New IDs weapon in city liquor war

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
 Managing editor

Although more subtle than Charleston's recent crackdown on liquor code infractions, Eastern's move to reinstate the birthdates on student IDs is undeniably a continuation of the city's battle against underage drinking.

"We are returning to putting the birthdate on student ID cards because some city officials have requested it," Eastern President Stan Rives said Tuesday. "It will obviously be of assistance in enforcing local ordinances."

The "city officials" Rives mentioned refer to Charleston Mayor Wayne Lanman, also the local liquor commissioner, said Glenn Williams, Eastern vice president for student affairs.

Williams said the decision to print the birthdates on the IDs of all students was made about one month ago, although the policy began only within the last two weeks.

The decision was not made simply at the request of the city, though. Rives and Williams both said at least a few students have expressed inclinations to return the birthdate to the IDs.

"A couple of students have spoken to me," Rives said. "It's unusual to have an ID without a birthdate on it."

Eastern had been one of at least three major universities in Illinois, including Illinois State and Western Illinois universities, which did not print the birthdates on the IDs.

But while Eastern was not alone in its policy to keep the birthdates off the IDs, Rives also emphasized the latest change is not a new policy, but a return to an old one.

"Let me emphasize we are returning to an earlier policy, not implementing a new one," Rives said.

By the "new" policy, all students will gradually exchange their cur

Asbestos lawsuit claim may have lengthy wait

By TONY CAMPBELL

Although Eastern officials are anticipating an additional $120,000 from a lawsuit concerning asbestos removal, they aren't holding their breath.

In a recent class action suit filed by 29 state's attorney's across the nation, 26 asbestos firms have been sued for installing the fibrous substance, which has proved to be cancer-causing.

Eastern collected $29,000 Thursday from a bankrupt division of the Johns Mansville Corp., which prior to its bankruptcy five years ago, established a trust fund to help pay for the pending settlements. By the end of spring, Eastern may receive an additional $120,000 from the trust.

On Monday, Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan announced the receipt of a $1,056,446 check from Johns Mansville as part of the first settlement for 66 of 72 claims for state-owned buildings.

Once litigated, the 66 claims will total more than $3 million. All money received from the claims is deposited into an Asbestos Abatement Fund, from which state-owned agencies, including Eastern, will draw.

Hartigan Press Secretary Ernie Slottag said the class action suit will take time to work through the courts. "This may take a little while," Slottag said. "You have to wait for the sides to go back and forth."

Slottag said he could not give an estimated time for the completion of the claims.

"I'm sure they will fight it hard," added Richard Pyles, assistant to Eastern's vice president for administration and finance. "They (the named firms) are going to fight it all they can. They don't want any sort of precedence set that could hurt them."

Pyles said another problem is a legal question as to whether the other suits filed against Mansville Corp. were filed before the statute of limitations expired.

Also, many states are faced with the burden of connecting the manufacturer with the substance. "I think it will be a long time," Pyles said. "There are a lot of problems with identifying the substance with the manufacturer."

Many of the states also named in the suit are having difficulty establishing which firm is responsible for putting the asbestos in the structures.

"The identification is difficult to do," Pyles said. "Some of the manufacturers are hiding behind the idea (that finding the responsible party is impossible)."

Although the settlement is not expected in the near future, Pyles is confident Eastern will receive more reimbursement funds to help cover the $4 million Eastern has spent on asbestos removal. But, he is not sure if the total $120,000 requested will be received.

Pyles said Eastern files a claim for funds from the John Mansville Corp. fund every six months and receives a market share percentage of the claim. "We may get 12 1/2 percent, but even that is paid over a period of years," he said.

Mother's awaits citation decision

By BOB McKEE
 City editor

Charleston Police are still piecing together information as to whether a citation will be issued to Mother's, 506 Monroe Ave., for selling alcohol to minors last week, when it is facing a suspension next week for a similar violation.

Mayor Wayne Lanman said Tuesday the matter is "still under investigation" and the decision will not be finalized for probably another two weeks.

In an unrelated incident, Mother's will serve a one-week suspension April 16-23 for serving alcohol to minors after its owner, Village Six Inc., pleaded guilty to the charge at a March 22 liquor hearing. On March 9, the bar was charged with serving alcohol to a minor after bartender Jill Holloway, 21, served an underage police source during an undercover police investigation.

Holloway was also charged with serving alcohol to a minor and pleaded guilty to that charge at a March 23 initial appearance. She was fined $250.

The most recent incident under investigation occurred Thursday when Mother's bartender, Eastern junior Kathy L. Funderburg, 21, 950 Taft Ave., allegedly served two minors.

The minors, freshman Rebecca Giglio, 19, and sophomore Kristine Zielbauer, 20, both of 380 Taylor

One candidate finds a reality check

By TONY CAMPBELL
 Senior reporter

While Student Senate candidate Brian Moushon presented what he believes is "reality" about the senate at Tuesday's open forum, his speech had little "impact" on the small audience of students.

Moushon was one of 19 candidates to speak at the open forum and present their views on campus-related issues. But while most of the candidates remained on neutral ground on the issues, Moushon and Student Senate Speaker Brett Gerber's platforms seemed to present the most conflicting views of the issues.

Moushon, the sole representative of the Reality Party, presented some harsh words describing what he called a lack of "responsible awareness" among the members of the senate, to a group of about 20 students. The Impact Party, which has 17 members seeking senate seats, drew the most support from the small crowd, a majority of which wore Impact Party buttons.

The open forum gave candidates bidding for a senate seat a chance to present their views on issues concerning the campus.

"I feel that students must face the reality that student government doesn't serve the students to its best ability in its current form," Moushon said. "I don't feel they represent the views and needs of the student body."

Moushon, a former senate member who is seeking a seat for the '90 term, said the issues addressed by the senate during the current term were meaningless. "McDonald's signs are not an important issue, and neither are softball games," he said, referring to the debate over whether McDonald's signs should be present on campus and a recent RHA/Student Senate softball game.

"They are too busy going to conferences and having fun," he added.

"We just played softball on Sunday afternoon on our leisure time and it was just to get to know RHA a little better," Gerber responded. "And as far as rent IDs for new ones which have the birthdates on them.

And while replacements normally cost the student about $5 each, the university will incur the costs for the change - about $3 to $4 each in materials and production, Williams said.

"Students would not be charged for that of course because the change is at the behest of the university," Williams said.

He added university officials would like to have every student's IDs replaced by the beginning of the fall semester, although that may be impossible.

"It's like becoming a millionaire: I'd like to do that as soon as I can," Williams said. "Realism tells me I'm not going to make that (fall semester). It's a very large goal."

James Johnson, assistant dean of student personnel services, will make a public announcement concerning the ID change, Williams said.

Students will be able to come in on a voluntary basis to get a new ID. Williams did not anticipate a penalty for not complying with the policy, although he said the university would strongly advise students to come in.

Student requests to keep birthdates off the ID will be considered on a case-by-case basis, Williams said, although he foresees no problems and said students have reacted favorably to the change.

Hall, were arrested by Charleston Police during a routine vehicle stop, Police Chief Herb Steidinger said. During the stop, the two women allegedly told the officer which establishment and which bartender had served them the alcohol.

Funderburg, who has been charged with selling alcohol to a minor, and Giglio and Zielbauer, who have been charged with the acceptance of alcohol by a minor, will make their initial appearances at 9 a.m. April 20 at the Coles County Circuit Court.

Concerning the suspension of Charleston bars, Steidinger said in actuality, the 11 establishments which received the one-week suspensions do not possess a liquor license during the period. "They can't dispense alcohol during the suspensions," Steidinger said.

However, there are different types of liquor license classifications, Steidinger said, which allow different types of sales. For instance, if a license allows a restaurant to normally sell food, they may still be open for business during the suspension period.

Beginning Monday, six Charleston bars will go on suspension as a result of the March 9 undercover police investigation.

being fun, I hope that it would be fun."

Moushon also criticized the fact that the five senate executives and two secretaries are paid $3.85 for 48 hours a month - about $11,500 of student fee funds per year. "I think you should do it (hold an executive position) because you want to, not because you get paid for it."

But Gerber said the executive officers should be paid. "If you look at other universities, we're at the lower end of the spectrum," he said. "We give something to the university and they give something back."

Gerber said eventually a tuition waiver might come into effect, which would reduce the student's tuition instead of providing a monthly check.

Moushon added he would support a write-in candidate for student body president, but refused to give the name of the candidate.

Moushon said he believed the senate's $24,000 budget is too high. "Think of all the things the money could be used for, there could be (money) used for UB programming," he said. "It could open up a lot more opportunities."

Once again Gerber had an opposite view, stating he believes the budget is too low. "I wish we had much more," he said. "We are the second-lowest funded organization."

"That's irrelevant," Moushon said. "Both of the elections only had one party and they haven't done a lot, except to go to conferences and have fun."

Only five candidates did not speak at the open forum. They were Jara Black, independent candidate in the at-large district; Tom Puch and Gina Marshall, Impact Party candidates in the at-large district; Kenny Wake, Impact Party candidate for financial vice president; and John Burchfield, an independent candidate for the Board of Governors seat who has reportedly withdrawn his candidacy.

Rives hears faculty 'to-dos'

By SUSAN THOMAS
Administration editor

Following up on his recent State of the University report, Eastern President Stan Rives began making rounds at Tuesday's Faculty Senate meeting to hear the individual concerns of faculty and staff members.

Senate members met with Rives to express concerns regarding his March 20 address in which he placed a high priority on securing appropriations, the continuation of the two-year tax surcharge and the approval of the new integrated core general education requirements.

However, not all faculty senate members shared Rives' concerns.

"The big concern was with the allocation of funds between the vice presidential areas," said Chair Anthony Schaeffer.

Other concerns were expressed regarding the Study of Undergraduate Education Report. However, Rives said any questions should be directed to Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs.

Although the president's meeting with the senate went over the estimated time, the agenda proceeded with discussion of the election return problems.

"The ballots were supposed to have gone out over spring break," Schaeffer said. The ballots should be returned to Al DiChiara in the Sociology department by Friday.

Survey targets Union signs

By STACEY DUNN
Staff writer

A campus beautification committee proposed by student government may still officially blossom.

During a January meeting, Student Senate member Tom Puch proposed a beautification committee which would oversee the appearance of Eastern's campus and aid in its general upkeep. The proposal was passed in an unopposed vote.

But since then, no correspondence regarding the committee has occurred between Eastern's administration and senate.

On Tuesday, Senate Speaker Brett Gerber said some spring cleaning will consist of a written memo to Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams explaining senate's proposal.

Williams, who has the authority to officially recognize such groups, confirmed that he had not yet heard of the committee.

"If formed, the proposed committee would consist of approximately eight members - two administration, two faculty, two alumni and two students," Puch said.

While the committee is not an official entity, a survey question placed in the February issue of Senate State may be considered its first action.

The question pertained to the McDonald's signs which appear on the east and west walls of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The survey question, "Do you think the neon McDonald's sign should be removed from the outside of the union?" showed Eastern students apparently are overwhelmingly in favor of leaving the signs up.

Three percent of the students wanted the signs removed and 97 percent said they did not.

"I'm surprised," said Martha Price, a senate member. "I thought more people would want it removed."

Nevertheless, Puch said he believes the appearance of Eastern's campus is important and can directly add or detract to the overall atmosphere at Eastern.

Puch said committee members would hopefully come together once a month in the fall to discuss concerns about overall campus appearance.

"Two main concerns are the poor conditions of the University's sidewalks and the neon McDonald's sign," he said.

Tuition hike talks prompt student rally

By ANITA MAIELLA
Staff writer

The Student Senate will discuss plans for a student protest against a possible tuition increase for the 1991-92 academic year when it meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Arcola-Tuscola Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

A possible tuition increase is looming on the horizon as a 2.4 percent budget increase recommendation from Gov. James Thompson for the Illinois Board of Higher Education faces additional cuts in the General Assembly this spring.

Thompson's recommendation is already $90 million below what the IBHE originally requested. If approved, it would provide $52.5 million in funding for Eastern in FY '91, a 3.9 percent increase over FY '90.

But several state legislators have already balked at Thompson's recommendation, citing a lack of state dollars to support it. Legislators have also opposed a series of tax increases Thompson recommended to help compensate for the inadequate appropriation.

That may leave educators with only one choice - raise tuition.

In the past decade, tuition at Eastern has risen from $510 to $1,572.

"The students once again have to pay for the inaccountability of the state," Student Body President Patty Kennedy said Tuesday. She added it is imperative for the students to get involved because one organization can not make a large statement.

The senate will seek permission from Eastern's administration to have the protest at 3 p.m. April 25 in front of Old Main.

"We will definitely have a rally," Kennedy said. "If it is not in front of Old Main, it will be on the Library Quad."

"I think the possible tuition increase is disappointing," Senate Speaker Brett Gerber added. "Students need to come together and stand up for themselves."

Gerber said the protest will involve student organizations, faculty and students.

Coal project studied by Eastern

By PHILLIP LAIRD
Staff writer

Central and Southern Illinois could be economic winners if a coal degasification project being studied by Eastern and other state agencies proves to be more cost-efficient than previous methods.

David Buchanan, professor of chemistry at Eastern and director of Eastern's part in the desulfurization project, explained that the project is a joint effort carried out by the Illinois State Geologic Survey located on the campuses of University of Illinois-Champaign and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The desulfurization project is aimed at eliminating air pollution and decreasing the problems associated with acid rain. Acid rain occurs when sulphur dioxide enters the atmosphere and returns to earth during rain storms. One of the leading causes of acid rain is emissions from power plants which burn coal containing high concentrations of sulphur.

Buchanan said his part of the project is to study the burning efficiency of the actual coal before and after desulfurization takes place. "All our tests so far tell us power plants can burn the converted coal in the conventional manner," he said.

The Illinois State Geologic Survey recently paid the second installment of a $15,000 grant to Eastern for its participation in the pilot project. Buchanan will be assisted by Eastern students and graduate assistants in his project.

Eastern geology professor Robert Jorstad said the project could have an immediate economic impact on Southern Illinois because most high-sulphur coal is mined in that portion of the state. But Buchanan added that the entire state would gain economically if the process is proven cost efficient.

"The sulfur is removed from coal by heating the coal to high temperatures and passing a reactive gas over the heated mineral," Buchanan explained.

He said this causes a new catalyst to build inside the coal that eventually helps change the sulfur into a gaseous state.

"That's achieved by passing ethanol (grain alcohol) over the hot coal," Buchanan said. "The new catalyst reacts with the ethanol convert the sulphur to it gaseous state."

Buchanan explained the process would help the entire state because the ethanol can be made from Illinois corn grown in Coles County and other central Illinois counties.

Al DiChiara listens as Rob Schofield presents his opinions during the panel discussion, "Bush's War on Drugs and Civil Liberties" at Tuesday night in the Charleston-Mattoon room of the University Union.

Panel: Civil liberties the target of drug war

By LIBBY SHAWGO
Staff writer

The war on drugs is really a war against civil liberties, said Rob Schofield, legislative director for the Illinois Division of the American Civil Liberties Union, at Tuesday's panel discussion entitled "Bush's War on Drugs and Civil Liberties."

Schofield, Al DiChiara, instructor of sociology, and Dan Hagen, of Mid-Illinois Newspaper, Inc., the three panelists at the 7:30 p.m. discussion in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union, agreed mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Two of the panel members, Schofield and Hagen, told the crowd of approximately 30 students and faculty members that the testing is also a governmental attempt at intimidation.

"You cannot coerce people into taking care of their health," DiChiara said.

Even though the three panelists had slightly different views on the United State's handling of the drug problem, each did agree President George Bush's approach to the problem is not the best.

The current drug policy has been in effect for 70 years,

DiChiara said, and it has not worked yet.

One of the means discussed by the panel included the legalization of drugs - an option all three panelists saw as a possible solution.

By legalizing drugs, especially marijuana, the panelists believe drug usage can be lessened. Cracking down on drugs will only contribute to the use of different and possibly more potent substances, Hagen added.

Another topic of discussion focused on such media scare tactics as a commercial which compares a brain to a fried egg.

Burchfield drops out of race for BOG rep

By ANN GILL
Staff writer

Eastern junior John Burchfield dropped out of the race for Board of Governors Representative Tuesday, leaving Student Senate Speaker Brett Gerber unchallenged for the position.

With Burchfield's withdrawal, none of the senate executive office races will have opposition in the April 18 student government election.

Burchfield announced his withdrawal in a telephone interview Tuesday morning and was unavailable for additional comment.

His withdrawal also means that members of the newly formed

Impact Party will likely hold all four senate executive positions and a majority of the senate seats.

"It's sad (Burchfield's withdrawal from the election). It does not benefit the students," Gerber said when told of Burchfield's decline.

The Impact Party, which was formed from a "collaboration of ideas," by organizers Gerber, Martha Price, Ken Wake, Kristy Koch, and Dan Riordan, now only faces members of the opposition in the residence hall, at-large and off-campus district.

In addition to the 17 Impact Party candidates, six independents will run for student government positions.

The Reality Party, the only other party in the spring election, is comprised of Eastern junior Brian Moushon, its founder and sole member.

Moushon said he wants to "to bring reality to student government." A former senate member, Moushon said he feels as if the senate members do not work for the majority of Eastern's students. "If we're (student senate members) going to do things on campus, they have to be done for all students, not just a select group."

In the Residence Hall District, Moushon and an independent, senior Gregg Smith, will challenge Impact Party members Jill Pfeiffer, Blake Wood and Dana Wulff.

Eastern's Residence Hall Association has endorsed Gregg Smith in the spring election. "I am the best candidate for the position," Smith said Tuesday.

In the At-Large District, independents D.A. Molloy, Jara Black and Matt O'Brien will run against Impact Party candidates Libby Jeffers, Jen Jacobs, Kristy Koch and Amy Smith.

Eastern's drive for quality starts in parking lot

Again with the parking.

There isn't enough available parking near buildings. You park in Indiana and hike to class.

And now to assure everyone, again, that he too is worried about the situation, President Stan Rives has, again, expressed a desire for improving parking.

He said that as they built Greek Court.

He says that as they construct a new business building.

Editorial

He says that as preparation for the rec center construction continues.

He said that as they built the Burl Ives Art Studio.

Eastern should just do something. Eastern should immediately designate more handicapped parking. Take the necessary spaces from other faculty and other student parking lots. Then just make any necessary accommodations. Sure it's going to cost some money but Eastern doesn't have to make back its money on everything it does.

With the building of the new business building Eastern lost a prime opportunity to provide adequate handicapped parking in the center of campus. Of course it's too late now.

And of course, there isn't much money in handicapped parking, like there is in Greek Court and the Rec Center. (It is more important than a rec center, which chews up more parking spots.) It's not much of a recruitment tool either. It doesn't make for high profile PR. It's not very appealing. And for sure it isn't something that Eastern can pass the buck on.

It's just something Eastern really needs.

Creating more handicapped parking can be done relatively quickly. It won't help the other parking problems but it would solve one.

Before Eastern builds anymore, it should consider fixing what it already has. After all, Rives stated on his "to do" list that Eastern should build quality into everything this University does - do it well or don't do it.

Well Rives, just do it.

Picking a cause may be hardest part

Feeling pressured lately?

You know, the sensation that in addition to attending all your classes, accomplishing your work activities and perfecting seamless commercial edits in your "Simpsons" video catalog, you're being asked to ... care.

In one sense, the pressure isn't that great because you can care about a number of things - like, for example, the environment, our most trendy cause.

Or one could display an interest in the plight of American farmers, also a recent headline grabber. You could also champion the human rights held by prisoners of conscience in faraway lands.

Closer to home, a real go-getter might try to keep low-level radioactive waste out of a small rural community just 30 miles southeast of Charleston. And there's always the homeless to care for.

But seriously, can we really be asked to care about all of the things mentioned above?

In the post-Reagan era, it's easy to be a bit callous about the whole thing. After all, how many Eastern students know a prisoner of conscience who used to be a farmer now being held by homeless captors near Martinsville, which is having a hard time dealing with global warming on top of all its other problems.

I'm not going to attempt to tell anyone that one of these things is more worthy of care than another. But I do believe it is time to re-evaluate the status of the cause, whichever cause that may be.

Let's say you're president of an Amnesty International chapter at a mid-sized public university in rural America. Admittedly, your membership figures aren't staggering, but every effort counts during letter-writing campaigns aimed at governments which are blatant human rights violators.

Sara Crerar, a sophomore political science major at Eastern, is president of such an Amnesty International chapter which was, at one time, encouraged by the prospects of "Freedom Fest."

David Lindquist

"Freedom Fest" was a couldn't-miss fundraiser which was scheduled to feature two bands performing at a local bar, with virtually all proceeds going to the chapter.

POP QUIZ: The two key words in the previous sentence were:

a) couldn't miss b) was scheduled c) local bar d) all of the above

Yes, as fate would have it, several local bars were targeted (successfully) by a police investigation the week before. Consequently, Crerar was told by her "Freedom Fest" bar owner it wouldn't be a bad idea to hold the fundraiser elsewhere because he would be carding 21 at the door if the event was held as scheduled.

In the interest of larger gate receipts, Crerar and Amnesty took the bar owners advice and "Freedom Fest" was held on March 18 at the Sigma Pi Hut - a fraternity pavilion located in a very residential area unaccustomed to the melodious strains of Weird Harold and 16 Tons.

Well, one thing led to another, and Charleston Police responded twice to disturbance of the peace complaints filed by a local resident. Crerar's couldn't-miss fundraiser degenerated into a "circus" in her words, with many of the 300 in attendance paying no money for entertainment or beer.

To worsen matters, Crerar was arrested on the disturbance of peace charges and has a May 14 jury trial date in Coles County Circuit Court.

One may wonder if Crerar has been re-evaluating the status of her cause, perhaps weighing the hassle of "Freedom Fest" against any potential good her organization can achieve. Perhaps she has, but I'm sure her conviction to Amnesty International has not wavered for obvious reasons.

As stated earlier, I'm not going to attempt to tell anyone that one cause - like prisoners of conscience - is more worthy of care than another. I would suggest, however, that the status of all causes could use a boost.

You can even make it easy on yourself. Since Earth Day One 20 years ago, the number of U.S. environmental organizations has risen from 976 to 18,000. Your "Simpsons" video catalog can wait.

- David Lindquist is editor in chief and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Your turn

Look at positive as well as negative

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to an article that I read in a large national news publication. The article stated several negative points about the Greek system. I am not a member of the Greek system, however I feel that the Greek system at Eastern has many positive points. An example of this is the recent Miss Lincoln Trail pageant held in the Grand Ballroom. I think that it reflects positively to have something as prestigious as a preliminary competition to the Miss America pageant held at EIU. I am also aware that fraternities and sororities help the community by aiding the disabled and the elderly as well as organizing many other service projects. As with any organization there may be downfalls, but I feel that people need to weigh the positive qualities as well.

Michael Walker

Everybody should obey state law

Dear Editor:
I feel that the Charleston Liquor Advisory Board is unnecessary. The legal drinking age is 21 and that is it. Very few students under 21 go to bars to socialize, they go drink.
If there is a result of more "house parties," then bust them. In Effingham, if a party is raided by the police, the beer and other liquor is taken away. It's not a question of whether you want to drink if you're underage. The Illinois state law says you cannot!

Columns should be restricted to less than three typewritten double-spaced pages.

Guest columns normally appear every Thursday and will be published on the discretion of the editorial page editor and the editor in chief.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News encourages letter to the editor concerning any local, state, national or international issues.

Letters should be contained to less than 350 words.

In order for the letter to be printed, the name of the author, in addition to the author's address and telephone number, must be included.

Anonymous letters will not be printed.

If a letter had more than three authors, only the names of the first three authors will be printed.

South Quad halls offer Lip Sync

By ERIKA SMITH
Staff writer

The faces and names may be unknown, but the voices and songs probably will strike a chord of familiarity during the South Quad Lip Sync contest on April 19.

A variety of styles will be heard at the contest, but Lisa Gerke, a resident assistant at Andrews Hall, said "most of it will be dance music."

All four South Quad halls —

Andrews, Thomas, Taylor and Lawson — are contributing money to fund this event, said Jeanne Pranger, an Andrews Hall resident assistant.

Only residents from these halls are able to participate, but Pranger said "everyone on campus" is encouraged to attend.

Entry forms can be picked up at the front desk of each participating hall. Students may return applications to the desk no later than Friday.

Ten groups can be entered into the contest with each group featuring a maximum of six people.

The prize for the winner is a T-shirt with the logo of the contest for each member of the group.

Judges will be chosen from various student organizations around campus, such as Residence Hall Association, BACHUS, and ROTC.

"By doing this, we will get more groups involved in the event," Pranger said.

Between singing acts, each resident assistant staff will provide a commercial lasting about a minute for added entertainment. The staffs may either make up products or mock actual products during their commercials, Gerke said.

"The turnout should be good because it's located outside and the music will attract student attention," Gerke said.

No rain date has been scheduled because of the short amount of time remaining in the semester.

Showcase to emphasize drug abuse prevention

By LORI HIGGINS
Campus editor

The Central East Alcoholism and Drug Council (CEAD), along with Illinois Networking to Organize the Understanding of Community Health (In-Touch) and Regional Superintendent Rosemary Shephard, are combining their efforts to present the fourth annual "Prevention Showcase."

The showcase, to begin with registration at 8 a.m. Wednesday in the University and Grand ballrooms of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union, will feature Tom Jadin, associate director of Winnebago Mental Health Institute, as its keynote speaker.

Jadin, who is also director of alcohol and other drug abuse substances and the director of quality assurance, education and employee assistance programs, will present "What's So Bad About Feeling Good."

"I imagine he'll address what's so bad about liking yourself, being drug-free and not succumbing to peer pressure," CEAD representative Ann Sutton said.

"His speech will go along with the idea of how it used to be cool to use drugs," Sutton added.

Along with Jadin as keynote speaker, the program also will feature hourly sessions, Sutton said.

"All participants can choose a different session," Sutton said, adding four different speakers will rotate through the different sessions.

Jadin's speech will begin at 8:45 a.m., Sutton said, with the time between 8 and 8:45 a.m. devoted to walk-in registration. "We will take walk-in people," she added.

Sutton said approximately 300 area teachers, students and social workers are expected to attend the event.

A $15 registration fee for adults and a $10 registration fee for students will be charged, Sutton said. That fee includes lunch.

The program coordinators for the event are Kirby Davis, coordinator of In-Touch and Janna Scott, assistant coordinator of In-Touch.

Poet interests crowd with poem readings

By LAURA DURNELL
Staff writer

Published poet and fiction writer Gary Gilder read selections of poems from his book of poetry "Blue Like the Heavens: New and Selected Poems," and selections from his memoirs, "The Warsaw Sparks," Tuesday at Eastern's Tarble Arts Center, as a guest reader for the Allen Neff Memorial Poetry Reading.

"Gilder was picked because I think he is a fine poet and a quality writer," said Eastern English Professor Bruce Guernsey. "Many people are pleased to hear someone who does such fine work."

Gilder began the reading to an audience of about 50 people by reciting a poem titled "First Practice," recalling the first day he and other members of his elementary school's football team met to get physicals and begin football practice.

"I went to a Catholic school in Flint, Mich., that was just recently constructed," Gilder said when introducing the poem. "There weren't many activities and the first activity introduced was a football team."

"We met for our first practice in the school's bomb shelter where we recieved our physical," Gilder said. "I always tried to write this as a short story, but it was always too long so a poem developed from it."

Gilder got many laughs from the audience as he went on to read passages and poems from his memoirs of coaching a baseball team while he lived in Warsaw, Poland. Among the other poems Gilder read were titled "String" and "Ravens."

Panel plans homosexuality talk

By RORY STOLLER
Staff writer

Eastern's Gay/Lesbian Support Group will present a panel discussion on homosexuality in Taylor Hall at 7 p.m. Wednesday night.

Taylor Hall is sponsoring the discussion because "area people aren't really educated (about homosexuals)," according to Mary Wilson, a Taylor Hall resident assistant.

Realizing that the topic is quite controversial, she conceded that "people aren't really willing to learn about it (homosexuality) either."

The panel will consist of two men and four women, according to Tami Domescik, one of the panelists.

Domescik said the group is attempting to "break stereotypes about homosexuals. Hopefully we will be able to inform the audience that we're people just like heterosexuals. We didn't choose to be this way. We're out there, and we do exist."

Shuttle launch delayed at last minute

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - A runaway power plant on the space shuttle Discovery forced NASA to scrub its launch Tuesday with the Hubble Space Telescope, and officials said it will be a week or two before they try again.

The countdown was down to the four-minutes-to-go mark when sensors detected that one of three auxiliary power units was running too fast. Computers halted the launch process.

"A valve which failed to respond let too much fuel go into the unit which caused an overspeed condition," said Bob Sieck, the Kennedy Space Center's launch director. The APUs pressurize the shuttle's hydraulic system, which is used to move wing and rudder surfaces and in the ship's braking and steering systems.

Astronomers who had gathered for the big event were philosophical about the latest delay in getting the $1.5 billion telescope into orbit.

"The universe has been around for a long time, it will stay around for a couple more days," said John Holtzman, of the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz.

The countdown had gone without a hitch until shuttle commander

Loren Shriver flipped a switch to start the three APUs, and one ran erratically.

NASA rules forbid a liftoff unless all three units operate perfectly.

"We call it quits here," Sieck told the astronauts and his flight controllers.

The huge external fuel tank was drained of its half-million gallons of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen. Each scrub costs $377,000 in lost fuel and each day's delay means $247,000 in labor and materials, not including the other NASA centers supporting the mission.

The power unit will have to be removed from Discovery while the shuttle is in upright launch position. In addition, technicians will either have to remove the telescope's batteries and recharge them elsewhere, or run equipment out to the pad to charge them aboard the ship.

Men close gap with women in population

WASHINGTON - Men are catching up, at least in number. The Census Bureau said Tuesday that the number of men grew faster than the number of women in the '80s, something that hasn't happened since the first decade of this century.

Death rates for men decline more rapidly than for women, extending male lifespans and allowing their population to increase more rapidly than women, the new study disclosed.

Cancer deaths increased among women while dropping for men, pointing to increased smoking by women beginning in the 1960s as a likely factor in the change, Census expert said.

"The male population outgrew the female population in every age group under age 85," Frederick Hollmann of the Census Bureau reported.

From 1980 to 1989, the number of men in the nation increased by 10,557,000, while the female population grew 10,448,000, the Bureau reported.

Even so, women continue to outnumber men in America, 127 million to 121 million, the report showed.

The last decade in which the number of men increased faster than women was 1900-1910, the Census Bureau noted.

The balance of population is determined not only by the number of people born but by the number of years they remain alive, explained Hollmann in a telephone interview.

Gorbachev backs off on tough demands

MOSCOW (AP) - One day after issuing a harsh new warning to Lithuanian separatists, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev backed off the tough line Tuesday by declaring he does not yet see a need to impose presidential rule.

Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis, responding to the severe tone of Monday's declaration by the Kremlin, sent a telegram to Gorbachev saying he feared that "ultra-rightist imperial forces are compelling you to take a wrong step: to continue the wrongs of the 1940s in the Baltics." Landsbergis wrote "In the name of peace, justice and concord on earth, do not do this."

He was referring to the Soviet occupation and forced annexation of the three Baltic republics - Lithuania, Estonia, and Latvia - in 1940.

Since March 11, when Lithuania declared its independence restored, the Kremlin has repeatedly alternated between threatening and conciliatory tones. On several occasions, threatening military movements were followed by kinder words.

Speaking at a Young Communist League congress in Moscow, Gorbachev said Tuesday that presidential rule would be used only as an extreme measure during a civil conflict, according to the official Tass news agency. He said Soviet leaders are still trying to persuade Lithuanians to rescind their declaration of independence.

Loss of auditors may cost the IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Internal Revenue Service may have lost $6.5 billion in taxes by taking senior auditors off cases to train new workers, congressional analysts say.

A report by the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, estimated that in cases it had checked the government lost more than $1 million in taxes for each new worker who completed a 26-month training course under the tutelage of senior auditors.

"It is clear that the use of experienced revenue agents to train new agents carries a significant cost in terms of unrealized audit revenues," the General Accounting Office said in its report. "It is essential that IRS explore alternatives to its present training program." The IRS had reached much the same conclusion in its own survey of training procedures, although the agency found a lower revenue loss than did the GAO. However, the IRS is concerned enough about the loss that is planning to hire private contractors to conduct some training in the budget year that will begin Oct. 1.

Ellen Murphy, IRS director of public affairs, said Tuesday that the GAO finding has no relevance over the last two years because the IRS has been under a hiring freeze.

"When we resume hiring new people, we will be doing a lot more of on-line training - reserving intensive classroom training for contractors - ... and having trainees go with experienced auditors to see how the job should be done," she said.

23 candidates gearing for April 18 Senate elections

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

VOTE

ELECTION • APRIL 18

Student Body President

DAN RIORDAN

Junior business education major Dan Riordan said that if elected, one of his main concerns will be informing Eastern students about open positions on Eastern boards and councils.

"I want to have more people apply than positions open," he said.

"Students should receive them because they deserve it, not because there weren't enough people to fill the positions."

Riordan, of the Impact Party, is also interested in creating another executive position, "taking senate secretary and expand the name and job and use that position for public relations.

Executive Vice President

MARTHA PRICE

Home economics education major Martha Price said she was encouraged to become an active member of Senate by Mike Riordan, former student body president.

"He said it was an important job and an honorable thing to represent your constituents," Price said.

Price, a sophomore involved in senate activities since her freshman year, said, "I would like to see more students vote in all elections. It is unfortunate - we are at an institution of higher learning and students don't take the time to exercise their right to vote.

"An increase in voter turnout would be great for student government and the university," Price said.

Price also is interested in starting a freshman orientation program at Eastern.

Financial Vice President

KEN WAKE

Ken Wake, an Impact party member, said he became interested in Student Senate through the party's co-founder Roger Thomson, a former Eastern student.

If elected, Wake said he would try to keep Apportionment Board run the same way Tom Jewison (a senate executive and the current AB chair) did."

"I wouldn't make any drastic changes," he added.

Wake, a junior economics major, also believes his experience from being a member of senate provides him with a better understanding of how to best represent students.

BOG Representative

BRETT GERBER

Impact party member Brett Gerber said he is running for the position of Board of Governors Representative to ensure the students' voices are heard.

A sophomore political science major and member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity, Gerber said he believes it is extremely important "the student's voice is heard."

Self-described as "a person who is not afraid to speak my mind," Gerber said he feels he can offer Eastern students the experience and leadership qualities he has gained through his current position as the senate speaker.

Gerber added one of his main concerns and an issue for the spring election is "preventing tuition increases."

AT LARGE DISTRICT (6 1/2 open seats)

LIBBY JEFFERS

Libby Jeffers, a freshman Impact party member, said she would like to see athletic trainers receive more compensation for their work.

Jeffers added that she has been interested in student government since high school when she was one of two candidates chosen to attend a Presidential Classroom which allowed her to learn from Illinois leaders such as Sen. Paul Simon, D-Illinois.

D.A. MOLLOY

Freshman pre-business major D.A. Molloy said he is running for the at-large district because he is very hard working, motivated to do the job and has a good attitude.

Molloy said he will try to make

Eastern a "more prestigious school" and a "better place to be."

Molloy added being a member of Sigma Pi fraternity committees during pledging and after activation helped make his leadership abilities stronger.

KRISTY KOCH

Sophomore Kristy Koch said her interest in Student Senate began in the January of last year when she was encouraged by senate members to become involved.

A senator of the residence hall district, Koch said, "If I am re-elected I would like to get more (voter) participation through voter registration drives.

"With my past involvement as Housing Committee chair and head of the constitution revision committee, I will be able to target issues that will help students," she added.

Koch, a sophomore political science major with a history minor, is also a member of the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority.

ROB CALLIS

Rob Callis said that he feels there are a lot of old issues and concerns that need to be dealt with.

"I feel the issues that face senate now can hinder senate's progress in the future if not dealt with properly," Callis said. "I sometimes feel students aren't aware that student senate is there to help them."

Through working with the senate and having served on various boards and committees, Callis said, "I feel that I have a working knowledge of the university that will benefit all students."

AMY SMITH

Freshman sociology major Amy Smith said she wants to educate students on what Student Government is and how the group works to benefit all students.

"I would like to rewrite the student government pamphlet that is given to students at the beginning of the year so they are aware of all it can do for them," Smith said.

It is important students know who their representatives are so they can talk to them about changes they believe need to be made, Smith added.

Smith said she also is interested in keeping Charleston's bar-entry age at 19.

"I am outgoing and would like to be involved and see people get what they want," Smith said.

JEN JACOBS

Sophomore elementary education major Jen Jacobs said that she became interested in student government because she was concerned about her fellow students.

"I want to keep students informed and decrease the apathy students feel on this campus, and let them know they have a say," Jacobs said.

Jacobs, an Impact party member, also added that she would like to see a "dead" week started where teachers cannot have tests, quizzes or papers due one week before final examinations.

JARA BLACK

Sophomore economics major Jara Black, an independent, does not believe having a party affiliation is an important factor in this election.

Black explained she is running for a seat in the at-large district because she feels it "is a good way to get involved with Eastern's campus."

"Since I am a transfer student from Eureka Community College, I think that running will give me an opportunity to learn more about Eastern...and meet more people."

Issues Black said she will address if elected are increasing the number of students who vote in campus elections and keeping the bar-entry age at 19.

TOM PUCH

Impact party member Tom Puch said that he is running for Eastern students who show an interest in what happens on Eastern's campus.

"I will work for students if they show that they are interested in what is happening on campus,"

Puch said. Puch, a sophomore political science major, said he became interested in Student Senate because of what he had seen it accomplish.

Puch is a member of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity and Army ROTC.

MATT O'BRIEN

Junior Matthew O'Brien said he would like to see old issues resolved and new issues addressed.

O'Brien, an independent, said, "Being a political science major, I'd like to see the bar-entry age issue come to rest and remain as it is."

"I became interested in Student Senate because it involves my major," O'Brien said. "I like being concerned and involved with campus activities."

RESIDENCE HALL DISTRICT (4 1/2 seats)

GREGG SMITH

Senior computer management and marketing major Gregg Smith said that he feels his previous experience with the Residence Hall Association has made him a good candidate for the residence hall district.

"I have been very involved with RHA being president of Stevenson Hall, and feel I have the knowledge to help students," Smith said.

Smith added he has "seen the residence halls ignored and the past" and wants to give Student Senate another "point of view which they have not seen before."

BLAKE WOOD

Impact party member Blake Wood said that as a present senator for the residence hall district, he attends hall council meetings each week to update students on important issues facing Student Senate.

"Going to residence hall meetings is one way to let students know senate is out there," Wood said. "I always try to work hard."

Blake Wood, a freshman political science major, said he is also looking into forming a senate bylaws committee.

BRIAN MOUSHON

Brian Moushon, founder and sole member of the Reality party, said he is running because he feels changes have to be made in student government.

Moushon, a junior management major, said he is concerned with the way Student Senate is now run and would like to "let students make decisions."

Moushon said that if elected, he would make sure residence hall senators attend residence hall council meetings to inform students of senate happenings.

DANA WULFF

Freshman Dana Wulff said if elected her main concern would be starting a program that would inform freshmen about on-campus programs and activities.

Student voting is another issue Wulff said that she is concerned about.

"I would like to get out a survey to see why people don't vote...if they don't care or if they just don't have time," Wulff said.

JILL PFEIFFER

Impact party member Jill Pfeiffer said her goal is to have students take notice and support student government.

Pfeiffer added programs like recycling would be a valuable program since the money made from the recycled products would go back into the residence halls.

Recycling programs can be a source of revenue for residence halls. Pfeiffer is a freshman business education major.

OFF - CAMPUS DISTRICT (Five seats)

GINA MARSHALL

If elected, Impact party member Gina Marshall said she can offer students her experience from living both on and off-campus.

She said she would like to start programs that would "help make off-campus students more aware of campus activities."

Marshall, a junior political science major, said it is easier to be aware of campus programs because of signs posted throughout residence halls. Marshall, is involved with the Alpha Phi sorority and the Designated Driver program

TODD ANKENBRAND

Impact Party member Todd Ankenbrand said that he is running to get more involved with student issues to fulfill the needs of students, not senate members.

"I myself want to get more involved with student views,"

Ankenbrand said. "I want to work to get not just what people on senate want, but what students need."

Ankenbrand, presently an off-campus senator, added that he felt "not all senators were as involved as they

JULIETTE MURAWSKI

Juliette Murawski, an independent, is a sophomore journalism major who believes she does not have to be one of the group to succeed.

Murawski, a member of the Sigma Kappa sorority, said she is most concerned about trying to encourage recycling on Eastern's campus and in the Charleston community to make them more aware of the environment.

Murawski added voter registration and equal representation for Eastern students on Charleston's Liquor Advisory Board are also concerns.

PETE CHORNEY

Sophomore Pete Chorney, an Impact Party member, said he would like to conduct a survey about off-campus housing.

"I would also ask the students surveyed to include the cost of utilities to give other students an estimation of what the total cost of living at that location would be," he added. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

MARY KENNEDY

Impact party member Mary Kennedy said that she is concerned about making sure the voice of off-campus students is heard and will focus on keeping them informed.

"I am reliable," Kennedy said. "I look after the interests of the student in the things that happen at Eastern so they know what is going on."

WHILE YOUR DAD IS TAKING ROSALYN HOME, PERHAPS YOU'D LIKE TO EXPLAIN WHAT HAPPENED TONIGHT.

GOSH MOM, WHAT'S TO TELL? AT 8:00, I PUT ON MY PAJAMAS, BRUSHED MY TEETH AND WENT STRAIGHT TO BED. NOTHING HAPPENED.

AND THIS? UH... LIES! ALL LIES! ROSALYN MADE ME DO THAT JUST SO I'D GET IN TROUBLE! SHE HATES KIDS! NONE OF THAT IS TRUE! I WENT STRAIGHT TO BED!

NICE TRY, PINOCCHIO. WELL WHO WOULD'VE THOUGHT ROSALYN WOULD MAKE ME WRITE A FULL CONFESSION?!

Wynne delivers Cubs to opening victory

CHICAGO (AP) - Pinch-hitting is tough, especially in weather more suited to polar bears than Cubs.

But Marvell Wynne was ready and Chicago opened its defense of the National League East title Tuesday with a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies on a cold, windy day at Wrigley Field.

Wynne came off the bench with two outs in the eighth inning and singled to drive in the tie-breaking run moments after Ryne Sandberg had been cut down at the plate on a throw by center fielder Sil Campusano on Luis Salazar's single.

"Pinch-hitting is one of the toughest jobs in baseball," Wynne said. "But you have to be ready. I kept going into the club house between innings to keep warm."

The game was played in 36-degree weather, with a 26-mph wind blowing in from left field, driving the wind-chill factor down near zero. Monday night's official opener was postponed because of rain and rescheduled for Thursday.

Sandberg opened the eighth with a single and went to second on a wild pitch. Lloyd McClendon struck out and Mark Grace was given an intentional walk before Salazar's single.

Sandberg, who extended his errorless streak to 91 games, tying the two-season mark set by Cincinnati's Joe Morgan in 1977-78, said Campusano, "was playing shallow and made a good throw under conditions. But Marvell came through."

Sandberg, who set the major league record for second basemen by finishing last season with 90 errorless games, said record "wasn't in my mind at all. I haven't thought about it. I don't know what to compare it to."

Despite the 36-degree weather and loss, Philadelphia Manager Nick Leyva wasn't displeased.

Rainout in Champaign

Eastern washed out at Illini; hosts ISU Wednesday

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Sports editor

Eastern's baseball game at the University of Illinois Tuesday was postponed because of rain. The game will try again Thursday at 3 p.m. in Champaign.

"It obviously means Ryan Edwards doesn't get a start out of the deal," said Eastern coach Dan Callahan.

Edwards instead will likely see some action during the second game of a doubleheader with Illinois State Wednesday.

The postponement puts the Panthers in a predicament. Beginning Wednesday, Eastern will begin a stretch of seven games in five days, including a Thursday's game with No. 12 Illinois and four weekend games against arch-rival South-west Missouri State.

At least one Panther was upset with the postponement.

"I was wanting to play," Second baseman Jeff Nelson said. "I was pumped."

Instead, Nelson and the Panthers will have to wait until Wednesday's doubleheader with Illinois State, a team that beat defending National Champion Wichita State 4-0 recently.

"They proved they can beat one of the Top 10 teams," Nelson said. "You know how it is in baseball, any team can win at any time."

The Redbirds' situation is similar to that of the Panthers. While Eastern will enter the twinbill at 13-14, Illinois State enters at 12-14.

"We've played several ranked opponents," said Redbird coach Jeff Stewart. "We've improved in several areas of the game."

Like Eastern, Illinois State played a high level of competition during its spring trip to Florida, coming away with mixed results. The Redbirds lost to Mississippi State, Illinois and Kansas State, but by shutting out Wichita State, they ended the Shockers' string of 229 games without a shutout.

"We had a kid (pitcher Ed Striker) throw a really good ballgame, obviously," Stewart said. "But I've always thought that games like that are always more interesting to media people, but it doesn't do a whole lot for us. I'd have traded in that game to win three more."

Eastern will face a variety of Redbird pitchers, while Illinois State will contest with lefthander Scott Nelson in the first game and the tandem of power pitcher Mike Conner and righthanders Edwards and Mike Deese in the nightcap.

Nelson, 2-4 with a 7.52 ERA, will be trying to rebound after a tough outing at Indiana State last week that saw him allow six runs in 1 2/3 innings.

"I pitched well against them (the Redbirds) last year," Nelson said. "But I don't know much about them this year."

Nelson started the season at 2-1 before losing his last three decisions.

"I think that more or less they're just hitting the pitches. I talked to Soup (pitching coach Rich Campbell) and he told me I'm not doing anything wrong mechanically," Nelson said. "The only thought I had was that maybe I've been throwing too good of pitches. Maybe I've got to go back to hitting spots."

Falcons likely to select George

ATLANTA (AP) - Illinois quarterback Jeff George, one of three dozen juniors entering the NFL draft, is the likely No. 1 choice of the Atlanta Falcons, who have the first pick in the April 22 draft.

"We've been in regular touch with the Falcons this week, and Jeff's excited about the prospect of playing in Atlanta," his agent, Leigh Steinberg, said.

Ken Herock, Falcons vice president for player personnel, "called Monday and asked if we'd come down and take a look at Atlanta and have some substantive discussions," Steinberg said. "I don't anticipate any contractual problems."

Herock did not return phone calls Tuesday. On Monday, he told The Atlanta Constitution, "We like him. We think he's the best choice. Unless someone comes up with a blockbuster offer, he's the pick."

George, who is 6 feet, 4 inches, completed 216 of 348 passes last season for 2,417 yards and 19 touchdowns with the Fighting Illini.

And he was 26 of 38 for 321 yards and three TDs in a 31-21 Citrus Bowl win over Virginia.

But his selection by Atlanta might be puzzling. The Falcons already have a well regarded young quarterback in three-year veteran Chris Miller. Steinberg said he and George don't know whether the Falcons intend to sign the Illinois star, then trade him.

"The Falcons have the first pick, and it's their prerogative to do with it what they will," Steinberg said. "We don't know any more than that they asked us to come down and have discussions with them, and we plan to do that."

Steinberg insisted repeatedly that he and George haven't set a goal in the contract talks.

"I have not thought that far," he said.

But Steinberg only last year got quarterback Troy Aikman, the No.

1 pick in the 1989 draft, the biggest rookie contract ever: $11 million over six years from the Dallas Cowboys.

"All that will take care of itself," Steinberg said. "Jeff George is a franchise quarterback."

"Personnel people have told me ... he's a quarterback a team could win because of - and build around for years - as opposed to a quarterback they could win with."

The last time the Falcons attempted to sign a first-round quarterback, things did not go well. Miller, the 13th pick overall in the 1987 draft, held out until Oct. 30 before coming to terms and missed the first 12 games of the season.

"But the first pick in the entire draft is often an easier negotiation than a pick that is caught in the 'slotting' system," Steinberg said, noting that teams tend to watch other contract negotiations before settling with their own later picks.

League and, have in fact, reached the World Series, much to the chagrin of fellow Cub fans.

Hopefully, the bug that bothered the Cubs in 1985 will follow the Mets and Cardinals around. Maybe the team can be an underdog again.

When people start favoring the Cubs, goofy things happen. Don Zimmer thinks he's Whitey Herzog and starts bringing in the bat boy to get him out of a tough jam. The team turns into a pumpkin.

The second-best reason for Cub fan optimism is that the Cubs had a sub-par spring training. Two of the worst spring trainings ever were the Cubs' 1984 and 1989 campaigns. The Cleveland Indians can have all the spring training titles they want, but the worse the spring training, the better the season. Let them get all their fumbling and stumbling out of the way.

But I won't pick the Cubs to win their division, that would be bad luck. I can't pick Greg Maddux to win the Cy Young award, Ryne Sandberg to win the MVP or Harkey to take the Rookie of the Year. Wouldn't want to ruin their momentum.

1985, nobody will dare pick the squad from the north side of Chicago to come close to a division title, much less a World Series. That's good.

Nobody's calling Jerome Walton the second coming of Willie Mays. I haven't read one publication that touts Mike Harkey as the next Bob Gibson and almost every source places the Cubs behind the Cardinals and the Mets, who, if you haven't noticed, are the bad guys in this game. The Cubs have played like the hassled sheriff in the white coat, while these Black Barts have stomped through the National

Tennis Panthers overpower Rose-Hulman

Mazmanian, Myrvold lead netters to second straight runaway victory

By BOB EGIZIO
Staff writer

Eastern's netters moved in from the violent weather at the Weller court's to the Lantz Fieldhouse Tuesday afternoon to defeat Rose-Hulman by a 7-2 count.

The Panthers were coming off a strong victory over the College of St. Francis which took place Saturday at the Weller courts. They carried the motivation indoors right to the Engineers' throat for their third victory of the season.

"I don't think too many people were pleased with their performance," said Eastern coach John Bennett. "Dave Mazmanian did really well. It was good to get the second win in a row, but we still aren't doing what we do in practice."

The doubles competition was dominated by Eastern with straight set victories by Bob Myrvold and Brad Iftnr who teamed up to beat Rose-Hulman in the No. 1 doubles match by a 6-4, 6-2 score. Mike Patrick and Mazmanian teamed up to sweep the No. 2 doubles slot 6-2, 6-3.

"I think we played as well as Mike and I have ever played together," Mazmanian said. "We haven't played together much but I was happy with the way things went tonight."

The Engineers defeated Mark Olson and Brian Bodine in the No. 3 doubles match in split sets.

"We didn't bear down enough in the third," Olson said.

"I think we lost the confidence line in the third that we had in the second and it really hurt us in the third," Bodine said.

The squad turned out a victory in No. 1 singles with a fabulous performance from Eastern's present No. 1 player Bob Myrvold. No. 2 singles player Brad Iftnr was also victorious. Mazmanian won in the No. 4 singles competition.

Brian Bodine turned out a victory in the No. 5 singles match with a straight set victory by a 6-4, 6-3 margin.

Bodine said, "I kinda won ugly, I didn't play good, but good enough to win."

The team continues to be hampered with injuries.

Bodine is presently suffering from a slight hernia, Charlie Ready isn't expected to return until after the weekend, Jay Meyer is still out with a knee injury, and Olson is presently recovering from a sprained ankle. Meyer is the usual No. 1 singles player, while Ready starts in the top six.

"This is a good thing for us starting with two victories going into the conference," Bodine said. "It will help our confidence level going into the better teams we are about to face."

Bennett also added, "it's good to break a streak and then continue on with it."

Bennett hopes his Panthers can handle their next stretch of the schedule. They will participate in an Easter tournament at Illinois State against competition like Illinois State, Northern Iowa and Southwest Missouri State.

"Five of six teams that are playing in upcoming matches that are really tough," Bennett said. "It's going to be really tough to get a win."

New season marks renewed promise

As a new season dawns for the Chicago Cubs (and the rest of baseball, too), the long-awaited World Series berth that I (and many other Cub fans) have dreamed of, becomes possible again.

My Cubs have treated me to a pair of National League East Division titles during the past five years, enough to keep my faith alive, but still not enough to quiet the rest of the baseball world.

It's been a dream — an almost impossible dream it seems — to see the Cubs play in the ultimate of baseball lore. But the World Series has been off-limits to the boys in blue in recent years. Heck, it's been off-limits for a long time.

Consider that the last time the Cubs won a World Series was in 1908. The team was a powerhouse then and the world was on the brink of a war, a world war. Since the last time the Cubs won this thing, the world has been involved in two mortal conflicts and Adolf Hitler has come and gone. The American League was still a new, hip idea at the time.

But, I'm willing to just see the team in the World Series, so there wouldn't have to be a qualification. Nobody calls the Giants last year's National League West champions — they're just the National League champions.

Unfortunately, I wasn't around back in 1945 — the last time the Cubs were involved in the Series. I haven't been told many stories about it, because my father wasn't around either.

Since then, there have been plenty of disappointments, Cub fans can corner the market on them. I may have been born in 1969, but it's a fact that I'm ashamed of, seeing as how the Cubs made my birth a stroke of luck — bad luck. I wasn't quite the pennant baby my father had hoped for.

But this season, there is promise and hope. The Cubs are coming off a division title, and lo and behold, unlike

Sizzling softball squad hosts SIU-Edwardsville

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Associate sports editor

Eastern's red-hot softball team will try to extend a four-game winning streak when it hosts Southern Illinois-Edwardsville at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Lantz Field.

The Panthers, 10-6 overall, 4-2 in the Gateway Conference, used timely hitting and solid pitching to take two doubleheaders over Drake and Northern Iowa on Friday and Saturday, and first-year coach Kathy Arendsen hopes her team's good fortune will continue.

"We're hitting the ball extremely well right now," Arendsen said. "I don't know if it's realistic to say that we will continue to stay this hot, but even if our hot hitters cool off, some of our best hitters are just coming on."

Arendsen was referring to JoAnn Barnes, Tammy Stice and Rose Dirks as the team's hot hitters.

Barnes, an outfielder-designated player that has filled in for injured Chelle Maynard at third base and has been consistently batting around the .500 mark all season, continued to rattle opposing pitchers by going 5-for-12 with five RBI's over the weekend.

Stice went 6-for-13 in the same stretch and gave the Panthers two important RBI's in their win 6-3 win against Northern Iowa, and Dirks was 5-for-13 in the four games.

Two players that Arendsen has expected to help the team's offensive output — catcher Lisa Bourazak and first baseman Carrie Viosin — did just that against their conference foes.

Bourazak went 5-for-12 with five RBI's, including four in the team's 8-1 victory over Drake, and Viosin was 6-for-12 and scored four runs.

The Cougars, a Division II team, have a 21-6 record coming into Wednesday's games.

Jo Ann Barnes

Another key for the Panthers in Wednesday's contests is their pitching. All three — right-handers Penni Key and Martha Wendt and lefty Jill Richards — have been fairly consistent throughout the season, although Arendsen, a pitcher herself, is looking for more.

"I'm waiting for someone to show that she can be the stopper and if we need her for a crucial game, she can come in for us and give us a win," Arendsen said.

"Right now, they're all about equal. Each one of them has had one superb outing, so each of them is capable of being the pitcher we need. We definitely don't have a lack of talent, but we need one of them — idealistically all three of them — to come on."

Right now, Key has a 4-2 record with a 2.55 ERA, while Wendt stands at 3-2 with a 2.19 ERA and Richards has a 3-2 mark with an impressive 1.47 ERA. Wendt also has one save to her credit. The team ERA stands at 2.08.

"They are still making some mistake pitches, yet they are making a lot of really good pitches," Arendsen said.

"We need to give up less runs. Right now, (the team ERA) is a little more than two, which is too high," Arendsen added that she is aiming for the team ERA to be just more than one.

The overall team defense has improved lately, which has pleased Arendsen. The Panthers committed only four errors in the four games over the weekend. In the previous four games they had nine, including four in the second game of a twinbill against Southern Illinois on Thursday.

"(Our defense) improved this weekend," Arendsen said. "We're still making a few too many errors, but we're getting to the point where we can be considered a good, strong defensive team, where as earlier in the year we were just average defensively."

"(Lynn) Ramsay is probably the best second baseman in the conference. Barnes has done a great job as a fill-in for Maynard at third base. Stice is a talented shortstop, and Viosin at first base is our top infielder."

Arendsen added that she has been impressed with her outfield defensive all season.

"Our outfield is very strong and capable," she said of starters Jennifer Bradley, Jennifer Smith and Dirks. "Their arms are all stronger than they were last fall. I've been pleased with their play."

"Bourazak doesn't have any errors (at catcher), which shows something about her (defense)."
