Author Statement

Dr. Scarcella is a Professor of Education and Coordinator for the Career and Technical (Vocational) Education Teacher Education Program.

In Memory of Donna Shea

It is with sadness that I share the news of the passing of Donna Shea. She deserves to be remembered as a champion for the California State University San Bernardino Career and Technical Education program. In this program she served as a Lecturer for more than ten years.

One of Donna's duties was to serve as the coordinator for the BA in Career and Technical Studies. Doing so meant being actively involved in meeting the credentialing requirements for Career and Technical Education for the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. To this end she wrote annual reports and accreditation documents, served as the program's Co-Trustee for Epsilon Pi Tau Gamma Nu Chapter, the Leading International Honor Society for Technology, and served on multiple campus and community committees.

Donna was by personal commitment not just a functionary of the State however. She was a forthright student advocate and made contributions far beyond what was minimally required.

Donna will be remembered as a good friend, colleague, and university asset. She had a can do attitude. She was a product of California State University San Bernardino too. Donna received both her BA and MA in Education from California State University San Bernardino and she sought to pass on what she had received to others. She will be missed.

Thank you Donna for who you were and how you acted as a servant of students! May all who knew and cared for her find peace in their personal memories of her.

Dr. Joseph Scarcella.
