

Christopher Reed (right), Associate Professor of History at The Ohio State University, introduced Man-houng Lin, Professor of History at National Taiwan Normal University. Lin spoke about "The Neglected Taipei Treaty: A New Perspective of Taiwan's Legal Status" on April 20, 2009, at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies.

Ohio State students enrolled in "History of Contemporary China, 1949-Present," attended Lin's lecture on April 20, 2009. During the question and answer session, discussion centered around the future of Taiwan's national identity.

Man-houng Lin has been a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Modern History, Academia Sinica since 1990 and Professor of History at National Taiwan Normal University since 1991. In 2008, she was named president of Taiwan's Academia Historica, or State History Academy.
