Eastern names college after $1 million donor

BY AMY CARR
and BILL DENNIS
staff writers

UNIVERSITY PARK—A $1 million gift presented to Eastern Thursday enabled the university to create an unprecedented endowed faculty chair position and to name the College of Business after the donor.

The Lumpkin Foundation of Mattoon donated the funds for the Lumpkin Distinguished Professorship, as the position will be called. The salary for the position, which is the first of its kind in the history of the Board of Governors, will be provided solely from the interest earned from the donation.

The BOG approved Thursday's proposal to establish the new position and to name Eastern's business school the Lumpkin College of Business after R. A. Lumpkin, the donor.

The endowed chair position will be filled by the College of Business and will not go into effect until fall of 1988. A national search will be conducted for the position, said Daniel Thornburgh, director of university relations.

President Stanley Rives said, "This will allow us the advantage in recruiting a person who will be a faculty member in some aspect with a distinguished record in business. It will allow us to recruit a person with a national reputation."

Lumpkin, who is chairman and chief executive officer of Consolidated Communications Inc. and Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company, said in a prepared statement, "A strong university is a major element in the future development of this area.

Eastern is already an excellent institution, and I hope that our support will help create an even better opportunity for students of business."

Additional funds have been designated by the Lumpkin Foundation from an existing endowment, established in 1964, to be used to assist with a new College of Business building and to provide funds for enhancement of College of Business academic programs.

The Capitol Development Board is currently engaged in a fiscal year 1987 $230,000 planning grant for a new building to house the newly named College of Business. Construction funds are anticipated to be approved by the General Assembly in fiscal year 1988 for about $6.4 million.

BOG Chancellor Thomas Layzell said he was hopeful that the Illinois legislature will consider legislation similar to that in Alabama and Florida, in which the states matched contributions made to universities with endowed chairs.

Rives said of the donation, "This will allow us to accelerate the quality (of the College of Business) to a new level of excellence."

Leo Goodman-Malamuth, Governor State University president, said, "President Rives has really set an example for the presidents of other institutions."

Nancy Froelich, BOG chair, believes the donation is a historic mark in the history of Eastern and the BOG. "The Lumpkin chair will be the first such endowment in the BOG system. The entire board (See EASTERN, page 7A)

Eastern announced Thursday that R. A. Lumpkin, above, will become the namesake for the university's College of Business. Lumpkin also donated $1 million to establish an endowed chair in the business school.

Four percent tuition hike requested to offset inflation

BY BILL DENNIS
staff reporter

UNIVERSITY PARK—A 4 percent tuition increase may be needed to offset inflation, a Board of Governors official said Thursday.

BOG Chancellor Thomas Layzell said the tuition hike would offset long-term inflation and long-term underfunding of BOG universities, especially Eastern.

A 4 percent increase is needed even though the Consumer Price Index is expected to rise only 2.1 percent, Layzell said.

Increases in the CPI outstripped increases in tuition in the '70s and a certain amount of catch-up is needed due to underfunding, especially the most underfunded institution in the state: Eastern," Layzell said in a press conference after the board's meeting at Governors State University.

A report on tuition levels presented at the meeting states a 4 percent inflation rate is expected for colleges and universities in 1986-87. The Higher Education Price Index is usually higher than the CPI, Eastern President Stanley Rives said.

"Higher education is extremely labor intensive," said Rives. "Our heaviest investment is in faculty members."

Layzell said that the tuition increase is needed in part to boost instructor salaries. Instructors in the BOG schools are paid an average of 9 percent lower than those in comparative universities.

Layzell said the Illinois State Scholarship Commission is expected to increase awards to match a 4 percent increase.

"Illinois has always put their money where their mouth is," Layzell said. He added that Illinois has done well in funding higher education in the past 25 years considering enrollment has jumped from 290,000 a year to 700,000.

The board took no action on the report. No action is expected until the April 2 BOG meeting, when an official recommendation is expected, the report said.

In other business, the board voted to exercise its option to buy the official residence of Eastern's president. The $52,600 purchase, which would pay off the mortgage, still requires approval of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

At its Sept. 3 meeting, the IBHE recommended that universities which lease presidential residences study whether to use possible buyout options. Eastern and fellow BOG school Chicago State University are the only universities with such buyout options,

Official says 87 students stricken by illness

By CHRYS TAL PHILPOTT
City editor

A local health official said Thursday 87 of the 101 students interviewed who dined at the Oak Brook Hyatt Hotel Saturday reported suffering from symptoms of a possible food-related illness.

Although early estimates of the number of Eastern students who became ill after dining at the hotel were low, the majority of those interviewed reported suffering some symptoms.

Several other guests of the hotel also may be suffering from a possible food-related illness, a DuPage County Health official said Thursday.

Elmer Oberlander, who is handling the investigation for the DuPage County Health Department, said, "There have been some illnesses in other hotel guests. We're just now investigating that. It's a new development. That's all I can tell you for now about that."

Oberlander said the DuPage County Health Department is still gathering information on the case, and that it will be about two weeks, when test results come back, before the department knows anything.

"The DuPage County Health Department has reviewed the preparation and serving of the meal with the Hyatt staff and also has inspected the facilities.

"Samples of similar foods to those served were collected and will be analyzed by the state's laboratory. Stool samples will be collected from patients to help determine the cause of illness,"

Oberlander said.

In Coles County, Dan Stretch, director of environmental health of the Coles County Health Department, said five more stool samples were turned in for analysis Thursday, and that interviews are nearly finished.

"I believe that we are about done with the interviewing. We have three names left. We have interviewed 101 people," Stretch said.

Stretch said of the 101 people who attended the function, only 14 remained untouched by the illness.

Unfortunately, he said, no distinct connections, other than the fact that they all dined at the hotel, have emerged between the guests.

"Nothing that's really clear cut. There's nothing that's come out as the one thing they've all eaten.

"We're relying heavily upon lab tests," he said.

"It all depends (how long results will take). If we hit it right away we could know within the week. If we don't get it right away, it could be a month," he said.

Stretch said investigators are currently focusing on salmonella, E. coli, Bacillus cereus and shigella as possible causes of the illnesses.

If the tests prove the four are not the cause, then a new set of possibilities will be examined, he said.

"We could also possibly be dealing with some sort of viral infection," he said.

The four chosen were picked because they are among the most common sources of food poisoning, he said.

Mayoral race enters final round

CHICAGO—Mayor Harold Washington and predecessor Jane Byrne square off again at the polls in Tuesday's Democratic primary, possibly the decisive round in the "endless brawl" of Chicago politics since the death of Richard J. Daley.

This primary is unique, even given the fact that the victor can be expected to win the general election and extend a half-century tradition of Democratic rule at City Hall.

Racial issues, which poisoned the 1983 campaign that concluded with Washington's election as the city's first black mayor, remain for some voters the only issues.

But unlike past contests, this primary may also determine who controls the heart and soul of the Democratic Party. It may also determine whether the party will continue to dominate life in the nation's third-largest city, or whether, like royalty, it is reduced to ruling in name only.

The death of Mayor Daley on Dec. 20, 1976, threw open the palace gates, and a city that worshipped the same leader for 21 years has presented a more combative face to his three successors.

"Politics in this city changed irrevocably that day," said Mike Royko, a nationally syndicated columnist for the Chicago Tribune.

Student loan defaulters beware; federal tax refunds to be seized

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Up to 28,000 Illinois student loan defaulters who look in their mailboxes for a federal tax return may instead find a notice saying the refund has been seized, officials said Thursday.

The Internal Revenue Service and the Illinois State Scholarship Commission have combined on a program to seize income tax refunds from the defaulters, said Sue Moore, of the Springfield district office of the IRS.

"We are given a list of who the defaulters are, and we use their social security number to match against our records," she said. "If we get a match and they have a refund coming, we withhold it."

Larry Matejka, executive director of the commission, said the refund withholding, which is being used all over the nation, was successful in a pilot program with 2,000 people in Illinois last year.

The state hopes to collect about $6.5 million from the 28,000 federally insured loan defaulters, who have been notified that any refunds they claim will be diverted to federal coffers, he said.

Along with the withholding notice, defaulters are also told what state agency to contact to clear up the problem, he said.

About 30 percent of the money is returned to the state to pay for collection efforts, he said.

The 28,000 were tracked down by the commission and IRS using a computer program that matched long-time debtors with those who filed federal income tax returns in the past, Matejka said.

A few defaulters who were found arranging for repayment, Matejka said, but most were referred to federal authorities for refund interception.

Commission records show it has guaranteed 1.5 million student loans to over 839,000 students since the program's inception in 1965, for a total of around $3.1 billion. There have been 93,000 defaulters in that time, records show.

The commission guarantees about $350 million to $400 million in student loans each year in Illinois, he said.

The loans were originally secured from private financial institutions and guaranteed by the scholastic commission, said Matejka.

Liberty finds student tampering with cable

CHRISTAL PHILPOTT

Eastern student faces charges of tampering with wiring in his apartment. He has had his arraignment set for March 5.

Freshman Jeff G. James, 1518 10th St. Apt. 2, was arrested on charges of misdemeanor theft of services after a cable installer for Liberty Telecommunications, Inc., 726 4th St., allegedly spotted a cable which was illegally hooked up in the apartment, Assistant State's Attorney Mark Novak said.

Tom Holsapple, manager of Illinois Party Tele-Communications, said the TV had been aware of the illegal tampering for about two weeks but had tried to avoid prosecution by warning James to remove the illegal hook up.

"We try to avoid prosecution if we can. Normally we don't have people arrested the first time. We give them several warnings. This young man had been given three or four warnings before we prosecuted. "I think it was Friday we had talked to him in depth and then it happened again Sunday. We decided that we had to do something—that it could not go on any longer," Holsapple said.

Theft of services is a class A misdemeanor and carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and/or one year in prison.

However, Novak said the state's attorney's office would not press for the maximum penalty.

"We will not seek a year in prison or $1,000 fine," he said Thursday. "At this time, I don't know what action will be taken."

James was not required to post bail, Novak said, because the arresting officer chose to serve a notice to appear. A notice to appear is an instruction to appear in court on a specified court date, Novak said.

Novak said it is not uncommon for a notice to appear to be served in place of bail in some misdemeanor cases. The notice was issued at the officer's discretion, he said.

Spring blood drive begins, goal to collect 1,650 pints

CRAIG EDWARDS
Staff editor

It's safe, it's simple and it saves

Organizers of the spring blood drive hope to save 6,600 lives through the safe and simple process of collecting 1,650 pints of blood during the drive which starts next Monday and runs through Thursday.

Windy Knopf, publicity chairman of the drive, said one pint of blood, which is the usual amount collected from one donor, can save the lives of three others.

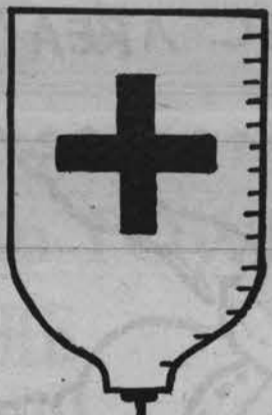

Knopf said the theme, "Safe, Simple, Saves Lives," was a logical choice because it describes donating blood. She said although a lot of people fear getting diseases by donating blood, "It's safe and you can't get AIDS."

"Donating blood is a simple process that only takes about 45 minutes," she said, adding that saving lives "speaks for itself."

Rachford, blood drive chairman, said President Stanley Rives will participate in the kickoff and ribbon cutting at noon Monday in the Union Grand Ballroom. The ballroom will be open until 5 p.m. Monday for blood donations.

Rachford said donors who want to make appointments to donate later in the week can do so on Monday. After Monday, donors can give blood from 10 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. each day through

Spring Blood Drive

Goal: 1,650 Pints

Thursday. "There's a definite shortage right now," Knopf said, adding that all blood drives in the St. Louis metropolitan area were cancelled this week because of bad weather and poor road conditions. "As of Tuesday, they (American Red Cross of St. Louis) were down 2,200 pints," she added.

Rachford said blood collected by the American Red Cross at Eastern's drive is sent to St. Louis for processing. "Then, it is immediately sent back to this area for distribution at Sarah Bush (Lincoln Health Center) and other hospitals within 100 miles," Rachford added.

Dumisani Kumalo, who left his native South Africa in 1977 and now lectures on conditions in that country, spoke in the Union Grand Ballroom Thursday night. Kumalo said whites and blacks have to learn how to live together in South Africa.

Writer recalls apartheid

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Activities editor

Dumisani Kumalo, a journalist formerly from South Africa, told an audience in the Union Grand Ballroom Thursday night that South Africa is the only country in the world where racism is legalized by the government.

He said the 25½ million people in South Africa who have a skin color other than white are not only denied the right to vote, they aren't even counted as citizens.

Kumalo, who was invited here to speak by the University Board as a part of Black History Month, said he is constantly asked, "Why all the concern about South Africa?"

He said even though there are numerous other countries suffering from political and social turmoils, "The number one difference with South Africa is the constitution." Kumalo said the government in South Africa maintains there are only 4½ million citizens, and classifies the others into 10 separate groups, distinguished by the color of their skin.

Kumalo said the whites are on the top, followed by 2 million colored people who "are not dark enough to be African and not white enough to be white." He said the other groups recognized by the Race Classification Board are Indian/Asian, South African, Japanese, Chinese, other color, Malay, other Malay and others.

"It all lies in the eyes of the Race Classification Board," Kumalo said, adding that they strictly regulate the skin color classifications. "If you are white, you better be white white." He pointed out that a person who gets a suntan better be careful so they don't fall into the next category.

"It's very easy to say I'm against apartheid, I'm just trying to put a human face behind the issue," Kumalo said.

Kumalo was born in Northern Zululand, the son of a black migrant worker. The law required his father give up his family and work in another part of the country. He said although his father was allowed to visit once a year, two of his children died and were buried without his knowledge.

Also under the law, Kumalo said his mother wasn't allowed to visit her husband because she was classified as a "perpetual minor" by the government. He said black women in South Africa are treated as children, listed as property and aren't allowed into the larger cities. "They are nothing else but superfluous appendages," Kumalo added.

Kumalo offered a few suggestions to solve the racial segregation problems in South Africa, listing divestment and economic sanctions as just a few. He said since "blacks and whites are doomed to live together" they have to learn how to live together.

"We have to get rid of the apartheid system," Kumalo said, adding that it will take a strong leader, trusted by both blacks and whites, to solve the problem. Kumalo said the government has jailed Nelson Mandela, a leader who has gained such trust, for the past 22 years, fearing that he might lead a revolution.

Shoplifting charge brought against freshman cager

An freshman basketball player was arrested on charge of retail theft Wednesday. Cassanova White, Jr. 19, a Taylor Hall resident, was arrested at 11:07 p.m. Wednesday after allegedly shoplifting from the Charleston store, 700 W. Lincoln Ave.

White is a native of Cincinnati, Ohio. Herb Steidinger, Charleston's assistant police chief, would not disclose what White allegedly stole or its value.

"We do not discuss or release information prior to prosecution," Steidinger said.

AB ponders sports board request

By KIM MIKUS
Staff writer

A $10,000 increase in student payroll was proposed by the Recreational Sports Board for discussion during an Apportionment Board meeting Thursday night.

"An increase in payroll is definitely needed," said graduate student Julie Smith, assistant director of the Rec Sports Board.

About 50 percent of Eastern students participate in recreational sports activities. One of the major increases is in aerobics, she said.

One aerobics class per day was scheduled in the beginning of the year, she added, and because of increased participation, three more classes per day have been added.

"There are now 20 classes of aerobics a week," Smith said. Because of the increased popularity of aerobics, Smith said as an example, this was just one of the reasons why an increase had been requested to pay for a greater demand for aerobic instructors.

AB members did not move to approve the request, but indicated a decision may be made at next week's meeting.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Thursday's edition of The Daily Eastern News that the Judicial Board reported the altercation in Thomas Hall was caused by "boyish conduct." The statement should have read "boorish conduct." In addition, the headline for the article should have read Thomas Hall rather than Lawson Hall. The News regrets the errors.

Diplomat's visit gives Eastern world outlook

At a time when people around the world are reading their newspapers to keep informed about developments in this long-standing arms race, the Eastern community received a rather unique opportunity this week to meet one of the players in person.

Gerhard Herder, the East German ambassador to the United States, spoke on campus Wednesday. East Germany, or the German Democratic Republic, is one the Soviet Union's major allies.

As the chief spokesman for the GDR in America, Herder is involved in the intricate balance of power that now exists between our country and the Soviet Union. As events like the current controversy surrounding the United State's Strategic Defense Initiative program further separate the world's countries, the importance of ambassadors becomes increasingly more vital.

Eastern and the local community were fortunate to have the opportunity to meet, talk to and ask questions of a man who is so important. Even though the man has political philosophies and motives different than our own, it is advantageous for us to listen to what he has to say.

We do not hear enough of the viewpoints that other countries, even communist countries, have about our country's actions and world events in general. We too often believe that we are right, and what others believe is unimportant.

However, we need to hear both sides of the story. We can never truly be sure that we are right unless we know they are wrong. How can we know they are wrong if we refuse to hear anything they say?

Too often, Americans are unwilling to hear opposing viewpoints. The main reason people are unwilling to hear opposing viewpoints is because they are unwilling to face the possibility that they may be partially or wholly wrong.

Eastern, as an institution of higher learning, has the responsibility of introducing a variety of ideas and concepts to its students so that they may learn how to think critically and make decisions based on all the facts and sides to a story.

We hope more ambassadors and people of importance can be brought here—even those we, and maybe relatively few people, agree with.

Why did things change Mrs. White?

Dear Mrs. White
I am writing to you because you forgot to clarify what you meant in the first grade when you talked told us about growing old, and I am confused.

Larry Smith

You said that people age gracefully. The wrinkles on their faces were signs of infinite wisdom and elderly people are as sharp mentally as younger people.

But what about my great-grandmother?

For some reason she just isn't the same as when I was a little kid. She's a deteriorating shell of herself.

She doesn't fit in any category you described to me. I don't understand. You knew all the right answers when I was your pupil.

The doctors say she has something called Alzheimer's Disease. Why didn't you tell us about this?

Why does it seem like she is in so much pain? Please, explain this to me.

This disease has taken her once very intelligent mind and stripped it and her of all that was once great. It seems like a vicious game being played by a vengeful gamester.

It snuck up on her and rendered her helpless. I vaguely remember the first signs of it happening 14 years ago. The sudden memory losses and the quick mood changes. I was only a kid, too young to understand the changes taking place.

I really miss the way she was, I could use her old self now.

You probably remember the way she was. She was the spunky old woman who walked me to school when I was too small to do it myself—the woman who always made sure I was dressed warmly. She even fixed lunch for all my friends when they came over to watch cartoons.

The same lady I wrote a poem about. The one who dragged me, a snotty-nosed little kid, around Chicago, took me to the Woolworth's cafeteria to eat apple pie a la mode and let me run crazy through the toy department.

She was the one who let me sleep in her bed when I was scared of thunderstorms and that horrible witch under my bed. I never heard her complain when I ran through the house and jumped in bed with her for safety from all my fears. I never knew a lonely day when I was being watched by her.

My family tells me when I was young, she and I would argue like man and wife and never once did she make feel like the child I was.

I even remember when I hated her so much to spanking me with those stinging switches from the trees. But deep down inside I knew she loved me because she always took my side when someone else wanted to spank me.

She either raised or helped raise three generations in my family.

But Mrs. White, now she can't even remember my name, my mother's name or even her daughter's (my grandmother) name. Why is this?

Why I am so angry? Sometimes, I feel like yelling at her, even though it's not her fault that she is the way she is.

Everyone tells me I should respect my elders, but how can I when her mental state is that of a 5-year-old. They just don't understand what my family is going through.

Do you Mrs. White?

I find it even harder to handle the fact we have to put her in a nursing home. We just can't continue to give her the help and attention she needs. It was an agonizing decision to make, but it had to be done this way.

Have we done the right thing Mrs. White?

Sincerely
Lawrence

CAA puts items on agenda

The Council on Academic Affairs placed a proposal on its agenda Thursday that would give students 10 class days to sign up for the credit/no credit option.

Currently, students have only until the last day of add/drops to sign up for credit/no credit.

The Student Senate has already passed the bill.

Also, a proposal from the chemistry department to create a new course, Chemistry 4430, "Medicinal Chemistry," was placed on the agenda.

Chemistry instructor Howard Black said a medicinal chemistry course was taught for the first time in the fall as Chemistry 4800, a "special topics" course that varies in subject matter. However, Black said, so much interest was shown in this topic that it was decided to make it a regular course offering.

In other business, chair Kandy Baumgardner said Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs, has made recommendations to the Board of Governors concerning the Academic Programs Review.

The CAA had voted that the geology department and the music performance option of the music department should be updated to Status Quo instead of Status Quo*. The asterisk indicates that a problem of some sort is present.

Baumgardner said Schick recommended to the BOG that the asterisk be lifted from music performance but kept on geology.

In an effort to give students the opportunity to see faculty members in a relaxed atmosphere, academic adviser John Coffey organized "Puttin' on Hits: An Evening With the Professionals" at 8 p.m. Friday in the Subway.

Coffey said he believes it's better to give than to receive and "Never think more of the gift than the giver. When I was in college, I saw a lot of taking on the part of the instructors."

Using that philosophy, Coffey organized a show with faculty and staff members as the performers. He said he wanted to enlighten students and give them a chance to view instructors in a fun way.

Coffey said he wanted to get the faculty and staff members involved to relate better with Eastern students. He added he also wanted to get the faculty to know each other better.

The show will cover the categories of: pop music, introduced by James Johnson, dean of student affairs; oldies but goodies, introduced by zoology instructor Bill Ridgeway; and religious music, introduced by journalism instructor James Saunders.

Saunders will also be the master of ceremonies for the evening.

The performers for the evening are: academic advisers Coffey and Kathy Davies, Wilbert James from the T.L.C. Center in Mattoon, Johnetta Jones, director of Afro-American Studies, Jim Lyles and William A. Smith from admissions, University Police officer Lou McGhee, special education instructor Tom Mihail, Elmer Pullen from the financial aid office and Michael Walsh, dean of fine arts.

Eastern students travel to Chicago to help mayor

Eastern's Youth for Harold Washington group is sponsoring a trip Tuesday for volunteers to support the Chicago mayor in his re-election bid.

The group is expecting close to 300 people to participate in the all-expense paid trip to Chicago, said Kathy James, director of Eastern's Afro American Studies program. She said 200 students have already signed up.

James said volunteers will distribute literature, knock on doors and answer phone calls in effort to build support for Washington.

"It (the bus trip) is a one day event," James said. "Lunch and everything is taken care of."

Buses will pick-up volunteers at 6 a.m. Tuesday in front of University Union and will not return to Charleston until late Tuesday.

Any interested individual may register for the trip at the Afro America Culture Center.

Ni Smitty!

It seems like ages since I've talked to you. Hope everything is going well.

I've been really busy helping my customers make plans for their summer vacations, plus some last minute spring breaks (it's that ol' cabin fever setting in - a few days spent anywhere else can be just what's needed to get through what's left of winter!).

A lot of people have been choosing Disney World/Epcot Center for their vacations - and cruises are getting hotter and hotter. College kids and families really make out on these deals, because of the exceptional group rates available.

Hey - we should take advantage of this. I'm going to find the most exciting - and inexpensive - vacation package that young single guys like us can experience! Would you prefer a cruise or a "fly/drive" trip? I'd kind of like to indulge in a cruise - we deserve to be pampered - plus it's a great way to meet some interesting people.

Another idea is international travel. I've sent customers to India, England and Jordan just in the past few weeks. Australia is another hot destination right now.

Well, gotta close. Write soon and let me know what you think of our vacation plans! See ya -

New editors chosen for 1987-88 student publications

staff editor

Despite a close Student Publications board vote Thursday, the position of editor in chief for The Daily Eastern News will be split for the 1987-88 academic year.

Juniors Jean Wright and Larry Smith will split the position following deliberations among board members in a final 5-4 vote.

In addition to choosing the editor in chief for the News, the Board unanimously chose senior Lisa Vazzi to serve as the editor in chief for the yearbook, The Warbler, for the 1988 production year.

Some board members, concerned about the transition situation involved in changing editors of the newspaper in mid-year, pushed for a person to serve as editor in chief. However, their arguments failed to outweigh the initial recommendation of the board's executive officers.

Larry Smith

Jean Wright

The board initially recommended that Wright serve as editor in chief for the fall semester, April 1 to early November, and Smith serve from November until about mid-April of 1987.

Current editor in chief of the News, Amy Zurawski, agreed with the split responsibilities. "It (editor in chief) is a long, hard, demanding job."

"The wait was nerve wrecking," Smith said. "I'm glad they decided to pick both of us. Jean (Wright) serving first will give me a chance to work with the other areas of the paper that I haven't dealt with yet."

Wright also favored the split position. "I think that the split year will give more people a chance to move up within the ranks at the News," she said.

Smith added, "I feel it will be a very smooth transition because we have worked together very well on the editorial board."

Smith currently serves as the editorial page editor for the News, while Wright serves as the managing editor of the publication.

Eastern

expresses its sincere appreciation to Lumpkin and gives its heartiest congratulations to President Rives and those of his staff concerned with significant development."

Ed Ivarie, dean of the College of Business, said, "This is an opportunity to give the students and faculty of Eastern a greater body of knowledge." The $1 million gift adds to several other contributions Lumpkin has made to the community. Under the leadership of Lumpkin, Illinois Consolidated has grown into one of the most prominent telephone companies in the nation.

Rives said, "Mr. Lumpkin has been recognized as a state and national leader for almost 70 years in telecommunications. Illinois Consolidated has grown to be the fifth largest telephone company in Illinois and the 24th largest in the nation among some 1,400 telephone companies."

Lumpkin's grandfather, Iverson Lumpkin, founded the Mattoon Telephone Co. in 1894.

The BOG meeting also saw a historic teleconference on the future of undergraduate education. The conference, "To Secure the Blessings of Liberty," makes the BOG one of the first public bodies to conduct a meeting by satellite. BOG members asked questions of a panel of experts in Washington D.C.

Caray resting comfortably after stroke

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Sportscaster Harry Caray, the voice of the Chicago Cubs, was resting comfortably Thursday at Desert Hospital after suffering a mild stroke. "He looks good, he is in fair condition and the prognosis is good," said Bill Wills, a spokesman for Tribune Co., which owns the Cubs on both WGN-AM and WGN-TV. Caray, 67, never lost consciousness according to Wills and the attending physician, Dr. Burton Winston. "There is no paralysis and all signs are good," Wills said. "It won't be long before he's back calling the games." It was not known how long Caray will be hospitalized.

Caray, who maintains a winter home near Palm Springs, suffered the stroke Tuesday while playing cards at his country club. One of the most colorful play-by-play announcers in major league baseball, Caray spent the first 25 years with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Matmen confront UNI

MIKE NELSON
Staff writer

Eastern's wrestlers will be looking to pull off an upset in what might be the toughest dual meet of the season. The Panthers will host sixth-ranked Northern Iowa at 1 p.m. today in Lantz Gym.

Against UNI, Eastern will try to break a two-meet losing streak. The Panthers are 4-6 in dual meets.

Northern Iowa is strong all the way through their line-up," Eastern coach John McCausland said. "They have already beaten a couple of the schools we beat us."

The feature match of the day will be in the heavyweight class. Northern Iowa's Joel Greenlee is ranked fifth in the nation. Eastern's Demetrius Cooper holds a 26-2 record and is undefeated in dual meets.

This will be a big match for Harper, going against such a tough opponent," McCausland said.

Eastern's starters will include Craig Cooper (118), Pat Flynn (126), Dean Souder (134), Terry Boes (142), Chris Simcox (150), Chris Bonds (158), and Marty Teverbaugh (167), Marty Molina (177) and Harper (heavyweight). Simcox is returning to the starting lineup after recovering from a knee injury.

"This meet is important because it is a decider of how our guys are going to fit into the rankings at regionals," McCausland said. "We really have nothing to lose, we just need to wrestle well and release our abilities."

This is the second time this season the Panthers have faced a nationally ranked team. Earlier this season the Panthers lost to Edinboro University of Pennsylvania 28-16.

"Northern Iowa is a very high caliber team," McCausland said. "They may not have great technique, but they just keep coming at you. The intensity level of the team is tremendous."

In the starting lineup for the Panthers are six wrestlers that have records above the .500 mark.

Sterr holds the second best record on the team at 22-7. Souder is 17-13, and Simcox is 10-8. Bonds has a 13-12 record, and Molina is 23-9-1. Harper has been Eastern's most consistent wrestler at 26-2.

qualifying for the March 13-14 AA national meet in Oklahoma

The team ran a time of 7:32.33 two weeks ago at the Armory taking fourth place with Illinois and Illinois both qualifying, and Notre Dame coming a close third.

This time, though, the Panthers feel their turn to shine.

It (qualifying) is something we've talked about since the beginning of the cross country season," said senior Phil Maton. "There's no reason why we shouldn't qualify."

"We've beat each one of those teams (Illinois and Illinois St.) once before," said Jim Maton, Phil's younger brother. "Each week there's been more and more pressure," he said.

The coaches (Moore and assistant coach Akers) are so excited," Phil said. "The good thing is that everybody has confidence in each other."

The Maton brothers will also see action in the 1,000-yard run at Illinois on Saturday. Jim will run in the invitational heat, which will include the top nine runners for that distance. Phil will compete in the open section, which is considered the slower heat.

Jim has already qualified for the NCAA indoor championships in the 1,000 with a time of 2:08.6. The NCAA qualifying standard is 2:08.7.

Phil's best this season is a 2:11.16, which places him second in the conference standings behind Jim, but did not qualify him for the invitational section, which surprised Moore.

Eastern sophomore Ian Isaacs will compete in the invitational section of the 440-yard dash while Darnell Thompson will compete in the open section.

Other Eastern competitors will include Jeff Gennarelli and Dan Matas in the shot put, Robert Flot and Darren Barber in the 60-yard high hurdles and freshman Mike Hamman in the high jump.

Lady tracksters travel to competitive Illini Classic

By JEFF D'ONOFRIO
Staff writer

After a weekend off, Eastern's women's track team will travel to Champaign to compete in Friday's Illini Classic.

The 16-team field will include most of the schools in Illinois along with such schools as Michigan, Michigan State and Drake.

"It's really going to be a good, quality meet," coach John Craft said. "With that high caliber competition, we'll just have to wait and see how we are going to do when we get up there."

The last time the Panthers competed was Feb. 7, when they defeated Gateway Conference rival Indiana State for the third time this season. Also running in that meet were the Terre Haute Track Club and Principia College.

Craft said the team is running well and is looking forward to the big meet at Illinois.

The Panthers are looking for a strong performance out of Janine Jarris who played a big part in their victory two weeks ago. Craft said she looks strong, especially in 1,000-meter run.

Craft is also looking for a strong performance from his shot putters, Valeta Strickland and Debra Zubik. Strickland is the defending conference champion.

Craft said that Tracy Olawumi will see if she is recovered from a recent injury by running in the 4x800 relay.

The Illini Classic gives Eastern the opportunity to compare itself with some of the best competition in the country. After two weeks rest, the Panthers should be able to turn in an impressive performance.

The team is still without the services of sophomore Tina Dawson who is out for the season with stress fractures in both tibias. Dawson competes in the long, triple and high jumps for the Panthers.

Panther swimmers battle WKU Hilltoppers at home

By JOE LEWNARD
Staff writer

Eastern's men's swim team will have its final home meet of the season when the Panthers host the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers at 2 p.m. Saturday in Lantz Pool.

The swimmers have been engaged in grueling workouts for the past five months, and Saturday's meet will be the last before the Midwest Championship meet marks the end of the season in two weeks.

But, the meet against Western Kentucky won't be easy for the swimmers.

Eastern coach Ray Padovan said Western Kentucky, which placed second in the Midwest Championships last season, is one of the stronger teams the Panthers swim against.

Padovan added that Western Kentucky is a well-balanced team backed by a solid swimming program.

"This is probably the weakest team they have had in a number of years," he said.

Padovan said the Hilltoppers have lost their top swimmer to a knee injury, and this could prevent them from winning as many as three events in the Midwest Championships.

Harpin' on it

Eastern heavyweight Demetrius Harper (right) will be one of the wrestlers that coach Ralph McCausland will be counting on Sunday when the Panthers host sixth-ranked Northern Iowa in Lantz Gym. Harper, 26-2 on the season, will square off against UNI's Joel Greenlee, ranked as the nation's fifth best heavyweight. See related story on page 11A.

AMCU-leading Bears invade Lantz Gym

By JOHN STROUD
Associate sports editor

Eastern will be playing the spoiler role in its upset bid Saturday against Southwest Missouri in AMCU-8 men's basketball action at 7:30 p.m. in Lantz Gym.

The Bears, 21-5 overall, lead the conference with a 10-1 league mark, and wins over Eastern and Valparaiso on Monday will secure them the regular-season title. One win and an Illinois-Chicago (6-3, second) loss to Western Saturday or Cleveland State Monday would do the same for the Bears. If they win, it would be the first conference championship for Southwest.

The Panthers, 6-16 and 1-9 in the league tied with Western Illinois for eighth, know that simply staying in the game with Southwest will be anything but easy. The Bears romped Eastern 87-46 in Springfield, Mo. on Jan. 26.

Eastern coach Rick Samuels doesn't want to see the Panthers completely dominated by Southwest in every aspect as they were earlier this season.

"To say it is easy, but to do it is different," Samuels said. "Besides the fact that they are playing well, they have a chance to win the conference" which will provide extra incentive for the Bears.

A tough half-court pressure defense by the Bears lends to opponent turnovers which Samuels adds usually converts to points for Southwest on the offensive end. They lead the conference and the nation in scoring defense allowing only 55.7 points per game.

In an attempt to bone up on fundamentals, the Panthers have been practicing without scrimmage competition this week.

"We're not putting our players in competitive situations," Samuels said. "We're trying to concentrate on some of the very basic things like catching the ball and making our shots." Bad passing and a poor shooting percentage (44 percent average) have been major contributors to the Panthers' plights this season.

Another key factor for Eastern Saturday will be containing 6-2 senior guard Winston Garland, who shared AMCU-8 Player of the Week honors with the Panthers' Tony Hemphill last week.

"If you stop Winston Garland, you stop Southwest Missouri," Samuels said. But he's not taking anything away from good supporting players like Greg Bell and Basil Robinson.

Garland is the second leading scorer in the league, averaging 20.8 points per game behind Illinois-Chicago's Bobby Locke who is averaging 22.5 points. Garland also leads in three-point shot accuracy with a 48 percent average.

The Panthers are led in scoring by sophomore guard Jay Taylor who averages 14.1 points per game ranking him seventh among AMCU-8 scorers.

Southwest Missouri coach Charlie Spoonhour isn't taking this weekend's competition lightly in the least. In fact, he said, "It scares me to death.

"They'll always play us tough," Spoonhour said of Eastern. "We try to take every game the same way," he said, adding, "I'm more than happy where we're at right now. We've had good luck in a couple of games, but we've been playing well also."

If the Bears win the regular season AMCU-8 crown and go on to win the March 5-7 post-season tournament which will be on their home court, Southwest Missouri is a good bet to make the 64-team NCAA Tournament field.

Lady cagers drop to 5th in 98-84 loss

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

Bradley's hot second-half shooting, along with its domination on the boards was enough to beat Eastern 98-84 in Peoria to send the Panthers into fifth place in the Gateway Conference.

The Braves shot a blistering 68 percent from the floor in the second half in opening a 79-53 lead on Eastern with 7:19 to play in the game.

The Panthers then scored 14 straight points to pull to within 79-67 with 5:29 to play, but it wasn't enough to overcome the Braves.

"It was a great comeback for us, but Bradley really beat us on the boards though," Eastern coach Bobbie Hille said.

The Braves outrebounded the Panthers 44-28 on the night.

Bradley raised their record to 14-11 overall and 9-6 in the Gateway, where it now takes over third place. The Panthers fall to 12-12 overall and 8-5 in the conference where they are now fifth.

The game was crucial because only the top four teams in the conference make the Gateway Tournament.

Eastern guard Barb Perkes led all scorers with 26 points, scoring 24 in the second half in trying to rally the Panthers.

Bradley was led by forward Karna Nicholls who had 25 points on the night.

"We couldn't contain Nicholls and they couldn't contain Perkes," Hille said.

Center Brenda Webb also put in a good effort in a losing cause by scoring a career-high 19 points and leading the Panthers' rebounding efforts with six.

"Brenda Webb also had an outstanding game for us," Hille said.

The Panthers played the Braves close in the first 10 minutes of the first half, trailing only 16-15.

The Braves then pulled away, running off seven straight later in the first half to go up 30-22. Bradley led at the half 41-30.

The Braves turned the ball over 11 times in the second half which was another factor which aided in the Panthers' thwarted comeback attempt.

Bradley shot 57 percent from the floor for the game compared to Eastern's 47 percent from the floor.

The Braves placed five players in double figures with forward Kathleen Flanagan adding 19 points and guard Michelle Braud chipping in 14 points to the Bradley victory.

Eastern will continue their road trip with a Saturday game at Western Illinois.

Men tracksters hosts invitational Friday

By BARRY BOTTINO
Staff writer

Eastern's men's track team is in for another busy weekend in preparation for the Feb. 27-28 AMCU-8 conference meet to be held in Lantz Fieldhouse.

The Panthers will host the Black & Co. Invitational Friday night in Lantz Fieldhouse beginning at 6 p.m. with the 35-pound weight throw.

"Friday's meet is just for fun," said Eastern head coach Neil Moore, who will also take a squad of approximately 12 competitors to Champaign Saturday afternoon to compete in the Domino's Pizza Illini Classic.

Friday's meet will feature teams from Western Illinois,

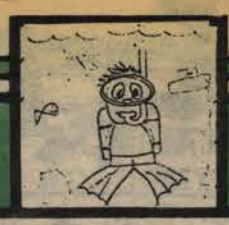

Murray State, Illinois Wesleyan, Rose-Hulman, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and Lewis University.

"It (Friday's meet) is going to be used to prepare for conference," Moore said.

The Illini Classic, considered one of the top 10 meets in the country, will include teams from Illinois, Notre Dame and Iowa.

Saturday will also mark the return of Eastern's two-mile relay team to the Armory in Champaign, where it has already set two school records in its last two appearances. Now, the team of Fred Neal (who replaced Steve Conlon), Al Oaks, Jim Maton and Phil Maton, is only 2.53 seconds (See MEN, page 10A)

This weekend: Naked Raygun

'Aggressive pop' band returns

ANA WINSON

Naked Raygun, a Chicago-based band featuring an "aggressive pop" sound, returns to Charleston to top the Top of Roc's Saturday.

The show will open at 8 p.m. with another Chicago band, Blatant Dissent, said senior Bob Buehler, booking agent for Abacus—Wave of Plague Production. In a telephone interview Wednesday, Naked Raygun's lead vocalist Jeff Pezzati described the band's sound as "aggressive pop," noting that "some of our songs deal with political issues—but not 'preachy' type songs."

"Mostly deal somewhat with 'personal politics,'" Pezzati said, adding that "we have a few downright punk songs."

Pezzati, who along with bass player Pierre Kezdy, guitarist John Haggerty and drummer Eric Spicer comprise Naked Raygun, said the band could approximately be said to have a "punk-pop" sound as

"we fashion some (of the music) after the style" of the punk bands of the '78 through '80 era, though he stressed Naked Raygun is "going for our own kind of sound—not with the idea of being on the radio stations."

However, the band's music—especially off its most recent album All Rise, released "close to a year ago"—has received "really good play on college stations," Pezzati noted.

Also, Naked Raygun has received some good press, even nabbing The New York Times' "Rock of the Week" for Friday, April 4, 1986.

The band has also received praise within the past few years from such publications as Spin, The Village Voice and Melody Maker.

However, critical reviews for Naked Raygun have been more prevalent in the British press, Pezzati said. "Most of this is because of the higher percentage of press devoted to music news there," he said.

Currently, Naked Raygun is "definitely in the 'writing songs for our next record' mode," Pezzati said. "Friday's Charleston performance and an upcoming show at the Metro will be the last of the band's live performances for a couple of months," he said.

Pezzati termed the group a "loose Democracy" with no real leader. "And, although each band member contributes in different ways, Pezzati said "everybody writes—it's (songwriting) spaced out pretty evenly."

Buehler said that as of Wednesday, ticket sales for Friday's show were going well at about 50. He added that he expected sales to pick up toward the weekend.

Pezzati noted that although Naked Raygun would like to see a good crowd, it doesn't matter if there's "one person there, or a million—we'll play for whoever's there."

"The crowd last time was really great," he said, adding that last spring's audience contained a "mixture" of people—"totally diverse."

"Last time, there was a lot of slam-dancing and stage-diving," Pezzati said. He noted that some of the "really brave" participants stood closer to the stage, "while others were in the back drinking beer."

Pezzati said that he personally is "not big on" slam dancing, however.

"It depends on how it's done; the people you're landing on have to know all about it," Pezzati said.

"Lots of times, people just stand back and watch," he said.

Advance tickets for Naked Raygun may be purchased for $5.50 at Mazuma Records, while tickets at the door will go for $6.50, Buehler said.

Naked Raygun, an "aggressive pop" band, returns to Charleston for its next-to-last concert before beginning work on another album, lead singer Jeff Pezzati said in a telephone interview Wednesday.

Although some of the band's songs focus on political topics, Pezzati said Naked Raygun tries to stay away from "preachy" lyrics, focusing instead on "personal politics." And while the band strives for its own unique sound, Pezzati said that some of the punk influences of bands from the '78 to '80 time periods have had some influence on Naked Raygun.

A big crowd would be nice, Pezzati admitted, but added that it doesn't matter if there's "one person there, or a million—we'll play for whoever's there."

'Back to School' worth price to see Dangerfield in action

By TINA PAULEY
 Staff writer

Granted, it's juvenile. And it's not what college life is really like. And it didn't stimulate my intellect.

But I liked it.

Maybe that's because "Back to School" features an obnoxious, 60ish man—who else but Rodney Dangerfield—who's hard not to like.

After all, who wouldn't like a character named Thornton Melon, a personality loaded with character, who leaves his successful business to become a freshman in college just to show his depressed son a good time?

OK, not just to show his son a good time, but to have a little fun himself and get away from an ex-wife in the process.

While everyone is having fun at school, the movie is very entertaining, but it tends to drag when it comes time for the son Thornton Jr. (played by Keith Gordon) to cope with the fact that he is embarrassed by his father's not-so-respectable behavior.

Although Thornton Melon is way beyond college age and doesn't have much book knowledge, he does manage to make the grade with life experience and conning ability. Along the way he also finds time to date his English professor. The only major problem Melon does have in school is a common one for today's college students—final exams.

Without a doubt, Dangerfield carries this movie. It's fun to watch a rich, slob-of-an-older man wheel and deal his way through his freshman year at college, but if it wasn't Rodney it just wouldn't be the same.

Gordon does a good job as Melon Jr., but his character stays the same—boring from beginning to end. Also, Sally Kellerman is good as Dangerfield's English professor and love interest.

Showing Friday in the Grand Ballroom, "Back to School" is worth the $1 price of admission—if only for Dangerfield's rendition of the Beatles' "Twist and Shout" and his interpretation of a Dylan Thomas poem during an oral exam.

Area shops offer deals on membership, rental

BY PAULEY
writer

As wide as the variety of movie titles on video cassettes is the variety of VCR shops in Charleston and what they offer.

The Will Rogers Video Store, next to the theater, offers free popcorn to patrons along with One for the Road, a $10 for $1 when a person brings in a movie ticket stub from an evening showing, manager Dick Collins said.

The store has been open three-and-a-half weeks, Collins said, and along with membership to the video club, patrons are given a complimentary membership pass.

VCRs cost $5 a day while movies are only $2, he noted. There is a $10 deposit charge on renting VCRs.

Joe Thomas of the Video Shop, 207 Main Ave., said that although most movies do require a deposit charge, The Video Shop does not. VCRs are available there for $6.

Other movies cost $1 to rent, while new releases and more popular titles like "Back to School" and "Karate Kid Part 2" cost $1.50. Thomas said the store has a "rent-to-own" plan for students who would like to rent a VCR for a semester that costs $9 a week as compared to $15 a week without the plan.

Craig's Video, next to Osco's, doesn't require a deposit charge either, employee Jeff Craig said. VCRs can be rented there for $6 and movie cassettes cost $1, $2 or $3.

Craig noted that prices on cassettes are raising because the stores are paying more for new releases.

Along with free membership, Royce Rentals, 15 W. Lincoln Ave., offers a two-for-one deal on movies. Royce also has a rent-to-own plan on which prices vary depending on the type of machine, according to employee Bruce Lawery.

Movies cost $1 to rent, while VCRs are $4.99 a night. A $50 deposit charge is required, Lawery said.

Students find VCRs an alternative to the bars

BY POSZICH
writer

Going to the bars vs. renting a VCR—to some students it's an alternative, but to others the VCR weekend is regular activity.

"It gives you something to do when you have the free time," said sophomore Sam Hoepner, a Carman Hall resident.

Hoepner said his roommate has owned a VCR since Christmas. As a result, the two haven't been to a movie in Charleston since.

Hoepner estimated that they spend about $25 a month on movies. He said they spend three out of four weekends watching movies in their room.

In addition, Hoepner said he and his roommate tape several programs throughout the week.

This includes not only sporting events but also soap operas such as "Days of Our Lives," he said.

"Whatever I can't see, I tape," he sophomore Cliff Cunningham, another Carman Hall resident, also owns a VCR. He sees it as an alternative to frequenting the area bars.

"I like to stay in and save money instead of going to the bars and spending money," he said.

"It's harder to get movies on the weekends because they are the most popular days" for movie rentals, Cunningham said.

Cunningham said he likes to rent "horror movies, action and comedies. 'Back to School' was one of the best this summer," he noted.

However, if you are not fortunate enough to own a VCR, residence halls now offer them to check out at the desks. Both Hoepner and Cunningham checked them out at Carman Hall desk before Christmas, although there were no guarantees of getting it.

Lincoln, Douglas and Stevenson halls' secretary Andrea Lester said, "It's (the VCR) taken almost every day."

The best way to ensure getting the VCR for weekends is to check it out one week in advance, Lester said.

Juniors Clarice Humphres and Cindy Reber said they check out the Pemberton Hall VCR out at least once a month.

"It's the holidays we like to go for because if we get them (movies) during the week, it's cheaper," Reber said.

Humphres said, "We usually sign up two weeks before . . . as soon as we know we want to have it."

Reber said they enjoy watching the movies in their room because it is more of a private atmosphere. It's "a time we can get together, like going and seeing a movie—only cheaper."

Scuba class offers chance for certification

By MELISSA TIBEREND
Staff writer

Yes, Eastern does offer a class for all those aquatic aficionados—scuba diving.

For those who have always wondered what this class consists of—or those who didn't even know it existed—here's a chance to get acquainted with this fascinating sport.

"This class is a certification course in skin and scuba diving which includes certain national standards and things that have to be accomplished by each student," scuba instructor Ray Padovan said.

It includes an option to get certified, a process by which students are required to take two dives off campus.

"However, once leaving the pool, it's not a part of (Eastern's) scuba class anymore," Padovan said.

Students must pay a $15 fee which covers costs, liability insurance, and the certification fee that is sent to the university, he said.

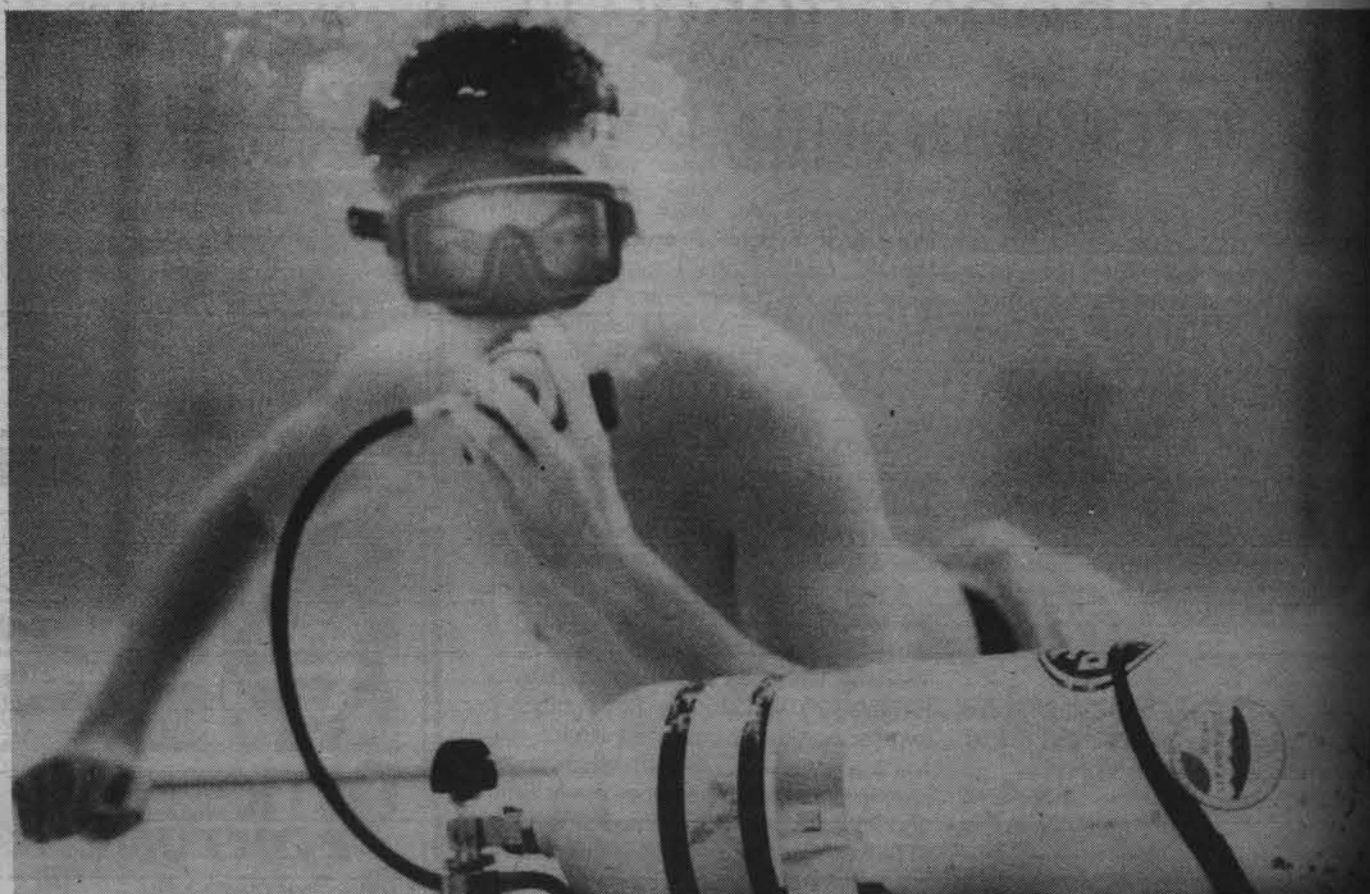

Divers who are not certified may not be able to use another owners' facilities, depending on the shop owner's decision to let them participate in the fun-loving sport, Padovan said.

The equipment required for this class is a mask, snorkel, tank, regulator, weight belt and wet suit, he said.

Since the supply of equipment is scarce, Padovan said he tries to have a full set of equipment for every two students when in the pool.

The $15 fee for the semester is very reasonable, Padovan said, considering that most universities require an air fee for the filling of tanks.

The sport can become somewhat of an investment, though, as students must buy their own mask, snorkel, and fins—which can cost anywhere from

A student in Eastern's scuba class practices a breathing technique with his air tank. scuba diving, instructor Ray Padovan said. The fee for the class is $15, and students are also required to provide their own masks, snorkels and fins.

Two 25-member capacity classes are currently underway, both offering students the opportunity to become certified in $70 to $100, Padovan said.

An in-water pre-test is given the first day of class which requires all students to swim 90 feet underwater and do a 10-minute swim on their stomach, he said.

This is the only requirement students must have for the scuba class; if students do not pass the pre-test then they are advised to drop out of the class, Padovan noted.

Although scuba diving can be a complex yet fun sport, Padovan said he tries to take some of the basic premises of the activity a bit further for his students.

"I'm training my students for certain situations that might arise where things aren't exactly what they are supposed to be and the student can react in a safe manner and, therefore, become a safe diver," he said.

There are currently two scuba classes now with a maximum capacity of 25 students per class, Padovan said.

"It's pretty much a specialty course, but 90 percent of the people who make up the class are the university population.

"Most people like it," he added.

'Good Doctor' gives comic relief

JUDY WEIDMAN
Assistant Verge editor

If you're sick of the weather then "The Good Doctor" is the perfect cure for the winter blues.

Written by Neil Simon, a classic comedian-playwright, the play features 10 short stories narrated by the good doctor (sophomore Gerry Lunsford) as if the audience was reading his thoughts.

The play, which opens Friday at 8 p.m. at the Doudna Fine Arts Center, combines a well-written script with fine acting to successfully keep the audiences attention by having duel performances (the narrator and the actors) and effective transitions between stories (done by Lunsford).

The doctor is a playwright who remains at his cluttered desk throughout the entire play.

In the opening scene he comes in through a trap door, enters his office and introduces the audience to his work.

The first story features Cherdyakov

(sophomore Bill Price) an assistant clerk in the Russian tree and bush cabinet who meets General Brassilhov, (freshman Robert Poe) his superior, at the Theatre and, after being overly friendly, he accidentally sneezes on him during the performance.

During the rest of the story, Cherdyakov continues to apologize to the point of losing his job because he became a menace to the general.

The doctor ends the story with Cherdyakov dying, or inheriting 500,000 rubles if the audience prefers happy endings.

In the next story, a penny pincher (senior Jill Taylor) cons a governess into accepting 10 rubles for two months of work, a small reduction from the 80 rubles that the mistress originally agreed to pay her.

Throughout the play, the actors and actresses take on different roles displaying their talent and their versatility.

Sophomore Troy Mayfield went from portraying a Kuryatin yanking a patient's tooth out with pliers to a womanizer, giving Eastern's male population a lecture, complete with illustrations, on how to successfully pick up married women.

Junior Alison Eudeikis, who made her first appearance as Cherdyakov's dumpy wife, later serenades the audience with Poe in a touching scene about old age.

After Friday's opening performance, the play will also be shown at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday with a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m.

Whether you are charmed by the good doctor or humored by the stories, "The Good Doctor" is well-worth the $2 ticket price for students.

REVIEW

Live classics top synthesized stuff

By DANE BUCZKOWSKI
Staff writer

With all the new kinds of synthesized, computer-generated and electronic music, some say there is a fear that conventional instruments will become obsolete.

Imagine now going to see Beethoven's Ninth Symphony: there is a 100-piece orchestra with all instruments covered—the violins, violas, basses, trumpets, percussion, horns, etc. There is also a full choir—each person with his own thoughts, creativity and sensitivity.

And, of course, there is the conductor. He or she is responsible for integrating the different rhythms and harmonies.

The Ninth Symphony is a work that should only be performed by people with instruments. Although the creation of new forms of music is fine and should be pursued, I hope the pure form, the way the great composers intended their music to be played, is never eliminated.

So what am I getting at?

I think it's clear what a live recital or concert does for me. The thing I'm getting at is what I want it to do for you. This Tuesday was an excellent example of this point.

One of Eastern's finest musicians performed a faculty recital in Dvorak Concert Hall. He is Tom Brawner, the director of Eastern's Marching Band and trumpet teacher.

Brawner played pieces by Stanley, an English Baroque composer; Hummel, a student of Mozart, and Enesco, a late Romantic composer.

For those who have never heard the Hummel "Trumpet Concerto in E-flat Major," it is something to go to heaven by. I may be partial to this piece because I played it in the high school state solo contest, but it is still one of the favorites among listeners of classical music. The Hummel Concerto is available on disk or compact disk by great artists such as Wynton Marsalis and Maurice Andre.

The last piece of Brawner's recital was the "Legend for Trumpet and Piano" by Georges Enesco. Although this was the first time I had ever heard this, it just may be one of my favorites. The Legend requires such virtuosity that the technique alone makes it an enjoyable piece.

The second part of the program Tuesday night featured Brawner with the EIU Faculty Brass Quintet.

The quintet played two popular pieces for brass and one piece that was arranged for brass quintet. The first two, "Scherzo," by John Cheetham, and "Sonata from Die Bankelsangerlieder" (no, the piece was not as long as its name) showed the group's unity.

The last one, "Poet and Peasant Overture" by von Suppe, was a work that Popeye's nephews made familiar to me. Well anyway, Pipeye, Peepeye, and Poopeye (I think those were their names) were building a house and the "Poet and Peasant Overture" was guiding them along. OK, enough music history.

Well, that is all for the review, but what is coming up soon in culture? I'm glad you asked because there are some great things on the schedule.

Virtuoso flautist Robert Dick will perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Doudna Fine Arts Building Concert Hall. Dick is a man who is known for doing things with the flute that are seldom heard or seen. To find out the details, go to the Concert Hall and check it out—I'm sensing a great performance.

In the way of piano performances, an Eastern student who is on the rise in her interpretations of Haydn, Liszt, and Chopin will give a student recital at 2 p.m. next Friday in Dvorak Concert Hall. She is Linda Spicer, who is a piano performance major in Eastern's music department. This will be another event well worth attending.

That's it this week in culture (excepting the Eastern Trio, but I was working and couldn't attend—but could safely assume it was an excellent performance).

How about this: One day I will die and, of course, trumpet music will be played at my funeral. If a quintet of trumpets shows up, how many people will be there?

Answer: 10—each trumpeter has a roadie to carry his trumpet.

TALE-END

bucks," you must whiz by flashing your pre-marked hand and say, "I was already in."

The flash of the hand must be quick in case you degraded yourself with a different color marker than they chose to use.

Again, I have never tried this myself. I've only heard about it.

However, getting accosted at the door or trying to weasel your way out of being marked aren't the traumatic elements of writing on your hand. The really bad part doesn't happen until the next morning.

I know. It happened to me.

The morning after I went to the first hand-stamping place I mentioned—you know, the one with the dance floor the night before—I had to be at work at food service at the un-Godly hour of 7 a.m.

Big mistake.

When the phone rang at 7:05 and I knew full-well I was supposed to be at work five minutes ago I didn't answer the phone with a basic "hello." I just picked it up and apologized profusely while explaining that I was just on my way out the door.

OK, so I lied a little.

I didn't look at myself. I pulled on sweatpants, ran my fingers through your hair and prayed my mascara had not run down to my chin while I was sleeping.

I imagine I must have looked like a complete freak from all of the eyes that were upon me as I arrived. Of course the guy I had a slight crush on would have to be working that morning, too.

Maybe he won't talk to me, I hoped. No such luck. He made a beeline for me.

"Jean, did you go out last night?" he asked.

"Yes, why did you see me?" I said.

"No, your stamp is on your face," he said laughing as he walked away.

Oh yeah, the most important thing to remember about stamps is to wash your hands before you go to bed.

Methods for coping with hand stamp miseries

By JEAN WRIGHT
Managing editor

It never fails. You go someplace, be it one of Charleston's finer drinking establishments or an after-bars party, and the person standing at the door, be it an over zealous bartender or anxious party host, insists on marking your hand or some other obscure part of your body with a marker, stamp or some other ridiculous writing utensil.

I hate when that happens. After all, you enter the place unmarked (perhaps even showered) and they insist on marking on your perfectly clean skin. There is no way around this.

Believe me, I've tried. You can beg, whine, plead that you are allergic to indelible markings or offer your first-born child not to be marked on. Those marker/stamp wielding people are ruthless. They see unmarked flesh and they must draw.

So, since you know this body graffiti is going to happen anyway, you might as well use it to your advantage. I'm not advocating you do any of the soon-to-be mentioned things as one is illegal and both are definitely immoral, but here goes anyway.

There is a bar in Charleston—I won't mention it by name—but let's just say it's the only blue building near campus with a dance floor. Well, this place stamps hands on the top for those of us who are of legal drinking age and on the palm of the hand for the younger pups.

I think just about any freshmen that attended the establishment figured out that the opportune way to handle the hand-stamping ritual at the door was to persuade an older person to join them. Then, while the ink was still fresh on the 21-year-old's hand, you would quick-like-a-bunny duck into a corner and smash your hands together like you did when you became blood brothers with the kid down the street.

All right, so it didn't work all of the time. Of course, it's never happened to me, but I've heard that the management expresses its disapproval of this practice by asking those involved to vacate the establishment in a hurried manner.

People can be so touchy.

A better way to handle the marking of hands is to do it yourself before you even get there. Call it self-degradation if you want, but it can get you into many an after-bars party for nada.

Suppose you're going to one of the more popular party houses on campus. I won't call it by name, but let's just say it's named for small, black and white, webbed-footed flightless birds, known in the comic world as "Opus." It seems that when the people that live in this house throw an after-bars party, they consistently use the same distinctive mark.

Well, knowing this, it becomes very simple to arrive at the party pre-marked. To successfully complete this miser mission when you arrive at the party and the money-hungry hosts at the door grunt at you, "Two
