

Students Appear In Players' Finale

Madison will be well represented in the Valley Players' final production of the season, A Night of Edward Albee, which will be presented starting tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

The production consists of three short Albee plays, The Sandbox, The American Dream, and Zoo Story. All were selected by Mr. Gary Flavin, a Madison graduate, who is the principal director. Cappy Heatwole, senior speech and drama major, will direct Zoo Story which features Mr. Flavin and Mr. Richard Price of the English department.

Joan Moore, a Madison undergraduate, will appear in both The Sandbox and The American Dream.

Edward Albee, an exponent of the Theatre of the Absurd, is well known for his "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" which was an outstanding success on the stage and as a movie.

Reservations may be made by calling 434-7380.

PREPARING FOR A FESTIVAL — This art student appears to be putting the finishing touches on one of her works in preparation for the upcoming Fine Arts Festival April 13-25.

Drama Highlights Arts Festival Beginning April 13 In Duke

Drama is the word for the Madison College Fine Arts Festival running from April 13 through April 25.

The lone exception to this will be a gallery talk and exhibition by Frank Eckmire, nationally known print maker from Buffalo, N. Y.

Among the highlights of the drama-oriented festival will be a lecture by Henry Hewes, drama critic for The Saturday Review. He has adapted several plays and written three books on the theater, in addition to his usual duties as critic.

Another notable will make a personal appearance. She is Miriam Cooper-Walsh who co-starred with Lillian Gish in the classic movie "The Birth of a Nation". A reception for the star will be followed by a showing of the movie.

The Smithsonian Institute Puppets Troupe will present a play "The Thousand and One Nights" adapted from an ancient Arabian story. It was first read in Europe in the early 18th century after its discovery and translation by the French scholar Galland.

The Broadway play "Good News", described as "funny and bouncy" will be presented by the Stratford Players during the first week of the festival.

Another play, "How Green Was My Ten Per Cent", written by a Madison student, is a musical farce and its showing will be the premiere performance.

The popular "Spoon River Anthology" by Edgar Lee Masters will be given an interpretive presentation by the Readers Theater.

The festival will end on a dancing note as the Madison Dance Theater will present three performances of modern dance, modern jazz, international folk dance and American round and square dances. The modern dances have been choreographed by students.

All performances are open to the public and most will be given at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

NOTICE

The deadline for submitting officers names for the 1970-71 'Student Handbook' has been extended to April 15.

This extension has become necessary as a result of the large number of organizations that do not have provisions for electing their officers in March. Hopefully these provisions will have been made by fall 1970 since the 'Handbook' will have to be published prior to the summer session, instead of the fall session, as it will be this year.

Teach-In Offers Hope to Future

The massive "Teach-In on the Environment" scheduled to take place on more than a thousand college campuses April 22 offers dramatic hope that further destruction of our planet may be stopped, according to Senator Gaylord Nelson (D., Wis.), the man who started the project rolling.

Writing in the April Reader's Digest, Sen. Nelson recalls that he first proposed the national environmental teach-ins in a speech at Seattle last fall.

"We expected the response to be good," he writes. "It has been tremendous. A thousand colleges and universities are expected to participate, along with hundreds of high schools; civic groups, garden clubs, the League of Women Voters and conservation organizations have also offered a helping hand to make the day a success."

Already, the Senator says, the movement to protest further damage to the environment "has produced a series of small miracles in college communities across the nation." University of Illinois students pulled 30 tons of refuse from a creek near the Champaign campus. Washington, D. C. law students brought legal action recently to force the transit authority to reduce pollution from its buses. Texas University students managed to save some trees that the university had planned to cut down. Students at the State University of New York prevented the bulldozing of a 50-acre marsh on the edge of the campus.

While local projects will form the major focus of the April 22 Teach-Ins, Sen. Nelson suggests that the concerns voiced on that day may lead ultimately to "some radical changes in our national habits."

"Are we prepared, for example, to make economic modifications in our system to reverse the disastrous trend... to dispose of disposable bottles... to levy some kind of tax to assure that junk cars are collected and recycled... to say to the oil companies that they must not drill offshore... to develop a land-use policy, to say, 'You must not destroy anymore?'"

The Teach-Ins will help to dramatize these questions. But April 22 will be a success only if it sparks "a national commitment to do something," Sen. Nelson writes.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Bessie R. Sawhill, 68, of the English department died last week at Rockingham Memorial Hospital after an illness of a month. Cause of death was not given.

A native of Michigan, Mrs. Sawhill came to Madison in 1946 after serving as head of the English department at Adrian College in Michigan.

She did undergraduate work at Olivet College in her home state and earned her doctorate at Johns Hopkins University.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. John A. Sawhill, a retired Madison College Latin professor.

Burial services were held in Michigan.

BRANCH BANK OPENS

The Virginia National Bank has opened a branch office on campus located in Wilson Hall next to the college bank.

The branch office will offer checking and savings accounts, cash checks, and take loan payments. The Business Office plans to phase out its student bank at the end of this academic year.

Hours will be 9-12 a.m. and 12:30-2 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m.-12 noon and 12:30-3:30 p.m. on Friday.

Moulton Announces Fall Resignation For Position at Eastern Montana U.

Dr. Eugene R. Moulton, Professor of Speech, and Head of the Department of Speech and Drama at Madison College has resigned from the faculty effective at the conclusion of the 1970 Summer Session.

Dr. Moulton assumed his present duties at Madison in September of 1967. He came to Madison from the University of Redlands in California where he had served as Speech and Drama departmental chairman for fifteen years.

During the three years Dr. Moulton has been at Madison, there has been significant growth in the Department of Speech and Drama. Course offerings and numbers of majors have increased significantly. The department has increased its drama productions more than 50 per cent. A new FM radio station has been constructed and is maintaining a full broadcast schedule. A college debate team has been organized for the first time and is participating in inter-collegiate tournaments. A high school forensic institute and a Summer Theatre are now offered during the summer. The department of Speech and Drama now is host to both a college and a high school speech tournament each year. All in all, the department of Speech and Drama at Madison College is the most complete department of its kind in the State of Virginia.

Dr. Moulton leaves Madison to become Dean of the School of Humanities at Eastern Montana University in Billings, Montana. In his new duties he will be responsible for several departments within the Liberal Arts area of the University.

Play Commences

Monday in Duke

The Stratford Players have chosen the Broadway hit GOOD NEWS as their spring musical. This light and lively musical will be presented April 13-18th in the Latimer-Shaeffer Theater, Duke Fine Arts Building. Performances will begin at 8 pm.

GOOD NEWS is a roaring 20's musical comedy centering around Tait College. Tait is out to win the "big" football game against Colton, but the star player, Tom Marlow, played by Bob Raab, is flunking astronomy and on the brink of being kicked off the team. The outcome of this situation is pure entertainment.

Tickets will be available in the book store lobby from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow and Friday, and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday. Student tickets will be $1 and all other tickets will be $2.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Gossip Destroys Truth

There are people in life who, finding an excess of time, utilize it in degrading and jeopardizing the character of others by opening their mouths to let small bits of what is commonly termed "gossip" come forth.

When spread by word of mouth, verbal expression becomes distorted and its meaning is twisted into a tangle of small exaggerations and misquotes that ends in the destruction of the validity of the initial remark.

Countless words make up our English language. How fortunate for the gossip, for here lies an open door for word substitution that may start small tid-bit of gossip on its way into a mass of lies and distortions.

Gossip may be compared to a ball of twine, which, when given a slight push, unwinds at greater and greater speed. The remains of this ball of twine are in a scattered path, still a single twine, but with tangles that must be removed to straighten the original. This severs the unity of the twine. So does gossip twist and become entangled, spreading the nucleus of truth into a mass of distortion. When these distortions are severed, so is the total and unified picture of the truth severed. The person may now be pictured in an entirely different light than intended.

Knifing, throwing daggers, call it what you like, gossip is a destructive instrument of society. Remember — actions speak louder than words, but man is unique in that he can convey his thoughts through words.

Three Madison Students Honored In Tenth Annual Literary Festival

Three Madison College students were among the winners in the poetry and short story contests sponsored by the "Hollins Critic" in the tenth annual Literary Festival held Saturday, March 14 at Hollins College.

Fred Cheriboga won first prize in the poetry contest, sharing the $100 prize with Miss Susan Tarrant of Hollins College. His poem was entitled "Idle Motion 4 A. M."

Margaret Steiner won a second prize in poetry with the poem entitled "For My Brother and Myself." The other second prize winner was Geoffrey Fraser of Lycoming College, Pa.

Marc Taylor's short story "The Creation of the World," received a honorable mention in the short story contest.

Some 300 poems and 100 short stories were entered by students from Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, and Alabama colleges and universities.

A panel composed of poets Howard Nemerov, Daniel Hoffman and Richard H. W. Dillard read and discussed some of the entries as part of the program.

The Festival also featured Hollins writer-in-residence Malcolm Cowley and critics, Robert Scholes, Walter Sullivan and Louis D. Rubin, Jr.

For my Brother and Myself I walked you through the town.

Three years you had then and a dream of fire trucks, Hell-red and gloriously singing salvation to the burning ground.

You clapped to hear the gong, the clacking helmet heads scorching with red wind
our quiet, simple town.

You grew furious that they should hurry to put out what should burn. You turned heated eyes for remedy.

You bend now at cursive lines, scholarly words of Jack's dog Spot
and who fell down the hill.

But, early-late, somedays, do you hear the fire truck yet screaming through my head. For now, extinguished in your acquired mind.

Easter has come and gone for another year, as has April Fool's Day. While everyone was on vacation from this scenic town, something happened which could cause some students a certain amount of grief.

Here reference is made to an editorial which was run on WSVA-TV on March 27. Content of the editorial was the guidelines published in the second decade of this century by the communist party for the purpose of infiltrating the youth and consequently undermining the entire society.

While the editorial on WSVA was a re-broadcast of one that was aired on WKRC in Cincinnati, it still had the same things to say. Among these were the ones that referred to demonstrating and other like activities. The impact of the editorial was seemingly to turn members of the local populace against students not only at Madison, but at the other area colleges as well. And all this was done while you were not here.

Do not be surprised if more and more of you get accosted on downtown streets with various comments and threats. Such action by a supposedly responsible outlet of the media can only bring that reaction.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

As a former valley resident I am writing to you in hopes that I might solicit your aid in my search for historical data. The bulk of this historical data is to be found in Rockingham, Page, and Shenandoah counties.

I am a graduate student of history at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. In researching my thesis topic, the 10th Virginia Volunteer Infantry, I must use the original letters, diaries, and memoirs of the Confederate soldiers and their families compromising this regiment. The purpose of utilizing this type of material is to write a regimental history from the point of view of the common soldier within this Virginia regiment. Furthermore, I need to establish factual and humanistic information that is, as of now, still unknown to Civil War historians . . . This information is of the utmost importance in preserving the proper place in history of the men of Rockingham, Page, and Shenandoah counties who fought with the 10th Virginia Infantry . . .

April 22 is "E" Day. The "E" of course stands for our environment that those involved are trying to save. Cindy Walsh and others on campus are handling the activities here and could use more help and concern from everyone.

Enough cannot be said about how important it is for us to realize what a polluted mess our world is and the importance of doing something about it NOW before it is too late. Why not volunteer a little bit of your time to help insure that you may have some later on in life? Contact Cindy Walsh or the others coordinating the drive as soon as possible.

For all you "mod" dressers, Jeff Nemoynin has reopened in the same location under a brand new name. "The Body Shop" is now the place to go to get all the latest high-style threads and materials.

Straight people need not worry about tarnishing their reputations by going in there, either, because Jeff runs a legitimate business. Despite rumors to the contrary, his shop was closed while his former partnership was dissolved, and not due to a "narco" raid by the local fuzz.

Porter Announces Latest Writings

Katherine Anne Porter, an outstanding artist who ranks as one of the finest writers of our time, has brought together in one volume all of her essays, occasional writings, a work on Cotton Mather in progress and poetry covering a span of nearly fifty years in THE COLLECTED ESSAYS AND OCCASIONAL WRITINGS OF KATHERINE ANNE PORTER, which Seymour Lawrence/Delacorte Press published last month.

Miss Porter was born in Indian Creek, Texas in 1890. Her famed collections of short stories, FLOWERING JUDAS, THE LEANING TOWER, PALE HORSE, PALE RIDER, have become classics. Her novel, SHIP OF FOOLS, was an international success; and her most recent book was A CHRISTMAS STORY, illustrated by Ben Shahn. She has received numerous honors and her work has been translated into many languages.

APRIL SHOWERS — Tradition holds that April showers bring May flowers. Fortunately, the weatherman has spared us the rainy season so far with the exception of one day last week.

Mead Praises Student Involvement

Praising the "teach-in" on our environmental crisis planned for university campuses this month as "a call to action," Dr. Margaret Mead urged students to set "protection of our planet" as a goal for their generation.

Writing in the current issue of Redbook magazine, just released, the famous anthropologist called upon young women in particular to "develop new kinds of partnerships with men" which will change the focus of their lives from home and community to "concern for the whole world."

Recalling that woman's traditional role has been that of caretaker, Mr. Mead declared, "It is women's unremitting care for their families and homes" that should serve as our "model" for future conservation.

"Modern women (although their roles have changed drastically) still are, as women always have been, caretakers of persons and, equally, caretakers of the things that are essential to those they love and for whose well-being they are responsible. "And it is just this—responsible and devoted caretaking—that is the key to the future. It is this capacity to relate things to the needs of many individuals that makes possible vigilance over a lifetime and for generation after generation."

"We are not dealing with a crisis that can be overcome and afterward forgotten," Dr. Mead warned. "What we must work toward, instead, is a way of thinking that will encourage all men to become the vigilant conservators of their inheritance of earth and air, the waters of ponds and rivers and seas, and all the life of the world."

Women can do this because "they have been conservators without conscious thought, and as in so many other things, usually without the supporting formal rules and ceremonies that characterize men's important activities," Dr. Mead asserted in Redbook.

"Men, even the most careful conservators, have been taught to think about the obstacles to be overcome and how to overcome them and so live in an open world (than women). But women have almost always been familiar with closed systems and understand very well that survival within them depends on continuing care and the continuing performance of the same tasks over and over again."

Apprehensive Visit Rewarded By Outstanding Performances

by Frank Humphreys

Various reasons keep people away from music programs and concerts, and I have used most of them. On March 19 I attended the experimental concert in Duke though, and came away wondering when the next one was going to be.

The first part of the program featured the performances of the concert orchestra and selected instrumental soloists. Conductor Clifford Marshall of the music department had every reason to be proud of these performers, as the "experimental" concert had been his idea.

After intermission, the audience was treated to vocal solos by Mary Mays and Shirley Redford. Words escape me when I try to describe the feelings within me as I sat on the floor in the back of the theater listening to these girls "doing their thing." The caliber of each girl is something that would be pleasing to anyone who has any feelings for music.

Misses Mays and Redford teamed up for a medley from "The Sound of Music" for the finale, and it was a fitting ending to an enjoyable evening. Through their vocal mastery, I was transported over the miles to the actual European setting to actually live the music.

The next performance of this sort cannot come too soon, because it should prove to be another completely enjoyable evening.

Clean-Up Weeks Declared by Holton In Message to Citizens of Virginia

The period April 6-18, falling as it does just prior to Historic Garden Week, has been designated Clean-Up Weeks in Virginia by Gov. Linwood Holton.

Below is the text of his message to the citizens of the state:

"I solicit the support of all citizens, industries, businesses, and organizations of the Commonwealth in this state-wide crusade to rid our highways, streets, and streams of the ever-growing volume of litter. Cities, towns, and counties are urged to inaugurate vigorous clean-up campaigns in cooperation with citizen groups to preserve the natural beauty of Virginia.

"Virginia pioneered in the anti-litter movement through Keep Virginia Beautiful, Inc., and our voluntary efforts against littering has brought us national renown. Litter prevention is everybody's business, and I call upon every citizen to assume a personal feeling of pride and responsibility for the State's beauty and cleanliness.

"Clean-up Weeks in Virginia afford every an opportunity to do his part to make our state more attractive to industry and tourism, and more pleasing to all Virginians."

Holton is urging all Virginians to support the program, which precedes the April 22 "teach-in" by only 4 days.

Navy Information Team Slated

A Naval Aviation Officer Information Team from Washington, D. C. will be on campus tomorrow and Friday across from the bookstore.

They will counsel male college students on the opportunities of a commission as a Naval Aviation Officer. The Aviation Qualification Exam (approximately three hours) will be administered to interested students at their convenience. Several programs are available in Naval Aviation:

Seniors can qualify for pilot, flight officer or air intelligence officer and go on active duty after graduation. Students may inquire into these programs as early as their Junior year.

Sophomores and Juniors may apply for a summer training program (Aviation Reserve Officer Candidate) which leads to a commission and flight training upon graduation. They may inquire into these programs from freshman year to first semester junior year. Students are invited to stop by the student center building to investigate the opportunities of flying with the United States Navy.

Concert Presented Prior to State Tour

The Women's Concert Choir presented its annual home concert last Sunday in Wilson auditorium in preparation for its annual Spring concert tour which will take them to Charlottesville, Lynchburg, Roanoke, and Chatham.

Under the direction of Mr. David A. Watkins, assistant professor of voice, the 40-member choir presented a varied program of sacred and secular music designed to appeal to a wide range of tastes.

A native of Ohio, Mr. Watkins holds bachelor degrees in music and education, the M.A. in vocal pedagogy, and is currently completing his doctoral studies in music history-literature.

The choir left on its tour today.

Officers Installed By Library Frat

Linda Parks was installed as president of Alpha Alpha chapter of Alpha Beta Alpha for the coming year in ceremonies conducted by Linda Thacker, the outgoing president, prior to the spring break.

Other officers installed were Mary Margaret McComb, vice-president; Jean Gaudet, secretary; Jeanne Hall, treasurer; Brenda Green, parliamentarian, and Karen Lantz, reporter.

Alpha Beta Alpha is a national undergraduate library science fraternity which furthers the professions knowledge of its members, promotes leadership, and serves as a recruiting agency for librarians.

Demos Plan Campaign

Rockingham County Democrats held a mass meeting March 27 at the court house in Harrisonburg to hear party office-holders and seekers, and to plan strategy for the upcoming campaigns.

Attorney General Andrew Miller addressed the meeting and directed his comments to the recent session of the legislature. He also gave a call for unity within the party, a call that was echoed by other speakers.

County party chairman C. E. May of Bridgewater presented others, who included state senator George Aldhizer, George Rawlings, one of the announced candidates for Harry Byrd's senate seat, and Murat Williams, candidate for

Wide Variety of WAA Sports Names Champions of Intramural Activities

The W.A.A. has completed a number of intramural activities during the past few weeks beginning with the badminton tournament in which Debbie Davenport successfully defended her crown by defeating Joan Saunders in the finals.

Doubles honors went to Gail Royce and Bonnie Brehand who bested Patsy Jones and Vicki Foster for the title. Eighteen girls participated in the singles and doubles.

In the recently completed basketball competition, Tri Sigma went undefeated to capture the sorority league championship; Funny Farmers, Inc., a frosh team, nipped the Jolly Juniors, 24-19, for the P.E. majors crown, and also captured top honors in the open league with a 5-0 mark.

The W.A.A. also sponsored a night of roller skating in which 33 girls took part.

The next sports on the girls' agenda are softball and golf intramurals which get under way this week. Anyone interested in either sport is asked to send her name and/or name of her team to Box 566.

A hike, followed by an overnight outing at the college camp, will take place April 25.

Further information on future events sponsored by the W.A.A. will be posted in the dormitories, Keezell, the post office, and the D-Hall. They will also be announced over WMRA.

Madison's Newest Organization Centers Attention on Athletics

"Ask not what Madison athletics can do for you, ask what you can do for Madison athletics." With this thought in mind, the newest service organization, the Dukes Court, held its organizational meeting April 2 in Gibbons Hall.

James Campbell, assistant professor of history and the man who originated the idea for the Dukes Court, presided over the meeting of the board of directors prior to the election of officers. Results of those elections were: Walter Trobaugh, president; Eddie Ney, vice-president; Frank Humphreys, secretary; and Philip H. Sharpe, treasurer.

The purpose and goal of the Dukes Court is to further the growth of Madison College through the development of an athletic program which can field top-flight intercollegiate teams. It is hoped that through this endeavor Madison can gain nationwide recognition.

Following opening remarks by Campbell, Pres. G. Tyler Miller gave a brief history of the development of the coeducational status of Madison and outlined prospective growth plans. John Rader, head of men's athletics, then told board members of the growth of the athletic programs for the school and outlined the facilities of the new athletic building to be completed within the next two years or so.

Other members of the Board of Directors of Dukes Court include Hamilton Shea, Walton Wine, James H. Wheatley, Robert D. Houck, Dr. George M. Nipe, William Grow, W. J. Roche, Richard Reardon, John Paul, Wallace W. Greer, Jr., and Irvin C. Lee.

Branscum Withdraws Resignation; Basketball Camp Slated For July

Basketball coach Cleve Branscum, who was all but on his way to a new position in Florida, has reconsidered and will remain on the Madison sports scene for the coming year.

Branscum withdrew his resignation after a conference with school officials during the spring break and has resumed his quest for talent for next year's team.

"Money wasn't the prime consideration," Branscum said today, "but there were several little things we talked over." As a result, Branscum will run a basketball camp for area players in early July, and will postpone pursuit of his doctorate until 1971.

"I ran a camp in Florida for three years and it proved to be successful. I fully expect that it will go over just as big here," he said. The players will drill on fundamentals the first few days and then use them in game-type situations to see how well they've mastered them.

The Dukes were 11-9 in Branscum's first year and the entire team will return barring academic failure.

Dukes Begin Intercollegiate Baseball Season; Travel to Shepherd Tomorrow For Two Games

Bolstered by two players who competed in the tough Shenandoah Valley league, the Dukes entered their first season of inter-collegiate baseball with a double-header at Hampden-Sydney yesterday. Results will appear in the next issue of the Breeze.

Jerry Dellinger, a switch-hitting outfielder who played for New Market and Dave Snyder, who was with the Staunton Braves last season, will head the lineup as the Dukes open the season.

Coach Phil Huntsinger pared his squad to 17 this week and named Pete Corso and George Earhart co-captains. Corso is rated a fine infielder while Earhart will take up the catching duties.

"We're going to be a little weak in pitching from what I've seen so far," Huntsinger said today. "We have five potential throwers, but only Greg Lipes and Bill Bozard have shown any consistency." Both are from Richmond. Other mound candidates are Terry Board of Roanoke, Ronnie Michael of Mount Solon, and Mike Morris of Harrisonburg.

Infield prospects in addition to Corso and Snyder are Jim Franklin of New Jersey, Bill Mason of Exmore, and Mike O'Donnell of Maryland.

Competing for outfield spots in addition to Dellinger are Ken Kacmarski of West Point, Mike Mott of Maryland, Rich Pusey of Delaware, and Jim Sparling of Springfield.

The team travels to Shepherd, W. Va. for a pair of games tomorrow. The first home game will be against EMC April 21. Home games will be played at Harrisonburg High stadium.

MEN'S SWIMMING INTRAMURALS

Jackson Dormitory, led by triple winner Tom Baxter, upset the heavily favored fraternities in the 1970 edition of the men's swimming intramurals. Sigma Phi Epsilon finished second with 23 points to Jackson's 24 total points. APO's pledge class competed as a team and placed a very respectable 3rd with 21 points.

SPORTS SHORTS

The golf team defeated Bridgewater, 8 1/2-1/2, in their first match of the season. Jim Glenn shot a one over par 73 while Tom Pollard and Jack Osborne had 77's.

The tennis team behind Steve Nardi swept Bridgewater in their season opener, 9-0.

INTRAMURAL NOTES

Shorts 2nd Floor routed SPE in the finals of the men's intramural basketball championship, 40-25, and Shorts 3rd Floor defeated Phi Alpha Pi in the consolation match.

Jerry "Bo" Tutt of the state champion Luray Bulldogs is reported to be recovering nicely from serious injuries suffered in an auto accident a couple of weeks ago.

Tutt, who is already enrolled at Madison for next fall, underwent surgery for a ruptured diaphragm. He also sustained a fractured spine in the wreck which injured three other members of the unbeaten 'Dogs.

Reports persist about town that Harrisonburg all-stater Charley Thomas may enroll at Madison soon.

Thomas, the area's outstanding basketball ace, is a real blue-chip player in Cleve Branscum's book. "If we can get him to come here, we'll benefit not only in his ability, but in our attendance," Branscum said today.

Nabbing a player of his talent would give the Dukes a big boost next season when the schedule will include Hampden-Sydney and Roanoke, two of the state's tougher college teams.

The proposed visit of the Boston Celtics to Harrisonburg has hit a snag, according to Dean Henry Bowers. League rules state that no barnstorming tours can be undertaken until the playoffs are over.

Despite the fact that the Celtics missed the playoffs for only the first time in some 12 years, they are forbidden to contract for personal appearances until a champion is decided.

Dean Bowers said that if the Celtics cannot make it on the original date of April 18, efforts will be made to have them here April 25.

GM Red Auerbach told Bowers in a telephone conversation that he is confident that things will work out for one of the two dates.

Two more area basketball players have announced their intention to enroll at Madison next fall. They are Gary Leake of Central and "Butch" Strawderman of Broadway. Coach Cleve Branscum is still on the trail of the big man, however, and is confident that he will have one by the end of the week.

Though he already has 6'6" Joe Fry from Norfolk in the fold, the Duke pilot has high hopes of landing a 6'8" all-stater from West Virginia and a 7' pivotman from James River. Both will visit the campus soon.

The slap on the wrist given Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers for alleged bookmaking activities didn't do baseball's image any good. Neither did the latest move in the game of moving franchises when the Seattle owners were permitted to sell the club to Milwaukee interests.

The original mistake was in granting Seattle a franchise at all. The Pilots played their games in a rickety old park with a seating capacity of 25,000—hardly enough to pay the bills even if filled to capacity for every home game. In addition, spring weather in Seattle is atrocious.

Another veteran seems to have reached the end of the baseball trail with the release of Zoilo Versalles by the Senators. It wasn't too many seasons ago that Versalles was the classiest infielder in the game.

Madison's chances of getting Bernard "Supernard" Harris for its basketball team vanished a few days ago when the big boy signed with VCU which is also interested in Charley Thomas.

Harris at 6'9" was one of the state's few super-stars.
