The University of Missouri-Columbia's illustrious history has been preserved in books, newsletters, manuscripts, reports, photographs, and newspapers; and collected by the University Libraries, the University Archives, the State Historical Society of Missouri, and Western Historical Manuscript Collection. The Sesquicentennial of the University provided the impetus to assess the historical resources available, to compare holdings among the repositories, and to prepare a guide describing some of these resources.

The titles and collections selected for inclusion in RESOURCES FOR RESEARCH ON THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI-COLUMBIA is intended to provide researchers with a starting point, to illustrate the array of materials available, and to guide users to the repositories where additional material may be found.

Subject specific publications of the University are not included. That is, publications and collections that pertain solely to the disciplines of the departments/schools/colleges were omitted. Periodical articles about the University are not included, nor are University newsletters that began publication after 1980. Prospective users are urged to inquire at Western Historical Manuscript Collection, the University Archives, the State Historical Society, and Special Collections of Ellis Library for specific needs. Portions of the Libraries' and Archives' holdings are listed in LUMIN, the online catalog of the University of Missouri System. Card catalogs and/or other finding aids are also maintained by each repository.

The organization of the listings in the guide is by present campus organization. Titles and collections related to the University as a whole appear first followed by titles and collections pertaining to schools, colleges or other units on the campus. The order within sections is roughly chronological except that compiled histories of the unit appear before other records pertaining to that unit.

The order of information provided for each title is author, title, place of publication, publisher, dates published (as far as could be ascertained from records on hand), pagination, abstract, call number, and dates available. For published and unpublished work the author is understood to be the University of Missouri or University of Missouri-Columbia unless otherwise specified. For published works, the place of publication is Columbia and the publisher is the University of Missouri or University of Missouri-Columbia unless otherwise specified. The abbreviations that describe the size of the publication or collection are:

- p. = pages
- v. = volumes
- f. = folders
- l.f. = linear feet
- c.f. = cubic feet

Call numbers are given last followed by the dates or volumes held if applicable. Each call number is preceded by an abbreviation for the repository where the work is held:

- WHMC = Western Historical Manuscript Collection
23 Ellis Library
- ARCH = University Archives
726 Lewis Hall

SHS = State Historical Society of Missouri
3 Ellis Library

LIBR = University Libraries

- SPEC-M = University of Missouri Collection (401 Ellis)
- RARE = Rare Book Collection (401 Ellis)
- FILM = Microfilm Collection (401 Ellis)
- REF = Reference (1 South, Ellis)
- GEOLOG = Geology Library (21 Geology Building)
- ENGR = Engineering Library (2017 Engineering Building)
- VET MED = Veterinary Medical Library (W-218 Veterinary Medicine)
- HSL = Health Science Library (J. Otto Lottes Health Science Library)
- JOUR = Journalism Library (17 Walter Williams Hall)

The Library Sesquicentennial planning committee acknowledges the assistance provided by the State Historical Society of Missouri, Western Historical Manuscript Collection and the University Archives. They are grateful to the UMC Sesquicentennial Celebration Steering Committee for the financial assistance provided to compile the guide, and to the Library Administration for funds to reproduce it.
