Computer Graphics International (CGI) is one of the most prestigious conferences in the world where researchers and professional practitioners are gathered annually to celebrate and share their novel achievements in computer graphics. CGI is the official conference of the Computer Graphics Society, a long-standing international computer graphics organisation. CGI and CGS were started in Tokyo by Professor T.L. Kunii from the University of Tokyo in 1983. Over the past decades, the CGI conference has been a key venue for the computer graphics community and has taken place all over the world. It is a truly international conference. This year, CGI'2013 celebrates its 30th anniversary and a Best Paper Award will be given.

This special edition of The Visual Computer contains the best 35 papers of the Computer Graphics International 2013 (CGI 2013) conference held in Hanover, at the Leibniz University of Hanover in Germany, and is supported by the Computer Graphics Society.

We have received 213 valid full paper submissions from over 30 different countries, and all the submitted papers went through two to four reviews by 129 International Program Committee (IPC) and 193 external sub-reviewers. Finally, 35 best papers have been selected to be published in this special issue of The Visual Computer making the acceptance rate less than 16.4 %. A couple of next best papers have been selected for a further regular next issue after revision.

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to the IPC members as well as to the external reviewers for their extremely efficient work in reviewing all these papers in a relative short time. Many thanks go to the authors who have submitted their work.

After 30 years of existence, the CGI conference has reached excellence and visibility. We will continue to do so and next year, CGI will be held at the University of Sydney in Australia.

Thank you to the local chairs for the organisation of the conference and to many other people who have contributed to make this event a success.
