

Youngson, Annabel (2018) How to be creative. British Journal of Occupational Therapy, 81 (S8). p. 36.

Downloaded from: <http://insight.cumbria.ac.uk/id/eprint/4608/>

Usage of any items from the University of Cumbria's institutional repository 'Insight' must conform to the following fair usage guidelines.

Any item and its associated metadata held in the University of Cumbria's institutional repository Insight (unless stated otherwise on the metadata record) may be copied, displayed or performed, and stored in line with the JISC fair dealing guidelines (available here) for educational and not-for-profit activities provided that

- the authors, title and full bibliographic details of the item are cited clearly when any part of the work is referred to verbally or in the written form
 - a hyperlink/URL to the original Insight record of that item is included in any citations of the work
- the content is not changed in any way
- all files required for usage of the item are kept together with the main item file.

You may not

- sell any part of an item
- refer to any part of an item without citation
- amend any item or contextualise it in a way that will impugn the creator's reputation
- remove or alter the copyright statement on an item.

The full policy can be found here.

Alternatively contact the University of Cumbria Repository Editor by emailing insight@cumbria.ac.uk.

HOW TO BE CREATIVE – final abstract – PTO for thought on this

Title: How to be creative

Aim:

The aim of this workshop is to get you started on engaging with and developing your creativity

Background:

This occupation work station addresses the question of 'how can I be more creative?' Creativity is seen as a skill of occupational therapists in education, in the occupational therapy process and in the use of 'craft' occupations. Lack of time and lack of confidence can hinder the creative process and this workshop looks at techniques to overcome some of these barriers.

Session plan:

Participants are asked to bring an inexpensive A4 or A5 unlined exercise or sketch book and an open mind. The workshop will start with planning a project and with ideas for attentive looking. Time will then be spent in the conference exhibition area to inspire you to focus on the detail and the overall impression of the occupational therapy world. The sketch book will be the creative space through which you record your thoughts, and in which you can gather source material. Phone/cameras can also be used to capture images.

Once impressions are gathered, techniques for creatively using this source material will be shared. Discussion and activity will focus around making connections, ideas for exploration and design. While there will not be time to make a finished product, the workshop aims to reach a point where you will be able to take your ideas away and develop your creative self.

Resources:

Room or exhibition space with table and chairs

Max no:

20

15.1.18 Heard today from RCOT that the abstract had been accepted for conference, along with the one on boho coasters!

Since I put the abstract in a number of ideas have come to the fore to share with participants. See other documents in this folder re the Kate Daudy map, the book of wonder and the story telling with mixed media. I need to tell the story of how it can be the slightest thing that sparks that creativity and that we just need to be open to suggestions.

I do now need to buy a plain book and perhaps have a go at putting together some ideas. I need to look out previous year's brochures (if I have any) and put some ideas together. Also – the ideas from the creativity book – and the idea that you leave the first few pages blank. I could get one of the recruitment brochures and cut out some words?

NB don't forget the 9 dot exercise.....