1993 Homecoming celebration is set for Feb. 27

Coastal's 1993 Homecoming celebration will be held Saturday, Feb. 27. The day's activities include the Coastal Carolina College Service Awards Luncheon, alumni tennis, Chanticleer and Lady Chant alumni basketball, a beach party, and Coastal men's and women's basketball, followed by a chancellor's reception. Registration begins at 9 a.m. in the Student Center and the Williams-Brice Building and continues throughout the day.

Homecoming activities include:

- A pep rally for students and alumni will be held in Spadoni Park to kick off the weekend Friday, Feb. 26 from 7 p.m. to midnight. The pep rally features pyramid building, spirit and banner contests, building of Homecoming floats by campus organizations, music, and food. The event is free.
- Tennis matches for alumni begin Saturday's events and will be held on the college tennis courts at 9 a.m. Sign-up is necessary. To reserve a spot, call the Office of Alumni Affairs at extension 2007.
- The first Coastal Carolina College Service Awards Luncheon will be held in the Student Center beginning at noon. Honorees have been selected from the college's various advisory boards for recognition during this special event. The luncheon is open to the public; however, reservations are necessary. Lunch is $7.95.
- Judging of Homecoming floats on display around Spadoni Park will be held at approximately noon.
- Former Chanticleers and Lady Chants will get together for the Men's Alumni Basketball Game at 2 p.m. and the Women's Alumni Basketball Game at 3 p.m. The games will be held in the Physical Education Center Gymnasium and are free and open to the public.
- A Beach Party for alumni will be held from 2:30 to 5 p.m. in the Student Center. "Spellbound" will perform beach music.

Coastal Theater to present British playwright Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming"

As part of the Wheelwright Passport season, Coastal Carolina Theater will present British playwright Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming," on Wednesday, March 3 through Saturday, March 6 at 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday, March 7 at 3 p.m. All performances are open to the public and will be held in Wheelwright Auditorium. Tickets are $8 and $5 for students.

"The Homecoming" opened in London in 1965 to critical acclaim. The play has been described as a brilliant piece of writing that is brutal, funny, and tragic. Pinter is the author of other works such as "The Birthday Party," "The Caretaker," "No Man's Land," and "Betrayal."

"The Homecoming" is a story about a family of five men – a retired butcher, a chauffeur, a pimp, a boxer, and a philosophy professor – and their troubles when they invite one brother's wife, Ruth, to join the family.

Sandi Shackelford, director of "The Homecoming," said in order to maintain the intimacy of the dramatic work, the audience will be seated on the stage around a thrust set; seating is limited to 115 each night. Shackelford has directed college theater productions such as "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," "Aunt Dan and Lemon," "Bus Stop," and "1959 Pink Thunderbird." In addition, Shackelford performs "An Audience With Fanny Kemble," a one-woman dramatization based on the writings of the 19th century actress, feminist, and abolitionist.

The cast of "The Homecoming" includes the following students:

- Michael Matthews is a junior majoring in theater from Johnsonville, S.C. He has appeared in Coastal productions of "South Pacific," "Scapino," "The Mousetrap," "The Imaginary Invalid," "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead," and "Don't Drink the Water." Matthews is a member of the Upstage Company.
- Michael Brady is a 1992 Coastal graduate with a bachelor's degree in history. He is from North Myrtle Beach. Brady has appeared in Coastal productions of "1959 Pink Thunderbird," "Aunt Dan and Lemon," and "Our Town."

- Dargan Baldwin, a junior majoring in theater from Pawleys Island, has performed in "Aunt Dan and Lemon," "And Miss Reardon Drinks A Little," "The Tempest," "Don't Drink the Water," and many Upstage Company productions.
- Michael "Sculley" Deakins, a sophomore majoring in theater from New Orleans, has appeared in Coastal's "Aunt Dan and Lemon," "Don't Drink the Water," "Our Town," and many Upstage Company productions.
- Kimberly Lindemann is a junior majoring in English from Calendoncia, Mich. She has appeared in the college theater production "The Imaginary Invalid," and an Upstage Company one-act play.

Community members with roles in the play include:

- Sol Steinberg, from Myrtle Beach, has appeared in Coastal's college theater productions of "The Tempest," "Scapino," and "The Odd Couple." He has worked with Theatre of the Republic, Seniors for the Performing Arts, and Lighthouse Theatre Company.
- Joe Kasper, from Galivants Ferry, has worked with Seniors for the Performing Arts and has appeared in productions of "Prisoner of Second Avenue," "How the Other Half Loves," and "Send Me No Flowers." He also has directing experience.

Stage manager is Morgan Neal, a sophomore majoring in theater from Columbia.

The set and light design for the production are by Lee Shepherd, visiting professor of theater at Coastal.

For more information, call the Wheelwright Box Office, open weekdays from noon to 5 p.m.

Scholarly views presented on Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming"

In conjunction with performances of British playwright Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming," a forum will be held to present and discuss scholarly views of the work on Tuesday, March 2 at 4 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The forum is free and open to the public.

David Millard will present "Pinter and the Uncertainty Principle," Jon Tuttle, professor of English at Francis Marion University, will present "Pinter's Dramatic Purity – An Actor's Playwright," and Tom Jones will present "Harold Pinter and the Theatre of Tragicomedy."

Sandi Shackelford, director of the play, will moderate the forum. Questions and discussion will follow the three 15-minute presentations.

For information on the forum, call Sandi Shackelford.

Food and beverages will be provided. This event is free and open to Coastal alumni, faculty, staff, and their guests.

- The Lady Chants take on Campbell University in Kimbel Gymnasium at 5 p.m. and the Chanticleers take on the Campbell men at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $5 and $3 for alumni. The 1993 Homecoming King and Queen will be crowned during halftime by Chancellor Ingle. Winners of the float, pyramid building, banner, and spirit contests also will be announced at halftime; scholarships totalling $1,000 will be awarded to the contest winners.

- Chancellor Ingle will host an alumni reception at the Burning Ridge Golf Course Clubhouse at 9:30 p.m. following the men's basketball game. A cash bar is available and hor d'oeuvres will be provided. The reception is open to alumni, faculty, staff, and their guests.
- A semi-formal dance will be held for students at the Sea Mist Resort in Myrtle Beach from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. The dance is free and open only to faculty, staff, and students with a validated Coastal identification card or a paid tuition fee receipt.

The Homecoming events for students are sponsored by the Campus Program Board and the Office of Student Activities.

For information, call Alumni Affairs. ~

Shape up for summer

The Physical Education Center invites the campus community to come to the pool on Monday, Feb. 22 at 5:45 p.m. for hydrobics (water aerobics.)

It's time to shape up for the summer and have fun in the pool while fat-burning, toning, firming, and cardiovascular strengthening exercises without joint stress.

For information, contact the P. E. Center. ~

Committee to study alternative management styles

Chancellor Ingle has named a joint faculty/staff committee to study alternative management styles for the college's administration. The focus of the committee will be on management methods, administrative philosophy, values, and responsibilities.

With respect to the unique juncture in the life of Coastal, the committee is expected to function in a critical role as the college approaches a challenging future.

Committee members have been charged with the tasks of interviewing a variety of administrators in the coming weeks in order to gain advice and recommendations on improving communications, decision-making, leadership, and delivery of services. Issues will be considered which affect the implementation of the college's academic mission and issues which affect the efficient and effective operation of the college as a whole.

The committee will report its recommendations to the chancellor. Recommendations on specific administrative structures or proposals for personnel changes are not in the realm of the committee's responsibility.

Eddie Dyer and Sally Horner will co-chair the committee. Committee members are June Brown, Bob Gamble, Beth Haynes, Gil Hunt, Barbara Jackson, Marios Katsioloudes, Sylvia Kenig, Colleen Lohr, Kim Montague, Sandra Nelson, Paul Olsen, Joan Piroch, Jill Sessoms, Lynne Smith, and Faye Taylor. ~

Faculty member leads NATO workshop in The Netherlands

Richard Dame, Palmetto Professor and faculty member of the Marine Science Department, recently directed a NATO Advanced Research Workshop at Castle Moermond in The Netherlands.

The workshop, entitled "Bivalve Filter Feeders and Marine Ecosystem Processes," was attended by 32 leading scientists from NATO countries, including Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, The Netherlands, Spain, United Kingdom, and the United States. The three-day meeting focused on past accomplishments and future research needs in the areas of water dynamics; bivalve nutrition and growth; predation of mollusks, crabs, and birds; primary food sources and feeding rates; nutrient cycling in systems dominated by bivalves; and system modeling and management of bivalve systems for human use.

During the workshop, Dame presented a paper, "The Role of Bivalve Filter Feeder Material Fluxes in Coastal Ecosystems." Presentations from the meeting will be published in a book by Springer-Verlag of Heidelberg that is scheduled for December printing.

Dame has been on temporary leave from Coastal since summer 1992 when he was named director of the Ecosystems Studies Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) in Washington, D.C. He also was named the NSF representative to the National Wetlands Committee.

Dame earned a bachelor's degree in biology from the College of Charleston, a master's degree in zoology and ecology from the University of North Carolina, and a Ph.D. in biology and marine studies from the University of South Carolina. He joined the Coastal faculty in 1971 and served as chair of the Marine Science Department until 1991, when he was named the first Palmetto Professor in the state. ~

Brown Bag Series planned

As part of the Brown Bag Series for staff, students, and faculty and in celebration of Women's History Month, Sally Hare will present "We've Come a Long Way, But Don't Call Me Baby" on Wednesday, March 3 at noon in the Faculty/Staff Dining Room in the Student Center. The discussion on women in society is free; soft drinks will be provided. Reservations are not necessary.

The Brown Bag Series has been created to provide one-hour sessions on topical areas of interest for the Coastal community. The events will be held the first Wednesday of each month from noon to 1 p.m. at various campus locations, depending on room availability. Other topics for the series include motivation, travel, art, entertainment, diversity, planning, and more.

For more information, call one of the following members of the Staff Enrichment Committee: Veronica Bell, Edna Bellamy, Barbara Driver, Carolyn Hickman, Barbara Jackson, Anne Monk, Kim Montague, or Tyrone Smith. ~

Student awarded scholarship for poster design

Coastal student Leigh Ann Waslien has been awarded a scholarship for the 1992 national "Know When to Say When" poster competition sponsored by Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc.

More than 2,000 entries from 700 colleges in 50 states were submitted for the annual competition held in conjunction with National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, which is recognized each October.

Waslien is a freshman psychology major from Myrtle Beach. She entered the competition while studying graphic design at Coastal.

Waslien's $500 scholarship marks the second consecutive year a Coastal student has received an award in the competition.

"We're very proud of the 'Know When to say When' program and congratulate Ms. Waslien for her efforts in helping to promote a worthwhile and important project for us," said William "Spud" Spadoni, president of Better Brands, Inc., the Myrtle Beach-based wholesaler for Anheuser-Busch products. ~

Career Recruiting Day for Coastal senior's to be held

The Career Placement Office is hosting a Career Recruiting Day for Coastal's senior class on Wednesday, March 3 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in SC 204 and 205. Twelve companies, including two state agencies will be available to interview graduating students who are available for employment.

Senior class members may sign-up for interviews through Tuesday, March 2 in SC 206G.

For more information, contact Mollie Starbuck. ~

Coastal's PR/marketing efforts recognized by advertising federation

Coastal's billboards, Cornerstone magazine, and a member of the public relations staff received citations during the Coastal Advertising Federation's Addy Awards ceremony February 6 at the Radisson Resort.

The billboards, which were part of Coastal's 1992 summer advertising campaign, earned a citation in the out-of-home, outdoor category. They were designed by The Sellers Group with creative director Jim Sellers, art directors Steve Ellwood and Chris Vestal, and illustrator Steve Ellwood.

The masthead for Cornerstone magazine received a citation in the advertising arts division, visual category.

It was produced by The Sellers Group with creative director Steve Ellwood and illustrators Steve Ellwood and Lynwood Salvo.

Cathy McPherson received citations in the advertising arts copywriting category and in the public service division electronic category for copywriting. The award was for the Coastal Advertising Federation Public Service Project for Grand Strand Senior Center. McPherson and Vern Hearl of Lesnick Himmelsbach Wilson Hearl were copywriters for both projects.

The Addy Awards are held annually to recognize the best creative advertising done in the Grand Strand market. ~

Archarios wins Addy, state honor

Archarios has won an Addy from the Coastal Advertising Federation in the Student Division of the annual awards competition. In addition, Archarios editor-in-chief Stephanie Biegner, a senior from Myrtle Beach, received a citation in the Student Illustration category for a work entitled "Escape." The awards were presented in Myrtle Beach Feb. 6.

The magazine also earned second place for Best Overall Magazine in the Palmetto Literary/Art Magazine Association 1992 magazine competition. Individual honors in the competition include: Jill MacEldowney, a senior art studio major from Surfside Beach, for third place in the single photo category; and Stephanie Biegner for first place in the single artwork category. Also awarded were former Coastal students Sarah "Sunny" Fry, a 1992 graduate from Myrtle Beach, for third place in the poetry category; and Bruce Christner of Conway, for first place in special category/sculpture. Eric Rogers, a senior marine science major from Myrtle Beach, first place in poetry.

The Archarios staff for the 1992-1993 academic year includes: Stephanie Biegner, editor-in-chief; Eric Rogers, assistant editor; John Switter of Conway, art director; and David Schulz of Myrtle Beach and Shannon Goff of Conway, managing editors. ~

Coastal race unity conference for children earns national award

"Calling All Colors," a race unity conference for children held at Coastal in 1992 and 1993, has received a Creative Programming Award from the National University Continuing Education Association (NUCEA). "Calling All Colors" was coordinated through Graduate and Continuing Education.

According to John Powell, NUCEA national awards committee chair, the program will be recognized for "outstanding efforts in continuing education" during the association's national conference in Nashville in April.

In addition to the national award, NUCEA also named the conference a Program of Excellence at the regional level in 1992. The regional honor was one of three given to NUCEA members in an area comprised of 12 Southeast states and Puerto Rico.

"Calling All Colors" participants focused on ways to overcome racial stereotypes and become more culturally sensitive. The conference attracted 100 registrants in the third through eighth grades in 1992, and 150 students participated in 1993. ~

National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week activities scheduled

"Altered States," an alcohol prevention program scheduled to begin National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week 1993, will be held Monday, March 1 at 7 p.m. in the Little Theater. A reception will follow in the foyer. The program is free and open to students, faculty, and staff.

Guest speaker will be Kim Alexander who will address the changes in her life since she was involved in a 1979 DUI accident. Alexander, a quadriplegic, focuses on the reality and consequences of poor decision making. Since the accident, she has spoken to more than 100,000 youth and adults in North Carolina and South Carolina about making positive choices.

She is a 1979 graduate of Tamassee-Salem High School in Salem, S.C., and a 1988 graduate of Clemson University with a bachelor's degree in marketing. In 1987, she was named Miss Wheelchair South Carolina. In 1992, she completed a master's degree in counseling at Clemson University, where she is the program information coordinator for the Cooperative Extension Service, Youth Development 4-H.

The program is sponsored by the Campus Program Board, Phi Sigma Sigma sorority, and the Alcohol and Drug Prevention program.

Coastal's WalkAmerica campaign begins

The Horry County WalkAmerica campaign for the March of Dimes began Wednesday, Feb. 17 with a Kick-Off Breakfast at the Sea Mist Convention Center. The campaign will continue until the walk on Saturday, April 3 at the Myrtle Beach Pavilion.

The mission of the March of Dimes is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality through community services, advocacy, research, and education.

South Carolina has consistently ranked the worst in the nation in infant deaths; however, the latest statistics show South Carolina as now ranking sixth in the nation. Although improvement has been made, there is much work to be done.

Students, faculty, and staff are invited to participate on Coastal Carolina College's WalkAmerica team in the campaign for healthier babies - this is your chance to get involved! Any campus group, club, office, organization, or individual can sign-up to join the fun and excitement. Various fund-raising events are planned and information will be announced as the campaign progresses.

For more information or to sign-up, contact Coastal's 1993 WalkAmerica team co-captains Patti Loeb and Paula Sebastian in SC 206; or call Nancy Burton in the Public Relations Office.

Sigma Nu assists American Heart Association

Sigma Nu fraternity recently assisted the American Heart Association (AHA) as a community service project.

AHA needed assistance in delivering flowers purchased through its Winter Days Bouquets program, a fund raiser sponsored by the local AHA chapter.

When an AHA volunteer called Mark Sikes, Campus Program Board coordinator and Sigma Nu fraternity member, the fraternity was more than willing to assist with the program.

According to Joanne Hawkins with the AHA Administrative Association, "All of the [Sigma Nu] members were polite, extremely helpful, and were a pleasure to work with." She said, "Thanks to their help, the Winter Days Bouquets campaign was a success and may become an annual event which will help the AHA to meet its goal of reducing the number of disabilities and deaths caused by cardiovascular disease and stroke."

"Thanks to the gentlemen of Sigma Nu fraternity, for their efforts in recognizing a worthy cause and committing those efforts towards making it a success," Hawkins said.
