SUMMARY STATEMENT

The Official Catholic Directory and its predecessors provide annual listings of Catholic dioceses, archdioceses, parishes, clergy, religious orders, hospitals, schools, and other Catholic organizations and institutions within the United States. Since 1837, comparable details on the Church in Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, and various other countries have been appended, making these directories a rich source of historical information on the Church in North America and the British Isles.

The Catholic directories for the United States have been photographed on microfilm by the Catholic University of America and the University of Notre Dame. For information on the microfilm edition, contact:

INTRODUCTION

The creation of this index reflects Marquette University's commitment to the support of research relating to the history of the Church's relationship with the indigenous peoples of the Americas. Moreover, it represents the culmination of nearly two decades of research experience in using the back issues of the Catholic directories for the United States.

Since 1976, the Department of Special Collections at Marquette University has been acquiring related archival collections and facilitating their use. Most notable among them are the records of the Bureau of Catholic Indian Missions, the first national Catholic agency in North America and the first to be listed in a Catholic directory. It was soon found that the Catholic directories for the U.S. were immensely valuable for "tracking" the whereabouts of missionaries and their activities through what were often some very rapidly changing circumstances on the westward moving North American frontier. Later the directories proved to be the primary data source in compiling numerous institutional chronologies for a 12 state guide to repositories of mission records, the Guide to Catholic Indian Mission and School Records in Midwest Repositories, published in 1984. Chronologies of missions, parishes, religious institutes, and dioceses were essential for tracing the provenance and final destination of the records surveyed in the guide, due to the fluid character of mission administration and because alternative mission histories were often lacking.

Experience, however, has shown that listings in the directories have not always been accurate or complete. Often changes in the status of missions were first reported several years after the fact. Moreover, the quality and depth of information provided varied from diocese to diocese and from year to year, particularly in the period prior to 1900. Unfortunately, for the pre-1900 period, the directory is often the only surviving source of information on the openings, transfers, and closings of missions and stations.

GENERAL ARRANGEMENT WITHIN THE CATHOLIC DIRECTORIES FOR THE UNITED STATES

While details on arrangement vary from year to year, the general scheme has remained relatively consistent. General information precedes information for the United States which is succeeded by Canada and British America, Great Britain, Ireland and other countries when included. A table of contents is included for each year (except 1822, and 1834-1836) with the table appearing at the end of the volume in 1833 and 1837-1849, and appearing near the beginning for all other years.

1822, 1833-1850: To facilitate timely publication of the directories, entries for dioceses and other ecclesiastical jurisdictions are arranged in the order received by the publisher.

1851-1859 and 1864-1867: Entries for dioceses and other ecclesiastical jurisdictions are grouped by ecclesiastical provinces within their respective country or region.

1861: Entries for dioceses and other ecclesiastical jurisdictions are arranged alphabetically within their respective country or region.

1868: Entries for dioceses and other ecclesiastical jurisdictions in the United States are grouped by type of jurisdiction within the groupings arranged hierarchically in descending order and then arranged alphabetically thereunder. The arrangement for other countries and regions remains as before.

1869-1870: The directory contents are divided as follows: Part I- general information and the United States; and Part II- British America (Canada, the Caribbean, and Hawaii), Great Britain, and other countries. Other arrangement characteristics remain as before.

1871-1896: The directory contents are divided as follows: General information; Part I- United States; Part II- British America (Canada and Newfoundland, which is listed apart from Canada in 1896, and British West Indies, 1879-1895) and Part III- Great Britain, Ireland, British West Indies in 1896, and other countries. Other arrangement details remain as before.

1888: Entries for dioceses and other ecclesiastical jurisdictions in Canada are grouped by type of jurisdiction with the groupings arranged hierarchically in descending order and then arranged alphabetically thereunder. Arrangements for other countries and regions remain as before.

1897-1906: The directory contents are divided as follows: General information; Part I- United States; Part II- Canada and Newfoundland; and Part III- Great Britain, Ireland, British West Indies, and other countries. Other arrangement characteristics remain as before.

1907-1911: The directory contents are divided as follows: General information; Part I- United States; Part II- Canada and Newfoundland; Part III- Great Britain and Ireland; and Part IV- British West Indies and other countries. Other arrangement characteristics remain as before.

1912-1918: The directory contents are divided as follows: Part I- general information; Part II- United States; Part III- Canada and Newfoundland; Part IV- Great Britain and Ireland; and Part V- other countries. Other arrangement characteristics remain as before.

1919-1974: The directory contents are divided as follows: Part I- general information; Part II- United States; Part III- Canada and Newfoundland, which is included within Canada from 1950-; and Part IV- Great Britain, Ireland, and other countries. Other arrangement characteristics remain as before.

1964-: Entries for ecclesiastical jurisdictions outside the United States no longer include detailed information.

HOW TO USE THIS INDEX

This index to the Catholic directories for the United States includes 61 entries relating to these current and former countries worldwide. The first entry relates to the Vatican and international information about the Catholic Church. Thereafter, all entries are arranged alphabetically by contemporary names. Note that entries were omitted for some countries of Asia, Europe, and the Pacific for which only limited information was included in the directories. This information is found in the index under the entries of those nearby countries with "et al." following their names.

Each index entry includes some or all of the following:

*Special listings: Indicates notable types of subordinate entries for the years given. Latin rite territorial jurisdictions are not indicated due to their widespread distribution.

*Subordinate territorial jurisdictions: Indicates subordinate ecclesiastical jurisdictions and portions thereof for the years given. Included are all territories that currently or formerly have been politically distinct from the above country since its first listings within a Catholic directory for the United States.

*Information located elsewhere: Additional information on the above country located elsewhere for the years given.

Boldfaced dates indicate a substantial level of detail is included for these dates. For ecclesiastical jurisdictions, names of all Catholic institutions are typically given with their addresses and names of principal personnel.

Names appearing together and joined by a slash indicate changes that occur within the directories, with current names preceding former ones.
