Country Joe McDonald Performs at Madison

Country Joe McDonald is coming to Madison. The concert will be held in Wilson Auditorium Saturday, October 9, at 8 p.m. A local group, The Stone-maze, will also appear.

Country Joe is probably best known for the time he spent with The Fish and their song, "I Feel Like I'm Fixin' to Die Rag," preceded by the infamous Fish Cheer. For thousands of young people, he has become a symbol of the anti-war movement. That perspective has resulted in a peculiar blending of art and politics, serious and zany, which is the essence of Joe McDonald.

But in the spring of 1970, Joe made a friendly but formal break with The Fish. Since then, the group has remained dormant and Joe has embarked on a new single phase in his career, and his sixth year as a professional entertainer. In working as a single, The Los Angeles Times has said: "McDonald is a thoroughly professional performer, easily establishing an instant rapport with the audience and never looking back. His song writing reaches far beyond the usual contemporary limits of insight." That too is Joe McDonald.

Tickets for the concert are on sale in the Programming Office in the Warren Campus Center. General admission is $2.50 and reserve is $3.00. Tickets are $.50 higher for non-Madison students and are also being sold at The Body Shop and The Pizza Hut in Harrisonburg.

Complaints Handled by New Action Committee

Action Committee, the newly formed student complaint investigation body is ready to begin operation. Its duties are to receive and investigate complaints, and publish objective results of these investigations. Complaints will be collected through a network of Actionline boxes located in the main lobby of each dormitory, as well as Alumnae Hall, Wilson Hall, the Library, the Dining Hall, and the Student Center.

The committee is completely independent and will be investigating any grievances of Madison Community members. Results will be published bi-weekly. If the source of a complaint is acting to alleviate the situation, it will be known; if no action is being taken, the public will be informed. We hope to pressure these laggards into reforming their policies for the betterment of our community. President Carrier has been calling for more student input... this is our chance!

Faculty Accepts Forty-nine New Members

Due to the ever increasing student enrollment a total of 49 new members of staff and faculty have joined the ranks of the college.

New appointees in Student Services include Doctors Richard G. Strife and Jon McIntire as counseling psychologists at the Counseling Psychological Services Center. Dr. Strife received his doctorate degree from the University of Oklahoma and has served with the Oklahoma State Health Dept. Dr. McIntire received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Texas.

Mr. C. J. McMillan was appointed director of housing. Mr. McMillan received his Bachelor of Science degree from Southwestern at Memphis. He has served as a teacher and athletic coach with Memphis city school system.

Mr. J. E. McFeely will serve as assistant director of student activities. Mr. McFeely, a graduate of Dickinson College, received his Master's degree from Indiana University, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Steven Smith was named as an admission counselor. Mr. Smith, a native of Chester, Virginia, received his Bachelor's degree from Madison College.

The following are new appointments to the faculty:

School of Education Education Department

Dr. Jon Bender as Assistant Professor of Education. Dr. Bender, a native of Kentucky, received his Master of Arts in Education from Madison College and his Ed. D. from the University of Mass., at Amherst. He has served as a teacher and research assistant at the University of Mass., principal at the Linville-Edom Elementary School of Rockingham County, and as an Associate at the Center for the Study of Educational Innovation at the University of Mass. He also served as a research associate for the Network of Innovation at the University of Mass. and as a consultant to public schools in Michigan, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts.

Special Education Services Department

Dr. Lester E. Tuttle received his Ed. D. degree from the University of Florida in Personnel Services. He is a member of the American Psychological Association and the American Personnel and Guidance Association. Since 1968 he has served as an assistant professor, continuing education at Florida Atlantic University.

Dr. Raymond D. Quist is currently finishing requirements for his doctorate degree from the University of Minnesota. Since 1968 he has acted as Assistant and Associate Professor of Speech Pathology at California State College, Pennsylvania.

Students Needed for SGA Offices

According to the Constitution of the Student Government Association, the importance of maintaining a student government to coordinate activities relevant to students and the campus community is acknowledged. The students of Madison College assume the responsibility for making such an organization work.

Such a responsibility not only requires the support of the entire student body, but also its representation. THE SGA LACKS THIS TOTAL REPRESENTATION!

At the present time, the SGA is functioning with vacancies in the student senate, judicial council, and the office of treasurer. Elections must be held to fill these openings.

Also, Freshman Class Officers must be elected for the 1971-72 year.

Declarations of Intentions may be picked up at the main desk in the Campus Center, office of the SGA, or from any class parliamentarian.

Each class lacks its total representation as shown by the offices available. So run for the SGA so that others may have the opportunity to run to it.

An SGA that does not represent all the students cannot work for all the students.

Provisions Made for Better Quality Films

The National Entertainment-Board is offering the student Conference, of which Madison College is a member, has made special arrangements with Warner Brothers, Inc., to allow participating schools to rent films on a no-guarantee, perhead basis or the catalog price, whichever is less. At the present, based on a total student enrollment of over 2,000, the Campus Program Board has contracted 16 films for both semesters as a supplement to our Saturday night movies for which there is no charge. We are presently enrolled in the small Cine-group category and our rental rate is $.70 per person. The Campus Program Board thus has the following options to offer in the line of film services provided by Warner Brothers. The trend on college campuses is toward a better quality picture with a minimal charge at the door. This procedure has two definite advantages for the student. One is the availability at better, more, and flexible times to show the films, and two, if a minimal admission is requested for the purchase of tickets, additional revenue can be rechanneled into activities depending on your ideas and requests. In the beginning, the Campus Program resents these Warner Brothers films at an admission price of $.50 and will supplement the remaining $.20 per person from their present budget. Also, when the Campus Program Board contracts for a non-theatrical film they are not allowed to advertise off-campus. Therefore in order to allow only the campus community to attend the film productions, it is necessary to establish an ethical relationship with the movie industry so that the Campus Program Board may continue to provide the campus with high quality film selections. They ask that you comply with this request.

WMRA Opens New Year of Broadcasting

A one-day marathon lasting from noon Sunday, September 12, until Monday started another year of broadcasting for WMRA, 91.1 FM, the "radio voice of Madison College." The staff, headed by faculty advisor, Mr. Gerry Haskins, will broadcast from 3 p.m. until midnight Mondays through Fridays, and noon until midnight weekends. Music, news features and educational programming are offered. WMRA programs to the needs of the Madison student body to express opinions and to become involved in the campus station's activities. Send any comments or suggestions to the WMRA, Box 58, Campus Mail.

Boston Strangler Captures Audience

Sigma Phi Epsilon presented The Boston Strangler Friday night in Wilson Auditorium. The house was full, thus indicating good response on the part of many students who might otherwise have been subject to a dull night on campus.

There seemed to be a jovial mood among the crowd that attended, and gaiety continued throughout the movie until Tony Curtis came on strong. His presentation of a schizophrenic seemed to at last seal the reality of the past in the minds of the audience as the mood became more intense. However, there were those who insisted upon keeping the mood light. A few comedians, as they are known in some areas of the country, delighted the audience with screeches from beyond the windows. The campus was swamped with stranglers as soon as the movie ended, but the gals refused to be scared away.

SPE will continue to present movies as long as the response is as good as Friday night. Not only the comedians seemed to have had an enjoyable evening, but everyone present.

Semester's Entertainment Provided by Campus Program Board

To create the love of entertainment is the purpose of the Madison College Campus Program Board. This year there is something in the line of entertainment for each and every student on the campus, whether it be social, cultural, recreational or educational.

Each Saturday night there will be a feature movie--free of charge, as well as Wednesday nights for a small admission fee of $.50. (Attached is a copy of Wednesday night movies).

Other events planned for the months of September, October and November are as follows:

October 9 - Country Joe McDonald - The Stonemaze in Concert. Wilson Auditorium. Admission is $3 reserved and $2.50 general. Tickets may be purchased on campus at the Programming Office and off campus at the Pizza Hut or Boby Shop exclusively. Tickets are on sale September 24.

October 21 - Fashion Show and Homecoming Queen Judging. Clubs and organizations are asked to submit the name of the girl they are sponsoring to the Programming Office by October 12.

October 22 - "Mini" Concert. Group to be announced.

November 1-6 - The Coffee House Circuit with Edward and Harding.

November 6 - The Ides of March.

It is the intent of the Campus Program Board that all contribute an input in the programming of the campus; so if you are interested in helping with the CPB, please contact Mr. Tim McFeel, in the Programming Office, Warren Campus Center, Room 108.

The programs are for you, so we hope you will come and enjoy them. See you there.

Kiwanis Elects Conroy

Michael J. Conroy, a student at Madison College, was elected a trustee of Circle K International during the organization's 16th annual convention in Chicago this summer. Some 732 college men from campus clubs throughout the United States and Canada attended the convention to make it the second largest in Circle K's history.

Circle K International is a college men's service organization sponsored by Kiwanis International. Its members undertake the same kind of activity on the college campus that Kiwanis members perform in the adult community.

Student Sanctions Enforced by Appellate Court

Sanctions handed down by the Faculty Judiciary Council of Madison College in June, 1970, following campus demonstrations in April will be carried out, the College announced today.

The action comes in the wake of a decision by the Fourth Court of Appeals overturning a ruling by Judge Robert H. Merhige, Jr., which held the College's demonstration rules unconstitutional. Judge Merhige's ruling was reversed last month, and he was instructed to dismiss the case.

Forty-six students were notified today of the effect of the action on their status as students at Madison.

Madison President Ronald E. Carrier said that the Appellate Court ruling

Acker, Gurne, McAvoy and Impellitteri Gain Lead Roles in Virginia Woolf

Who's afraid of Virginia Woolf? Mr. Chester Jordan and four talented Madison actors are not. The production's tryouts were held last Wednesday, September 22.

A major work by Edward Albee reveals a partial satire of American social relationships presenting today's societal life in illusions, rather than reality. There are moments of striking verbal comedy and intense drama.

The role of George will be portrayed by Joe Acker and Nick will be Loren Gurne. The female leads will be Jeanne Impellitteri as Martha and the part of Honey will be played by Marilyn McAvoy. Jeanne is a senior at Madison with an impressive theatrical background. Joe, Loren, and Marilyn are all transfer students and they may add substantially to any drama productions.

Rehearsals commenced Monday, September 27.

Four or five nights a week will be allotted for these rehearsals for the first few weeks. Shortly before the performance date, practice will be nightly. The curtain will rise on two succeeding weeks -- November 11, 12, 13, also November 18, 19, and 20. The shows will be held on weekends for the convenience of students.

Other Madison students will aid with the technical side of the production. Any interested students may leave their name and college address with Mr. Jordan, Zirkle 4, or the Speech and Drama Department secretary. A technical meeting will be held in the near future.

It may be premature to make any comment about the success of this highly-lauded play. Although, Mr. Chester Jordan is quite confident about the capabilities of the actors in respect to Albee's production.

was handed down July 2, but the announcement had been delayed pending receipt of Judge Merhige's dismissal notice, which was received today.

President Carrier noted that the action of the Appellate Court affirms the right of the College to make certain regulations governing conduct of students on campus. "The penalties imposed by the Judicial Council will now be carried out," he said.

Credits earned by students who re-entered under Judge Merhige's order will not be affected.

Forty-six students received some form of sanction for their part in the demonstration in Wilson Hall in April, 1970. The sanctions ranged from suspension to letters of reprimand. Four of the students have met the requirement of their sanction. The remaining thirty-six have completed suspensions but will now be on probation if they return to Madison. Six have not fulfilled the stipulations of their sanctions which will be imposed with the effective date of the order.

Dance Instructor Joins Faculty; Directs Folk and Modern Ensemble

Among the list of new professors at Madison this year is Mrs. Jeaneen Chambers, instructor of Dance. Mrs. Chambers did her undergraduate work in Recreation Education with a dance emphasis and her masters work in Dance all at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

While at B.Y.U., Mrs. Chambers danced and performed with the Brigham Young International Folk Dancers. During that time she toured the United States and Europe extensively. She has performed many times on national television, both in the U.S. and Europe, as a part of making several movies, and has performed on stage hundreds of times.

She also performed with the drama department and danced in musical comedies while at B.Y.U.

"I think dance, especially folk dance, is the best medium in the world to bring people of any or all ethnic cultures together. Dance is the universal language and the best good ambassador in the world," believes Mrs. Chambers.

Mrs. Chambers is director of the folk ensemble of the Madison Dance Theatre. Auditions for the Theatre will be held on Wednesday, October 6, at 6 p.m. for both the modern and folk ensembles. Those interested in the modern ensemble are asked to wear clothing for free movement and those interested in the folk ensemble are asked to wear street clothes as the movements will be more suited to that form of dress. There will be a coaching session on Tuesday, October 5, from 7-8 p.m. Any one interested in auditioning may come; however, attendance of the coaching session is not a prerequisite for auditions. Men and women are needed.

BSU Adoption Program Needs Students' Help

The Saturday Adoption program will be continued again this year at Madison College. The program is sponsored by the Baptist Student Union with aid from the Student Education Association. It involves the participation of Madison students working with sixty children between the ages of five and twelve. The purpose of the program is to give children from culturally disadvantaged homes a chance to have new experiences and to be exposed to new ideas and attitudes.

The program will be operated on an every other Saturday basis between the hours of noon and 3 p.m. on the following dates first semester: October 9, October 23, November 6, November 20, December 11.

A bus provided by Project Concern will bring the children from the Harrisonburg-Rockingham County area to Duke parking lot on campus. The College has made available, use of our cafeteria to provide lunches for these children and the program handles the expense. This is designed so that the Madison Student does not have to spend money to provide entertainment and activities, but rather will be able to share himself and his time with the child.

If you are interested in working with a child on a regular basis on Saturdays, fill in an application and send it to Bonnie Vann, Box 2764. Applications are available in the post office lobby. This is an opportunity to become involved with the community and to develop a relationship with a child who can benefit by being exposed to your talents and experience. Since the program is based on personal contact and does not provide planned activities, you are able to use your interests and imagination to provide meaningful experiences for these children. The program does offer suggestions and some resources for activities. The only major planned activity is a Christmas Party sponsored by Panhellenic which was a great success last year. You are invited to join with Saturday Adoption in a sharing experience which provides growth for those who participate. If there are any suggestions or questions, contact Bonnie Vann or Peggy Pollard.

Babcock Sees Possible Student Direction . . .

Could Intramural Program Decline?

It took only eleven years for the nation's capitol to lose their most recent major league baseball franchise. The Senators are making their exodus from D. C. primarily because of a lack of organization and improper management. In the past years, the Madison College men's intramural program has been suffering from the same symptoms. How long can the men's intramural program hang on . . . ask head baseball coach, Brad Babcock, newly appointed head of this year's program.

Question:

Did you volunteer for this job or is it a specific assignment?

Coach Babcock:

When I returned to Madison this fall, I came back with two main jobs--coaching, and head of the men's intramural program. Rather than teaching classes, my work as head of intramurals is equivalent to a full load of classes. Do you realize you are to be the head of men's intramurals? Can you account for this?

In the past years, the head of intramurals was only an incidental job. Dr. Lipton, aside from a full load of classes, was also expected to head the intramural program. Last year the program was headed by a graduate student. This year I will act as full time director of the men's intramural program. I also will be able to devote more time to the program than has been done in the past.

Question:

A lack of organization has been the most serious problem in the past. Will the program be more organized this year?

Coach Babcock:

Yes. This year we are having officiating clinics prior to the season and we will continue to do so throughout the season. Aside from this, there will be open meetings to all participants in the program in order to make suggestions and to air complaints --complaints from the players concerning the officials, complaints from the players concerning the overall aspects of the program. My interest in this program is to start something now and lay a foundation we can build on.

The men's intramural program is run for the students and within three years should be run by the students. Hopefully, within be only that of an advisor.

Question:

Do you foresee any particular problems with the men's intramural program?

Coach Babcock:

Any problems that possibly arise will be cured by organization. Organization in this year's program is what will make the program a success.

Coach Babcock's final statement concerning the men's intramural program is "Intramurals can be the heart of co-curricular activity at Madison College, only if the students support it, participate in it, and help it to be a success."

So there you have it! Hopefully, a cure has been found for disorganization and improper management. The impression Coach Babcock gave this reporter was that of enthusiasm and expected success. If Babcock's attitude is a preview of the outcome of this year's program, maybe men's intramurals are here to stay at Madison. Anyway, where else would the program go? Arlington, Texas, maybe?

Dukes Linksman Play in National Tournament

In just their fourth year of Varsity play the Dukes golfers received an invitation to the National College Division Golf Tournament. Jack Osborn, Denny Fellona, Bill Lam, Tom Pollard, Jack Vandenhengel and Coach Ward Long flew to Chico, California, for the June 15-18 tournament.

Playing against 34 teams and twenty individuals the Dukes finished in a tie for 30th place.

Coach Long felt, "The two and a half weeks lay off for exams hurt the momentum that carried the team in the state tournament."

Returning lettermen from the state team include Lam, Pollard and Vandenhempel. Bob Failes, Fred Saxon and Rick Leach also return for another year on the links.

New prospects for this year's team include Mike Cummins, Va. state high school medalist from King George, D. L. Moyers from Stonewall Jackson of New Market, the state team champions, Dale Rzepnicki from Philadelphia and Bill Bletsch of Cleveland.

Ryder Chosen All-American

Bob Ryder, a Madison College junior was selected to the National Collegiate Coaches Association All-American Archery Team this summer.

Ryder passed every predetermined standard set by the Association for an All-American in the 1970-71 season. He finished second in the Men's Division and first in Mixed Teams Division of Eastern Regionals last fall, first in the Virginia Collegiate Tournament this spring and, first in the National Collegiate Archery Coaches' Tournament.

Ryder was nominated by his Madison Coach, Margaret Horne. He was named the Most Valuable Player on the Madison archery team last year.

Harriers Split Opening Meets Stop Shepherd, Fall to EMC

Madison College posted its first home victory in Cross-Country with a 22-33 (low score wins) triumph over Shepherd last Saturday. The Dukes captured five of the top seven places to score the first win under new Coach Challace Mc-Millan.

Bob Petruski of Shepherd toured the 3.9 mile course in 24:36 to grab top individual honors in the dual meet.

The Dukes used only five runners and a short-ened course to stop the Rams. Madison’s Bill Flecher, John Philips and Bill Mahone finished second, third and fourth respectively. Chris Boswell came in sixth followed by Richard Hillman in seventh place to sew up the meet for Madison.

EMC 17 - Madison 42

The Dukes bid for their second cross-country victory fell short as they bowed to Eastern Menonite College 17-42 last Saturday.

Marlin Yoder, Herb Zook and Rick Shortell captured first, second and third places respectfully for the Eagles. Yoder toured the course in 22:17 without anyone pushing him.

Johnny Phillips placed fourth for the Dukes cutting over a minute off last week’s time. Bill Fletcher and Bill Mahone finished seventh and eighth respectively.

Chris Boswell came in twelfth followed by Richard Hillman in thirtieth.

Coach Challace McMillian stated that he was pleased with the team’s performance, as everyone improved almost a minute and the Dukes were facing a completely veteran team. Results of the Lynchburg meet run today will appear in the next issue of the Breeze.

Campus Center Programs Year of Activity

The Percy H. Warren Campus Center is now beginning its first year of Fall programming. The staff at the Center comes the campus community and trusts that many enjoyable experiences will be remembered regarding the new Campus Center.

For your information the Center offers many facilities such as the Bar, Ballrooms, lounge areas, meeting rooms, Postoffice, Bank and Bookstore. Students are reminded that the Student Activities (which includes Programming and Operations) is located in the Campus Center. In addition, the offices of S.G.A., IFC, Pan-

The Campus Program Board will also be sponsoring a number of concerts this year which will be held in Wilson Auditorium. The first one is scheduled for October 9 featuring "Country Joe MacDonal" and on November 6 "The Ides of March" will be performing. Watch the newspapers and What's What for information on other activities now being planned.

This year promises to be an exciting one as the Campus Program Board seeks to provide entertainment that will hopefully meet the needs of the majority of Madison's campus community. They have scheduled a Coffee House Circuit on two occasions in September and again in November, each for a period of one (1) week. The Coffee House will provide live entertainment and a place where students will come in close, personal contact with each individual performer.

Wadsworth Mansion Performs, Concert Here Is a Flop

An audience of 130 students paid $1.50 to see a performance by Wadsworth Mansion in Wilson Hall. The concert which was on September 23 would have to be termed a flop.

To begin the fiasco, Duffy's Plantation Band was unable to attend and was replaced by a six-piece group from Nashville, Tennessee (did anyone catch their name?) Their first song, "The Boxer," was followed by a series of originals, until they reached their best number of the night, "Down by the River," written by Neil Young. The biggest gripe about this group was that their vocals could not be heard over their instrumentals. This was not the fault of the group as they were told that the sound system was adequate in Wilson Hall. Thus they did not bring their own equipment which would have helped balance their sound.

After a long, half-hour intermission, the feature group of the concert, Wadsworth Mansion, appeared. The four-man band led off with "Having Such a Good Time" and followed with a tune from their album called "Long-haired, Brown-eyed Girl." Then it happened--in the middle of the song, the power went off, leaving the group helpless. After a twenty-five minute wait and a lot of corny improvisations by the group, power was restored.

However, their next song was also interrupted by a brief power failure. Once again they started, and once again the power went off. Wadsworth Mansion was rightfully upset at this point, and the leader of the group left the stage. After urging by the audience, the leader returned and the group played their hit song, "Sweet Mary." This was the moment everyone had waited for. Near the end of the song, as you may have guessed by now, our faithful electrical system once again shut-off and this time the group left for good.

Actually, the blame for the flop lies on no one single factor. The rainy weather, the small crowd, the power failures and the two groups are all to blame. Although the school lost no money, you can bet your boots that the groups did as their pay was based upon gate receipts.

Yes, this was a night to remember, or to forget, depending upon the sense of humor you have.
