ROBERTS NAMED ALUMNUS OF THE YEAR

THE BEST LAD PLANS OF 'MICE AND MEN' ...

'OFF TIMES' WORK OUT JUST FINE
... Evidenced By The Planning Of Alumni Committee

CONSTITUTION IS CHANGED

The general Alumni Association constitution was amended at the May 11 meeting so as to eliminate dues of a REQUIRED AMOUNT each year. Instead of such provisions for ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP, we have specified a contribution in an amount determined by the members.

The year for the Alumni Association will follow the fiscal year of the College. This means we will work on a July 1 - June 30 basis.

Help us invest in the youth of today by making an investment in Christian Higher Education through Gardner-Webb. Your gift will be greatly appreciated.

The person whom we honor tonight is a mass of words. Whether they are many or few depends upon his mood and needs of the occasion. Whether he uses them in written or spoken form makes little difference. He uses them equally well and effectively in either form.

Perhaps he naturally comes by his talent for the use of words. He was born September 14, 1926 in Shelly, North Carolina, the fourth child of a Cleveland County farm family. There, he grew up in the tradition of the Shelly excellence of the arts. To this background may be added the fact of his family's history as Baptists, with their emphasis on liberty and freedom of expression. In addition, he practised the language arts as he followed the mules and horses and did other work on the family farm as the Elizabethtown Church Congregation.

He cultivated his ability to use words through his formal educational preparation. He graduated from Bellville High School of Cleveland County in 1944 and from Gardner-Webb College in 1949, from which he received the Citizenship Award upon completing his work there. He earned his B.A. degree from Furman University in Greenville, 1951, with a major in English and a minor in Journalism. The M.A. degree was earned in 1952 from George Peabody College with a major in English.

His ability to use words persuasively is revealed in talking Miss Helen Elizabeth Goodwin of Greenville, South Carolina, into being his wife in 1950. Like himself, she is a graduate of Gardner-Webb and Furman. To this union has been born six children, three sons and three daughters. No doubt, the means many words are used and repeated around this household, so father has the opportunity to stay in practice using them.

James Finley, chairman of the board of directors for J. P. Stevens Co., Inc., spoke to graduates at commencement.

James W. Finley, J. P. Stevens Executive, Gave Literary Address To Graduates

A federal judge, two members of the state's Board of Conservation and Development and a college vice-president were awarded special Citations by Gardner-Webb College during commencement exercises Sunday, May 12.

Judge Woodrow Jones of Rutherfordton, judge for the federal district of Western N. C., R. Patrick Spangler, Cleveland County administrator and vice-chairman of the Board of Conservation and Development, John W. (Buck) Finley of Cherryville, executive vice-president of Carolina Freight Co., Inc. and a member of the Board of Conservation and Development and Thomas J. McGraw, vice-president of Gardner-Webb were given citations voted by the college's board of trustees.

These awards were given before the Literary Address to 130 graduates of Gardner-Webb by James W. Finley, chairman of the board of J. P. Stevens and Co., Inc. of New York. Finley, introduced by U. S. Congressman Basil L. Whitehead, told the graduates, "I feel your generation faces the danger of losing its individuality to different pressures (thus avoiding responsibilities). Even as I speak to you now there are people demonstrating for rights, protesting for rights, fasting for rights, even rioting for rights. The public demonstration, the rally, the union, the protest march, all these are forms of mass action which your generation has put in the headlines of today's newspapers and on the screen of all our TV sets."

"But where is the individual in all of this? Can we say that the young man in the middle of the 17th row of demonstrators is there as an individual? Does this group really say everything he believes and nothing more? Or has he simply subjugated his individuality to serve the cause of the mass . . . not his own cause? I think the answer is obvious."

Finley went on to say that the greatness of America is in the individual as exemplified through the election process which forces candidates to face the public as individuals and govern them from behind behind a "party" label.

An Alumnae Appointed Missionary

Mrs. Vera Rose Johnson '36 has recently been appointed a missionary to the Philippines, along with her husband Dr. Paul B. Johnson, by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. Vera and Paul volunteered for mission 12 years ago at Bridgewater Baptist Assembly. Dr. Johnson expects to teach theology in a Baptist School in the Philippines. He received the doctor of theology degree from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Mrs. Johnson received her bachelor of arts degree from Missouri College. They have two sons, David - six, and Raymond - three. They have been serving the Patterson Springs Baptist Church, Route 2, Grove.

The "Joyful Noise," a folk song group composed of Gardner-Webb students, made a smash hit with alumni friends during the May 11 alumni-matriculation dinner. Mixing harmonic folk songs and religious songs with a folk music theme, the "Joyful Noise" proved why they have been in demand throughout the spring for engagements in the area.

As is evident in the above picture (this was the front of our alumnae banquet program), we are interested in our alumnae wherever they live. We have planned and promoted meetings in eighteen places since January 1. There are more than a dozen additional places that are prime prospects for meetings (and chapters) with seven of them in Cleveland and Rutherford Counties having already been organized in previous years. We say "thank you" to the large number of people for the excellent service rendered in assisting us in this work.

Mr. Hubert Dixon, mathematics professor at the college, and his bride-to-be, Miss Kaye Ruth Grayson of Raleigh, happily greet alumnae and friends at the recent alumnae meeting. The couple will be married at 4 p.m., July 20 in the First Baptist Church of Forest City. Miss Grayson, formerly an associate at the State Convention's Training Union Department for seven years, is serving as director of religious education at Hayes Barton Church in Raleigh.

From 1954 to 1960 he was Associate Director of Public Relations at Gardner-Webb. In this capacity he taught two classes in English and journalism. He was responsible for the operation of the College news bureau, College radio programs, all publications, and represented the College at the various annual Baptist associational meetings and at many high schools each year for the college day programs. Also, he served in the academic and social capacity of alumna director and also vice-president in fund raising efforts. In 1958 he was named "Faculty Member of the Year" by the Curriculum Committee of the Board of Trustees. This suggests that they recognized his proper and appropriate use of media in his many activities and associations. By secret ballot his co-workers highly endorsed him for this honor.

In recognition of his ability to use words in a wider area of service, he was named editor of Christian Child and Children in 1960. This Baptist Children's Home weekly publication had a circulation of fifty-five thousand when he left it in 1965. During this period, he was public relations director for the Children's homes at Thoennesville, Kannapolis, and Chapel Hill.

On July 1, 1965 he became the associate editor and business manager of The Baptist Courier, the official journal of the South Carolina Baptist State Convention. The following year he was elevated to the dual position of editor and business manager. The Baptist Courier, founded in 1889 has a circulation of more than eighty thousand. Under the new head it is growing and exerting an increasingly effective influence on its readers.

Anita H. Brinich wrote:

God wove a web of lindens
of clouds and stars and birds,
But made not anything as it!
So beautiful is words!

Because he has helped us to know this truth, and because he has aided us in understanding ourselves, others, and the events of our times, and because he has advanced the cause of communications through journalism and the use of words, we name John E. Roberts as "Gardner-Webb College Alumnus of the Year 1968."

Alumni Banquet Observations . . . By ALEX VAUGHN

In a time of constant change at Gardner-Webb, outgoing Alumnus President James M. Gilbert has found one person who never changes—4 members from 20 years ago and he looks the same today as he did then," commented Gilbert. A warm round of applause greeted the smile and wave of the popular mathematics professor who has been at GW since 1933 and a student at the college before that time.

Mr. George W. Allen of Palm Harbor, Fla., claimed the longest distance driven to reach the alumni banquet. He drove 385 miles to meet with friends in this area. Mr. Allen attended GW in 1908 when it was Bolling Springs High School.

All classes were represented at the banquet except the Class of 1934. Represented were 1919, 1924, 1928, 1939, 1944, 1949, 1954, 1959, and 1964. Our new alumnus, the 1968 class, was well represented.

Some special guests were Mrs. Phil Elliott, widow of the late Gardner-Webb President; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hinman and Mr. and Mrs. Parsons L. Tolson, longtime friends and supporters of the college. This was forty seven consecutive years for Mrs. Hinman.

Mr. U. A. McMains, director of development and alumni work at the college, got a good point across with some humor. He spoke of the obvious success of THE WEB and then said, if cost more to print the first few editions back than it did to mail them to alumni. From the first edition, which cost around $800 to mail 7,000, his office received 1,000 in return mail. At 10 cents per copy the college paid $100 to get these back. Please, he said, give us your correct address.

"The sky is the limit so far as an agency is concerned," commented Mr. McMains in speaking of the Annual Fund. He said $4,200 had been received during the past year from alumni, not counting the money given through capital gifts, athletics, or other sources. More than doubling that is 1966-67 is the goal of the alumni association.

John Roberts, recipient of the "Alumnus of the Year" award, told alumni and friends: A college man consider us as parents do their children. Only a parent can take you as you are. Teach you and then give you all the credit if you do well.
