

Pauline Jones-Luong, professor of political science at University of Michigan, spoke about "Crude Ambitions: The Internationalization of Emerging National Oil Companies" on October 17, 2013, at the Mershon Center.

Pauline Jones-Luong spoke at the Mershon Center as part of the Globalization Speaker Series organized by Sarah Brooks and Alex Thompson of the Department of Political Science.

Pauline Jones-Luong spoke about her research on why national oil companies in emerging countries have had varying levels of success.