternity house, run by Kappa Delta chapter. Following was a banquet held in the ODU student union building. The banquet was attended by the parents of the Tekes, as well as a representative from Hoffstra U's chapter of TKE.

Those attending from Madison were Wayne Heatwole, pres.; Bruce King, vice pres.; Frank Humphreys, sec.; and Chip Lohr, treas. They witnessed an awards ceremony to fellow Tekes and were guests at a dance following the banquet.

Home Econ Prof's Service Results in Publication on Nursing Problems

Dr. Marjorie Christiansen of the Madison College home economics department was project director of a funded study under the Nurse Training Act of 1964.

As a result of the study a publication, "Utilization of Basic Science Principles in Solving Nursing Care Problems" has recently been released by the University of Albuquerque.

The project is concerned with the identification of facts and principles from the basic sciences that are needed by nurses and with the application of the findings to improve nursing education and ultimately the quality of patient care.

During the project period, Dr. Christiansen served as a resource person to faculty members involved. She assisted them in understanding certain basic scientific principles. Dr. Christiansen also prepared information from the sciences for review and reemphasis, as well as new material with new applications.

Dr. Christiansen, a native of Illinois, attended Joliet Junior College and Iowa State University. She holds the B.S. and M.A. degrees from the University of New Mexico, and the Ph.D. degree in Nutrition and Biochemistry from Utah State University. She has worked as a chemist and nutrition specialist, taught home economics at the University of Mexico, and taught the sciences and nutrition at Regina School of Nursing in Albuquerque.

Women's Varsity Swim Team Caps Successful Year at MW

The girl's varsity swimming team piled up a 7-1 record and capped its most successful season by capturing second place in the All-College meet at Mary Washington, Fredericksburg, Va., recently. Only William & Mary, which handed the locals their sole regular season loss, were able to top them in the state competition.

Scottie Savage, Marian Babylon, Karen Szymanski, Marlene Langdale, Virginia Axtell, and Paddy Argenzio all made the finals for Madison with Miss Langdale and the 200-yard freestyle relay quartet accounting for first place finishes. In addition, Miss Savage took third in the 50-yard free style event. The relay team was composed of Miss Langdale, Sue Freeman, Nancy Smythe, and Miss Savage.

Other members of the highly successful squad were, in addition to those already named, Helen Burch, Dee Dee Edwards, Jo Anne Hughes, Ellen Olin, Becky Zimmerman, Sue Hunter, Sharon Shaw, and divers Meg Kable, Joan Saunders, and Jone Reiser.

Coaching the mermaids to their best season was Miss Pat Davis whose daily practice sessions paid off in a near-perfect year.

Resident Selected to Embroidery Society

Miss Oma Sonifrank of 1431 Hillcrest Ave., Harrisonburg, Va. has been elected to the Tri-Chem Liquid Embroidery Gold Honor Key Society.

THREE DUKES (George Toliver, Bob Maley, Jim Sparling) prepare for their home match against Shepard tonight.

Dukes Divide Four Contests Prior to Break; Lose Misenheimer for Season on Broken Leg

Coach Cleve Branscum's Dukes split even in four games prior to the semester break and as second semester action resumes, they have a 7-4 record with nine games left on the docket.

The Dukes were not hit by an epidemic of bad grades but suffered a great loss nonetheless when Steve Misenheimer suffered a broken leg in a hiking mishap during finals week. In the Dukes' first 11 games, Misenheimer was averaging about 19 points per game and accounting for quite a number of rebounds.

The bunch dropped 10-point decisions to Clinch Valley and St. Andrew's while walloping George Mason, 116-81, and UNC-Greensboro, 90-70, in the four game set.

George Toliver came through with 31-point performances against Mason and UNC for a personal season high and added 23 against St. Andrew's to take the team scoring lead. Gibbons also hit a personal high with 27 against Mason while chalking up six assists and grabbing 19 rebounds. It was his finest outing of the year.

The showing against G.M. was the Dukes' best scoring output of the season. The win over UNC was a repeat of the earlier game between the two clubs while against St. Andrew's, the Dukes fell behind early and were never able to catch up despite fine efforts by Toliver, Misenheimer, Gibbons, and Gary Butler.

The Dukes take on Shepherd tonight in an attempt to avenge an early season loss in a game which will be carried by WSAV radio. They then take to the road for a trio of games before returning home for a grudge clash with cross-town rival, EMC.

As usual, the home games will also be heard on the campus station, WMRA.

JV's Give Action But Only Net Two

The JV's, though losing seven of nine games, provided plenty of action for their fans especially in the last half of the season.

Larry Nemerow and Edgar Ausberry waged a red-hot battle for scoring honors throughout the season with Nemerow winning by a slight margin. He accounted for 144 points in nine games for a 16-point average while Ausberry averaged 15.3. Ausberry also won the rebounding title by a wide margin.

The Little Dukes averaged 71.8 points per game on offense while giving up an average of 78.2—hardly the way to a successful season. The best individual scoring effort of the year was Ausberry's 26 points against EMC while Nemerow had 25 on two occasions.

Lowell Turner joined the team for the final three games after recovering from a broken wrist, and scored 40 points in three games including a 10-for-10 showing from the foul line.

Both Turner and Ausberry moved up to the varsity at the completion of the JV schedule.

Though his team finished on the wrong side of the ledger, Coach Phil Huntsinger said, "The boys and I had a lot of fun even though we didn't win 'em all. I think they learned a little about basketball and a lot about each other. And I had just as much fun as they did."

Girls' Basketball Team Wins Twice

Coach Barbara Quinn's girls' basketball team defeated EMC in convincing fashion just before the semester break, 60-43, to run their record to two wins in three starts.

The squad's only loss was a 51-50 heartbreaker to a tough Lynchburg five but they managed to bounce back with consecutive victories over Sweet Briar (70-38) and EMC.

The next home game for the Purple and Gold will be next Wednesday when they entertain Frostburg State. Results of the Mary Washington contest being played today will appear in the next issue.

- The Grandstander -

Branscum's Bunch survived finals all right but still lost Soph star Steve Misenheimer to a hiking accident in which he suffered a severely broken right leg.

Thus the Dukes' starting five has a new member for the balance of the campaign in Edgar Ausberry who sparkled for the JV squad. Ausberry, an ex-Strasburg standout, is a bear on the boards and has been known to score well. Though the Dukes will miss Super Steve's steady play, they will not be hurt with Ausberry as the replacement.

Two members of the JV team failed to cut in the grade department and will be ineligible until such time as their averages are raised. They are Gene Peterson and Bill Price both of whom were highly regarded by Coach Phil Huntsinger.

Reports are that Mike Kohler has left the varsity squad and will not finish out the season. He has seen action as a replacement for the front liners in most of the Dukes' games this year.

At this writing, all but one of the nation's major collegiate teams has been beaten. Kentucky, St. Bonaventure, and Jacksonville all bit the dust in recent games leaving UCLA as the only unbeaten power remaining. Could be a fourth straight NCAA title for the Bruins who don't seem to miss Lew Alcindor any more than they'd miss an aching molar.

A recent edition of the Washington Post featured an article on Clarence Lattimore, star of the Southeastern U. squad, who is averaging a bit over 30-points per game. The Dukes will get a look at the big boy on the 27th when they journey to D.C. to meet the Southeastern five which is not having a highly successful year.

An old-fashioned defensive duel took place recently when Towson defeated Frostburg, 31-24. Most teams score that much in the first 10 minutes of a contest. Frostburg, whom the Dukes visit on Feb. 23, also lost a close one to Shepherd, 87-80.

The team will make its second two-game swing of the season this weekend visiting Virginia Wesleyan on Friday and Christopher-Newport on Saturday.

WSVA will carry next Saturday's return go with EMC which upset the Dukes by one point earlier in the year. The game will also be aired by the campus station, WMRA.
