

Professor Randall Schweller introduces Daniel Drezner, Professor of International Politics at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, a senior editor at The National Interest, and a contributing editor at Foreign Policy, at the Mershon Center on November 30, 2012.

Professor Drezner's presentation was titled, "The Irony of Global Economic Governance: The System Worked."

Beyond the academy, Drezner has served as an international economist at the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of International Banking and Securities Markets. He has also worked for the RAND Corporation. He has consulted for various for-profit, non-profit and public sector agencies, and provided expert testimony for both houses of Congress.

Professor Drezner answers questions from members of the audience.
