THE WAGON AND OUR ANCESTORS

When settlers first penetrated the frontier areas, there were only foot paths for roads. Supplies were conveyed by pack animals, led by a man. Later the paths became trails wide enough for wagons. Early roads, such as the Wilderness Road for Kentucky, the Mohawk Trail or Iroquois Trail through New York, the Cumberland National Road across the Northwest Territory, and the Natchez Trace from Nashville, Tn. to Natchez, Ms., served to open frontier country to settlers.

Water transportation was favored by many people. Boats could float with the current down the Ohio River to Kentucky and Southern Indiana. The majority of the pioneers migrated westward in groups, bringing everything they owned in wagons and on horse back. The wagon served as a home for many months, and as shelter from the elements of nature. Many children were born in this modern day form of transportation during the migration process.

The William B. King family posing with their team and wagon in Stewart County, Tn., ca 1890's. (Original photo owned by the compiler, a descendant of William B. and Mary Jane (Rushing) King).

A common wagon used by the pioneers was known as the Conestoga Wagon, named for Conestoga, Pennsylvania, the place of its manufacture. They were important in the development of the United States and were the chief means of carrying freight and household goods across the alleghenies after the Revolutionary War. A Conestoga Wagon was a large well-constructed vehicle usually drawn by four or six horses. The wheel rims were four inches wide to resist sinking in the dirt roads. The wagon's body was covered by canvas stretched over bows and was curved up in the front and rear to prevent loads from shifting on slopes. Wagons known as prairie schooners were also commonly found and were the covered wagons used to cross the plains and Rocky Mountains. It was also used by the Mormons during their migration to Utah in 1847. Lighter in weight than the Conestoga Wagons, they were of varied design and quality. The one thing they all had was a canvas top stretched over bows.

After reaching their destination the settlers use of the wagon played a major role in everyday life. The use of the horse and farm wagon was wide spread until the late 1930's to early 1940's when it was replaced by the motorized tractor and the wagons suitable for its use. Even today the abandoned vehicles can still be seen rotting in the fields. The use of the horse drawn wagon is still being observed today in the Amish community. The Amish sect of Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Allen Co., Ky. are forbidden by their creed to use automobiles. Their buggies and wagons are still being built by a few small firms.

Most of the wagons used by our ancestors in the mid 1800's to 1900's were built by companies such as (1). The Studebaker and Sons Company of South Bend, Indiana. This wagon firm made wagons for the Union Army during the Civil War. They produced ambulances, artillery carriages, and commissary wagons for urgent army requests. (2).The Owensboro Wagon Company of Owensboro, Ky. (3). The Kentucky Manufacturing Co. of Louisville, Ky. (4). The Swab Wagon Company of Elizabethville, Penn. just to mention a few. There were also many private wagon makers through out the country.

The farm wagon of the William Virgil Whitaker family of Warren Co. Ky. William was the son of George Whitaker and MARtha Elizabeth Thomas, m. 27 Dec. 1888 Warren Co., Ky. (Photo taken winter of 1978 by the compiler on the Whitaker farm).

DR. WILLIAM FORD

Dr. William Ford was born near Raleigh, North Carolina 6 June 1794 the son of John Ford, Jr. and his first wife Mary Cornell, natives of Fairfax Co., VA. John, Jr. was a son of John Ford, Sr., MD., a soldier of the Revolutionary War who served in the 3rd. N.C. regiment, and his wife Rachel Brooks Spencer who had moved from Virginia to Spartanburg Co., South Carolina and later to Wake Co., N.C. In 1796 John, Sr. and his second wife Catherine Garace, with other family members, moved to Eminence, Shelby Co., KY. His parents, Thomas Ford and Jane Melstead, lived out their lives in Fairfax Co., VA.

John, Jr. moved from Shelby Co. to Daviess Co. in 1832 settling on North Panther Creek near the community of Boston where he died three years later. His son William was a medical doctor and began practicing at Munfordville, KY. He married first Ann Murphy 1799-1819 a daughter of Leander Murphy of Spencer Co., KY. Their only child was Dr. Decatur John Leander Ford 1816-1894 who married first Lucy Ann Quisenberry 1819-1851, a daughter of Nicholas Quisenberry. His second wife was Rebecca Burris Vertrees 1821-1898 the daughter of Jacob Vertrees and Catherine Davis.

Dr. William Ford moved to the Dripping Spring in Edmonson Co., KY. where he built a Federal style brick residence which he named "Point Retirement" in 1828 on the Louisville Road. Today it is the only remaining brick ante-bellum house in the county. Due to his strong religious convictions led Dr. William to become a Baptist preacher and gave in 1830 the land for the new Dripping Spring Baptist Church. He and John White were the prime movers in the building of this church. Under the preaching of The Rev. Alexander Campbell, Dr. Ford joined the Christian Church and continued in that denomination as a preacher.

In the 1830's Dr. Ford began developing the Chalybeate Spring and built there a large hotel. This resort operated well into the twentieth century. He was one of the most affluent citizens in ante-bellum Edmonson Co. and by 1860 was the owner of twenty slaves.

On 17 April 1820 he married Nancy Embry 1799-1854 the daughter of Henry Embry and Ann Patterson of Green Co., KY. Their twelve children were: Elizabeth Ann who married Dr. John Sweeney; Ermin Artimissia who died young; Luther R. who married Frances L. Barrett; William Covington, a Confederate soldier and attorney; Henry Embry who was killed in Vicksburg in Confederate service; Nancy Patterson who married H. Tandy Arnold; Mary Charlotte who married Woodford Dunn; John Minor who died as a young man; Martha Jane who married Dr. Woodford Mitchell Vertrees; Ellen Alice who married Lewis Dunn Shobe; Ermin Artimissia, II who married Wilbur F. Moore and Christopher Columbus who married Ruth Pride.

Dr. Ford married a third wife, Susan Ann Kirtley, and had one surviving child, Richard Ella 1858-1951 who married 28 October 1879 Luther M. Shobe.

John G. Goodum Family Graveyard

Allen County, Kentucky

On May 14, 1988, this heretofore unpublished burial site was surveyed by Jim Garner, Charles Carter and descendants of John G. Goodum, Lurita Sledge and Julie Michael. The overgrown site is located off the Halifax-Settle road, east of #231 via #1332 and S.E. of Liberty Church. John G. Goodum purchased this 185 acre tract on August 6, 1853 from Edward and Lucinda Lynn. Site prevent owner, Stanley Conner is also a descendant of John G. Goodum. His mother, Mrs. Oacan Lee (Mary Ann Sledge) Conner, pointed out remnants of a home, believed to have belonged to John G. Goodum, between the grave site and Sulfer Fork of Bay Creek.

John G. Goodum, S/o Bennett and Sarah (Garner) Goodum, was born in VA. He was twice widowed in TN, before coming to KY, and marrying Mary Ann (Conwell) who is buried next to him. His three marriages produced 18 children who have been identified. Lengthy probing around the area located no stones in addition to the following:
