An internal communication knowledge framework

This matrix illustrates the framework published in:

Welch, M. (2013) Mastering internal communication: Knowledge foundations and postgraduate education. Public Relations Review. DOI: http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/j.pubrev.2013.04.003. Dr Mary Welch, Lancashire Business School, University of Central Lancashire, Preston, UK.

Knowledge cluster categories	Internal communication knowledge components Specialist knowledge areas*
Fundamental specialist knowledge	1. Employment relations Employee engagement* Trust* Internal stakeholders
Strategic communication management	<ul> <li>2. Leadership</li> <li>Leadership communication*</li> <li>Change communication</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>3. Management</li> <li>Communication management</li> <li>Interaction with Human Resources *and Marketing</li> <li>Relationship management</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>4. Strategy</li> <li>Internal communication strategy and objectives</li> <li>Internal communication message strategies</li> <li>Internal communication campaigns</li> </ul>
Underpinning theory and research	<ul> <li>5. Communication science</li> <li>Business psychology</li> <li>Persuasion theory</li> <li>Organisational behaviour</li> <li>Employee internal communication needs*</li> <li>Internal communication effects*</li> <li>Informal communication in organisations*</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>6. Concepts and theory</li> <li>Internal communication theory*</li> <li>The concept of internal communication*</li> <li>Communication ethics</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>7. Research and evaluation</li> <li>Internal communication evaluation</li> <li>Internal communication audits</li> <li>Internal communication research</li> </ul>
Context and tactical considerations	<ul> <li>8. Organisational culture and context</li> <li>Organisational culture</li> <li>Organisational context*</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>9. Issues and crisis communication</li> <li>Internal crisis communication</li> <li>Internal issues communication</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>10. Emergent communication methods</li> <li>Internal communication methods: social media</li> </ul>