

Table 1: Devices to generate topic

Initiation	Examples
Itemized enquiry (IE)	→ David: What did you do last week in maths Adam: Area
	 → David: Who was your first teacher here Thomas: Mrs Healey David: Mrs Healey in reception
Topic initial elicitor (TIE)	 → David: And what did you do over the week-end Adam: Er went to our presentation evening → David: Right Thomas what did you do Thomas: I went to Robert's house and
News announcement (NA)	 → Sheel: I went to Tanzania in the holidays David: Did you Sheel: Yeah and I saw

Adapted from Radford and Tarplee (2000)

Table 2: Topic choice in story writing

1a. Teacher invites opener	1b. Child chooses opener
2a. Teacher invites character	2b. Child chooses character
3a. Teacher invites setting	3b. Child chooses setting
4a. Teacher invites plot	4b. Child chooses plot
5a. Teacher invites ending	5b. Child chooses ending
6a. Teacher invites title	6b. Child chooses title

	Speaking book	Circle-time	Story writing
Group size	Dyadic	Small group	Small group
Turn allocation	Teacher nomination	Pre-set turns	Teacher nomination
Pupil speaking rights	Self-selection possible	No self-selection	Self-selection possible
(I) Topic initiation	Topic initial elicitor	Initiation model	Topic invitation
(R) Information generated: gap between speakers	Idea new to teacher (if new picture)	Idea new to teacher (predictable)	Idea new to teacher (can be unpredictable)
(R) Information generated: type	Personal (idea, news, experiences)	Personal (choice of idea)	Curricular (choice of idea)
(F) Topical pursuit	Topicalisation 'mm' Itemized enquiry	None	Acceptance Confirmation check
(F) Recast and expansion	Yes	None	Revoicing
(F) Negotiated repair	Yes	Minimal Errors unrepaired	Yes

Table 3 Opportunities for meaning negotiation within IRF across tasks

Figure 1: Question use by teachers

