Singapore has inherited the English common law tradition

There is heavy influence of common law in traditional areas such as Contract, Tort and Restitution

In other areas such as Criminal Law, Company Law and Law of Evidence, Singapore is more influenced by jurisdictions such as India and Australia.

Singapore is a sovereign republic, with a legal system based on the English common law.

The Constitution lays down the fundamental principles and basic framework for the three organs of state, namely, the Executive, the Legislative and the Judiciary.

The Executive comprises the Cabinet, which is responsible for the general direction of the Government and accountable to Parliament

The Legislature comprises the Parliament and is the legislative authority responsible for enacting legislation. More information on the history of Parliament, Parliament House and activities of the House can be obtained from its website.

The Judiciary's function is to independently administer justice. The Judiciary is safeguarded by the Constitution..

The Prime Minister of Singapore is appointed by the President of Singapore under Article 25 of the Constitution. The President, acting on the advice of the Prime Minister, also appoints other Ministers from among the Members of Parliament.

The Court of Appeal

The highest court of the land is the permanent Court of Appeal, which hears both civil and criminal appeals emanating from the High Court and the Subordinate Courts.

The High Court hears both criminal and civil cases as a court of first instance. The High Court also hears appeals from the decisions of District Courts and Magistrate's Courts in civil and criminal cases, and decides points of law reserved in special cases submitted by a District Court or a Magistrate's Court. In addition, the High Court has general supervisory and revisionary jurisdiction over all subordinate courts in any civil or criminal matter.

With a few limited exceptions, the High Court has the jurisdiction to hear and try any action where the defendant is served with a writ or other originating process in Singapore, or outside Singapore in the circumstances authorised by Rules of Court; or where the defendant submits to the jurisdiction of the High Court. Generally, except in probate matters, a civil case must be commenced in the High Court if the value of the claim exceeds $250,000.00. Probate matters are commenced in the High Court only if the value of the deceased's estate exceeds $3,000,000.00 or if the case involves the resealing of a foreign grant. In addition, ancillary matters in family proceedings involving assets of S$1,500,000.00 or more are also heard in the High Court.

The following matters are also exclusively heard by the High Court:

The Singapore Law Reports from 2010

The Singapore Law Reports are an integral part of legal practice and scholarship in Singapore. The series reports on a fortnightly basis all legally-significant cases heard in the Singapore Court of Appeal and High Court, and by the Constitutional Tribunal. Cases are selected for publication by the Council of Law Reporting chaired by the Honourable Judge of Appeal Andrew Phang Boon Leong.

The Singapore Law Reports Reissue from 1965 to 2009

Contains judgments reported in the Singapore Law Reports series from 1965-2009 with new headnotes and catchwords. For more information about the Singapore Law Reports Reissue, click here.

Judgments of the Singapore Judiciary from 1991

Also available in the Legal Workbench are the full texts of all written judgments handed down by the Supreme Court of Singapore (from 1991) and the Subordinate Courts of Singapore (from 2001). Including both unreported and judgments, these are available online before judgments are published in the Singapore Law Reports.

The Malayan Law Journal from 1932

The Malayan Law Journal, provided by LexisNexis, is the only local series of law reports to be published continuously since 1932, except during the war years. It includes cases from Singapore prior to full independence in 1965, as well as from the Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, Malayan Union and Federation of Malaya. The Malayan Law Journal currently reports judgments of the Malaysian Federal Court, Court of Appeal and High Courts; the Brunei Court of Appeal and High Court, and appeals from Brunei to the Privy Council.

The Heritage Law Reports 1808-1980

The heritage law reports are a unique collection of early law reports of Malaya and Singapore compiled specially for the Legal Workbench. They consist of Kyshe's Reports (covering cases decided between 1808 and 1939), the Straits Law Journal (1839-1891), the Straits Settlements Law Reports (1867-1942), Malayan Cases (1904-1980), the Federated Malay States Law Reports (1912-1941), the Johore Law Reports (1916-1940), Malayan Union Law Reports (1946-1947), Singapore Law Reports (1948-1956) and the Malayan Law Reports (1949-1954).

Decisions Of Singapore Tribunals, Boards And Committees

This is a collection of decisions by specialised tribunals established by statute in Singapore, including the Appeals Board (Land Acquisition), the Copyright Tribunal, the Disciplinary Committee of the Law Society of Singapore, the Income Tax Board of Review, the Intellectual Property Office of Singapore, the Military Court of Appeal, the Singapore Domain Name Dispute Resolution Service, and the Strata Titles Board among others. See list below for more information.
