

Conference Photos

Ostpolitik, 1969-1974: The European and Global Response

Bernd Schaefer of the German Historical Institute and Carole Fink of The Ohio State University were conference organizers for "Ostpolitik 1969-74: The European and Global Response," held May 12-13, 2006, at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies at The Ohio State University in Columbus.

Tilman Dederling (left) of the University of Pretoria spoke on "Ostpolitik and its Repercussions in South Africa" while Norm Goda of Ohio University in Athens chaired the session.

Oldrich Tuma (left) of the Institute of Contemporary History at the Academy of Sciences in Prague spoke between sessions with Wanda Jarzabek of the Institute of Political Studies at the Polish Academy of Sciences in Warsaw.

David Stone of Kansas State University spoke on "Comecon's International Investment Bank: East-West Financial Relations in the Era of Ostpolitik."

About 50 people attended the Ostpolitik conference from Ohio State and other universities across Ohio and around the world.

Amit Das Gupta of the Institute of Contemporary History spoke on "Berlin, South Asia and Neue Ostpolitik."

Meung-Hoan Noh (left) of the Institute of History and Culture at Hankuk University of Foreign Studies participated on a panel about Asian responses to Ostpolitik with Amit Das Gupta of the Institute of Contemporary History and Bernd Schaefer of the German Historical Institute.

Meung-Hoan Noh of the Institute of History and Culture at Hankuk University of Foreign Studies gave a paper on "West German Ostpolitik and its Influence on South-North Korean Relations, 1969-74."

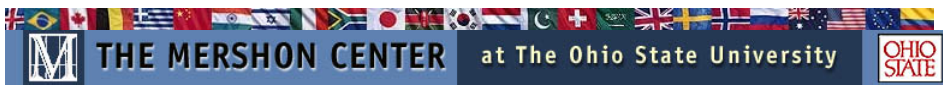

Milan Kosanovic (left) of the University of Bonn chatted with Andrey Edemskiy of the Institute of Slavic and Balkan Studies at the Russian Academy of Science in Moscow during a break.

Uta Balbier of the Hamburg Institute for Social Research spoke on "Rivals, Partners, Sportsmen: The Olympics, German Ostpolitik, and the GDR's Struggle for Recognition."

To see more Ostpolitik conference photos, please continue to Page Two.

Conference Photos

Ostpolitik, 1969-1974:
The European and Global Response

Norm Goda (right) of Ohio University chaired a session on "Altering the Divide in Europe." Panelists included (left to right) Gottfried Niedhart of the University of Mannheim, Uta Balbier of the Hamburg Institute for Social Research, and David Stone of Kansas State University.

The Ostpolitik conference included participants from Britain, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Poland, Russia, South Africa, South Korea and the United States.

Gerald Hughes (left) of the University of Wales speaks with David Stone of Kansas State University during a break.

Gottfried Niedhart of the University of Mannheim spoke on "The Impact of Ostpolitik and

West German Revisionism on the CSCE."

Gerald Hughes (left) of the University of Wales and Irwin Wall of the University of California-Riverside listened during their panel on the response of German allies to Ostpolitik.

Irwin Wall of the University of California-Riverside (left) talks with Bernd Schaefer of the German Historical Institute between sessions as Gottfried Niedhardt of the University of Mannheim converses in the background.

Carole Fink (left) of The Ohio State University takes down a question as session chair Corinna Unger of the German Historical Institute looks on. Fink spoke on Israel and Ostpolitik.

William Gray of Purdue University spoke on "Weapons for the Weak? German Leadership Among the Non-Nuclear Powers."

Jacques Hymans of Smith College spoke on "The Limits of Norms: Germany's Nuclear Relationship with Argentina Before and After the Non-Proliferation Treaty." Hymans is a former post-doctoral fellow at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies.

Conference participants were treated to a special dinner and performance on the evening of May 12.

Stan Workman (standing in tuxedo), tenor, and Edward Bak (seated at piano) performed "Ein Liederabend" for conference participants at a special dinner on the evening of May 12.

To see more Ostpolitik conference photos, please go back to Page One.