PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Good morning. Today, May 1, is an important day in the life of this university. On May 1, 1878, the state legislature changed the name of The Ohio Agricultural and

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mechanical College to The Ohio State University. No longer "Ohio A & M," we became Ohio State, and ever after would have a capital "T" "The" as part of our name.

It was in May 1870 that the Board of Trustees first met, and May Trustee meetings have proven interesting through the years. It was at a May meeting in 1916 that the Trustees authorized the purchase of an automobile for the use of President Thompson.

In May 1885, the Trustees authorized spending fifty dollars for equipping a gymnasium "for the young ladies." Of course, today, you could not buy a pair of Reeboks for that, as we all know! And at the May Trustees meeting in 1881, your esteemed predecessors decided that the electric light was not practical for the university at that time. Imagine how they would feel about FAX machines!

The Archives also report that it was in May 1918 that the faculty voted in favor of the four quarter plan of study. We are coming up on the 75th anniversary of the quarter calendar and I have just one word for that celebration: Semester!

As we begin the month, I want to note that on our campuses, spring is notable for the year-end recognitions and honors that are bestowed on students, faculty, and staff members. As you heard in this morning's committees, we are beginning Honors Week, when the class recognition societies and other groups will reward achievement.

This past month, we honored faculty with the Alumni Distinguished Teaching Award and the Distinguished Scholar Award. As you know, I arrived unannounced in the classrooms of the recipients and surprised them with the news of their honor. It was obvious, by the way, that the students were thrilled for them, or maybe the students were just glad that we interrupted their lecture!

Since their department chairs were in on the planning, in many cases, their colleagues joined us for the occasion. Rather than simply mailing a letter of announcement, these celebrations seemed a much more appropriate way to acknowledge the importance of teaching and research at this institution.

In April, we also presented the Ohio State Awards for public broadcasting excellence. These awards, given by WOSU stations, are the oldest awards in the field and are considered quite prestigious in the industry. The General Motors Volunteers Spirit Awards this week honored three students for outstanding service to the community and the campus.

We just completed Parent's Weekend and are in the midst of Greek Week. Tomorrow is the Medieval and Renaissance Festival.

"In Black and White: Dress from the 1920s to Today" opened at the Wexner Center and highlights Ohio State's Historic Costume and Textiles Collection.

Ohio State also is one of the sponsors of an exhibit at the Upper Arlington Municipal Building titled: "The Perpetrators." It is a Holocaust Remembrance of 43 works of art by Professor Emeritus Sid Chavetz.

As you can tell from these few highlights, spring is very busy on the campuses. And this year even more so as our faculty, staff, and students -- especially students -- have become involved in the state budget process. On April 15, rallies were held on our campuses in which voice was given to our concerns about state support for higher education. Then, on April 22, Ohio State students joined with others from across the state, marching to the State House and sending a message about the importance of education.

I want to publicly say how helpful our student government leaders have been in this effort, as well as our student trustees. They have represented Ohio State as our students always do and so exceptionally well.

I know that today is the last meeting for Undergraduate Student Government president Matt Markling. And I want to publicly remark on Matt's effective and dedicated leadership not only on our campus, but also among the student leaders of the state. Let me also recognize John Hilbert who is the incoming president of USG. John, if you will stand and be recognized by everyone. I want to also note that I have visited bars with John.

I also want to note that Sophia Paige is completing her term as president of the Interprofessional Council. All of you, of course, have known Sophia as one of our Trustees. An exceptional, exceptional person who represented this university so well and is now going on for her residency in California. We will miss her very much.

We are fortunate to have strong student voices at a time when student voices are so very critical. The message of concern about the extent of possible reductions in state support for higher education has been carried forward in many ways this month. I have talked to every audience I can find -- and some I should not have! -- about the impact of the budget decisions ahead. From editorial boards around the state, to parents, our alumni, community groups in every way possible, we are working hard to reinforce the message of Ohio State's role in the future success of this state.

Vice President Shkurti's report on this subject reflects the importance of our efforts. In this forum today, I want to thank the hundreds of faculty members, staff members, students, alumni, parents, and friends of Ohio State who have joined us by raising their voices and communicating with the political leadership in this state.

And while saying "thank you," I want to especially express my appreciation to David Tonnies for his marvelous service to Ohio State. As most of us know, David's efforts on behalf of this university did not begin with his appointment to the Board, rather, they began the day he arrived. For eight years, from undergraduate freshman student to leaving our medical school, he has shown consistent commitment to quality and his willingness to serve. I would say he has had an enormous impact for the good of this university. It was not that long ago that soon-to-be Dr. Tonnies was one of our Outstanding Seniors. I am confident that there are many more recognitions ahead in the world for David Tonnies. And, David, to you, we all say a very great thank you.

As I participate in the many recognition events of the spring, I am impressed by the quality of work and continued spirit of our university. Because of that, I remain optimistic about our future.

And, Mr. Chairman, this is the last meeting at which I will be sitting beside you to give this report. Of course, I would rather be sitting beside you here than at basketball or football games, as you all know.

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

But let me note publicly what I noted last evening, and that is that Joel Teaford has been a remarkable beacon of commitment to this institution. Joel is a graduate of Wesleyan University, a graduate of Harvard Law School, and as a non-alumna of this university has shown absolute dedication to what we are, what we will be, and our desire to become that much better. In every way and in every place he has indicated that dedication. So today, I join all of your colleagues, Joel, in thanking you for the great service that you have rendered.

Mr. Chairman, that completes my report.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Ms. Casto:

I am pleased to report that the increase in research funding received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation continues to show real growth. At tab 1 you will see that the award level for the period, July through March, is 27.78 percent above the same period last year. Through the first three quarters of this fiscal year, we have received 87.1 percent of the total funding received during last fiscal year, 1991. The number of awards received for the current period has increased from 1,023 to 1,140.

At tab 2 you will find expenditure summaries. It is noteworthy that the expenditures for all sponsor categories, except other non-federal, are running ahead of the same period last year by about 9 percent.

Some projects of special interest which were funded in the month of March are listed in tab 3. I thought you might be interested that the three projects presented in this section are all examples of multi-disciplinary teams attacking basic health problems. The National Center for Nursing Research funding will look at early intervention as a way of reducing cardiovascular disease in African-American children. The Muscular Dystrophy study is testing a potential method of correcting the missing protein defect in MD patients as preliminary work to gene transfer therapy. At tab 4 is the list of all projects funded in March.

At tab 5 you will find three interesting articles on indirect costs and how they relate to sponsored research. That completes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Barone:

I want to note that Ms. Casto has done a wonderful job in succeeding me on this very important Research Foundation Board. Research is acutally the backbone of the University and a necessity. She has done a wonderful job on that Board.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Barone:

The Hospitals Board and its Professional Affairs/Education/Research Committee both met on Thursday, April 23.

The Professional Affairs Committee moved into Executive Session for a confidential review of quality and resource indicators and a case study. In open session, Dr. Bush reported on progress toward establishment of an integrated practice group. Dr. Mekhjian reported on medical staff activities.

The Committee also received updates on the Risk Management program, employee certification, vacancy and turnover rates, and activities to ensure that the Hospitals will be in compliance with new standards when the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations makes its next site visit in November 1993.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT (contd)

Mr. Barone: (contd)

The first order of business for the Hospitals Board was to receive Committee reports. Next we received and endorsed the recommendation of the Nominating Committee that Susan Insley, Jack Havens, Dr. John Kramer, and Donald Shackelford be reappointed to 3-year terms on the Hospitals Board. We are also requesting a 3-year Emeritus appointment for Pete Klisares. Susan Insley was nominated as Chairman for next year, and Donald Shackelford was nominated as Vice Chair. It was announced that Dr. Grayce Sills has agreed to chair the Professional Affairs Committee; David Lauer will chair the Administrative/Operations Committee; and William Bennett will chair the Strategic Planning Committee. On behalf of the Hospitals Board, Mr. Fraley has sent a letter formally requesting the Board appointments previously mentioned.

The Hospitals Board presented a framed resolution to Mrs. Charlotte Immke in recognition of the dedicated service of her late husband, Len.

The Board received reports on patient statistics and financial performance of University Hospitals and the James Cancer Hospital. Our receivables have been reduced to 73 days, versus 100 days last June 30 and a target of 85 for this year.

We also received a report on news coverage of the Hospitals; an overview of the first three months of the University's managed healthcare initiative; development of the operating budget for the coming fiscal year; and updates on Certificate of Need projects, construction and renovation, and safety statistics.

Mr. Teaford:

I want to say, having served on the Hospitals Board, that Mr. Celeste and Mr. Barone must have done a hell of a job to get those receivables down to 73 days. That is truly a marvelous accomplishment and I think Reed Fraley may have had something to do with that.

Mr. Barone:

Mr. Fraley is not here today, but Mr. Celeste and I can vouch that there is not a harder worker in the whole University than Reed Fraley.

We are also recommending the following resolutions:

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

The Agricultural Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees had a whirlwind trip and meeting on April 22, 1992, at the Piketon Research and Extension Center in Piketon, Ohio. Bob Rades greeted those attending and gave a brief introduction to the Center.

The Piketon Research and Extension Center, appropriated in the 1986 capital budget and first occupied in 1991, is a unique facility since it combines research and extension programming under one roof. Six major program areas are targeted at the Piketon Research and Extension Center to serve the needs of South-Central Ohio. These are Forestry, Economic Development, Water Quality, Horticulture, Water Management, and Aquaculture.

We had a very quick tour of a variety of areas, including: the Reservoir Model, which illustrated the new longer-life design; the Groundwater Model showing underground cross-flows; in the Soils Lab, we were shown soil cores, sliced every four inches to show changes from topsoil down to gravel layers, an impressive display; and we toured the Horticulture Research Greenhouses.

Both above-ground, trickle tube and subsurface drainage tile irrigation methods were demonstrated at the Water Management site. Particularly interesting was the aquaculture ponds and building tour that displayed trout, yellow perch, walleye, and catfish that were among the species being raised. The aquaculture project, we believe, has great potential as a new agricultural industry for Ohio.

And, finally, the MSEA (Management Systems Evaluation Area) site was our last stop. This is a federally funded project, is a cooperative effort between a number of agencies, and is designed to monitor the effects of standard farming practices on underground water quality.

Following the tour, we met with several local people at the Emmitt House in Waverly, who are very supportive of the efforts at the Piketon Research and Extension Center. That concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Casto:

This morning we heard from Dr. Ada Demb, who has recently just come to us to be head of International Affairs. In her report, she gave statistics such as: four of our five area centers are among the 12 best in the country -- so recognized through grants as National Resource Centers; 20 percent of International Studies majors are honors students, the highest percentage in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences; our MUCIA projects are worth approximately $5 million; and dozens of faculty have introduced themselves to her during the past 3 months, to inform her of their independently initiated projects -- many in eastern Europe.

Dr. Demb is looking forward to her tenure here at Ohio State and asked if she could come back and see us at a later date when she feels that her feet are more on the ground.

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Ms. Casto: (contd)

Also, we heard from Peter van Deventer about the Interest Group on Global Understanding (IGGU). It is a grass roots organization here at Ohio State, which has been active since the summer of 1991, identifying issues related to the internationalization of Ohio State. We wish him success in the future; I very much admire his spirit.

Also in the Academic Affairs Committee meeting, Dr. Hayes discussed information about Indirect Costs that the University charges on externally funded research projects. This topic is receiving a great deal of attention at the national level as a result of claims that universities have been overcharging government grants and contracts. We were pleased to learn that Ohio State has not had any disputes with our Health and Human Services auditors concerning overcharging on prior year activities.

The Office of University Budget Planning has the responsibility for negotiating and developing the indirect cost rate charged to research grants and contracts. We are currently in the process of preparing the Indirect Cost proposal for FY 1993 and beyond. Our current indirect cost rate of 47 percent is significantly lower than rates at most private institutions such as Stanford (74 percent) and M.I.T. (62 percent) and even lower than the University of Michigan whose rate is 59 percent.

Indirect costs are real costs beyond the direct costs charged to external grants and contracts. Direct costs include graduate student stipends, supplies, equipment maintenance, and travel. The amount of indirect costs recovered during FY 91 was $25.4 million. The projected FY 92 recovery will be $27.7 million, an increase of 9.1 percent. These funds are used to offset actual expenses such as use allowance (wear and tear on buildings, equipment), physical plant operations (utilities, power, repairs), administration (university-wide, departmental, and college), libraries, and sponsored programs administration (OSURF).

This is a very timely subject, because it has been so controversial in the news. I was glad to get the report that we had and we are very proud. Thank you, Dr. Hayes.

The Academic Affairs Committee is also recommending the following resolutions:

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES - SPRING QUARTER COMMENCEMENT

Resolution No. 92-118

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of degrees and certificates for Spring Quarter Commencement.

WHEREAS pursuant to paragraph (E) of rule 3335-1-06 of the Administrative Code, the Board has authority for the issuance of degrees and certificates; and

WHEREAS the faculties of the colleges and schools shall transmit, in accordance with rule 3335-9-29 of the Administrative Code, for approval by the Board of Trustees, the names of persons who have completed degree and certificate requirements:

NOW THEREFORE

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

BE IT RESOLVED, That the degrees and certificates be conferred on June 12, 1992, to those persons who have completed the requirements for their respective degrees and certificates and are recommended by the colleges and schools, and that the names of those persons awarded degrees and certificates be included in the minutes of this meeting.

Upon motion of Ms. Casto, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution with eight affirmative votes cast by Messrs. Barone, Kessler, Wolf, Wexner, Shumate, Celeste, Colley and Ms. Casto and an abstention by Mr. Teaford.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 92-120

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of seven Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the families of the deceased.

Mary Maurine Millican

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 13, 1992, of Mary Maurine Millican, Associate Professor Emeritus in the Department of Textiles and Clothing, College of Human Ecology.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Mary Maurine Millican (contd)

Mary Millican was born February 11, 1926, in Loving, Texas. She received her early training at Loving and Graham High Schools. She then received her B.S. in Bacteriology and Chemistry in 1948, and her M.S. in Home Economics in 1953 at the University of Texas. She worked as a researcher in the Laboratory for Cotton and in the marketing section of cotton fiber analysis at the University of Texas from 1952-55.

Mary Millican joined the faculty of textiles and clothing in the Department of Home Economics in October 1955. Professor Millican was thorough and well prepared for her field. She had real talent in the design applied to clothing as well as a sound background in science. Professor Millican was considered a remarkable teacher and faculty member. Her standards for herself and others were high. She was quite successful in helping the students raise their own standards rather than imposing her own.

Professor Millican demonstrated excellent leadership in the study and revision of undergraduate clothing courses. Her scholarly approach to teaching and commitment to excellence were a strength to the Department of Textiles and Clothing. Her dedicated work on the development and maintenance of the Historic Costume Collection was a significant contribution to the department and the college.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Kenneth E. Naylor

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 10, 1992, of Kenneth E. Naylor, Professor in the Department of Slavic and East European Languages and Literatures.

Kenneth E. Naylor, Jr. was born February 27, 1937, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He received his bachelor's degree in French from Cornell University in 1958 and his master's degree in general linguistics from Indiana University in 1960. While at Indiana University, he began to study Slavic with the person who became his mentor and friend, Professor Edward Stankiewicz. When Professor Stankiewicz moved to the University of Chicago, Kenneth Naylor went with him. He spent a year studying at the University of Novi Sad in Yugoslavia with the renowned Yugoslav linguist Pavle Ivic. After returning to Chicago he finished his doctorate in Slavic linguistics in 1966. His dissertation was on the Cakavian dialect of Serbo-Croatian, and Serbo-Croatian linguistics remained in the center of his scholarly activity for the rest of his life.

Dr. Naylor was an assistant professor at the University of Pittsburgh from 1964 to 1966, when he moved to The Ohio State University. He was promoted to Associate Professor in 1969 and to Professor in 1975. He was a guest lecturer on linguistics in Poland in 1965 and a guest Professor at the Institute for South Slavic languages of the University of Novi Sad in the spring of 1982. At The Ohio State University, Dr. Naylor taught a wide variety of classes in Slavic linguistics, Serbo-Croatian and Macedonian language, and on the Slavic peoples and cultures. He was a frequent guest on the WOSU radio program, "The Soviet Union and Eastern Europe in Perspective," and often gave lectures on various topical questions. At the time of his death, Dr. Naylor was the Acting Director of the Center for Slavic and East European Studies at The Ohio State University.

Dr. Naylor was the recipient of awards, grants, and fellowships from many sources, including the countries of Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, the ACLS, the Fulbright program, and others. He was a founding member of the American Association for Southeast European Studies and served as its President in 1973. He was the founder and editor of the first six issues of the journal Balkanistica; he was also editor of two issues of the American Bibliography of Slavic and East European Studies and co-editor of eight volumes of the journal Folia Slavica. Especially noteworthy among his professional service, were his ten years as Secretary-Treasurer of the American Committee of Slavists. He served on numerous committees and advisory panels at all levels of The Ohio State University and rendered outstanding service. He will be sorely missed at The Ohio State University for his knowledge and perspectives in this work.

Professor Naylor's own research centered on the Serbo-Croatian language and Slavic linguistics in general. The overwhelming majority of his seventy articles were on Serbo-Croatian and Balkan linguistics; several were on the other Slavic languages and a number were bibliographical surveys. He also had a strong interest in and a deep knowledge of the politics, history, and culture of Yugoslavia. This knowledge showed in his presentations and classes, which inspired many students to take an active interest in the South Slavic languages. At the time of his death, he had four students writing dissertations in this area.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Richard Carl Nelson

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 3, 1992, of Richard Carl Nelson, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Physics.

Richard C. Nelson was born in Stillwater, Minnesota, on May 1, 1915. He received his AB in 1935 and his Ph.D. in 1938 from the University of Minnesota, Department of Plant Physiology. After receiving his Ph.D. he held several different industrial positions, one as a chemist and one as a spectroscopist. Following three years as research associate at Northwestern University, he joined the faculty of The Ohio State University in 1949 to work in the area of biophysics as a member of the Physics Department. He remained in this position until his retirement in 1978. He continued to do some research for a few years after he became Professor Emeritus.

Professor Nelson was a scientist and researcher into the very complicated complex of phenomena involved in the behavior of electrons in organic solids, photoconductivity of dyes, and dye sensitization of photoprocesses. Spectral sensitization by dyes is of great importance in photography and in life processes such as photosynthesis. Although sensitization by dyes was discovered as long ago as 1873, the knowledge of electron behavior in solids at that time and for long after was totally inadequate for understanding the process. The problems Professor Nelson worked on have remained complex and difficult down to the present time. Instead of looking for easier problems that might more readily lead to publishable results, he persisted throughout his research career in seeking better understanding of the electron and photon processes taking place in organic solids and involved in dye sensitization. In approaching these complex questions, he and his students viewed them from many different directions and made many different kinds of observations in order to develop a coherent picture of the processes involved.

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

During his tenure at The Ohio State University, Professor Nelson continued to have significant industrial associations. His work was well recognized by industry; for one five-year period his salary at The Ohio State University was paid entirely by a grant from Eastman Kodak Company. His research results were reported in a substantial body of published papers. He was elected a Fellow of the American Physical Society.

Professor Nelson had a rather unusual combination of abilities, as plant physiologist, as chemist, as physicist, and he was a careful and persistent experimenter. These were almost uniquely appropriate qualifications for achieving significant progress in a lifetime of research that was dedicated to understanding the connections between our knowledge of the physical universe and the biological processes supporting life.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Doris L. Snook

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 4, 1992, of Doris L. Snook, Assistant Professor Emeritus of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Professor Snook was born January 12, 1910, in Lebanon, Ohio. She completed her B.S. in Home Economics in 1931 at The Ohio State University and the M.S. in Home Economics in 1946 at Purdue University.

Doris L. Snook began her Extension Career in Ohio when she joined the faculty at The Ohio State University in 1936 as a Home Demonstration Agent in Training in Shelby County. She left this position in January of 1939 to accept the position of Home Demonstration Agent in Seneca County. On October 15, 1945, she resigned from the Extension Service to do her graduate work at Purdue. She returned in 1946 as the Home Demonstration Agent in Franklin County. She held this position until 1954 when she resigned to accept an Extension position at Penn State University. She returned to The Ohio State University in 1958 as an Extension Specialist in Housing and Furnishings. She held this position until her retirement on June 30, 1967.

Professor Snook's contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs during her career earned her the respect and admiration of her co-workers.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Lockwood Thompson

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 27, 1992, of Lockwood Thompson, former member of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University.

Mr. Thompson served on the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University from 1938 through 1943 and again from 1946 through 1951.

Mr. Thompson's years of service to Ohio State was only one facet of his dedication to public learning. He served three terms, fourteen years, as a trustee of the Cleveland Public Library Board. He also served as the Library Board's President from 1964 to 1969. During his tenure, the library achieved national status as a model public library system. In 1968, Mr. Thompson established a library endowment fund in honor of his parents to support the library's purchase of materials on art. He began his third appointment to the Library Board in 1990 at the age of 88.

In addition to his lifelong support of the public library, Mr. Thompson was a member of the State's first liquor control board in 1933, served on the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections from 1938 to 1940, chaired the Committee for Fair Employment Legislation, which led to the Ohio Fair Employment Act of 1951, served as a Cuyahoga County appellate judge from 1951 through 1952, was general counsel to the Ohio Turnpike Commission in 1956, and served on the City of Cleveland's Board of Ethics from 1964 through 1975. He also earned five battle stars while serving in Africa and Europe during World War II.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's sympathy.

Joseph Treiterer

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 19, 1992, of Joseph Treiterer, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Civil Engineering.

Joseph Treiterer was born December 7, 1918, in Grafrath Obb, Germany. His career in Civil Engineering began in 1949 after completing his degree in civil engineering at the Technical University of Munich. He entered the industrial world serving as a consulting engineer in bridge construction, reconstruction of industrial plants, and housing projects. In addition to this role, he joined the Technical University of Munich as a research assistant and was at the forefront of the development of the City Traffic and Urban Transportation program. Upon receiving his Doctor of Engineering Degree, Professor Treiterer focused his interest in traffic engineering, becoming an expert in this area of civil engineering.

During the latter portion of his graduate studies, Dr. Treiterer accepted a position as City Engineer with the city of Windhoek in South West Africa. While employed by the city of Windhoek, Dr. Treiterer was responsible for various aspects of civil engineering: roads, water supply, sewage plants, airport, public transport system, and chief traffic police. In addition to these duties, in 1956, he served as head of the Traffic and Safety Division of the National Institute for Transportation and Road Research and became a part-time lecturer and extramural examiner at the University of Pretoria.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

During the next 23 years, Dr. Treiterer was honored with guest professor invitations at the London University College, the Technical Universities of Berlin, Karlsruhe, Munich, and the Eidgenoessiche Technical University of Zuerich. He was also a consultant for the development of airports in Denmark and West Germany. His committee memberships included the freeway Operations Committee of the Transportation Research Board, and the Fellowship Program of the International Road Federation. His technical achievements include the development of a method for the use of a helicopter based camera system for aerial traffic surveys and measurements, a method and the equipment for weighing vehicles in motion, and a patent for an automatic traffic control and guidance system.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Richard H. Zimmerman

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 15, 1992, of Richard H. Zimmerman, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

Richard Zimmerman was born November 6, 1922, in Smithville, Ohio. He attended Fenn College in Cleveland where he completed his Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering degree in 1943. From 1943 through 1945, he worked at NACA (now NASA) Lewis Research Center on gas turbines. He also served as a part-time instructor in the physics laboratory at Fenn College. In 1946 he joined The Ohio State University as an Instructor of Mechanical Engineering, and completed his Master of Science degree in 1948. From 1948 until his retirement, he served the Department and the University as an Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, and Professor. He became an authority on gas turbines, thermodynamics and energy conversion and was elected a Fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineering. His colleagues and students considered him an outstanding teacher capable of inspiring his students to seek more knowledge. He received the University's Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching in 1960, the initial year of this award.

From 1962-65 he was part of the American team who went to India to help organize and teach in the Mechanical Engineering Department of the Indian Institute of Technology in Kanpur. In 1965 Professor Zimmerman was appointed the first Dean of the University College. He joined the Administration of the University in 1970, and served as an Executive Assistant to the President and Director of Budget and Resource Planning during 1972-75.

Professor Zimmerman returned to the Department of Mechanical Engineering in 1976, won the MacQuigg and Alumni Teaching Awards, and began a new career in Computer Aided Design (CAD). He rapidly became an expert in the field and after his retirement from the Department in 1979, took his expertise to the University of Puerto Rico, where with a grant from IBM he set up a laboratory for CAD.

He loved the authenticity of the local people, both in India and in Puerto Rico, and made lasting friendships in both places. Those who knew him well, appreciated his keen powers of observation, depth of his analysis, his untiring service to the University and were touched by his deep humanity.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in its loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Ms. Casto:

I would especially like to pay tribute to Lockwood Thompson, who was a former member of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University.

Mr. Teaford:

I am forced to note that Lockwood Thompson was like me, a graduate of the Harvard Law School and did not go to Ohio State either, but he gave great service to this University. And, by the way, if I am around as many years after I was initially appointed as he was, the last year I would serve on this Board would be 2028.

Upon motion of Ms. Casto, seconded by Mr. Barone, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Ms. Casto:

Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that it has been such a pleasure to serve with you. Your enthusiasm has carried over to my spirit of participation on this campus, and I have enjoyed your tenure very much.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Tonnies:

This morning we had a presentation overviewing the 1992 Honors Week which runs from May 1-8. The report was given by Brett Miller and Patty Lerch who are now new members of Sphinx Honors Society and they were linked today during our meeting.

Many outstanding people have been a part of the honors programs and the class honorary system at Ohio State. The objective of Honors Week 1992 is to spotlight the achievements and contributions of these people, both the contributions that they have made here on The Ohio State University campus and in the community beyond Ohio State. Coordinating "the most public ceremonies" of each of the seven class honoraries into a seven-day period, honors their tradition in history of each of these organizations.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Almost 200 students are linked or tapped into the six upper class honoraries each year and 400 attain membership into the freshman honorary. Members of each of these groups are represented in Association of Ohio State Class Honoraries. This group helps in conducting combined effort projects and acts as a means of communication between the honoraries. Some of these projects include the Leaders for the 21st Century Speakers Series, Mortar Board/Sphinx Faculty Appreciation Dinner, Romophos/Mirrors Bowling Tournament, and Leadership Ohio State.

We then heard reports from the student government leaders. We met John Hilbert earlier today during the meeting who is the new USG president. He highlighted several USG projects and events during the quarter and spoke of future events. He, as did Sean Tipton, President of the Council of Graduate Students, expressed concern over the financial concerns in the state budget and their impact upon students. President Gee alluded to that earlier in his comments.

Sophia Paige reviewed the recent proceedings at the College of Law regarding the concerns the Black Law Students Association has with the College's current academic climate. She stated that Judge Duncan and his office will investigate the allegations of inequity that have been brought forth by those students. The Board will be kept up to date with these proceedings.

The Committee is recommending an expression of appreciation for Matt Markling. Unfortunately he is not here today, so I will read this for him:

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 92-121

Synopsis: The Student Affairs Committee recommended an Expression of Appreciation to Matthew J. Markling.

WHEREAS Matthew J. Markling, a junior majoring in Political Science and Economics, has served as President of the Undergraduate Student Government during the past year; and

WHEREAS he has carried out his responsibilities with a high degree of integrity and professionalism; and

WHEREAS Matthew has worked tirelessly in various Undergraduate Student Government roles to represent the undergraduate students of this institution and in bringing their concerns to the attention of this Board; and

WHEREAS his commitment to furthering the missions and goals of The Ohio State University has been displayed in countless ways over the past year:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That this Board expresses to Matthew J. Markling its thanks and appreciation for his dedicated leadership and service to The Ohio State University and wishes him happiness, good health, and success in his future endeavors.

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

If there are no questions this completes my report.

Mr. Chairman, as this is my last meeting as a Student Trustee, I'd like to take this opportunity to thank everyone here for allowing me to participate in the growth and development of this University over the past eight years. I've been involved in various campus activities and organizations, but none as important or as time consuming as The Ohio State University Board of Trustees.

My two-year term as a Trustee has been an education in and of itself and an extraordinary way to finish my years of University service. It is going to be difficult to leave a place that has been so special to me -- a place where I was part of a close-knit family. However, I take with me a wealth of invaluable leadership experience, wonderful memories, and a tremendous education. Quite a bargain even at today's prices. I hope I have given back to Ohio State a fraction of what it has given me.

I will continue my medical career as a Resident of Orthopedic Surgery at Allegheny Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Who knows, perhaps I will again don the scarlet and gray, after my training is complete, as a faculty member in the College of Medicine. I know Dr. Tzagournis' spine is shivering right now as I mention that.

In closing, I hope the old adage is true, "that old trustees never truly leave, they just keep calling for football tickets." I wish everyone the best and I'll see you at graduation.

Mr. Teaford:

I want to say on behalf of this Board, that David's service to this Board was extraordinary in every way. He was a very important contributing member to this Board, and we very much appreciate his service. On behalf of the Board I would like to present you, David, with a small token -- this plaque which reads: "David A. Tonnie, Student Member, The Ohio State University Board of Trustees, 1990-1992. In appreciation to David A. Tonnie for his dedication, commitment, and praiseworthy service to The Ohio State University."

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Amb. Wolf:

The Investments Committee heard the monthly Endowment Summary Report for the period March 20, 1992 through April 17, 1992. The market value of the Endowment Fund on April 17 was $405.300 million. This total was about $2.9 million below the March 20, 1992 market value. The changes in asset allocations to the investment advisors that were approved by this Board in March have been carried out and now the market value of the equity portion of the Endowment Fund has increased to $265.7 million, while the fixed income portion has increased to $115.8 million. Conversely, as you might expect, the cash portion has decreased to $5.6 million. I am pleased to report that net new additions to the Endowment Fund for April total $709,000.00.

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

Since July 1, 1991, which is the beginning of the fiscal year, the Endowment Fund has increased over $54 million. Net new additions were just over $25.7 million which was a new one year high, and the net change in market value accounted for an additional $32.3 million. The current asset allocation for the Endowment Fund is 59 percent invested in equities, 24 percent in fixed income securities, 9 percent in real estate, and 8 percent in cash equivalents.

We also heard the Quarterly Endowment Report for March 31, 1992, which is located in the agenda book. It was indicated that the Endowment Fund earned a 6.8 percent total return for fiscal year '91, which put Ohio State in the 56 percentile of all university endowment funds. I will say that that 56 percentile comes about because of the inclusion of our real estate portfolio in there which dilutes the intensity of our activity in the fixed income and equity security markets.

However, and more significantly, the 10-year annual return of 14 percent for the Ohio State endowment outperformed the average public endowment, the average Big Ten endowment, and the average mid-sized endowment, and places us in the top 23 percent of all endowment funds in the country. It should also be noted that the endowments gift flow rate of 7.4 percent increased slightly in fiscal year '91, while the overall trend of all endowment funds had a decrease of 1.5 percent.

Finally, with a market value of $351 million at June 30, 1991 -- recognizing it's $405 million now -- The Ohio State University had the 34th largest total endowment fund in the country and the 6th largest public university endowment fund. That concludes the first phase of this report.

The second phase of our report requires action by this Board, Mr. Chairman. It has to do with changes in the relationships between the University Foundation and the University Development Fund with the Board of Trustees and the Investments Committee.

As you will recall in July 1991, we adopted recommendations on ways to make more effective use of the University Foundation as the primary fund raising and gift receipt organization for the University, thereby assuring effective coordination of the Foundation's activities with the responsibilities of this Board. The recommended change is to the Foundation's Articles of Incorporations and regulations have been made and now have been formally adopted by the Foundation Board. The executive summary and detailed changes are included in our agenda book under the Investments Committee tab.

The resolution is, I think, the final piece in implementing these changes. It specifically provides that two members of the Foundation Board will become ex-officio members of our Investments Committee, with the right to vote on matters involving only the investment of the Foundation funds. The resolution and changes in the Foundation were discussed in our Investments Committee meeting this morning.

DESIGNATION OF THE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION AS

WHEREAS over the last 55 years the Development Fund has greatly benefited the University and been instrumental in the growth and success of the institution, and the University has been particularly well served by the many dedicated men and women who, as members of the Board of Directors and volunteers of the Fund, have given their time, talent, and energy in support of the University; and

WHEREAS in December 1984, the Board of Trustees authorized the establishment of The Ohio State University Foundation as a nonprofit corporation to advance the interest of the University by conducting and supporting activities which benefit or carry out the purposes of the University; and

WHEREAS appropriate changes to the Articles of Incorporation and Code of Regulations of the Foundation now have been adopted by the required votes of the Foundation's Board of Directors, to be effective immediately, to make the Foundation the primary fundraising and gift receipt organization for the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Foundation is hereby designated as the primary fundraising and gift receipt organization for the University and will perform those functions in accordance with the revised Articles of Incorporation and Code of Regulations of the Foundation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Development Fund will continue as a gift receipt organization for gifts to The Ohio State University; and Upon motion of Amb. Wolf, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Fiscal Affairs Committee met this morning and Vice President Shkurti presented an update on the FY 1992 budget. Mr. Shkurti reported that the University has already absorbed a reduction of $18 million in state aid for this year. Mr. Shkurti also reported on the status of state funding for the next year, FY 1993.

The University is preparing for a variety of scenarios for reduction in state aid. Scenarios ranging from 3 percent to 23 percent in possible reductions. The impact of these reductions would fall primarily on the University's work force. For example, a reduction of 15 percent in state support would cause the elimination of more than 1,000 jobs on the Columbus campus alone.

Mr. Shkurti, would you like to add anything to this report?

Mr. Shkurti:

Thank you, Mr. Shumate. I think it's important to point out that it has been the University's policy, through what now will begin the third year of budget cuts, to not embellish or otherwise exaggerate the impact of the budget cuts on the University or what the numbers mean. We will continue to be consistent with that as a public institution in Ohio.

On the other hand, I think it is vitally important that as officials of the University, we let you, the Board, and the public know exactly what is in store, as best we can, regarding the impact of possible budget cuts. Now the state had not made a decision yet on how it will deal with its budget problems for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1992. There are a variety of scenarios out there and we are preparing for them.

One of the most common scenarios that the state is looking at would result in a 15 percent reduction in Ohio State University's state support from what was originally appropriated for the next fiscal year. That would cost the University $41 million, by our estimates. That translates to the loss of approximately 1,000 jobs. Now those are positions, not people. Some of those positions are vacant and that is how we would hope to manage these reductions. Layoffs would result from a job reduction of that size of an unknown amount, but they would result. That would be on top of the 360 positions that were eliminated from the round of budget cuts we took last year.

The impact on the University, in terms of our programs and services we offer our students and the community, would be severe. It is also important to realize that it would have an impact on the economy of Central Ohio and the State of Ohio. The Ohio State University is the second largest employer in Central Ohio. Our employees pay $28 million annually in state and local income taxes. If the 1,000 positions are abolished and not filled, that is 1,000 less people paying taxes, that is 1,000 people less shopping in area stores and supermarkets, and that is 1,000 less people looking for better apartments and homes.

The University will be prepared to do whatever it takes to meet our budget cut requirements as they come down from the state. We will protect the academic core in doing that, but I don't think there should be any illusions that what the state does will not be without cost to the University, to its mission and without cost to the State of Ohio.

Mr. Wexner:

I think -- maybe not with just the Trustee hat on, but as a resident of Central Ohio -- that we should reach out to the Central Ohio community, the Central Ohio Chamber of Commerce, and other organizations and institutions. There would be dancing in the streets if an employer came to this city and created a 1,000 jobs of the caliber that we're talking about eliminating. Forget about the role of the University in the academic, intellectual stimulation to the State. I don't think the Mayor and Legislators in Central Ohio recognize the impact of 1,000 people unemployed and the leveraging -- there is a multiplying effect on Central Ohio. I think it's a potential disaster.

Mr. Teaford:

Thank you. Mr. Shumate, would you please continue.

Mr. Shumate:

Let me begin, on behalf of the Board, by welcoming our new Vice President for Business and Administration, Janet Pichette, to her first Board of Trustees meeting. The following resolutions are proposed:

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS

Ms. Pichette:

The picture that you see before you is what the work of art looks like. The action before you, again, today is the deaccession of the work of art known as Isolt and Erwin Frey was the sculptor.

The sculptor's widow was trying at the time of her death to reassemble all of his works of art and the estate now, in her name, has been continuing that work, and contacted the University when someone informed them that we had this work of art. Upon research, it was discovered that the University may not have had clear ownership of the sculpture. So we believe it is the proper thing at this time to return it to the estate.

Robert Stearns, Executive Director of the Wexner Center, is here and could give you any background. If you have don't have any questions, I will ask for your approval.

Mr. Shumate:

Robert, would you like to address the Committee on this subject?

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Robert Stearns:

Thank you. I would like to address the Board, not because there is really any question in our mind that this is the appropriate thing to do, but because I believe this is the first time that the deaccessioning of a work of art has come before the Trustees. It is appropriate for the Trustees of the University to understand the relationship with objects in its collections, whether they are any where on campus or in the Wexner Center for the Arts, ultimately as guardians of those objects of art.

I would like just to briefly define the words that we are using. A museum may acquire a work of art by buying it, but it accessions the work to its collection when it identifies it with a particular catalogue number and determines that that work of art is thoroughly known and understood to be what it is understood to be. All research has been done, ownership is clear and understood, and the sale or transfer or gift of deed of the work to the museum is clearly outlined by documents.

Now the reason that this is important is more because when a museum proceeds to deaccession a work of art, equally or even more rigorous work must be done to determine that this action is being taken carefully. Deaccession is the removal of a work of art from the collection of a museum. Then once it is deaccessioned and the collection number is removed from it, it may then be disposed of, which is to say be given away or be sold. So the words like acquire, accession and deaccession, and dispose of have very specific meanings.

There are very particular guidelines which professional practices in museums prescribe to staffs and to boards of trustees, which I would like to submit more to the record of this Committee and to the Board of Trustees for further study on the subject of deaccessioning so that that is understood. In the future, we expect that we probably will deaccession works from the collection for the purpose of raising funds to purchase new works to focus the purposes of the collection for study and exhibition. So it will be important in the future to understand exactly what the details of this process are.

Mr. Shumate:

What is the actual size of this piece of art?

Mr. Stearns:

It is approximately 60 inches high, about 5 feet.

Mr. Shumate:

Out of curiosity, is there an estimated value?

Mr. Stearns:

The only estimated value that I have was given about 20 to 25 years ago, was approximately $3,000.00.

Mr. Shumate:

So you would be recommending to the Board through our Vice President any procedures and policies that we should follow in this area?

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Stearns:

What we need from the Board of Trustees is an agreement to allow the return of this work -- the deaccessioning of the work and the return of it to the family of the artist, who is the widow that we are speaking of.

Mr. Shumate:

Right, that is our specific action today. But looking prospectively, one of my questions is what would we have done differently or should we have done differently at the time of the original transaction for future action by the Board?

Mr. Stearns:

Exactly. What should happen is that a work would come into the collection through the recommendation of my professional staff and me to you, as a Board, and a transaction of sale, purchase, or gift is executed. This was not done in this particular case. It was considered to be abandoned property and no one knew who it belonged to. About 20 years ago someone gave it a number and accessioned it to the collection without sufficient research.

Mr. Shumate:

OK. Any other questions?

DEACCESSION OF THE SCULPTURE ISOLT

Resolution No. 92-128

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended the deaccession of the sculpture Isolt, by Erwin Frey, from the permanent collection of the Wexner Center for the Arts.

WHEREAS the sculpture Isolt (1933), created by Erwin Frey, has been in the possession of The Ohio State University since at least 1960, when it was catalogued and added to the University's permanent collection; and

WHEREAS before 1960 the sculpture had been on loan by the artist to the Ohio Historical Society and remained a part of the University's collection after the Ohio Historical Society relocated off campus; and

WHEREAS the University's acquisition of this work and the accession of the work as a part of the University's permanent collection were made without sufficient information and documentation; and

WHEREAS the Estate of Mrs. Erwin Frey has asserted ownership of the sculpture and requested its return; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that such deaccession is in the best interest of the University:

May 1, 1992 meeting, Board of Trustees

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the sculpture Isolt (1933, Georgia marble, by Erwin Frey) be deaccessioned from the University's permanent collection; that the University is hereby authorized to relinquish and transfer to the Estate of Grace Frey all of the University's right, title, and interest in this work; and that the Vice President for Business and Administration, in consultation with the Director of the Wexner Center for the Arts, be authorized to negotiate and execute any agreements or other documents necessary to effect this deaccession and transfer.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Barone, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

President Gee:

As all of you know, today is Joel's last day of service as Chairman of our Board and may well be his last day of service as a member of our Board, because his term is completed as of this month. As I indicated to you before, he has been a remarkable servant of the University, a truly dedicated Trustee of the institution, and has served it very well as its Chairman. I can say that having had the pleasure of serving with him over this past year.

Joel, on behalf of your colleagues and, certainly, on behalf of the whole University family that you have so entitled, so empowered, and so graced, we present to you a very small token of our appreciation -- a gavel made from wood that was part of the original University Hall, indicating your service on the Board and your chairmanship.

I would also like to say that I see Mrs. Teaford in the back, soon to be Dr. Teaford. Meg, we would like you to stand and also be recognized at this time.

Mr. Teaford:

Thank you, Mr. President. Of course, I cannot resist one last chance to say a few things. I very much want to express my appreciation to this Board. I have over these nine years seen this Board grow into a vital institution which is greatly, I think, serving this University. The broad support and involvement that I had from all of you this year was indeed appreciated by me and makes me leaving happy in the knowledge that this Board will continue to lead this University in a very great way.

I cannot resist one last admission as we have to deal with these awful budget cuts, which the President recently so well characterized. It is essential we protect the core of this University. But in 1992, in a land-grant institution it is also essential that we appreciate that part of the core which is affirmative action. We can look around the fringes of our table and see that there is a real commitment on the part of this University to affirmative action, as we look at our vice presidents. And I know that that is where the President's heart is, but we must remember that we cannot go forward without demonstrating that an educational institution holds as one of its highest obligations access for all of this country's citizens.

I also want to thank soon-to-be Dr. Teaford for her support to me in this job. And I thank you all for your friendship and your support. Thank you.
