A LOOK AT BRYANT

- Bryant College was founded in 1863 in response to an early demand for specialized training in commerce and finance. Bryant has prepared thousands of young men and women in the past century to assume responsibilities of leadership in every area of business.
- For the first 107 years of its existence Bryant was located in the city of Providence. However in September, 1971 Bryant made a historical move to its new campus in Smithfield, R. I. The new campus is built upon the beautiful 220-acre former estate of Earl S. Tupper, the former President of Tupperware Company.
- The current enrollment of Bryant is approximately 2,600 full-time students.
- There are over 25,000 living alumni of Bryant. They live in all 50 states and several foreign countries.
- Bryant is a member of and has been accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges and by the National Council of Accreditation for Teacher Education.
- Over 25 acres of the campus are dedicated to athletic facilities.
- The center of the athletic complex is the 2,700-seat gymnasium, home of the Bryant Basketball Indians. In addition to its ultra-modern tartan-surfaced basketball courts the gym also includes sauna baths, men's and women's exercise rooms, weight rooms, locker facilities and the college's athletic offices.
- The college library currently has a collection of 65,000 volumes. However the new facility has been planned to accommodate over 100,000 volumes and 400 readers.
- Bryant is located near a network of modern super highways which connect the campus to major turnpikes in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut. The campus is located only 12 miles from Providence, 47 miles from Boston, 74 miles from Hartford and 88 miles from Springfield.
- Nationally recognized four-year academic programs lead to degrees of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, Bachelor of Science in Business Education, Bachelor of Science in Office Administration and Bachelor of Science in Law Enforcement. The College also offers MBA Graduate Degrees.

TOM FOLLIARD Head Coach

When Tom Folliard took over as Bryant College's first full-time basketball coach and athletic director in 1968 he began a quest to expand a great New England basketball tradition into a highly successful, top-flite basketball program.

Bryant had been part of the New England collegiate basketball scene for almost two decades when Tom became head man in 68. The Indians had enjoyed tremendous success in the New England small-college ranks under Folliard's predecessor Tom Duffy.

But Folliard knew if the Indians were to remain in the limelight amid the changing New England college picture they needed to up-grade their caliber of competition while maintaining the winning habits Bryant fans had come to know.

In just six short years Folliard has accomplished both goals.

In those six seasons Folliard has directed the Indians to a position among the top eastern college-division schools. As athletic director he has up-graded the schedule to include most of the top Division II teams in the New England ranks. And as basketball coach he has kept the Bryant winning tradition alive and well.

In those six years he has registered a total of 104 wins against only 50 setbacks. Those victories have led the Indians to four NAIA regional playoffs, four Naismith Conference championships and the championship round of two Holiday Tournaments.

His .671 winning percentage ranks him fourth among active New England college-division coaches with three or more years of duty.

And as one proud Bryant alumnus puts it "He has accomplished this record without lowering the quality or integrity of the program."

Bryant fans aren't the only people who have recognized Tom's accomplishments. In the past three years he has been named by his fellow coaches as the New England Division III "Coach of the Year", the NAIA Eastern "Coach of the Year", the NAIA New England "Coach of the Year" and three times selected as the Naismith Conference "Coach of the Year".

Of course there still are a few unattained goals, like a New England divisional championship or even a national title. Ten years ago Bryant fans wouldn't even think about such things. But that was before they knew Tom Folliard.

THE YEAR PAST 1973-74 REVIEW

Coach Tom Folliard definitely proved one thing last season; Rebuilding years don't always have to be poor years in the win-loss column.

The 1973-74 season was destined to be a rebuilding year for the Indians. After all they lost four of five starters and five of the top six scorers from the 72-73 team which posted an outstanding 20-6 record.

Folliard knew he faced a massive rebuilding effort. But he was equally confident his young squad possessed the talent necessary for a successful season.

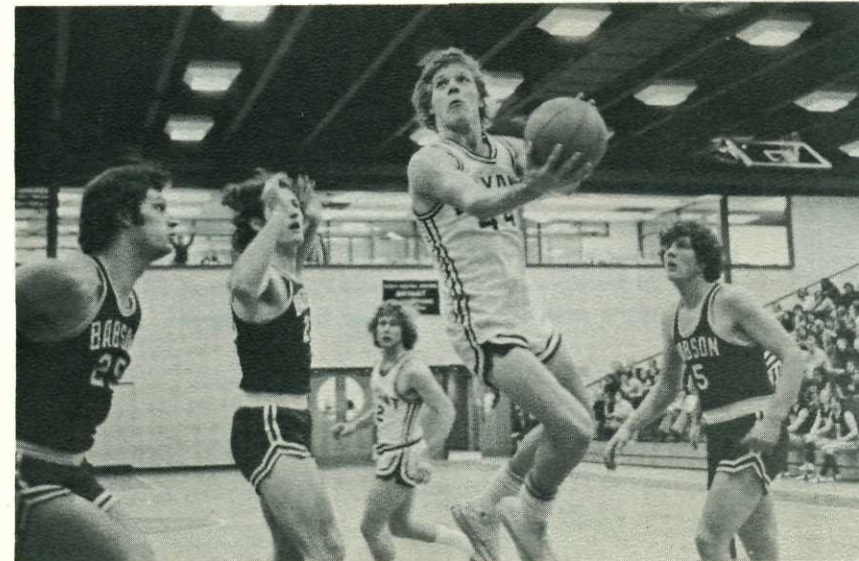

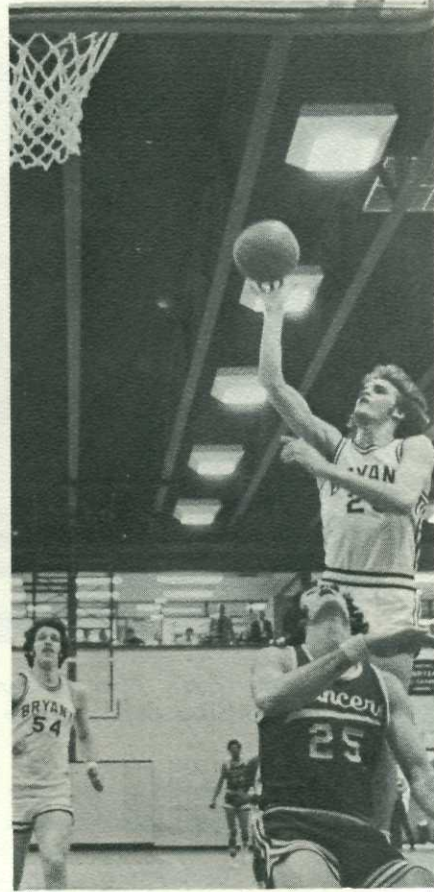

And when the 73-74 campaign ended last March Folliard's assumptions were proven correct. But to simply summarize the 73-74 season as successful would be a gross understatement.

The young Indians, without a senior in the starting lineup and only one junior, compiled probably the most impressive record of any hoop team in Bryant history. They rolled to a 20-8 season record, finished fifth in the UPI New England college-division rankings, captured the Naismith Conference championship and gave Folliard the longest winning streak in his six-year coaching career.

Not bad for a team that started three sophomores, a freshman and a junior and whose first three men off the bench were underclassmen.

As expected they started slow, losing six of their first 10 games. But after the semester break they became one of the hottest college division teams in the East winning 15 of their final 16 regular season contests, highlighted by a 77-72 triumph over Bentley, at the time the number-one ranked college-division team in New England.

Enroute to their outstanding season the young Indinas recorded Bryant's longest winning streak in seven years, 13 straight, gave Folliard his 100th career victory and set three new school scoring records. The only blemish on their outstanding record was a heartbreaking one-point setback in the title game of the NAIA Regional Championships in March.

THE YEAR AHEAD

OUTLOOK

The New England division II scoring champion and the region's top playmaker included among seven returning lettermen, several outstanding freshmen prospects and a top transfer becoming eligible. Those would appear to be the makings of a great basketball team.

That's what coach Tom Folliard has at his disposal this year and he hopes it will make the Indians one of the top teams in the eastern college-division ranks.

The Indians have plenty of scoring punch in 6-10 junior Dave Sorafine, the New England division II scoring champion last season with a 25.4 average, Rob Hammel, 12.8 ppg last year and Tom Dupont, 11.8.

And if Sorafine, Hammel or Dupont don't have the hot hand, Folliard can always call upon Paul Melvin, a 6-6 sharpshooting forward from Danbury, Conn., who averaged 7.4 last season.

Getting the ball up the court to Sorafine and company shouldn't present any problems with senior Ned Bohan in the backcourt. Bohan set a New England college-division season assist record last year with 302 setups. Freshman Jeff Kusz is expected to team with Bohan and Hammel and Dupont both could see some duty in the backcourt.

Rebounding shouldn't be any problem for the Indians either. In addition to Sorafine, who averaged 13 per game last year there is 6-10 Charlie Armstrong and co-captain Bob Moll, both seasoned veterans. Joining this trio will be 6-4 Kim Kaplan, who transferred from Brandeis last year, sophomore George Crane, one of the top rebounders on last year's sub varsity squad and 6-5 freshman Chris Avrey.

OUTLOOK BY POSITION

GUARDS

Lettermen Returning — 1
Lettermen Lost — 2

Co-captain Ned Bohan is the only member of last year's backcourt returning this season. But the 1974 New England assist champion shouldn't have any problem directing the Indian offense. Freshman Jeff Kusz will team with Ned along with swingmen Rob Hammel and Tom Dupont.

FORWARDS

Lettermen Returning — 4
Lettermen Lost — 1

Good size, speed and shooting talent gives coach Tom Folliard one of the top forecourts in the New England college-division ranks. Big 6-10 Dave Sorafine, speedy Rob Hammel, and sharpshooters Tom Dupont and Paul Melvin can expect some help from 6-5 freshman Chris Avery, sophomore George Crane and junior Bobby Penta.

CENTERS

Lettermen Returning — 3
Lettermen Lost — 0

The addition of transfer Kim Kaplan gives the Indians four top centers. Kaplan joins 6-10 junior Charlie Armstrong and co-captain Bob Moll as the regular middlemen. Dave Sorafine also should see some action at center as well as forward.

When discussing the All-American selection process one veteran New England sports writer summarized, "If you don't play for one of the big schools you really have to be an extraordinary player to draw national attention"

Bryant's Dave Sorafine apparently is such an extraordinary player. Because Big Dave is drawing a lot of national attention.

Just about every 74-75 collegiate forecast included Sorafine's name as one of the top players in the national college-division ranks this season.

His sensational accomplishments during his sophomore year in 1973-74 makes him one of the top national scoring leaders returning this year.

But it isn't just the scoring average itself that makes Dave one of the nation's best. It's how he scores the points.

In 28 games last year he tallied 711 points. But unlike most men his size, (6-10), a large percentage of those points came from 15, 20 or even 25 feet away from the basket.

"He has one of the softest touches I have ever seen for a big man" says his coach Tom Folliard. "Plus he has good speed and good hands. He can lead a fast break, hit from 20 feet out or tip-in a rebound. He's basketball's answer to the triple threat."

But despite all those scoring talents Dave isn't a reckless shooter. He connected on 58 percent of his 504 field goal attempts last season, an outstanding percentage for a big man that does considerable outside shooting.

And of course there is the rebounding. Last year he pulled down close to 13 rebounds per game. Combine that with a 100 or so blocked shots and you have what is known as an All-American player, regardless of where he plays.

NED BOHAN

Basketball Magician

12 NED BOHAN

Senior Co-Captain Guard

Providence, R. I.

If there ever was an un-sung hero in the annals of Bryant basketball it would have to be Ned Bohan

A starter since the first game of his freshman season in 1971 Ned's accomplishments have often gone unacclaimed probably because most Bryant fans have become accustomed to taking great performance from Ned as a natural occurrence.

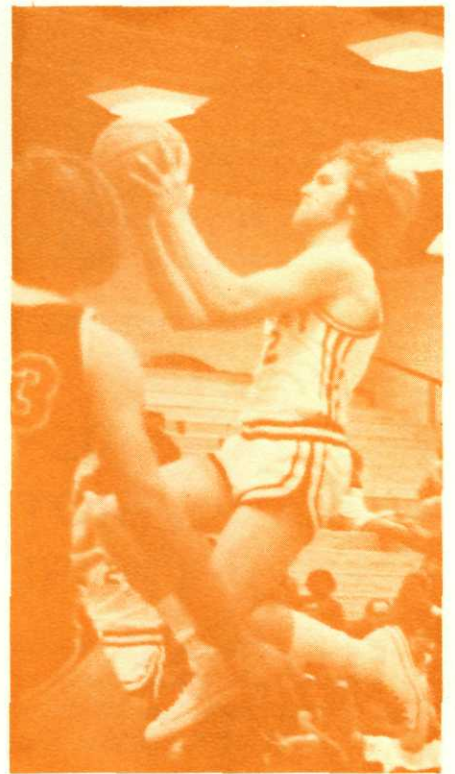

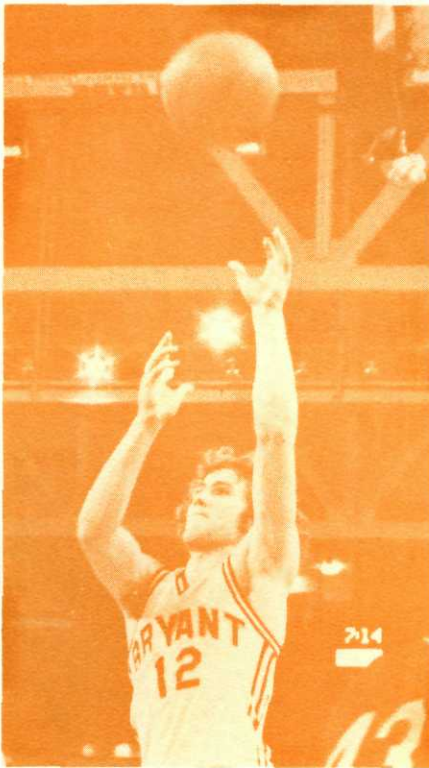

However last year Ned finally began receiving some measure of acclaim for his play. But it took a record-breaking performance for New England basketball fans to finally realize that Ned Bohan is one of the best playmakers New England collegiate basketball has ever seen.

In 28 games last year Ned registered an all-time New England season high of 302 assists. The mark broke the eight-year record of American International's Henry Payne.

Sometime this season Ned undoubtedly will put his name in the record books once again needing just over 100 more setups to break Payne's career assist mark of 748.

So finally after three years of playing unselfishly in the shadows of his teammates Ned finally is being recognized.

Of course there's one person who has been well aware of Ned's talent for a long time, head coach Tom Folliard. "Ned has been the key to our offense for three years, says coach Folliard, I'm just happy some people are beginning to give him some of the credit he has deserved for a long time."
