WRITING CENTER NEWS

We're pleased to announce that Pam Walter has joined the Writing Center in the new position of Academic Science Writing Specialist. Pam comes to us with more than 20 years of experience as a writing and communications consultant for scientists working in government, pharmaceutical, and nonprofit sectors, including NASA, NIH, DoE, and Hoffman La Roche. She has served as a writing instructor, editor, and writing support coach for journal submissions, grant proposals, and other scientific and technical writing.

In her new role at Jefferson, Pam will work to fulfill the goal of the Writing Center: providing support to Jefferson researchers throughout the writing and publishing process. As part of that goal, Pam will have two main focus areas: (1) working with faculty to support student learning of professional writing skills and publishing practices, and (2) developing writing- and publishing-focused workshops.

Pam can be reached at 215-503-2828 or Pamela.Walter@jefferson.edu.

RESOURCES FOR WRITING AND PUBLISHING

A wide array of resources related to writing and publishing can be found on the Scott Library website. In addition to details on the Writing Center, you'll find information about:

- Grants and funding opportunities
- Systematic reviews
- Copyright
- Jefferson Digital Commons
- Medical illustration and video production
- Citation management tools (e.g., F1000, RefWorks)

WRITING CAFÉ

Writing Café is open Fridays from 9am-11am. Writing Café is a quiet space where writers can gather to work on individual writing projects. It is located in room 200A of Scott Library. Drop in anytime and stay as long as you like. All you need to bring is your laptop (or just a pad of paper).
