EXPLANATORY STATEMENTIntroduction

1. The Commission's proposal for a Council directive is intended to ensure that acquired rights are respected and thus that freedom of movement within the EEC for persons engaged in the medical professions is legally guaranteed.

I. Respect for acquired rights

2. The Council directives concerning the mutual recognition of diplomas, certificates and other evidence of formal qualifications of doctors<sup>1</sup>, nurses responsible for general care<sup>2</sup>, dentists<sup>3</sup> and veterinary surgeons<sup>4</sup> respectively lay down that each Member State shall recognize as sufficient evidence of training the diplomas, certificates and other formal qualifications not meeting the minimum training requirements provided for and issued by the Member States before the implementation of the directive in question; the aforementioned evidence of training must be accompanied by a certificate attesting that the parties concerned have been effectively and lawfully engaged in the activities in question for at least three consecutive years in the course of the five years preceding the issue of the certificate.

3. When the directives came into effect, the Commission realized that difficulties might arise.

II. The need to fill a gap

4. The provisions of the directives do not expressly cover the diplomas, certificates and other evidence of formal qualifications which are evidence of training which had commenced before, but was completed after, the implementation of the directive in question.

5. To meet the needs of legal certainty, the Commission has chosen to fill the gap by proposing that the text of the directives be amended.

6. Article 1 of the proposal for a directive is intended to supplement the text of the directives in question insofar as these do not state specifically whether training not fully satisfying the minimum training requirements which had commenced before, but was completed after, the implementation of the said directives should entitle the holders to freedom of movement.

However, since these provisions protect the acquired rights of all the professions in question, Article 1 of the proposal for a directive dispels any uncertainty on this point.

Article 2 stipulates that Member States shall take all the measures necessary to comply with this directive by 30 June 1982 at the latest.
