The Hawaiian Islands

Territory of Hawaii

Are situated in the Torrid and Temperate Zones just on the Tropic of Cancer. They extend from northwest to southeast between parallels of latitude 22 degrees 16 minutes and 18 degrees 55 minutes north, and lie between meridians 54 degrees 40 minutes and 160 degrees west from Greenwich. They are a Territory of the United States. The important islands are eight in number: Oahu, Hawaii, Maui, Kauai, Niihau, Molokai, Lanai and Kahoolawe. Of these, Lanai, Niihau and Kahoolawe are principally devoted to grazing. This group is known as the Sandwich Islands, a title given by Captain Cook, but now in disuse except abroad. The total area of all the islands in the group is 6649 square miles, or 4,127,000 acres. The population as shown by the 1920 census was 255,912.

The situation of the Territory of Hawaii insures for it the happiest possible compromise between the climates of the two zones. Extremes of heat and cold are read of by its people but not felt. Even the rigor of storms is tempered by the general placidity of the climate. Rain falls to an agreeable extent the year round, but is more copious in the winter months.

The soil of the Islands is of decomposed lava-enriched by vegetable mould. In the rainy sections, such as Hilo and Hanalei, it is exceedingly fertile. In dry sections it becomes equally productive by means of irrigation. A degree of acidity in some of the dry sections is corrected by proper fertilizers. There are many sections, like Ewa, where the soil is an accumulation of washes from the mountains, which leave alluvial deposits of exceeding richness.

The staple product of the Islands is sugar cane. Soil and conditions are of the most favorable character for its yield, and a scientific and intelligent direction of the labor and appliances necessary to its production has resulted in phenomenal yields per acre.

The output for all the Islands for 1923 was 545,606 tons.

The growing of rice is an important industry, and the crop is consumed mostly in the Territory.

Coffee cultivation began as early as 1817, and has since had its ups and downs. The better prices realized of late years have given it somewhat of a stimulus.

The pineapple industry has made the greatest progress among the newer industries, the output having increased from 1200 cases of two dozen cans each in 1900 to 5,895,747 cases in 1923. The estimated output for 1924 is 6,000,000 cases. It is put up in sliced, crushed and grated forms. There is now invested in the industry more than $5,000,000, and about 12,000 acres are under cultivation.

Hawaii has often been styled the cross-roads of the Pacific. The completion of the Isthmian Canal has justified and confirmed this appellation, and its ports will receive additional rank and importance. Even now these Islands furnish a trade and commerce with the United States of greater tonnage and value than any country except Great Britain, and this with only the one industry of sugar.

The ports of entry are Honolulu, Hilo, Kahului, Mahukona and Port Allen. Honolulu possesses a fine, though small, harbor. Hilo has a large open harbor, and when the breakwater is completed for its protection, and wharves line its shores, a steady stream of trade will ensue. By the time the harbor of Honolulu becomes inadequate for the demands of commerce, Pearl Harbor, a few miles distant, will be opened and the vessels of the world may ride in safety upon its broad bosom. As Hawaii is almost entirely given over to sugar cane, rice, coffee and fruits, nearly all of our breadstuffs, hay, grain and manufactured articles are imported from the mainland. The balance of trade being so largely in favor of the Islands, divests commerce of its risks and uncertainty.

Island enterprises, however, are not confined to the production of sugar, rice and coffee. The Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company is engaged in freight and passenger traffic between Oahu and the other islands. The Oahu Railway and Land Company has a railroad finely equipped from Honolulu to Kahuku, a distance of 72 miles; a branch from Waipahu extends 11 miles up the valley to Wahiawa, the center of the pineapple district, and to Castner and Schofield Barracks, the new military reservation. At Kahuku, the terminal of the Oahu Railway, another railway line continues on around the island for a distance of 11 miles to Kahana. The Oahu Railway was built through a waste of pasture land and lantana. It was deemed a wild and visionary scheme at first, but Kahuku, Waialua, Ewa, Oahu and Honolulu plantations attest the foresight and sagacity of its promoters. This led to the building of the former Hilo Railroad, now the Hawaii Consolidated Railway, Ltd., connecting Hilo with the Volcano and Puna, and traversing the rich O'laa plantation, the outgrowth of the enterprise. At present the road has in operation 90 miles of railway covering the following territory: from Hilo to Glenwood, 25 miles, within eight miles of the crater of Kilauea; from Hilo to Kapoho and Kaueleau, known as the Puna district, 32 miles; and from Hilo to Paauilo, 33 miles.

Section 28, Copyright Law

In Force July 1, 1909

That any person who willfully and for profit shall infringe any copyright secured by this Act, or who shall knowingly and willfully aid or abet such infringement, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment for not exceeding one year, or by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, or both in the discretion of the court.

CITY AND COUNTY OF HONOLULU

Honolulu, the capital, is situated on the Island of Oahu; the city proper is peculiarly favored as a seaport. The distances are: To San Francisco, 2100 miles; to Yokohama, 3400 miles; to Sydney, 4410 miles; to Manila, 4890 miles. It is a geographical center between Occidental and Oriental coasts, and is under American control. That the sagacious business men of the United States are sensible to the advantages possessed by the City and County of Honolulu augurs a fostering care and development of the same by the United States Government. This care and development will bring constantly to light newer and greater possibilities, the expansion of which will inaugurate a future of reality beyond the dreams and visions of the past. Fine, new elegant steamers now make the trip to the Coast a vacation of comfort and delight. That the voyage for the most of the year is over a sea of tranquillity, unruffled by the storms of other oceans, is an inducement to visit our shores.

The city is one of the most picturesque on the globe. It has beauty not derived from magnificent architecture, grand boulevards, shaded avenues, or spacious parks. Yet it has charms of its own, charms almost impossible of description and not susceptible of analysis. There is scarcely a single feature which is not surpassed by other cities, but there is a harmony, a combination of the whole that renders it matchless. An educational system of exceptionally high merit provides for the education, churches for the morality, and hospitals and charitable institutions for the relief of such as need them. There is no city on earth where benevolence is carried to such extent, and the hospitality of its inhabitants is known where the name of the city is known. No one comes here so unknown as to escape courteous notice. Every visitor is debtor for attention not purchasable with money. A trip to the Pali, a plunge in the surf at Waikiki, and a ride up Tantalus are delights not readily forgotten. Cool lanais, moonlight rides and enchanting native songs bequeath a witchery to memory never effaced. Long after the tread ceases to resound on our streets will these scenes recur to recollection like a round of fairy enchantment.

This Directory is presented to the public with the assurance that it is excelled by no similar work in America. It embraces all the features found in the largest metropolitan directories and many valuable features that are lost sight of in the larger cities.

The directory is a modern necessity of business and social life; every one is represented and interested in it. No publication has a more general or extended use, and each succeeding year had found the directory more popular and important.

It is used all the while by all classes of people at all seasons of the year, not only by the residents of the Territory, but by those who come from beyond the limits of the Islands.

Our directory library is in the rooms of the Hawaii Tourist Bureau, 828 Fort Street, where directories of the leading cities can be found for reference.

We send the Honolulu and Territory of Hawaii Directory to these cities in exchange, and this diffuses the information of Honolulu and the Islands throughout the world.

The population of Honolulu and the Island of Oahu, given by the 1920 census, was 123,496.

This book contains 786 pages. The advertising pages tell "who's who" in the business life of the Islands; the Index to Advertisers is on page 48. Pages 55 to 92 comprise the Miscellaneous Information and Street Guide; pages 93 to 512 comprise the names of the adult population of Honolulu and Island of Oahu; pages 523 to 618, the Island of Hawaii; pages 625 to 666, the Island of Maui; pages 673 to 702, the Islands of Kauai and Niihau; pages 703 to 708, the Islands of Molokai, Lanai and Kahoolawe, and pages 709 to 782 the Classified Business Directory of the Islands.

The publishers take this opportunity of thanking the liberal and progressive business and professional men of the Islands for the generous support given in the way of patronage, and the citizens in general for valuable assistance rendered in the way of furnishing us with information concerning themselves and their business.

STREET GUIDE

CITY OF HONOLULU

The usual form of denoting directions by points of the compass does not obtain. The terms mauka, meaning toward the mountain, and makai, toward the sea, are used in Honolulu instead of north and south, ewa and waikiki, terms taken from the direction of those districts, are constantly used.

The decimal system (100 to the block) is used as far as may be in the numbering of buildings in Honolulu.

The numbers on two main intersecting streets, King (dividing the city makai and mauka), and Nuuanu av (dividing the city ewa and waikiki), have been given, and streets parallel to these are correspondingly numbered,

DO NOT DELAY

TEACHERS make a school—not the building or the advertising literature set out.
Our teachers have been the biggest ASSET in putting our school on its present high level.
They develop and instill knowledge by effi-

ISLAND OF HAWAII.

ISLAND OF HAWAII

This is the largest island of the group, having an area of 4215 square miles against 2434 for all the others. The climate and scenery are attractions to tourists, for in this respect Hawaii has no equal in the Territory. Another tourist asset is the Volcano of Kilauea, located on a spur of the mountain called Mauna Loa, at an elevation of four thousand feet, and distant about thirty-one miles from Hilo, the principal port of the island. As a sugar producer this island leads all others, the crop of 1923 amounting to 188,362 tons of the entire product of 545,606 tons made in the Territory.

The Hawaii Consolidated Railway, Ltd., has in operation 90 miles of railway covering the following territory: From Hilo to Glenwood, 26 miles, where stages and automobiles await passengers for the trip to the volcano; from Hilo to Kapoho and Kaueleau, known as the Puna district, 32 miles; and from Hilo to Paauilo, 33 miles.

The ride to the volcano from Glenwood is a beautiful one and is greatly enjoyed by tourists. Leaving the Volcano House there is a road circling the island, passing through the cattle-raising district of Kau and where many thousands acres of land are planted to cane, on through the Konas, famous for the coffee grown there and shipped throughout the world. A pineapple industry has grown up in Kohala as well as in the Hilo district, the soil being adapted to the cultivation of this luscious fruit.

In Kona many varieties of temperate zone fruits are successfully grown and on some of the estates are to be found apples, grapes, figs, dates, peaches, pines, oranges and all varieties of vegetables.

In the Kohala district there are several sugar plantations and a number of cattle ranches. Most of the beef consumed on the islands is raised on Hawaii and shipped from Kawaihae and Mahukona, two ports on the northern end of the island, which is toward Honolulu. Nearly all of the freight is handled by means of small boats, the exception being along the Hamakua coast, where cable cars are used, the sugar being taken on them direct from the storehouses and dropped into the holds of the steamers and then taken to Hilo to be shipped by mail and steam to the Coast. At Hilo there is a wharf at which steamers can load and handle freight direct.

The population of the Island of Hawaii was 64,806 by the last census.

TOURISTS' HEADQUARTERS

CABLE AND WIRELESS ADDRESS: "MAUIBRIDGE"

MAUI, THE VALLEY ISLE, is fast becoming one of Hawaii's greatest tourist attractions. Finest auto roads of all the islands, excellent hotels, the many wonderful scenic attractions, and the real hospitality extended to all by the Maui people has made of this wonderful island a place that few tourists neglect to visit.

HALEAKALA, "THE HOUSE OF THE SUN," the largest extinct crater in the world, with its awe-inspiring grandeur and gorgeous sunsets, is the objective of tourists now coming to the Islands.

On the lip of Haleakala, at an altitude of 10,000 feet, there is a concrete rest house, making it possible for one to remain at the crater as long as desired.

ISLAND OF MAUI

Maui is the second island in size of the Hawaiian group, with an area of 760 square miles or 400,000 acres, and has 37,385 population, by the last census, including Chinese and Japanese.

The island consists of two circular volcanic groups of mountains connected by a long, low, sandy isthmus about three miles wide. The western group is the smaller of the two, the highest peaks of which are about 5,820 feet.

On East Maui stands Haleakala, an extinct volcano 10,032 feet high, on the summit of which is the largest crater on the globe, having an area of sixteen and one-third square miles.

Around the bases of these mountains and sweeping down to the sea are six sugar plantations, one of which is the largest and most productive on the islands.

The cane lands on Maui are eroded volcanic red dust with but little sand, is mineral, and very porous. Water is the life of the land, and is supplied largely by immense pumps which raise millions of gallons daily from near sea level. All the natural water supply available has been utilized by immense ditches and the supply is largely augmented by tunnels run under the streams to catch the lower strata of waters which now escape to the sea underground.

Besides sugar, there are annually produced on Maui large crops of rice, apples, taro and potatoes.

The elevated plains and foothills are used for stock raising and farming. The principal fruits grown are the mango, pineapple, lime, guava, papaya, avocado pear, fig, grape and orange.

Kahului is the seaport of the island. Wailuku, situated at the mouth of the Waialeale river, is the leading town, and is connected by rail with Kahului, four miles distant.

Last season 113,069 tons of sugar were shipped from the island. In Kahului is located the central office of the Kahului Railroad, connecting Kahului, Wailuku, Spreckelsville, Paia, Haiku and Pauwela.

Most of the animal life on the island is of imported origin. Wild peacocks, geese and goats are numerous on portions of the island, and doves, wild ducks, ducks and plover, indigenous perhaps, are more or less common. Cattle and horse raising is quite profitable.

Much of the natural scenery of Maui is beautiful beyond description, many points of which are annually visited by large numbers of tourists.

ISLANDS OF KAUAI AND NIIHAU

The Island of Kauai is the most northerly and westerly of the group. It is twenty-five miles in length and twenty-two miles in breadth, and contains a superficial area of 590 square miles. The population of Kauai and Niihau was 29,438 by the 1920 census. Kauai Island has appropriately been called the "Garden Isle." Geological investigation shows that it is the oldest island in formation of any in the group. The center of the island is mountainous, and bears the geographical name of Waialeale. From this mountain the land rolls in every direction toward the sea, the contour being gently rolling uplands and tablelands. Those absolute requisite to successful settlement, wood and water, are there in abundance. The valleys are especially luxuriant. The island is, at this time, principally devoted to the cultivation of sugar, last season's output of which aggregated 96,512 tons. In some sections rice is also very extensively raised. An experiment was made some fifty years ago to raise coffee, but had judgment was used and the enterprise failed. Since then capital has been timid, but as experience is obtained, and the cultivation of coffee is better understood, no doubt exists in many minds but that the Island of Kauai will be found to be as well adapted to the raising of coffee as any other island in the group. Leaving the plain where the sugar cane is found growing luxuriantly, at the head of the Hanapepe gulch, as far as the eye can reach, waving fields of rice, home-like cottages and tropical gardens are to be seen. A majestic river flows through the valley, on one side of which vine-clad hills usurp the place of the rice fields.

The Hanalei Valley is beautiful beyond description. In approaching it from the sea, the steamers enters the channel between two high cliffs, and suddenly glides to an anchorage near the mouth of the river, from whence the valley in all its beauty and grandeur bursts upon you. The road to the center of the valley passes through the largest rice-producing district in the Islands. One might spend weeks in this delightful valley without exhausting its beauties and attractions. Other interesting natural features of Kauai are the Spouting Horn, near Koloa, the Barking Sands of Mana, Lumahai Valley, the Caves of Waiakanaloa and Waiakapalae, the mirage near Waimea, and Mt. Waialeale, the central peak of the island. Lihue is the principal town.

The Island of Niihau lies twenty miles west of Kauai. It is twenty miles long and has an elevation of about 1600 feet, with a total area of 97 square miles. The island is devoted almost exclusively to the raising of sheep and cattle.

MOLOKAI, LANAI AND KAHoolaWE

Molokai is the fifth island in size of the Hawaiian group. It is the first island sighted by steamers from San Francisco to Honolulu, and is separated from Oahu by a Channel twenty-five miles in width. The island contains 270 square miles. The principal industry is live stock and the growing of pineapples. The location of the leper settlement is one of the most charming and healthy spots on the island. Besides the numerous small cottages which dot the plain for two miles or more, are several larger buildings, including two churches, the hospitals, and dwellings erected for the physician, superintendent, clergy and nurses who reside there. There are about five hundred lepers and two hundred relatives and assistants of the sick, making in all a colony of about seven hundred. The lepers are not allowed to leave the place, but the overseers, physicians and nurses have or can obtain permission to go and come as often as is desired. Visitors are not permitted to go to the settlement except with permission of the Board of Health, which is only granted in exceptional cases.

LANAI.

Lanai is the sixth island in size. It is 22 miles in length, 13 miles in breadth, and contains 150 square miles. Its greatest elevation above sea level is 3,500 feet. It has a delightful climate and many attractive features, and in some respects is one of the most interesting of the Hawaiian Islands. The people residing on the island are mostly devoted to the growing of pineapples. It is twenty-two miles distant from Honolulu and only ten miles from Lahaina, on the Island of Maui. To the tourist approaching it from the outside it does not present an inviting appearance, and yet in the interior are rich grass lands. While clearly of volcanic origin, it has a fertile soil, and the grassy plains of the land-locked valley of Palawai contain more than 10,000 acres of rich virgin soil.

KAHoolaWE.

The small, low island, to the southwest of Maui contains 44 square miles and is nearly barren, save for a few low shrubs and kiawe trees, and uninhabited save by occasional cattlemen, to which industry the island is now devoted. The population of the three islands as given by the 1920 census is 1,972.
