Creating Best Practices

- Developed by reviewing literature on online instructional tool design, LibGuides, web best practices, etc.
- Usability testing on first template to check best practices for accuracy.

BEST PRACTICES

Primary focus

- Clearly articulated purpose
- Templates w/required pages by type
- Removing duplicated content
- Limitations on the number of boxes, links, pages
- Default font size and type
- Friendly URLs on every page
 - Required pages have default URL names
- Minimizing jargon, clear language, conversational phrasing
- Removing non-essential content; no redirecting
- Clear contact information

Core Resources

The core database in Chemistry is SciFinder which provides access to Chemical Abstracts online. For additional in-depth and specialized research in Chemistry try searching some of these other highly specialized databases from the Libraries' Database Portal page:

- Reaxys
This resource merges three databases (CrossFire Beilstein, CrossFire Gmelin, and Patent Chemistry Database) into one interface. This resource has extensive coverage of quality, authoritative information in organic, inorganic and organometallic chemistry. Expert chemists carefully select journals and patents so that only high-quality, experimental data are included in Reaxys.
- ACS (American Chemical Society) Publications Database
Contains the full-text of the ACS journals from current to past issues. Also includes the Legacy Archives with full-text coverage for some journals back to 1879.
- Web of Science - Science Citation Index
A multidisciplinary database service with authoritative, multidisciplinary coverage from nearly 9,300 of the highest impact journals worldwide, including Open Access journals. Includes also the Social Sciences and Arts & Humanities Citation Indexes.
- ScienceDirect from Elsevier
Provides online access (searching and browsing) to over 1600 journals published by Elsevier and its partners. Journals articles are available for most disciplines including Chemistry and Biochemistry.

Datasets and Research

- Armed Conflict Location & Event Dataset
"ACLED is designed for disaggregated conflict analysis and crisis mapping. This dataset codes the dates and locations of all reported political violence events in over 50 developing countries." Africa main focus.
- Uppsala Conflict Data Program Datasets
UCDP provides 13 datasets on organized conflict and peacekeeping, including: Peace Agreements, Intrastate Armed Conflict, Non-State Conflict, One-Sided Violence, and Conflict Termination.
- Center for International Development and Conflict Management (CIDCM)
A research center at the University of Maryland that "seeks to prevent and transform conflict, to understand the interplay between conflict and development, and to help societies create sustainable futures for themselves...CIDCM devises effective tools and pathways to constructive change."
- Women, Peace & Security Research Repository
Online resources compiled by the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security. It includes books, articles, reports, narratives, action plans, and resolutions.
- IDMC: Internal Displacement Monitoring Centre
The IDMC, is the leading international body monitoring internal displacement worldwide. IDMC runs an online database providing comprehensive information and analysis on internal displacement in some 50 countries.
- CIDCM International Crisis Behavior Project
The International Crisis Behavior Project consists of data on 455 international crises, 35 protracted conflicts, and 1000 crisis actors from the end of World War I through 2007.
- Peace Accords Matrix
The University of Notre Dame's Kroc Institute with the assistance of the Uppsala Conflict Data Program developed the Peace Accords Matrix. This database compiles all

Creating an Evaluation Process

- First review cycle: every published guide in 3 phases
- Review team: 4 librarians, 3 library assistants – 1 person from each department
- Initial rubric developed based on best practices
- Revised rubrics addressed best practices, plus areas of concern based on first review phase

What's in the Rubric?

Original Rubric

- 6 elements: Purpose, Navigation, Content, Language, Accessibility, Contact
 - Reviewed 20 different areas
 - View at: <https://goo.gl/CfRDwW>

Revised Rubric

- 9 elements: Purpose, Navigation, Content, Links, Tabbed Boxes, Shared Boxes, Language, Accessibility, Contact
 - Reviews 26 different areas
 - View at: <https://goo.gl/pcu3tv>

Managing the Review

- Guide lists organized into three phases and assign to reviewers
- Tracked process with Google Docs and Sheets
- Assigned roles to help with managing work: team lead & 'reviewer of the review'
- Reviews completed in 45 days, owners had 60 days for updates

Challenges & Benefits

Gaining By-In

- Gather feedback on best practices, templates, and metadata from owners.
- Communicate reasons behind decisions
- Involve stakeholders in assessment/review process

Enforcing Policies

- Flexibility important, but assessment team should use Best Practices and judgement to make final decisions.
- Turn on LibGuides Workflow to catch newly created/updated guides for review. Especially important during assessment process.
- Be clear and consistent with policies and expectations.

Assessment Burn-Out

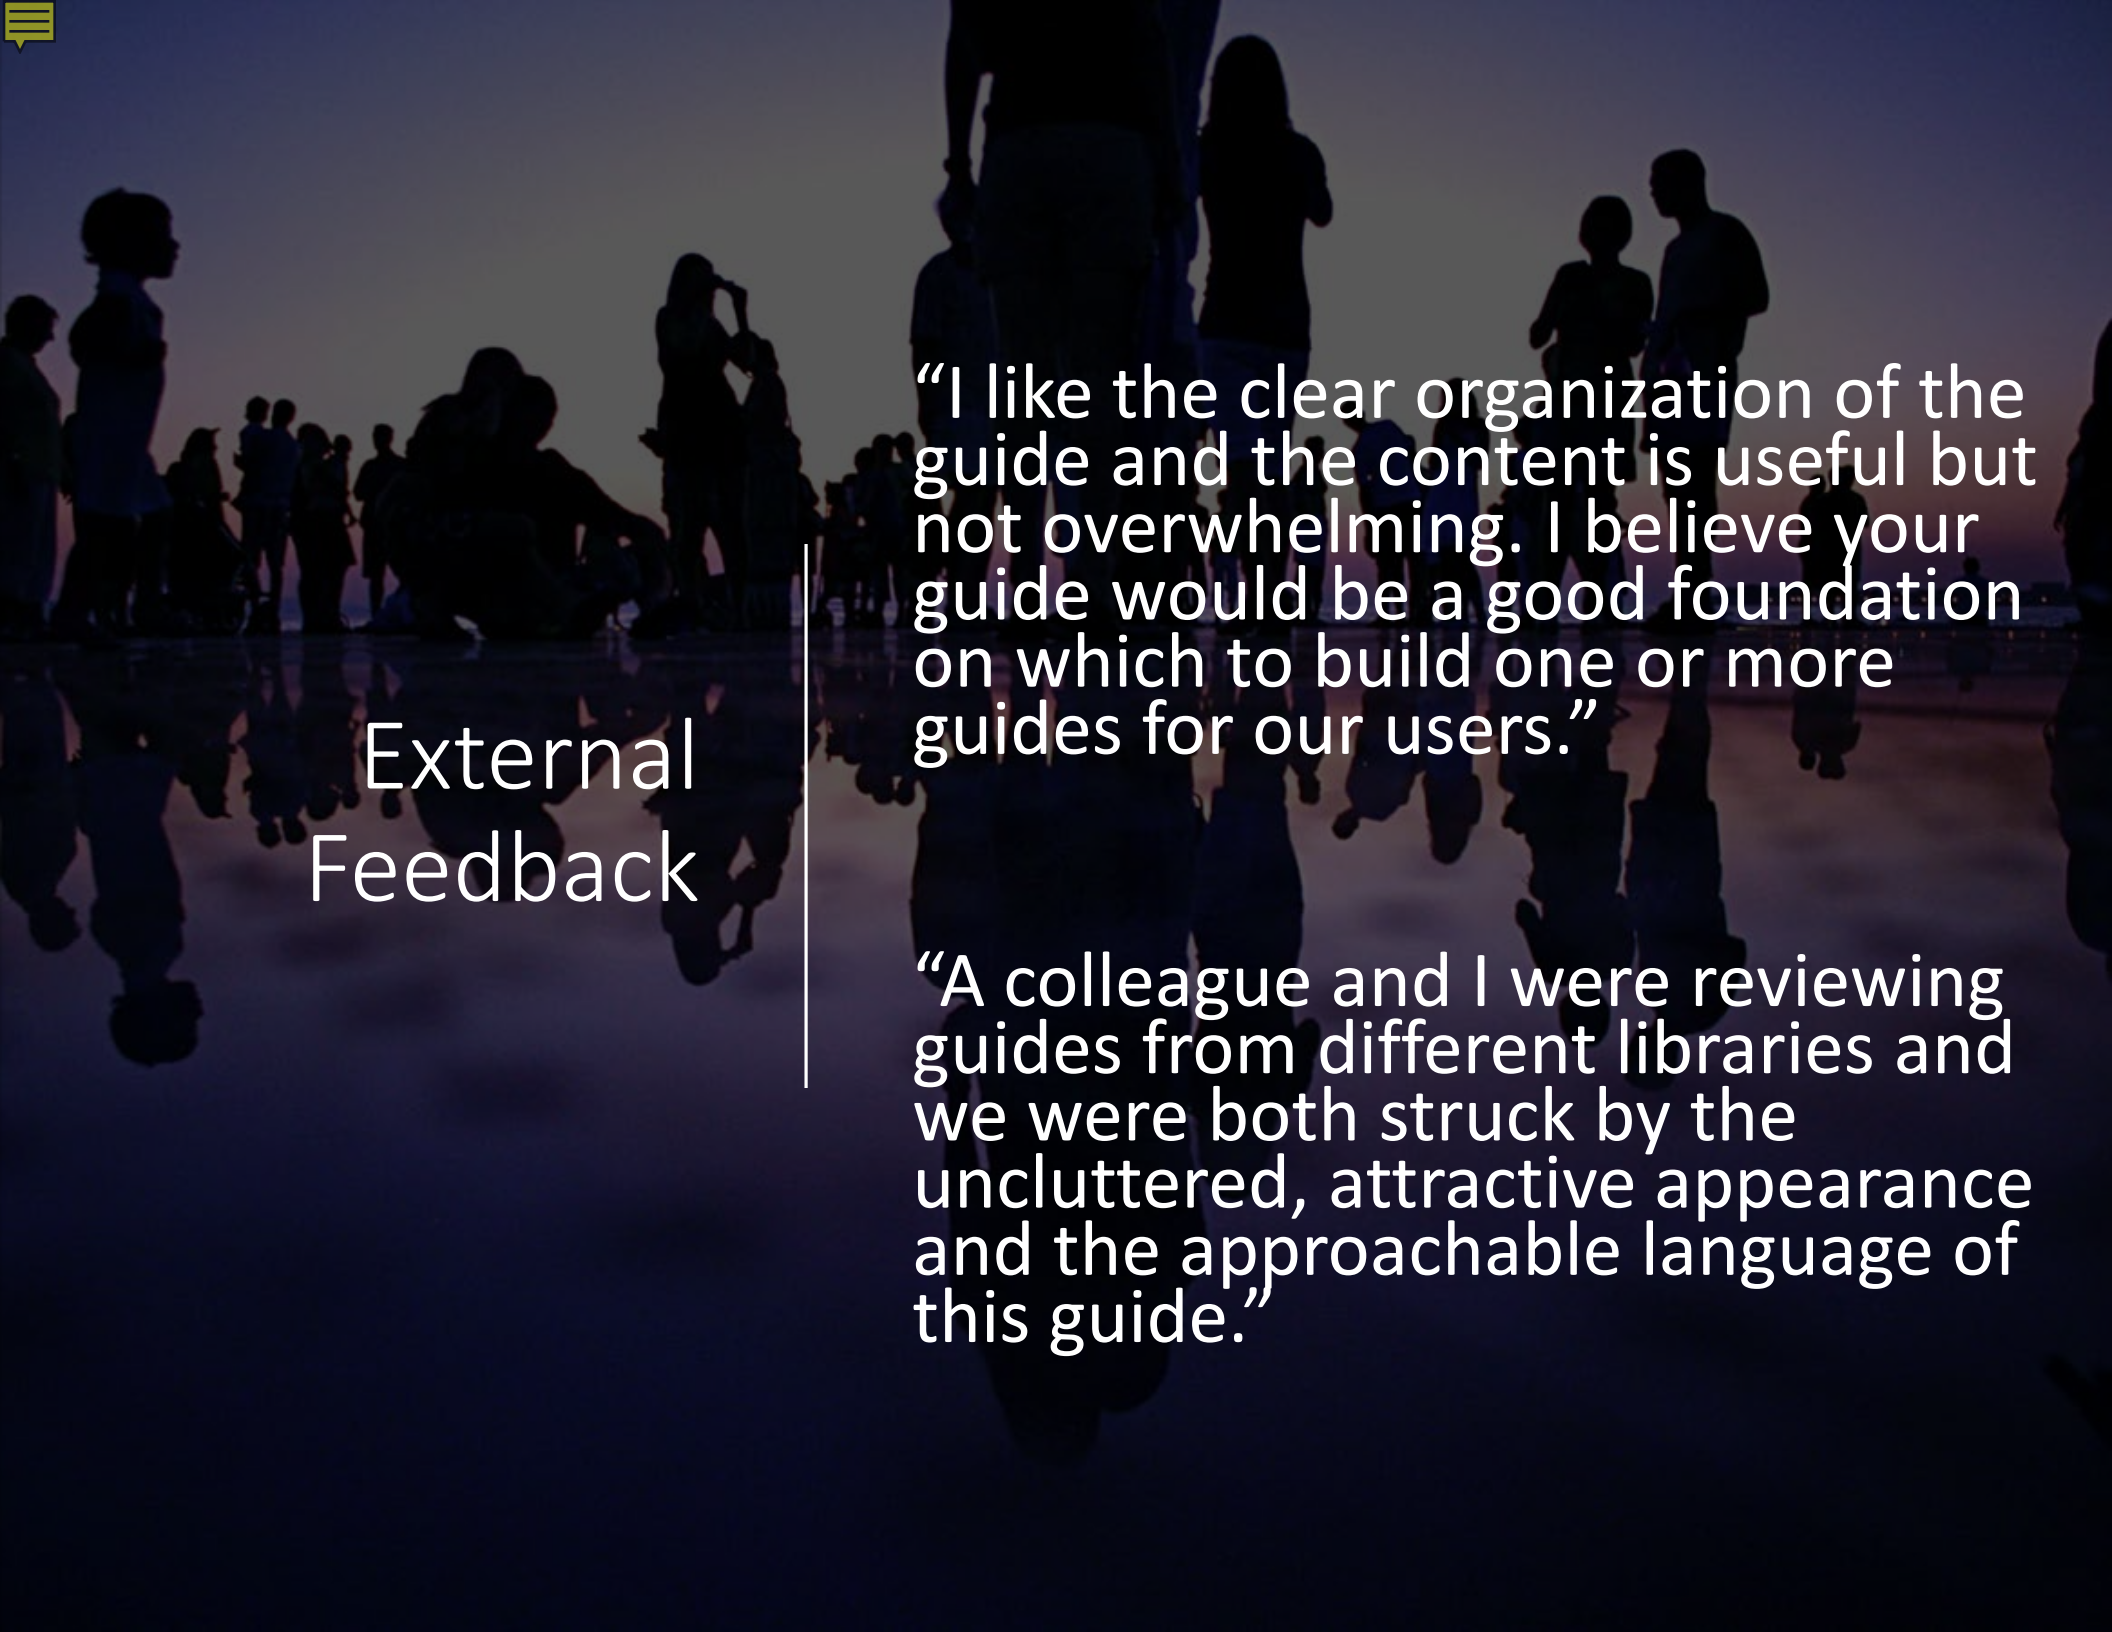

- Assessment team needs time to review guides, need to pace review process and check-in with team members often
- Norm the rubric!
- Guide owners need time to implement, and understand what is being required of them

Consistent Messaging & Services

- Shared boxes about core services ensures users receive same information
- Using templates allow for users to "anticipate" location of information

External Feedback

“I like the clear organization of the guide and the content is useful but not overwhelming. I believe your guide would be a good foundation on which to build one or more guides for our users.”

“A colleague and I were reviewing guides from different libraries and we were both struck by the uncluttered, attractive appearance and the approachable language of this guide.”
